CHEER ON CHEER HAILS PULLING HORSES' SPIRIT

10,000 See Ohio Team Win Contest.

Beneath sunny skies, in a perfect rural setting, more than 10,000 people—city folk as well as farmers—gathered yesterday to watch the second annual horse pulling contest on the Chicago Tribune experimental farm at Wheaton. The spectators sat on the verdant hillsides surrounding a natural amphitheater on the farm and thrilled to the efforts of twenty teams of magnificent draft horses, digging their hoofs into the soil and straining every muscle as they struggled against weights of 13 to 21 tons.

It was a contest as keen as any ring battle or football game. It was a contest that time and again brought the spectators up cheering as the great beasts toiled to the end of the allotted pulling distance.

A Really Tough Proposition.

It was a harder battle than humans care to engage in for the horses were tugging against a mysterious weight—the inexorable dynamometer. This weighted instrument—in the truck which the horses pulled—registered accurately the work each team of animals did. It was an index of power—more than that—an index of courage.

For the farmer spectator, it was a practical exhibition of the capacity of draft horses. Teams were entered from five states and the farmer had an opportunity to study different breeds and methods of handling.

For city people it was a welcome day in the country, and they were in holiday mood. When the first pulling contest was held last year, the city dwellers discovered in it a new and exciting sport and found out what horse power really meant.

Yesterday they were back, anxious to test their judgments on horses, see again several teams that were entered a year ago, and marvel at the animal's endurance and spirit.

A Treat to City Dwellers.

The visitors basked in the sun. The pastoral atmosphere, the rolling meadows, the smell of new mown hay and clover, was a tonic to them. They dined under shade trees on steaks supplied by the Wheaton post of the American Legion. But always they came back to the green hillsides to watch the 40 competing horses—the cream of the work teams from Illinois, Wisconsin, Indiana, Ohio, and Michigan.

Wayne Dinsmore, secretary of the Horse and Mule Association of America, and E. T. Robbins, head of the extension division of the animal husbandry department of the University of Illinois, were masters of ceremonies in the competition, which was arranged by THE TRIBUNE. The judges were C. F. Curtiss of the Iowa State College of Agriculture at Ames; Prof. James C. Fuller of the animal husbandry department of the University of Wisconsin, and Prof. E. R. Jones of the agricultural engineering department of the University of Wisconsin.

Ohioans Win First Prize.

The winning team consisted of Dick, a sorrel grade Belgian, and Bob, a gray Percheron, owned by Cary Flatter of Greenville, O. Flatter drove the team during the morning contests and Willard Osterman, also of Greenville, drove it in the finals.

This team registered a horizontal pull of 3,200 pounds, 15 more than its own combined weight of 3,185 pounds. Commenting on this extraordinary performance, Dinsmore said that since 1924 only twelve teams have pulled more than their weight.

A pull of 3,200 pounds is equivalent to moving a wagon load, weighing 41,500 pounds, or nearly 21 tons, along a granite pavement. Another idea of the power exerted is that it was enough to pull seven 14-inch plows through six inches of stubble or corn ground. Still another illustration would be the pulling of 3,200 pounds out of a well 27½ feet deep.

Keen Triangular Battle.

The battle for first place was among three teams after the seventeen others had been crowded out along the line. The team of Harry, a Belgian sorrel, and Jim, a black Percheron, pulled the 3,200 horizontal load 20 feet—7 feet shy of the prescribed distance carried by the winners, and won second place. Harry and Jim are owned and driven by Burlist Moyer of Greensfork, Ind.

In third place was the team of

FILIBUSTER OVER COAL NRA HOLDS FINAL SESSION

785 Million Tax Bill Passes Senate.

Four Big Measures

Washington, D. C., June 20.—(AP)—The four "big bills" passed in the 74th congress were:

TAXES—New levies on corporate income ranging from 8 to 15 per cent with surtaxes on undistributed earnings ranging from 7 to 27 per cent; dividends made subject to normal income tax rate.

RELIEF—For work relief, $1,425,000,000; for continuing public works, $300,000,000, both carried in $2,375,000,000 deficiency appropriation bill.

BONUS—Cash prepayment of $2,237,000,000 to former war veterans, passed over President Roosevelt's veto.

FARM RELIEF—A $500,000,000 soil conservation program to take the place of the AAA which was held unconstitutional by the Supreme court. Repealed cotton, tobacco, and potato control bills. Authorized interstate compacts to regulate tobacco production.

BY CHESLY MANLY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 21 [Sunday]. — [Special.] — The 20 billion dollar 74th congress came to an end at 12:39 o'clock this morning when the house of representatives adjourned sine die. The senate had adjourned five minutes before midnight after a filibuster that threatened to go on indefinitly killed the Guffey-Vinson coal price fixing bill.

Concurring action of the house was a foregone conclusion, but the scheduled adjournment of congress remained in doubt until Senate Majority Leader Joseph T. Robinson of Arkansas interrupted Senator Rush D. Holt [Dem., W. Va.], leader of the filibuster against the Guffey bill.

"I will yield," said young Holt, "if it does not take me off the floor."

"On to Philadelphia," They Cry.

"The senator will not want the floor after I get through," Robinson declared. He then moved that the senate stand adjourned sine die, which carried by a rousing voice vote. Spectators in the crowded galleries, who had come out filled with curiosity as to whether the unmanageable senate would permit congress to adjourn on schedule, cheered wildly and senators rushed for the exits shouting "On to Philadelphia!"

The house carried on after the senate adjournment while the statesmen in that body delivered two minute eulogies to dead and departing members. The clock was turned back four times to prevent automatic adjournment under the resolution. The end came with whoops and yells, but the night's session was a tame affair compared with the customary wind-ups in the house because of the recent death of Speaker Joseph W. Byrns.

Desired by White House.

Representative William P. Connery Jr. [Dem., Mass.], who ordinarily acts as master of ceremonies at the orgies adjourning the house, announced there would be no revelry. Speaker William D. Bankhead took the floor just before the adjournment motion was put and paid a dramatic tribute to his predecessor "one greater than I" that sobered and silenced the members.

Majority Leader Robinson could have forced through the house con-

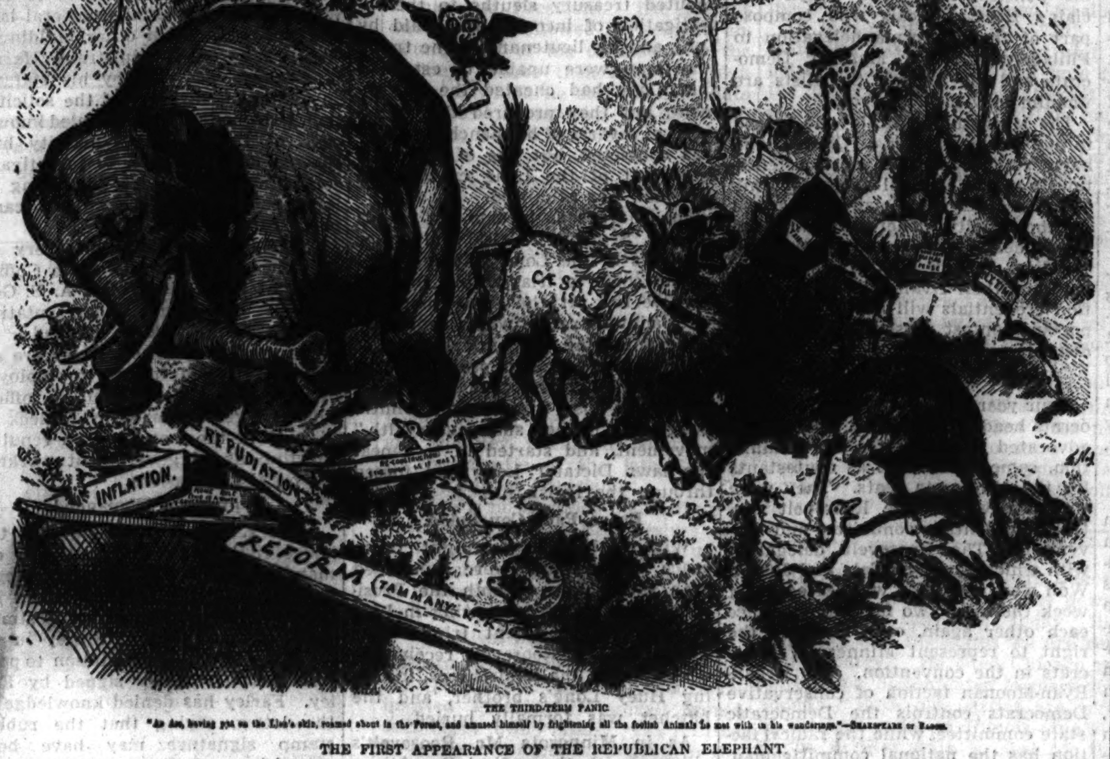
THE HISTORY OF SOME FAMILIAR CARTOON SYMBOLS

American newspaper readers are familiar with the donkey and elephant symbols representing our two major political parties. Most people are also familiar with the Tammany tiger symbol. Just now, as the nation is on the threshold of a presidential campaign in which the donkey and the elephant will frequently appear—and perhaps the Tammany tiger—our readers may be interested in learning how and when these symbols originated.

All three came from the fertile brain of Thomas Nast, whose cartoon work on Harper's Weekly in the '70s has never been equaled in power and effectiveness in American cartoon history.

Most of the material below is quoted from Albert Bigelow Paine's fascinating biography, "Th. Nast: His Period and His Pictures," published in 1904 by the Macmillan company.



THE THIRD-TERM PANIC

"An Ass, having put on the Lion's skin, roamed about in the Forest, and amused himself by frightening all the foolish Animals he met with in his wanderings."—SHAKESPEARE OR BACON.

THE FIRST APPEARANCE OF THE REPUBLICAN ELEPHANT.

THE ELEPHANT SYMBOL.

This now familiar symbol, which so long has represented the G. O. P. in American caricature, was originated by Nast in a Harper's Weekly cartoon published on Nov. 7, 1874.

The picture shows the collected animals of the forest—representing various papers, states, and issues—being frightened by the donkey in a lion's skin crying "Cæsarism." The elephantine "Republican vote," alarmed like the others, is on the verge of a pitfall which is covered loosely by various and deceptive planks. The Democratic party, hitherto represented by the donkey, which eventually became its fixed symbol, is here represented by a fox, whose face suggests that of Mr. Tilden.

The cartoon was not only a striking but important picture, introducing, as it did, the Republican elephant into American caricature for all time.

THE DONKEY SYMBOL.

On Jan. 15, 1870, there appeared in Harper's Weekly a cartoon by Thomas Nast with the caption, "A Live Jackass Kicking a Dead Lion." The jackass represented the Copperhead press, and the lion, Edwin M. Stanton, who had died on Dec. 24, and whose memory had been assailed even as he lay in the coffin.

The cartoon went to the mark, but is chiefly notable now as being the earliest in which the donkey is used to typify Democratic sentiment.

THE TAMMANY TIGER SYMBOL.

In the Harper's Weekly issue of Nov. 7, 1871, appearing two days before the election of that date, was published a Nast cartoon which has been called "the most impressive political picture ever produced in this country."

It was the culminating attack on the corrupt Tweed ring in New York politics and resulted in the complete destruction of that dishonest group.

London papers were filled with the story of Nast's achievements and his fame. By the Times, the Spectator, and other London journals he was hailed as the Hogarth, the Doré, the Cruikshank, the John Leech of America.

SUMMER BEGINS TODAY; PREDICT COOL WEATHER

At 9:22 o'clock this morning the sun reaches its northernmost point and starts the swing back toward the equator, marking the astronomical advent of summer. Forecaster C. A. Donnel predicted moderately cool weather for today, with a maximum temperature of 70, seven degrees below normal. Lake winds prevented the mercury yesterday from rising above 69 degrees.

Cool winds and choppy water marked the official opening yesterday of the 21 beaches which are under the supervision of the city. The temperature of the water was 64 degrees, 4 to 6 degrees below the temperature considered most pleasant for bathers. Although the beaches were sparsely occupied yesterday, large crowds are expected today if the weather is favorable, it was said at the office of Walter Wright, superintendent of parks and recreation. The city has 140 lifeguards on duty at the three large beaches [76th street, 79th street, and Touhy avenue], and 18 smaller beaches, and 3 swimming pools.

Beaches supervised by the Chicago park district and the forest preserves will open July 1.

Breckenridge Long Ill; May Retire as Envoy

Rochester, Minn., June 20.—(AP)—Breckenridge Long, ambassador to Italy, today declined to comment on a report he has discussed with President Roosevelt his resignation as envoy because of ill health. Mr. Long is recovering from an operation for a stomach ailment.

Reginald Takes 8 Little Nips in Favorite Bar

Five men and four women participated in the scrap that developed last night in the tavern of Michael Bierdut at 2904 Armitage avenue. But all the honors of war went to a brown bulldog named Reginald.

Reginald is the property and the constant companion of Willard Kliever, 45 years old, 2955 Armitage avenue. They went together into Bierdut's place, where Reginald took a nap while his master took up his drinking in a serious way.

The bulldog's rest ended when Kliever got angry with the host and slapped him. This brought on an attempt by the saloonkeeper to eject Kliever, with the help of the whole Bierdut family and several patrons.

"You can't do that," shouted Kliever. "Sic 'em, Reginald."

Reginald bit Bierdut on the leg. Then he bit Mrs. Amelia Bierdut, 42 years old. Then he took nips out of Miss Joan Bierdut, 20 years old, and Miss Lota Bierdut, 18 years old. Charles Nelson, 48 years old, 1921 North Richmond street, furnished the fifth bite. John Jackson, 28 years old, 2904 Armitage avenue, and Mrs. Kate Wzdok, 44 years old, 720 Temple street, also were bitten, as was Stanley Werskol, 31 years old, 1623 North Spaulding avenue.

By combining their efforts the combatants at last thrust the bulldog out the front door and he fled. Then Willard Kliever, who still remained combative, was overpowered and held for the police.

'LANDON BOB' IS PRAIRIE TOUCH FOR COIFFURES

Minneapolis, Minn., June 20.—(AP)—It's the "Landon bob" for women who like a new and changing coiffure.

Miss Myndall Cain, Minneapolis beauty operator, originated the new hair dress, which she named after the Republican party's presidential nominee, Gov. Alf M. Landon of Kansas.

She said today it is "a typical western departure from the formal artificial seeming coiffures which have reigned.

"The new bob is a frank, vital, off the face coiffure with lines as sweeping as the windswept Kansas prairies that are the governor's home. The new style brings the ears into the open and features a mass of short, tight ringlets atop the head, giving the wearer a frank, vital openness of character."

Take Pledge as Coatless Men at Jacksonville, Fla.

Jacksonville, Fla., June 20.—(AP)—More than 100 Jacksonville business and professional men agreed today to shed their coats from June 21 until Sept. 21 every year. The covenant of the organization forbids coats except "at weddings, funerals, or on such occasions when the hostess, minister, judge, or personal satisfaction" require one.

The agreement provides "for membership in good standing it is essential that a tie be worn, that there be no visible suspenders and that the shirt be clean, with all buttons present."

Star Hurling Blazing Iron, Science Says

Williams Bay, Wis., June 20.—(AP)—The exploding star in the northeastern sky mystified astronomers tonight by adding iron to the blazing stuff it hurled out into space.

The iron appeared in the spectrum bands—color pictures of the star's light—observed through Yerkes observatory telescopes as the star grew brighter.

The metal's significance was difficult to explain, Dr. Otto Struve, observatory director, said. Dr. Oliver J. Lee, who also was watching the star at Northwestern university's Dearborn observatory in Evanston, Ill., added that iron was not unusual in normal stars but was not seen in novae like this one.

A "very considerable change" occurred in the spectrum bands of the "new star" between Thursday and Friday nights, Dr. Struve reported. At first only hydrogen, helium, and magnesium were seen.

Star's Surface Cools.

One thing that the iron probably indicated, he said, was that the surface of the star had cooled down from 15,000 to 10,000 degrees centigrade. The surface heat of the closest star, the sun, is 6,000 degrees.

This cooling down process was occurring despite the fact that the star was growing brighter. It could be seen faintly with the naked eye. Easiest way to spot it was to locate the constellation Cygnus known as "The Swan" and "The Northern Cross" in the northeastern sky. The long axis of the cross, if projected in an imaginary line northward, would almost hit the nova.

Increases in Brightness.

The fact that the star was increasing in brightness—Dr. Struve said it was of magnitude 2½ when Amateur Astronomer Leslie Peltier of Delphos, O., found it Thursday night and was now "slightly brighter" — was evidence that the earth had yet to see the high point of the explosion.

Thus astronomers were afforded an unusual opportunity to study the star in the process of "blowing up." Most of such explosions have been seen only after the peak of the blast occurred, although Nova Hercules was caught on the upgrade in December, 1934, and was seen to flare up a second time.

ADMIRAL SIMS HAS OPERATION; IS IMPROVING

Boston, Mass., June 20.—(AP)—Deaconess hospital authorities said today Rear Admiral William S. Sims, 77, commander of United States naval forces in European waters during the world war, passed a "comfortable night" following an operation yesterday. His condition, they said, was "very favorable."

Singing Dog Now Dead; Owner Mourns Meal Ticket

Hollywood, Cal., June 20.—[Special.]—Death has come to Brownie, famous singing dog of the vaudeville circuits, her owner, Ruth Leslie, revealed today. "I saw her born and I held her in my arms when she died," Miss Leslie added. "She supported me in style for years. Bought me my car, trips, paid my rent. Nothing can ever replace her."

RADICAL PARTY CALLED THREAT TO DEMOCRATS

Expect Roosevelt to Answer Coughlin.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Philadelphia, Pa., June 20.—[Special.]—With conservative dissenters eliminated or pacified but with uneasiness over the appearance of the Union party to bid for the support of its radical wing, the Democratic party will meet here in National convention next Tuesday to renominate President Roosevelt and Vice President Garner and to glorify the New Deal.

Although Democratic National Chairman James A. Farley declined to comment on the launching of the radical third party headed by Congressman William Lemke of North Dakota and supported by Father Coughlin, radio priest with an enormous following, it was learned that the event has created the utmost concern in Democratic councils.

To Draw from Democrats.

Democratic leaders recognized that the radical party would draw more support from the Democrats than from the Republicans and might easily enable the Republicans to carry numerous states, particularly in the Northwest, the Rocky mountain and Pacific regions.

The first move to cope with the radical third party threat materialized when David L. Lawrence, chairman of the Democratic state central committee of Pennsylvania, late today instructed all county chairmen to preempt the title Union party on the November ballot. Under the Pennsylvania law five citizens in any county may file the title as preemptors. That would preclude the Lemke-Coughlin party from filing electors under that title. Democratic leaders in other states were urged to take similar steps to head off the third party menace to Democratic prospects.

Rely on Roosevelt.

Mr. Roosevelt is being relied on by the leaders here to shape the strategy for dealing with the danger on the left. They are prepared for a decided veering to the left by Mr. Roosevelt to steal the thunder of Father Coughlin, a maneuver to be manifested in the platform and the President's acceptance speech.

The convention will be a love feast from start to finish. The President will be renominated unanimously. The convention will adopt a platform, dictated, revised and approved by the President, which will be Mr. Roosevelt's exposition of the objectives of the New Deal, past, present and future.

Barkley to Be Keynoter.

The temporary chairman, Senator Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky, thorough going New Dealer, will strike the keynote approved by Mr. Roosevelt for the Democratic campaign to return him to power for another four years. The permanent chairman, Senator Joseph T. Robinson of Arkansas, a pacified conservative, will echo the President's New Deal philosophy.

Finally at a great open air mass-meeting on Saturday night Mr. Roosevelt, addressing some hundred thousand persons on the spot and countless millions on the ether, will accept renomination, outline his policies to such extent as he deems necessary, and answer the Republican indictment of his administration to such extent as he deems expedient.

Cut and Dried Program.

Many figures will appear upon the stage during the week, speak their pieces, and bow themselves off. But they will be but so many manifestations of that political entity which is known by the name of Roosevelt. The whole affair, cut and dried from beginning to end, will be all Roosevelt. Not since the Republican national convention of 1904 renominated another Roosevelt without a dissenting voice has either party, within the confines of its quadrennial conclave at least, been possessed of such harmony and unanimity and been so pervaded by the mind and voice of its master.

So completely will the President dominate the convention, so conspicuous for its absence will be all dissidence that it would be possible to transact within a single day all the business that will be stretched out over the five days guaranteed to Philadelphia in consideration of the $200,- 000 the city's merchants and inn keepers paid to get the meeting.

Count on Heavy Spending.

Though in the days of the Old Order of Republican affluence a Republican convention brought a city twice as much money as a Democratic convention, Philadelphia tradesmen are counting upon the New Deal spenders to leave behind twice the paltry million dollars the Republicans brought to Cleveland.

Thus strung out and timed to obtain nocturnal radio's maximum audience, the convention program will feature Temporary Chairman Barkley's keynote speech Tuesday night, Permanent Chairman Robinson's echo Wednesday night, the adoption of the platform Thursday night, the renomination of President Roosevelt on Friday night, the renomination of Vice President Garner Saturday afternoon and Mr. Roosevelt's acceptance address Saturday night.

In between will come the only fight in the offing—that which is brewing on the Roosevelt proposal to abrogate the two-thirds rule for nomination of candidates. The south will fight to keep the rule, which enables it by controlling a trifle more than one-third of the convention, to veto a nomination, but the abrogation of the century old custom instituted by Andrew Jackson seems a certainty.

Expect Million for Campaign.

By the time the convention ends the Democratic national committee, with receipts in hand from the million nominator tickets to the notification ceremony sold for $1 each by postmasters and other Democratic workers, from the convention book with its colossal advertising revenue and from the Jackson day dinners and Jefferson day dances, expects to have all debts paid and a one million dollar nest egg for the campaign, half National Chairman Farley's estimated cost of the approaching battle.

Though the outcome of the prize fight last night proved Mr. Farley a poor prophet in fisticuffs, he still stands by his political prediction that Roosevelt will carry all 48 states.

The convention will represent a triumph for the President that even his optimism was not bold enough to envisage barely a year ago. Despite the staggering blows dealt the New Deal by the Supreme court, despite all the early threats of intra-party challenge of his supremacy, Mr. Roosevelt stands today the undisputed master of the party organization. The assassination of Huey Long, Louisiana's radical dictator, summarily removed the menace of a radical revolt in the convention against the renomination of Mr. Roosevelt and of a dynamic third party offshoot afterward.

Revolts Peter Out.

The attempt of Al Smith, John W. Davis, and Bainbridge Colby at the Liberty league dinner to organize conservative Democratic insurgency against the New Deal collapsed. The conservative southern revolt captained by Gov. Talmadge of Georgia and John H. Kirby of Texas petered out. Anti-New Dealer Bert Ritchie of Maryland died. Al Smith alone of the early insurgents was elected a delegate to the convention but he doubts that he will attend.

Senator Royal S. Copeland of New York, latest one to break with the New Deal, says he will not attend, will "take a walk" in the election. Also missing from the convention will be Newton D. Baker, Lewis W. Douglas, former Gov. Ely of Massachusetts; former Gov. Comstock of Michigan; former Senator Jim Reed of Missouri; former Senator Bruce of Maryland; former Gov. Alfalfa Bill Murray of Oklahoma and scores of lesser Democratic conservatives who were big figures in other Democratic conventions but who, now at odds with the New Deal, will vote for Gov. Landon in November or not vote at all unless their insurgency should flower later into a conservative fourth party, to balance the radical third party newly launched by Father Coughlin and Congressman Lemke of North Dakota.

Largely U. S. Jobholders.

So, there will be none in the convention so bold as to confront Mr. Roosevelt and say to him nay. The body will be composed largely of postmasters and other federal jobholders whose retention on federal pay rolls is dependent upon the reelection of Mr. Roosevelt. Prominent among the forces combining to assure the unanimous renomination of the President are the conservative and radical elements that joined to name him on the fourth ballot at Chicago, elements that he has skillfully consolidated and mobilized for the great effort to procure a popular "vindication of the New Deal."

There are the southern conservatives represented by such leaders as Vice President Garner, Senator Robinson of Arkansas and Senator Pat Harrison of Mississippi who are no more New Dealers at heart than Al Smith, Newton D. Baker and John W. Davis but who find it politically expedient to "go along" with Mr. Roosevelt.

Deal Made With Farley.

They had a conspicuous hand in the nomination of Mr. Roosevelt in 1932. On the third ballot of the Chicago convention Mr. Roosevelt was 86 votes short of the necessary two thirds. The convention then adjourned for 12 hours. When it reassembled William R. Hearst and William G. McAdoo had made a deal with James A. Farley, Roosevelt manager, whereby the 90 Garner delegates in California and Texas were to be delivered to Roosevelt, clinching his nomination and Garner was to be named for vice president. Mr. Garner had been Mr. Hearst's candidate for the nomination for President and Mr. Hearst had been instrumental in rounding up the California delegation for the Texan.

The deal went through, McAdoo announced to the convention the switch of California and Texas to Roosevelt and more than any other one man Mr. Hearst was credited with the nomination of the New York governor.

Garner's Stand Revealed.

In the Philadelphia convention Garner and McAdoo are still with Roosevelt but Hearst has departed, having been unable to stomach the New Deal, and is now supporting Landon. Garner is going to be renominated but not by reason of any overweening love Mr. Roosevelt bears him, for his contempt for the New Deal is well known. Every few weeks something is disclosed evidencing Garner's heterodoxy. Only the other day it was a letter Garner had written to Mr. Kirby, the Texas anti-New Dealer.

But Mr. Roosevelt cannot drop Garner without alienating the southerr. and other conservatives willing to "go along" with the New Deal. McAdoo is no more a New Dealer than Garner but he has been compelled to "go along" and to accept as his political bedfellows Upton Sinclair's EPIC radicals who compose part of the California delegation to Philadelphia. The McAdoo Democrats and the Sinclair Socialists are unanimously for Roosevelt.

The Minnesota radicals who helped to put Roosevelt over at Chicago and have supported him most ostentatiously ever since will appear at Philadelphia next week claiming reward for their fealty. There are two Minnesota delegations, a conservative and a radical, though both are for Roosevelt, and their rivalry for the convention credentials will be the most important contest presented to the credentials committee.

Two Minnesota Factions.

Four years ago the Minnesota Democrats headed by John C. Regan, who advocated Al Smith for the nomination, came to Chicago as contestants for the Minnesota seats. They were turned down by the Roosevelt controled credentials committee and convention. The Roosevelt delegation with which Einer Hoidale and Joseph Wolf were identified was seated. Next week the same two factions will face each other again, each claiming the right to represent Minnesota Democrats in the convention. The Regan-Ryan-Moonan faction of conservative Democrats controls the Democratic state committee, while the radical faction has the national committeeman, Mr. Wolf.

The Wolf-Bremer faction, which was seated at Chicago and which is the dyed-in-the-wool New Deal branch of the party in Minnesota, is closely allied with Gov. Floyd Olson and his Farmer-Labor party. Although Mr. Regan was the regular Democratic candidate for governor in 1932 and 1934, Democratic National Committeeman Wolf swung the Roosevelt wing of the party to support of Olson.

Roosevelt Backs Olson.

This action had the tacit approval of Mr. Roosevelt, who from the start allied himself with Olson, exponent of the abolition of capitalism and establishment of a socialistic form of government. Upon this alliance with socialism Mr. Roosevelt depended on the electoral vote of Minnesota and he was not disappointed. The Roosevelt Democrats plumped for Olson and the Farmer-Laborites plumped for Roosevelt.

When Mr. Roosevelt passed though Minnesota in 1934 Gov. Olson was his guest on his private car, though numerous veteran Democratic leaders were unable to get aboard.

"I would like to take Floyd to Washington with me," said the President admiringly indicating the Minnesota governor.

Hits Party in Minnesota.

This alliance between Mr. Roosevelt's New Deal and Gov. Olson's socialists has pretty thoroughly demoralized the Democratic party in Minnesota. Senator Henrik Shipstead, Farmer-Laborite, gets the lion's share of the federal patronage. As a party on its own the Democratic party has virtually ceased to exist in Minnesota. The major parties are the Farmer-Laborites and the Republicans.

It is upon Olson and his fellow radicals that the President is relying this year for the votes necessary to put Minnesota in the Democratic column and it is not doubted that the Wolf delegation that fraternizes with Olson will be seated in the Philadelphia convention.

After being out in the cold for a season the Louisiana radicals who were prominent in putting Mr. Roosevelt over at Chicago have been restored to favor. Huey Long headed a contesting delegation to the Chicago convention. The young exponent of a redistribution of all wealth who was to exercise so profound an influence upon the policies of Franklin Roosevelt declared for the New York governor a few weeks before the convention. The Roosevelt leaders were not disdaining 20 votes that might be essential to the nomination of their candidate and they brought about the seating of the Long delegation. Long occupied a seat on the platform in the circle of Roosevelt strategists during the ballotting.

Breaks with Roosevelt.

Long broke with the President about the time of his inauguration because Mr. Roosevelt refused to appoint James Thomson, New Orleans publisher, secretary of war. Thereafter the administration deprived Long of all federal patronage and deputed treasury sleuths to the investigation of income taxes paid by Long and his lieutenants. The treasury men were unable to establish that Long had cheated the government, but they procured the indictment of several of his henchmen. One was convicted, but one of the most important of the Long crowd, Abe Shushan, was acquitted.

The charges of income tax frauds against Seymour Weiss and other members of the Long machine were due to come to trial within the last few weeks. At the same time the state administration which came into being following the assassination of Long was engaged in peace negotiations with Washington. The new crowd cut lose from Gerald Smith, Long's heir in the "share our wealth" movement, and started in to repeal the laws Dictator Long had forced through the legislature.

Peace Pact Concluded.

Within the last fortnight these peace negotiations were concluded with satisfaction to both the President and the Long following in Louisiana. On his recent trip to the southwest Mr. Roosevelt received a delegation of the Louisianans, including Huey Long's brother, and the hatchet was formally buried.

As in Minnesota Mr. Roosevelt's alliance with the radical Republican George W. Norris in Nebraska and the radical La Follettes in Wisconsin has played hob with the Democratic party in those states. Favored and virtually indorsed by the President, Senator La Follette was reëlected two years ago, the Democratic candidate getting nowhere.

BARE ILLEGAL SOLICITATION OF U. S. EMPLOYES

Sell 'Roosevelt Nominator' Tickets by Stealth.

Washington, D. C., June 20.—[Special.]—Surreptitious sale of "Roosevelt nominator" tickets for the benefit of the Democratic campaign fund is being conducted in federal offices here, it was learned today. The sales are being conducted stealthily because federal law forbids solicitation of workers in government buildings.

The tickets being sold are for a political rally at Griffith stadium next Saturday night to hear a radio broadcast of President Roosevelt's acceptance speech at Philadelphia. The prices are $1 and $2. The rally was launched with hundreds of others throughout the country by the Democratic national committee.

Collect in Hopkins' Office.

The clandestine canvassing first was uncovered in the offices of the WPA. Reports of similar federal law violation came from other buildings. Works Progress Administrator Harry L. Hopkins was said by his staf to be without knowledge of the solicitation. Other officials also denied knowledge of the collecting activity but showed no disposition to investigate complaints with a view to halting illegal collection of New Deal campaign funds.

Coincident with the discovery of the office canvassing, Miss Jo Coffin, assistant to Public Printer A. E. Geigenack, challenged Representative Charles A. Halleck [Rep., Ind.], to name the foremen he charges are attempting to sell tickets to employés of the government printing office. This charge was made by Halleck in his war of the last week on reputed solicitations of government workers for political purposes.

Inquiry Is Demanded.

Halleck, who is a member of the house civil service committee, is demanding an investigation of illegal canvassing of federal workers. He leveled a blaming finger at Postmaster General James A. Farley in releasing a letter of solicitation to postmasters purportedly signed by Farley. Farley has denied knowledge of the letter, saying that the rubber stamp signature may have been affixed by some "over zealous clerk."

Miss Coffin spoke for Public Printer Geigenack, who is away for the week-end. She asserted she does not believe Halleck's charge of solicitation in the printing offices.

"If Mr. Halleck will identify the foremen he accuses I promise him they will be down on the carpet in three seconds," she said. "I have heard no intimation of such solicitations. It would be ridiculous to think that Mr. Geigenack would countenance it. That would be just asking for trouble. I bought a ticket and I bought it on the outside."

Mr. Halleck repeated that he has a statement made in the presence of witnesses which sets forth that every salaried employé of the printing office is being solicited this week. He said he would await the return of the public printer before he decides whether he will identify the foremen.

"In the solicitation," he said, "the foremen acknowledge frankly that the contribution is being sought for the Democratic national campaign fund. Often an implied threat against the worker's job is made."

DEMOCRATS RIDE ON TWO TRAINS IN CONVENTION TRIP

County Leaders Take One; Horner Party Another.

BY PARKE BROWN.

After several announcements that things had been smoothed out quite a bit, Illinois Democracy starts out today for the national convention in the City of Brotherly Love as a house divided against itself—or, better, on a train divided in twain.

It's all because of a chartered car—not because of any factional hostilities—everybody said yesterday. There was insistence that the car be hooked at the end of the train. But the boys from the loop who don't see many sights were equally insistent that the last car be the observation car from which they would have a chance to look out. So the only way out of the problem was for the Pennsylvania railroad to make up two trains.

How the Division Works.

At the end of one will be the chartered car arranged for Gov. Horner and his closest friends. At the tail of the other will swing the observation car filled with leaders of the Cook county organization. The Horner special will have one standard sleeping car and the organization train will carry five of them.

Regardless of the protests that this separation is due entirely to a question of train makeup, much attention was called to the personnel of the two parties. Gov. Horner will be accompanied by his usual retinue, including his primary campaign manager, F. Lynden Smith; his chief strategist, Daniel James Florence Sullivan, erstwhile newspaper man, and some of his secretaries, but his train also will carry State's Attorney Courtney and the Courtney contingent from Cook county. Carter H. Harrison also is listed as a passenger.

The "regular" train, however, will carry all the Cook county delegates and alternates except those who went east early.

Some Are Already East.

Early departures saved P. A. Nash, national committeeman, and Mayor Kelly from any danger of getting on the wrong train—both specials leave on the same road at about the same time, 4 o'clock this afternon. District Attorney Igoe also is in the clear for he is in Washington and needs merely to jump a fast train from the capital to reach Philadelphia in time for the caucus on Monday.

Just what will be done at that meeting of the delegation probably will be determined today if Mayor Kelly and Committeeman Nash confer at Atlantic City as it is rumored they will do. Cold blooded analysts say the Nash forces have indisputable power that they can use, if they wish, to establish complete control.

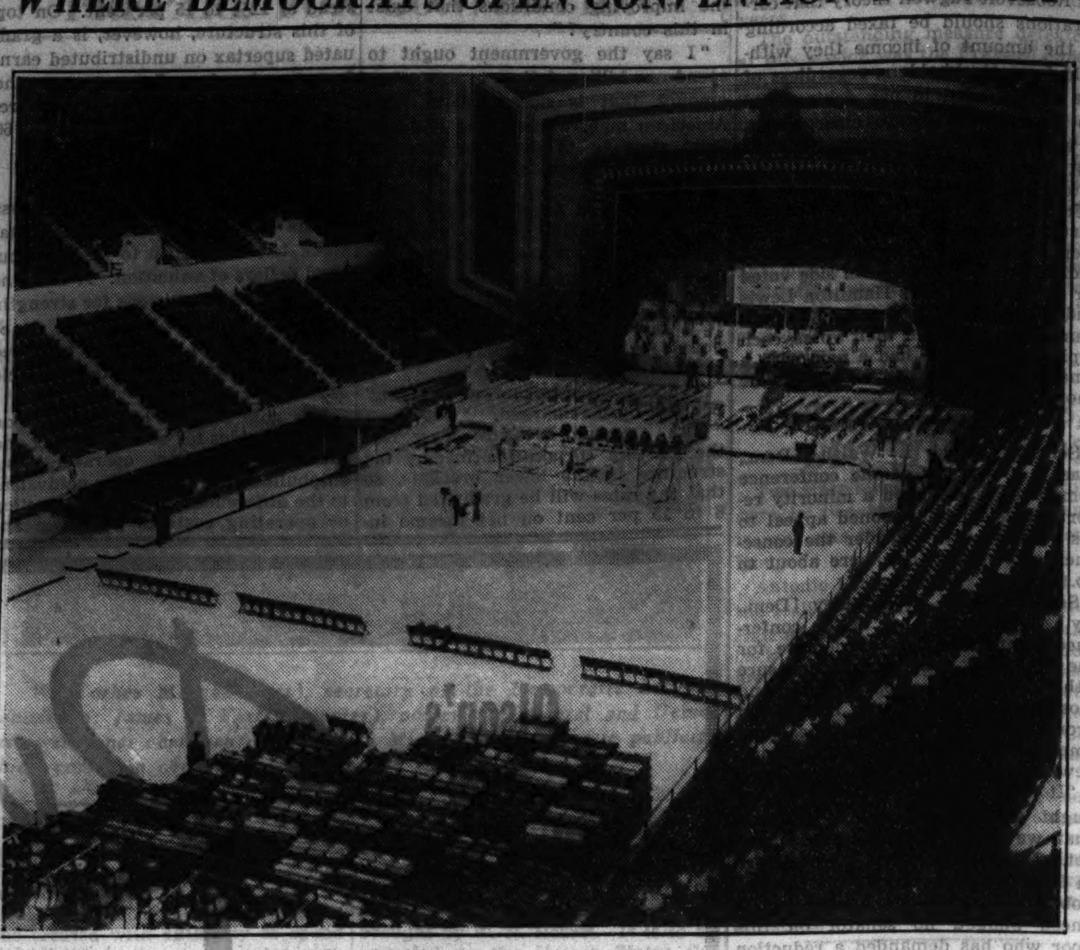
In other wards, if Nash, who is expected to be reëlected national committeeman, desired also to be chairman of the delegation he can have it despite any contest attempted by the Horner people. It was said around Cook county headquarters that there has been no attempt at a program of conciliation which would give Gov. Horner the chairmanship. The talk there was that if Nash doesn't want the place it will go to Mayor Kelly.

Nash Man for Resolutions.

In the same way, it is predicted that unless Nash takes a different attitude than he has manifested recently, the Ilinois place on the resolutions committee will go to one of the Nash group and not to one of the Horner folks. It was said that if a Cook county man is selected it will be Judge Harry M. Fisher while, if a downstater, Justice Norman L. Jones of the State Supreme court will be chosen.

Incidentally, it was pointed out around headquarters that perhaps it will be just as well there are two trains. State Senator William J. Connors, who last Thursday slapped down a Hornerite in Springfield who wouldn't quit trying to convert him to the governor's fold, will be on the Cook county train.

WHERE DEMOCRATS OPEN CONVENTION TUESDAY



Looking toward the stage of the convention hall in Philadelphia, where the Democratic national convention is to open Tuesday. The speakers' platform and the press section are in the distance. LEMKE HAS HARD TASK TO GET ON ILLINOIS BALLOT

Needs 25,000 Names from 50 Counties.

Proponents in Illinois of the new national party to be known as the "Union" party have nearly three months in which to comply with election law requirements concerning the formation of a new party in this state. Their task, part of which is to get 25,000 qualified voters to sign their petition, will not be an easy one, according to election law experts.

Formation of the new party was announced on Friday by Congressman William Lemke, North Dakota radical, who will be its candidate for President. He will be aided by the Rev. Charles E. Coughlin, who called upon members of his National Union for Social Justice to support Lemke.

Face Difficulties in Illinois.

No plans have yet been formulated in Illinois to gather signatures on the petition, which is the chief requirement in the formation of a new party, according to Attorney Charles V. Falkenberg, state supervisor in Illinois of the Social Justice union. He said the Coughlin union might have candidates for congress. These presumably would run on the ticket of the "Union" party.

Among the 25,000 qualified voters required on the petition, there must be included 200 qualified voters from each of at least fifty counties in the state. Persons who voted in the April primary are not qualified to sign the petition.

Sept. 14 Is Final Day.

The petition must declare the intention of the signers to form a new party, give the party name, and contain a list of candidates. Nominating certificates and certificates of candidacy must be filed with the governor, auditor of public accounts, and secretary of state at least fifty days prior to the Nov. 3 election, which would make the last day for filing them Sept. 14.

It was learned in Chicago yesterday that Thomas Charles O'Brien, Boston lawyer who is to be Lemke's running mate, was for eight years between 1912 and 1920 secretary to Walter L. McMenimen of the Pullman company when the latter was legislative representative for the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen in Massachusetts.

Fire Under Control After Threat to Movie Colony

Santa Monica, Cal., June 20.—(AP)—A brush fire broke out today in the Malibu hills, near the fashionable movie beach colony, scene of a disastrous blaze last year. Fire fighters from three Civilian Conservation camps joined 65 men from the county forestry service and rangers reported it was being brought under control.

Actress, Ill, Saves Boy from Drowning in Surf

Hollywood, Cal., June 20. — (AP) — Jean Fonteau suffered exhaustion today after rescuing a small boy from the pounding surf at Laguna Beach. The actress, at the beach regaining her strength after an operation, saw the boy, about 6 years old, far beyond his depth. She dashed into the water and pulled him to safety.

BELGIAN TROOPS GUARD CAPITAL; VIOLENCE FEARED

BRUSSELS, June 20.—(AP)—Troops occupied strategic points about Belgium's capital tonight despite the settlement of a troublesome strike of Antwerp dock workers.

The military occupation, covering ten or fifteen miles of Brussels' outskirts, was described as precautionary in view of a massed workers' march planned to coincide with a meeting of parliament Tuesday. Roads were barricaded, with machine guns commanding the narrow lanes.

Brussels counted 20,000 out on strike as clerks and suburban industrial workers quit. In minor clashes, eight persons were injured and 40 arrested.

The Antwerp dock strike started the wave of walkouts which have spread to important industrial centers. Today the dock workers voted to accept a wage increase compromise.

MAJOR PARTIES WATCH MOVES OF NEW GROUPS

Coughlin and Lemke Act Stirs Conjecture.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 20.—[Special.]—A loss of support for President Roosevelt through a split in the "progressive" vote at the coming election was seen today in the formation of a third party ticket headed by Congressman William Lemke of North Dakota. The new party is indorsed by the Rev. Charles E. Coughlin, Detroit radio priest, who denounced the New Deal and threw his influence to the new Union party in an address here last night.

Father Coughlin was the first organization leader to rally to the standard of the new party. A former supporter of President Roosevelt, Father Coughlin summoned members of his National Union for Social Justice to join other dissenters to support Lemke for President. The priest's address was followed by Lemke's announcement of his candidacy to the nation. Lemke then read the platform on which he and his candidate for Vice President, Thomas C. O'Brien, Boston Democrat, will stand as Union party candidates.

Make Guarded Comments.

Major party leaders were guarded in their comments on the new party after the speech of Father Coughlin. It was pointed out by some observers that the Union party was more likely to draw its support from the ranks of the New Deal than from the Republicans. Representative Lemke is an avowed inflationist. He has made a strong bid for the vote of the followers of Dr. Francis E. Townsend and the Rev. Gerald K. Smith, heir to the mantle of the late Senator Huey Long of Louisiana.

There is no likelihood, according to observers, that the Progressives and radicals, such as the La Follettes of Wisconsin and Gov. Floyd B. Olson of Minnesota, even will consider supporting the third party ticket.

Rival Generals' Views.

Postmaster General James A. Farley, Democratic national chairman, insisted President Roosevelt would still carry every state. He refused to indicate concern in regard to the Union party.

The Republican national chairman, John D. M. Hamilton, declined to comment.

Norman Thomas, Socialist candidate for President, believed the Lemke candidacy might hurt President Roosevelt's vote. He added: "Some Republicans may be taking a flyer in financing the Lemke party."

O'Brien Refuses to Talk.

Boston, Mass., June 20. — (AP) — Thomas C. O'Brien, former Boston district attorney and candidate for the vice presidency on the Union party ticket sponsored by the Rev. Charles E. Coughlin, said today he felt this was an "inopportune time to discuss platform principles and purposes.

Mr. O'Brien received a personal message of congratulation from Alexander F. Whitney, head of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, for whom he is attorney in the New England states.

"Illinois Mine," Lemke Says.

Washington, D. C., June 20.—(AP)—Rep. William Lemke of North Dakota seeking the presidency on the newly formed Union ticket said today "Illinois is one of the states we are certain to carry." He cited Chicago receiverships, discontented farmers and added: "Both old parties are torn by internal strife in Illinois—the situation in that state is ideal for the success of our party."

Lemke added that in August a mass convention of interested persons would be held in Cleveland. He added it was too late to elect delegates. He will meet officials of the National Farmers' union soon.

Also Congress Candidate.

Bismarck, N. D., June 20.—(AP)—North Dakota's bitterly fought primary campaign—counted to produce a record turnout of voters Wednesday—took on added importance today from Rep. Lemke's projection into the presidential race as a "third party" candidate.

Lemke is unopposed for renomination on the Republican ticket.

Townsend Is Undecided.

Syracuse, N. Y., June 20.—(AP)—Dr. Francis E. Townsend, old age pension leader, reiterated today a previous declaration that it was "up to the convention to decide" whether he would support Rep. Lemke, who announced himself as a presidential candidate. The Townsend forces meet in Cleveland next month.

SOME STATES' LAWS BAR LEMKE'S NAME FROM NATIONAL TICKET

A write-in campaign may be necessary in some states if the new "Union party" wishes to register its preference for Representative William Lemke, the party's presidential nominee.

In a few states the way for Lemke's electors to appear upon the November election ballot appeared barred.

In Michigan the state of residence of the Rev. Charles E. Coughlin who has urged his Social Justice union followers to support Lemke, the Union party name cannot appear on the ballot, state officials said, because six months are required to certify a political party.

The filing period for candidates in Oklahoma closed May 2 and in Kansas at noon Saturday, June 20.

Kansas also barred the way for another "third party" to enter that state when the Prohibition party failed to provide enough signatures to petitions for its presidential candidate, Dr. D. Leigh Colvin.

Edward Blake of Chicago, national chairman of the Prohibition party, did not attempt to file the petitions as the deadline was reached, but lashed at Kansas, home of the Republican nominee, Gov. Alf M. Landon, as "wet in fact."

Oklahoma laws appeared to exclude the new party. In other states nomination by petition seemed feasible.

In Indiana it needs only 7,213. In Maryland 2,000 voters must sign a petition swearing they will vote for the party nominee they attempt to get on the ballot. The petition must be filed 30 days before the election.

In New York state 12,000 signatures are needed on petitions which must be filed by midnight Sept. 29. The state now recognizes four parties—the Republican, Democratic, Socialist, and communist.

An attempt of the Farmer-Labor party to file a ticket of presidential elector in Kansas failed by four minutes yesterday. George Etue, Kansas City, appeared at the secretary of state's office at 12:04 p. m. with a bundle of petitions. The deadline was noon. But state law does not permit party names to have more than one word. Dual or hyphenated words are not permitted, state officials said.

74TH CONGRESS SESSION CLOSES WITH FILIBUSTER

785 Million Tax Bill Is Passed by Senate.

current resolution of adjournment, and the motion to adjourn, both privileged matters, hours before he did, but he was reluctant to assume responsibility for killing the Guffey bill. It was desired by the White House and by the powerful United Mine Workers, whose shaggy haired president, John L. Lewis, gazed down menacingly from the gallery seat.

But Senator Robinson had insisted that the senate would adjourn by midnight, and when it became apparent that Holt and those who waited to relieve him would speak all night if necessary, he put his motion to adjourn. Holt amused himself by reading from Lewis' book, "The Miners' Fight for American Standards," which he designated "Aesop's Fables."

Wildman from Coal Mines.

The long haired Wildman from the West Virginia coal mines, who came into the senate as the darling of the New Deal, denounced Lewis as "a former supporter of President Hoover," and denounced his colleague, Senator Matthew M. Neely, for bowing to the will of Lewis. He said the administration wanted the Guffey bill only because "it would deliver 300,000 votes in Pennsylvania."

Holt had been assisted in his filibuster by Senator Frederick Steiwer of Oregon, the Republican keynoter, who spoke at length denouncing the new undistributed earnings tax bill and New Deal legislation in general. This called for an equally long and equally partisan reply from Senator Tom Connally of Texas.

The filibuster was the occasion for a test vote on the Frazier-Lemke bill to issue 3 billion dollars in greenbacks and refinance farm mortgages, which went down, 34 to 17. Senator Lynn J. Frazier [Radical, N. D.], a foe of the Guffey bill, offered his inflationary measure as an amendment.

Senator William E. Borah of Idaho, unsuccessful candidate for the presidential nomination who caused the Republican platform writers so much trouble with their money plank, voted for the Frazier-Lemke bill. Senator Borah was violently opposed to the Guffey bill on the ground that it would promote monopoly and soak the consumers, and he was prepared to assist Holt in the filibuster.

Just before the filibuster was broken by the adjournment motion Senator Bennett C. Clark [Dem., Mo.], who also assisted Holt, sought a reconsideration of the Walsh-Healy bill passed by the senate earlier in the evening, but failed. This measure requires all persons holding contracts with the government to maintain NRA wage and hour standards.

Besides the Guffey bill the adjournment consigned to limbo the Copeland-Tugwell food and drug bill, which the house killed by refusing overwhelmingly to accept a senate amendment. It would have given Secretary of Agriculture Wallace dictatorial powers over the manufacture, labeling, and advertising of foods, drugs, and cosmetics. Another New Deal measure left dead was the $461,000,000 Wagner housing bill, which the house banking and currency committee tabled.

Must Tax Bill Up to President.

The last remaining "must" items were disposed of when the senate adopted and sent to the White House President Roosevelt's $785,000,000 corporate tax reform measure and the $992,500,000 treasury-postoffice appropriation bill.

The house had removed another major obstacle to adjournment by concurring in the senate amendments to the new ship subsidy bill. This action brought to an end a threatened indefinite filibuster against the $26,000,000 appropriation for existing ocean mail contracts. Senate foes of the appropriation were satisfied because the ship subsidy bill permits the new federal maritime commission to modify or cancel existing contracts.

The Guffey bill filibuster was interrupted temporarily when Senator Lewis B. Schwellenbach [Dem., Wash.] sought to put through a resolution authorizing Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins to continue the stay of deportation of 2,862 aliens who have been detained in this country in the hope of action on the Kerr-Coolidge bill. This measure would give the secretary authority to harbor radical and criminal aliens of all kinds in this country.

Senator Robert R. Reynolds [Dem., N. C.] objected to a unanimous consent request to call up the Kerr-Coolidge bill even for the purpose of substituting the extension resolution, and spoke for an hour against efforts to undermine the deportation laws.

Called Fascist Formula.

Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg [Rep., Mich.] denounced the Guffey bill as "a Fascist formula" which would add from 200 million to 400 million dollars a year to coal bills of the consumers.

"You cannot sustain democracy as we know it when you sublet to anybody a price fixing authority," Senator Vandenberg declared. "This sort of thing is known in Europe as Fascism. If one commodity is controlled under this arrangement others will follow. Then free enterprise is done, competition is done and democracy is at an end."

The long controverted tax measure was adopted in the senate after three hours of debate in which conservative Democrats led the assault on the radical Roosevelt-Tugwell theory that corporations should be taxed according to the amount of income they withhold from stockholders, regardless of the cash needed to pay debts, build up reserves for future emergencies, or add to plant and equipment.

Eighteen of the 29 senators who voted against the tax report were members of the President's own party, 11 Republicans having joined them. Thirty-five Democrats and 7 radicals on the Republican side voted for it. Senator James Hamilton Lewis and William H. Dieterich of Illinois, Democrats, withheld their votes, each explaining that he had a pair with a senator whose position was not made known.

Warning from Walsh.

Senator David I. Walsh [Dem., Mass.], a member of the conference committee who signed a minority report, made an impassioned appeal to his colleagues to consider the consequences of what they were about to do.

Senator Alben W. Barkley [Dem., Ky.], another member of the conference committee, led the defense for the New Deal, called the tax measure "the fairest and most sincere and most just" that could have been brought out of the conference, and emphasized the necessity of raising new revenue.

"It has been suggested that we ought to reduce our expenditures, that we ought to balance the budget," Barkley declared. "We all are in favor of balancing the budget, but nobody who has demanded a balanced budget, no senator on this floor who has demanded a reduction of the expenditures of our government, has yet pointed out where that reduction ought to be made."

Asked 20 Per Cent Cut.

Senator Harry F. Byrd [Dem., Va.], one of the original foes of the tax bill, reminded Barkley that he had offered in vain an amendment to reduce the 2 billion 375 million deficiency-relief appropriation by 20 per cent.

"Now," said Senator Byrd, "I want to ask the senator whether he thinks this government should spend 1 billion dollars more in the year 1937 than it spent in 1936, in view of the improving conditions that exist in this country?"

"I say the government ought to spend one billion dollars or any other amount that is necessary to keep American men, women, and children from starving to death or freezing in the winter from the cold," Barkley shouted.

Senator Byrd asked Barkley point blank whether he favored spending 1 billion dollars more in 1937 than in 1936.

"For All Appropriations."

"I favor what I voted for and I voted for all these appropriations," roared the New Deal keynoter.

"I just wanted to get that straight," Senator Byrd remarked.

The revenue measure decreases the existing corporation income tax structure in the lower brackets, so that the rates will be graduated from 8 to 15 per cent on net income instead of 12½ to 15 per cent. On top of this structure, however, is a graduated supertax on undistributed earnings, ranging from 7 per cent on the first 10 per cent of net income retained to 27 per cent on all above 60 per cent.

Cut Capital Stock Tax.

The bill retains the existing excess profits tax, but decrease the capital stock tax from $1.40 to $1 per thousand dollars of valuation. It contains miscellaneous provisions for strengthening existing law and levies an 80 per cent tax on unpaid or refunded processing taxes, estimated to yield $82,000,000.

The ship subsidy bill agreed upon today provides for both operating and provides for both operating and shipbuilders, which will be equivalent to the difference between construction or operating costs to American and foreign operators. It also authorizes the RFC to make loans to shipbuilders equal to 75 per cent of what the total cost in a foreign port would be. The government will recapture all profits in excess of 6 per cent until the subsidies are repaid.

PAYING BONUS, BATTLE ON TAX DELAY CONGRESS

Chief Acts of Second Session Reviewed.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 21 [Sunday].—[Special.]—The second session of the 74th congress, which ended early this morning, was prolonged almost six months by two things. One was the passage of the 2 billion 237 million dollar soldiers' bonus prepayment. The other was the Supreme court's invalidation of the agricultural adjustment act, with its processing taxes on farm commodities.

Those factors upset President Roosevelt's budget calculations. That resulted, first, in the so-called soil conservation act to supplant the outlawed AAA; second, in the $785,000,000 corporate reform tax program. The president demanded that to fill the gap in the so-called ordinary budget.

Creates Shipping Board.

The congress, on the final day of the session, completed action on the long pending ship subsidy legislation, demanded by President Roosevelt, but the center of frequent clashes in the senate. This measure creates a federal maritime commission with authority to pay direct subsidies to builders and operators of ships, to be based on the difference between construction and operation costs to American and foreign concerns. It is designed to offset the competitive advantage of foreign ship operators, due to low wage and material costs.

The President's tax message of March 3, proposing his revolutionary tax on undistributed corporation income, struck dismay among his leaders in congress. They had come here January 3 confident there would be no tax bill at this session. They expected nothing but the regular departmental appropriation bills were to be passed. Congress would certainly adjourn by May 1, if not sooner, they believed.

Law to Replace AAA.

Passage of the bonus measure was the climax of a veterans' campaign of 17 years. The victory was accomplished over the President's veto, the house acting on Jan. 24 and the senate on Jan. 27.

The soil conservation act, under which the farmers are to be paid bounties for planting part of their acreage to legumes and grasses instead of a frank percentage reduction in their major crops, was the next major measure on the administration program. It is estimated to cost the government $500,000,000 a year, to come out of the treasury or the pockets of the general public instead of the pockets of consumers of farm products.

Nine Million for Year.

Direct appropriations for the year aggregated 9 billion, 559 million dollars, the largest item being the 2 billion, 375 million dollar relief-deficiency bill. This measure carried one billion, 425 million dollars for President Roosevelt to spend as he chooses on so-called "relief and work relief" and supplemented the famous 4 billion, 880 million dollar appropriation for the same purpose last year.

Included in the direct appropriations was a total of $909,647,000 for the army and navy, the largest peacetime outlay for national defense in history.

In addition to the direct appropriations, congress authorized hundreds of millions of dollars to be appropriated by subsequent legislative action, including $500,000,000 for flood control projects. The RFC was empowered to make loans up to $50,000,000 to public and private bodies in flood stricken areas and a new rural electrification administration was created with authority to spend $410,000,000 in loans to states, municipalities, farm coöperatives, etc., for generating plants, transmission lines, and electrical equipment.

In the field of foreign relations two items were outstanding. The first was the extension of the neutrality act of 1935 for one year, with an additional provision prohibiting loans and credits, except ordinary commercial credits, to belligerent countries. Western hemisphere nations are excluded from the provisions of that law.

Cruiser Holiday Declared.

On May 18 the senate ratified the London naval treaty of 1935, which provides for a six year holiday in heavy cruiser construction, effective Jan. 1, 1937. Great Britain and France are the other signatories. The treaty also provides for limitations of size and gun power in certain categories of ships and binds the signatories to exchange information as to their construction plans.

A bill giving Secretary of Agriculture Wallace, as head of a new commodity exchange commission, dictatorial powers over trading in all major farm commodities was approved at this session by the senate and sent to the White House.

Among the measures passed in the closing days of the session was the controversial Robinson-Patman anti-chain store bill, which prohibits manufacturers from making quantity discounts to large scale purchasers of commodities. The measure also prohibits special allowances for advertising, brokerage fees, etc., unless such considerations are extended to purchasers of goods of "like grade and quality."

Another measure affecting the federal trade commission was the new Wheeler-Rayburn bill, which vastly increases the investigating powers of that agency, giving it authority to issue cease and desist orders against "deceptive" as well as "unfair" trade practices.

Florida Judge Removed.

In April congress exercised its impeachment power by removing Federal Judge Halsted L. Ritter of Florida from office. It was the twelfth impeachment trial in United States history. The judge's conviction by the senate was unprecedented in that he was found guilty of the sum of charges on each of which he had been acquitted. Judge Ritter was accused of splitting fees with a former law partner.

The session produced the usual run of congressional inquiries, the most conspicuous of which was that conducted by Senator Hugo L. Black's committee, organized to investigate lobbying activities. That committee was charged with confining its inquisition to foes of the New Deal in the course of which it seized private telegrams and letters. A suit for injunction against that committee was brought by W. R. Hearst. It is to be appealed to the United States Supreme court and will test the power of congressional committees over such private messages.

The Nye munitions investigation was brought to a close after the expenditure of almost $200,000. There were several speeches charging J. P. Morgan & Co. of being very influential in getting the United States into the world war. That affair was brought to a turbulent conclusion. Chairman Gerald P. Nye [Rad., N. D.] charged the late Woodrow Wilson, then President, had "falsified" in statements "concerning his knowledge of secret European treaties in existence when America entered the war. Wilsonian Democrats were outraged and Mr. Nye was bitterly castigated by Senator Joseph Robinson of Arkansas and others.

Townsend Defies Committee.

The third major inquisition was on the house side, with the Townsend old age pension organization under scrutiny. Dr. Francis E. Townsend, founder of the movement, who was asked certain questions, seeking admissions he was running a racket, defied the house committee and took a walk. The house subsequently voted contempt proceedings against him. That matter was turned over to the federal court.

The senate voted another $75,000 for continuation of its investigation of railway financing, a subject which the interstate commerce commission has been investigating for many years.

The outstanding measure defeated at this session was the Frazier-Lemke bill providing for the issuance of 3 billion dollars in greenbacks to finance farm mortgages. That measure, the passage of which was demanded by the Rev. Charles E. Coughlin, Detroit radio priest, was beaten overwhelmingly in the house and 2 to 1 in the senate.

The house also killed the Black anti-lobby bill, requiring so-called legislative representatives to register and make reports on their receipts and disbursements.

ROBBERS SHOOT 2 STORE OWNERS, BUT MISS LOOT

Two store owners were shot by robbers in two holdups yesterday, and in each case the gunmen fled without loot.

Antonio Paris, 45 years old, head of the Italian Food company, 1120 South Halsted street, was wounded in the back by one of two robbers who followed him to his store after he had withdrawn $240 from a bank. Both bandits escaped in their automobile. Paris was taken to the Mother Cabrni hospital, where it was found the wound was not serious.

Victor Savich, 39 years old, owner of a grocery at 2532 West 47th street, was slightly wounded as he fled down the basement steps of his store during a holdup. The two robbers fled when a woman customer screamed.

Police Volunteer to Give Blood to Stricken Comrade

Several policemen of the trafic division have volunteered to go to the Billings Memorial hospital this afternoon and be ready to furnish blood for a transfusion to Patrolman Francis O'Toole, 49 years old, 916 West Division street. O'Toole, who is in a weakened condition, is to undergo an operation for a tumor. He has been a member of the trafic division for years. In 1932 he was awarded extra compensation for shooting and killing one of five robbers who attacked him near his home.

Robert H. Lucas to Enter Senate Race in Kentucky

Louisville, Ky., June 20.—(AP)—Robert H. Lucas, former executive chairman of the Republican national committee, announced late today he would run for the United States senate from Kentucky.

Maddlena Tschiffely Dies; Author of Children's Book

Louisville, Ky., June 20.—(AP)—Miss Maddlena Tschiffely, 60, author of "The Three Little Warrens," a child's book, under the pen name of Sarah Wheelock, died here today.

GARNER TO HOLD HIS TONGUE DURING FALL POLITICAL CAMPAIGN

Washington, D. C., June 20.—[Special.]—Unless President Roosevelt personally requests him to do so, Vice President Garner will not make any speeches during the political campaign this summer, his close personal friends revealed here today.

This is in keeping with his policy during the 1932 campaign, when he let Mr. Roosevelt and other party spokesmen do all the campaigning, and does not indicate any lack of sympathy with the Roosevelt administration, it was stated.

"Mr. Garner will speak if he is asked, but only if he is asked," Senator Bennett C. Clark of Missouri, perhaps his closest associate in the senate, said today. He has made it a policy not to butt into anything on his own responsibility.

HENRY C. LODGE GETS G. O. P.'S O. K. FOR U. S. SENATOR

Springfield, Mass., June 20.—(AP)—Tall, 33 year old Henry Cabot Lodge, grandson of the late Senator of the same name, won the endorsement today of the Republican state pre-primary convention for United States senator. For four years young Lodge has been a legislator in his own state. Lodge rolled up 336 against 299 for former Mayor Sinclair Weeks of Newton in the race for indorsement for senator.

Former State Senator James F. Cavanagh of Boston received six votes. If the political parties accept the convention endorsement in the September primaries, Lodge in the November election will face Gov. James M. Curley, whom the Democratic convention recently put forward for the United States senate seat of Marcus Coolidge [Dem.]. Coolidge has not announced his plans.

In a brief speech of acceptance, Lodge termed the convention's act "the start of a campaign to put an end to injustices which the national administration has inflicted on the masses in Massachusetts.

"It is perfectly clear the election of a Democratic senator from Massachusetts this year will mean we shall continue to be the forsaken state of the union."

Flames in Bag Factory Cause $20,000 Damage

A spectacular fire in a two story brick building at the northwest corner of 21st and Morgan streets, occupied by the Morgan Bag company and the Midwest Burlap company, early today caused damage estimated at $20,000. The flames, which were of unknown origin, spread rapidly and a 3-11 alarm was sounded.

CHRISTY WORK OF H. T. RAINEY MADE OFFICIAL

Washington, D. C., June 20.—[Special.]—Under criticism for dilatory tactics, Chairman Kent Keller [Dem., Ill.] called his house library committee together today and selected from nine paintings Howard Chandler Christy's portrait of the late Speaker Henry T. Rainey of Illinois.

Representative Scott W. Lucas [Dem., Ill.], who followed Rainey as congressman from the Twentieth district, had accused Representative Keller of "vacillation, indecision, and supine indolence," which he said had caused Mrs. Rainey, widow of the speaker, to write she was "weary and heartsick over it."

The Rainey portrait will be hung in the speaker's lobby. It was reported that there was a move on foot to take selection of the official portrait of the late Speaker Joseph Byrns out of the hands of the library committee and have the choice made by a special committee.

$10,000 CONCERNS TO SAVE $250 YEARLY UNDER NEW TAX BILL

Washington, D. C., June 20.—(AP)—Tax experts studying the revenue bill passed today found that small corporations earning less than $10,000 a year could reduce their taxes by paying out all their income as dividends.

They would pay 8 per cent, or $160 normal income tax, on the first $2,000 and 11 per cent, or $880, on the remaining $8,000, a total of $1,040 under the new corporation taxes.

Under the old schedules they would have paid 12½ per cent, or $250, on the first $2,000, and 13 per cent, or $1,040, on the $8,000 balance, a total of $1,290.

DIES OF CRASH INJURIES.

Lewisville, Minn., June 20.—(AP)—Adolph Sucker, founder and civic leader of Lewisville village, was killed in a head-on automobile collision near here last night in which three other persons were injured.

Moving Forward

Marshall Field & Company presents here each day observations and opinions intended to be of interest and value to those it seeks to serve.

THIS INTERESTING WORLD

by CALEB

BEFORE the era of steam power, a circle drawn to encompass the activities and interests of the family of John Average would have enclosed but a few square miles. What people had and did a hundred miles away was practically unknown and of no consequence.

Then the family was self-sufficient. It could produce its own apparel and food. In a pinch, it could fashion its own crude plough, from hickory haft to wrought iron share. Most of what was made was used or consumed on the spot. The consumer had access to little that wasn't made or raised in his community.

Today, if a circle were drawn to encompass the activities and interests of the family of John Average's current descendant, it would practically girdle the earth. The craft-skilled family of old has given way before widely scattered organizations of specialists—each of whom contributes his part to finished product. Most of what is made is used elsewhere in the world, instead of at home. The innumerable things not made near at hand come ceaselessly from the ends of the earth. Even a rural community has access more or less to the wide world's products.

If you could trace the trails of things you touch and use in your routine for a week, back to their sources and origins, you would find yourself at the center of a colossal but orderly tangle of movements of men and things.

The retailer—and more particularly the great retailer—has literally brought the world to your feet. It came about simply enough. As industry came to require selling agents everywhere, the people came to need purchasing agents who could assemble the best goods of all kinds from all places. The retailer had to come into existence to bridge the growing gap between making and using. He passes most of the world's goods from maker to user. He passes consumer tastes and preferences from user to maker.

In fulfilling the function demanded of great stores by present-day trade, we find the world is our field. Moving forward in the fulfillment of our individual destiny as a business, we marvel almost daily at the kaleidoscopic parade of the interesting things we observe. Under the above heading, we expect to discuss this interesting world—of thoughts and things—with you. We shall talk of economics, the amount of paper we bale, Kodiak bears, good taste, the signs of the zodiac, education, color in the home, springtime and romance, or anything else which, interesting us, we feel may interest you. If it helps you to know us better and more fully, we will feel it is enlarging our service to you.

G. O. P. CAMPAIGN CHIEF HONORED IN 2 PARTY DINNERS

Plan Chicago Welcome to Hamilton.

John D. M. Hamilton, new chairman of the Republican national committee and the man who made the Cleveland convention hall ring with his "I give you the name of a Republican governor from a Republican state—Alfred Mossman Landon of Kansas," is to be honored at a banquet tomorrow evening in New York City, after which arrangements will be made for a banquet given in his honor here on July 2.

Wayland Brooks, Republican nominee for governor of Illinois, is to go by airplane tomorrow to act as toastmaster at the New York banquet. As tentatively arranged, Chauncey McCormick is to be chairman of the Chicago dinner at which Hamilton will be introduced to Republicans here.

Hamilton, the dynamic young man of 44 who forged ahead in his party in rapid strides that brought him the management of the Landon campaign, is no stranger in Chicago. He obtained his legal education at Northwestern university law school, receiving his degree in 1916.

Known as "Torchy."

While taking his course at Northwestern, Hamilton, who was known as "Torchy" because of his red hair, roomed on the north side.

"He was well liked," according to Attorney Ralph Shanesy of Evanston, a fellow student. "He was a regular fellow and a good student. How he loved to argue politics!

"He belonged to a study club with John I. Pierce, Louis Caldwell, Robert M. Adams and a few others. The study club gave him an opportunity to argue and build himself into the fine orator he now is."

Dean John Henry Wigmore recalls young Hamilton as a fine student and one who took an intense interest in the legal problems discussed in classes.

Entered Politics Early.

After army service with the 23d machine gun battalion during the world war Hamilton started the practice of law in Topeka, and soon was a candidate for probate judge. It is recorded that he canvassed each of 80 leaders of his party asking support, and was turned down by 72 of them, after which he made a house to house campaign and won.

After five years as probate judge he was elected to the legislature and at the age of 35 was speaker of the house. At 36 he was a gubernatorial candidate and was state chairman of his party at 38 and national committeeman at 40.

Presided at Grass Roots Parley.

He was assigned to act as chairman of the committee to formulate plans for Young Republican associations, and served as permanent chairman of the Grass Roots conference in Springfield last year.

As he expects to spend 60 per cent of his time in Chicago during the coming campaign, Chicago Republican leaders said a proper welcome should be given him here. Silas Strawn and C. B. Goodspeed, treasurer of the Republican national committee, are among the proponents of the welcoming dinner.

KANSAS REPORTS CASH $1,572,481 BALANCE; GAIN OVER YEAR AGO

Topeka, Kas., June 20.—(AP)—J. J. Rhodes, Kansas treasurer, reported today the state's general fund had an unencumbered cash balance of $1,572,481 on May 31, a month before the end of the fiscal year, compared with $889,591 at the same time last year.

Rhodes expects the state to close its books on a balanced budget June 30 and have more cash on hand to start the new fiscal year than it had at the close of the 1935 year. The unencumbered cash balance in this fund last year was reported at $1,007,000.

The state's bonded debt, consisting only of soldier bonus bonds, was reported at $19,250,000 on May 31, compared with $20,250,000 at the same time last year.

The statement did not take in the financial condition of the 105 counties or other subdivisions.

Coughlin Adherent Will Seek Maine Senate Seat

Stonington, Me., June 20.—(AP)—Dr. B. Lake Noyes, 66, physician and advocate of the Rev. Charles E. Coughlin's monetary principles, today announced his candidacy for the United States senate on an independent ticket in the September election. He will be the third candidate.

HOOVER DENIES 'RETIRING'; HE IS IN FIGHT TO STAY

Palo Alto, Cal., June 20.—(AP)—Former President Herbert Hoover, in a statement today, said he would continue "the fight for American ideals in government and for decency in American life."

At the outset of his statement, Hoover said a "News story of this morning that I have retired to professional work may be misinterpreted."

LANDON SCORES WITHHOLDING OF NEWS AT SOURCE

Hits Secrecy in Affairs of Government.

BY WILLIAM O'NEIL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Topeka, Kas., June 20.—[Special.]—Gov. Alf M. Landon scored governmental agencies which suppress news in an address delivered before the Kansas Editors' association meeting here.

After greeting the editors and thanking them for the support they have given him in the past, the governor said:

"Much has been said recently about freedom of the press. There is, however, another danger which should be guarded against, and that is the suppression of information affecting the public welfare. I don't like secrecy in governmental affairs.

Service of Press Cited.

"The members of this association have been of great service to the state in keeping a keen eye on all that goes on in the statehouse. Such service is of the strongest possible support to officials actuated by a desire to bring about efficient administration of government. Suppression of news at its source is as dangerous to American institutions as government control of news at points of publication.

"The spirit of the Kansas press is traditional. Its representatives have been in the forefront of the battle to maintain the higest ideals. It, throughout the years, has been an outstanding example of the public minded consciousness of Kansas."

Gov. Landon refused to comment on the third party announced yesterday by Congressman William Lemke of North Dakota. It was learned from sources close to Landon, however, that he feels the new party will weaken the New Deal forces in the campaign.

"Father Coughlin and Townsend, if he elects to throw in with the new party, will draw heavily on the radical support of President Roosevelt," one source said. "While we propose to reëstablish the sane, liberal policies of Americanism in the national government, we have no desire for a crackpot following."

The governor held a two hour conference this morning with Ralph W. Robey, economist, Charles P. Taft, political expert, and Earl Taylor, authority on agricultural problems. The tenor of their discussion was not disclosed.

For Roosevelt in 1932.

"I supported Roosevelt in 1932," Robey said, "but I have long felt that his policies were wrong."

Robey explained that his personal ideas on the subject of economics had not changed and that he still believed in a liberal policy, but not an "irresponsible" one.

Taft, son of the late President and a brother of Robert Taft, Ohio favorite son candidate for the Republican nomination, said that he was "just out here to help the governor in any way that he could."

All three advisers were personally chosen by Landon.

Robey refused to say whether he believed that the United States should return to the gold standard or should attempt to formulate a sound policy of a managed currency to replace Roosevelt's present method of control.

Statement Coming Later.

"We'll have to wait until I have time to outline the complete story of my position with regard to the currency problem," Robey explained. "When I can give you the complete picture there won't be any chance of my being misunderstood."

Robey was the financial editor of the New York Evening Post until the paper was purchased by David Stern, New York and Philadelphia publisher in 1933. Stern, who is a personal friend and ardent supporter of President Roosevelt, discharged Robey the morning he took control of the paper.

On his record Robey is a stanch advocatae of the gold standard and it is believed that his break with Roosevelt came with the New Deal action in taking the country off the gold standard. In his writings Robey had decried the New Deal policy of placing money management in the hands of an individual.

During a speech before the Reserve City Bankers association in Edgewater Park, Miss., Robey was asked whether he favored an immediate return to the gold standard.

"We are in the position of a man who just consumed a quart of castor oil and we can't forget it," he replied, refusing to directly answer the question.

Robey is known as an advocate of the "pay as you go" policy in governmental finances. He has stated that he believes the budget can be balanced even to the including of relief expenditures, if waste in the administration of relief and the general wasteful spending of the New Deal burocracy is eliminated.

The governor said that he would spend Sunday making final preparations for his trip to Colorado.

RADICALS BEGIN TASK OF FRAMING PARTY PLATFORM

Expect Oshkosh Session to Indorse Lemke.

BY THORNTON SMITH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Oshkosh, Wis., June 20.—[Special.]—The Farmer-Labor-Progressive Federation of Wisconsin opened its first annual convention here today, and at noon took up the task of embodying its political principles into a party platform, selecting a slate of candidates for state offices, and generally plotting its future course.

Concern over whether Gov. Philip La Follette would join the federation in time to receive its endorsement for governor was lost sight of this morning in a flurry of excitement over the choice yesterday of William Lemke, North Dakota congressman, as a third party candidate for President.

An effort will be made by the Farmer delegates here to effect an indorsement of Lemke before adjournment of the convention.

First Real Farmer Candidate.

Some of the delegates from Marathon county, including Assemblyman Joseph M. Barber, were spreading the word that Lemke is the first real farmer to run for President, that he represents the ideals of the Wisconsin radical group, and should receive an expression of Wisconsin's approval.

Opposition to any endorsement is expected from the Socialists, who already have one candidate for President in the person of Norman Thomas, and of the La Follette Progressives, who have had so many favors from President Roosevelt that it generally is considered they are committed to support him in return.

About 400 delegates and half as many spectators and visitors were present when J. J. Handley, secretary of the State Federation of Labor, called the convention to order as temporary chairman. Handley was succeeded by Henry J. Ohl Jr., president of the State Federation of Labor, who was elected permanent chairman.

La Follette Sends Best Wishes.

Gov. La Follette was not present but on the chairman's desk was a telegram from him regretting his inability to attend, and sending his best wishes and expressing his willingness to meet and confer with any group the federation may indicate after adjournment.

The consolidation of Wisconsin radicals was defined by Ohl in his keynote speech as "those whose vision of a better society impelled them to organize what may be considered the beginning of a campaign to wrest the powers of government from those who have so shockingly abused them through the years." He was glad to belong to such a group, Ohl said.

Ohl entered upon a defense of the phrase "production for use," the Socialist euphemism for public ownership which Gov. La Follette has declared "too vague and too broad for him to accept."

Ohl Scores "Crazy System."

"The present system is as crazy as bedlam, and our purpose to change it to production for use is as clear as crystal," Ohl said.

"With a world waiting to be developed, yet with many millions unemployed, capitalism will not move a wheel unless it sees a profit.

"When people are out of work, when society needs to produce and when private ownership of industry refuses to produce because immediate profit is not in sight, that is production for profit.

"When farmers get less than their cost of production, but when a dozen other agencies make a profit on the farmers' products, that is production for profit, crazy as bedlam."

Boost State-wide Parties.

The federation made a special order of business and adopted a resolution saying that prospects for a nation-wide new party of liberal progressive forces depend largely on the continued success of the new independent state-wide parties. The resolution designated the Progressive party of Wisconsin and the Farmer-Labor party of Minnesota as these new independent parties.

The convention is not expected to reach consideration of its resolutions until late today, nor indorsement of candidates before tomorrow.

Germany Convicts 25 Saar Reds of Plotting Revolt

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

FRANKFORT ON THE MAIN, Germany, June 20.—The first mass trial of Saar communists was concluded today before the People's court in Frankfort. Twenty-five men and women received sentences ranging up to nine years in prison with nine years' loss of civil rights. All were charged with attempting to incite a communist uprising in the Saar. The judge said the evidence showed the defendants were supported by French communists and German communists now fugitives in France.

OLD-TIME STARS BEFORE CAMERA AGAIN

[Acme Photo.]

Among the feminine former stars appearing in story of Hollywood's early days, photographed yesterday, were Helene Chadwick (left) and Betty Compson.

MOVIE STARS OF FORGOTTEN ERA CAST FOR SCREEN

Old Favorites to Depict Their Hollywood.

Hollywood, Cal., June 20.—(AP)—Forgotten screen stars came back to the cameras today to relive their days of glory in a story of Hollywood's fabulous "golden decade."

They are the cast of a picture which will portray their Hollywood—a fantastic city the present Hollywood forgot 15 years ago.

Among them are Helen Holmes, Francis Ford, Grace Cunard, Charles Ray, Francis X. Bushman, Roy D'Arcy, Helene Chadwick, Gertrude Astor, Rosemary Theby, Harry Meyers, Maurice Costello, Betty Compson, Bryant Washburn, "Snub" Pollard, William Desmond and many others.

Stars of Free and Easy Days.

They were stars in the riproaring, cyclonic, free-spending era when the tremendous potentialities of the movies were just beginning to blaze on the horizon.

They saw the industry before it crystalized into its present rigid patterns, before it was a matter of five or six gigantic companies each with factory-like plants, making pictures on a mass-production basis.

Those were the days when every movie was a golden gusher, when more money came in than Hollywood believed could ever be spent, when there were jobs and quick careers for every one, when Lew Cody, "Fatty" Arbuckle and Jack Pickford thought nothing of hiring an orchestra to serenade an actress in jail for speeding.

All that has gone.

Swell While It Lasted.

But the old-timers neither regret it nor pity themselves for having survived it.

Many of them are more than comfortably situated, living off the earnings of their stellar days.

"I starred in 418 pictures," said Francis X. Bushman, "but I don't consider it a comedown to play a bit now. I'm an actor and a real actor is willing to play any part, big or little, if he feels he can do it justice."

Philosophical Roy D'Arcy — arch villain of the silent screen—summed up the attitude of the oldsters with:

"I honestly think we're happier than the present crop of stars ever will be. We at least had fun.

"We had one whale of a ride while it lasted."

International Officers Elected by Quota Clubs

Officers were elected last night at the closing session of the international convention of the Quota clubs, women's civic organization in the Medinah club. Elsie Yellis of Allentown, Pa., was named president; Lois Kellogg, New York City, first vice president; Dr. Anna Northup, Moose Jaw, Canada, second vice president; Bertha Dick, Buffalo, N. Y., third vice president, and Margaretta Hume, Washington, D. C., treasurer. New directors chosen are Clara Mason, Fargo, N. D., and Frances McKillop, Pittsburg, Pa.

Finish Delivery of Bonus Bonds to Prison Veterans

Distribution of soldiers' bonus bonds to 350 convicts in the Stateville and Joliet penitentiaries was completed yesterday. Only 110 of the men asked for cash as they were called, one at a time, to the prison record office to receive their certificates. Eighteen packets of bonds could not be delivered, as the men for whom they were intended have been released on parole. These bonds will be held for the owners at the Joliet postoffice.

RESENTS BORAH HINT HE MAY TAKE A WALK

W. Scott Hall Demands Support for Landon.

Malad, Ida., June 20.—(AP)—W. Scott Hall, veteran Republican leader and close friend of Senator William E. Borah, said tonight he opposed "any man for any place on the Republican ticket who does not stand squarely for Landon and Knox and the Republican platform."

Hall had just read a letter in which Borah expressed a willingness to seek a sixth term—if Idaho party leaders granted him the right to "exercise full freedom of views and of discussion on national issues and candidates."

Borah wrote to State Chairman R. P. Parry of Twin Falls, opposing any move toward a "return to the gold standard."

Raps, Praises Borah.

"Economics and the money question are not Senator Borah's forte," Hall said. "There is enough work to do along other lines that he can do beter than any one else to justify his return to the senate.

"We can carry this state for Landon, but there must be no equivocation or hesitancy by Republicans in support of the national ticket."

Pocatello party leaders joined the drive for Borah's reëlection yesterday and the Bingham county central committee approved his candidacy today.

Ross Seek's Borah's Seat.

Boise, Idaho, June 20.—(AP)—C. Ben Ross, Idaho's fifteenth governor, announced formally today he will seek the Democratic nomination for the United States senate seat of William E. Borah.

Leslie Aker, Boise attorney, is the only other Democrat to say he will seek the nomination at the Aug. 11 primary.

Borah is willing to seek the Republican renomination, but has not announced definitly. Ross is for flood control, water conservation, development of markets for Idaho crops, and "liberal" old age pensions, and large taxes on corporations.

LOSES HIS BONUS BET AND PAYS OFF; WEARS NIGHTGOWN IN PARADE

Ashtabula, O., June 20.—(AP)—A strange procession greeted pedestrians on Ashtabula's main street today.

At the head: a motorcycle policeman.

At the rear: the Ohio Rubber company band of Willoughby, the American Legion drum corps of nearby Painesville and the Veterans of Foreign Wars drum corps of Ashtabula.

In the middle: Charles Moore of Ashtabula, garbed in a nightgown, pushing a wheelbarrow with Leo Kind of Painesville as his passenger.

Moore bet Kind that congress wouldn't pass the soldiers' bonus, and paid off today.

WOMAN DIES OF POISON.

Mrs. Lou McGraw, 75 years old, died yesterday in her home at 4715 Malden street from poison she took Friday. Her husband, Jeremiah McGraw, a retired real estate dealer, said his wife was in poor health and often talked of suicide.

Gentlemen:

Confirming our previous instructions, given us by your Air Conditioning Engineer, Robert E. Hattis, this is to advise you that the installation of your air-cooling system for your Michigan Avenue establishment is now well under way.

No effort will be spared to complete this installation in time for your reopening July 6th. To do this, however, we must have your fullest cooperation.

If our workmen are to keep up with the schedule we have laid out, it is imperative that they shall not be impeded. We cannot emphasize this point too strongly. We would like Kermans clear of all merchandise. We want your store closed and given over to our workmen from Thursday morning July 2nd, through Sunday July 5th.

Any construction delay may prove more costly in time and money than the loss you will be forced to take in the disposing of your present merchandise on such short notice.

Yours truly,

CONGRESS VOTES 48 MILLIONS FOR 'PORK' HIGHWAY

Ickes Lobbies Openly for Huge Fund to Spend.

Washington, D. C., June 20.—[Special.]—With Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes openly lobbying on the floor, the house late today passed the "Blue Ridge pork bill" paving the way for a 477 mile parkway through Virginia and North Carolina. Federal highway funds will be handed to the two states on a platter, while other states must match them dollar for dollar. The parkway really is a tremendous superhighway.

The bill squeaked through by a vote of 145 to 131 amid scenes of confusion and gag leadership that were unprecedented in the minds of old timers.

A few minutes later the senate adopted the bill without a roll call.

Placing the proposed parkway under the jurisdiction of the national park service, which is under the wing of Mr. Ickes' interior department, the bill would permit the federal government to parcel out concessions for hot dog stands and small hotels on either side of the 800 foot wide parkway.

Half of Entire United States Outlay.

Construction costs for the parkway were estimated at 48 million dollars.

Representative Jesse P. Wolcott [Rep., Mich.] pointed out that the 48 million was nearly one half of the amount appropriated to all the states for highways.

"You say you're in favor of relief, for balancing the budget, and that it isn't necessary to pass any more 800 million dollar bills," shouted Wolcott. "This is the most unjustified, unwaranted and unjust proposition that ever was brought before this body."

Bring In Special Rule.

The measure had been killed earlier in the session and then it was pulled out of the hat at noon by Representative Robert L. Doughton [Dem., N. C.] under a suspension of house rules. The measure died at that time because, under the parliamentary situation, a two-thirds vote was required.

Under the pressure of Doughton and others, Chairman John J. O'Connor [Dem., N. Y.] of the rules committee called his group into session and adopted a rule which sent the Blue Ridge bill into the house for a majority vote.

"This is the rankest operation of the rules committee I've ever seen," shouted Representative Bertrand Snell [Rep., N. Y.], a former chairman of the committee.

The legislation will give Ickes more money to spend.

TROPICAL GALE WARNING ISSUED ON TEXAS COAST

New Orleans, La., June 20.—(AP)—A slow moving tropical disturbance in the Gulf of Mexico is headed toward the lower Texas coast today. Storm warnings were issued from Corpus Christi to the Mexican border.

The United States weather bureau said the storm, traveling northeastward and increasing in intensity, might reach the coast during tonight or tomorrow.

The center of the disturbance in midafternoon was about 300 miles southeast of Corpus Christi, moving 8 to 10 miles an hour with a wind velocity close to its center reported as "force 8," or 39 to 46 miles an hour.

Meteorologists advised there would be increasing northerly winds on the lower Texas coast tonight and probably reaching gale force tomorrow.

HOPKINS ON AIR; WPA MEN MAIL FAN CARDS FREE

Announces Plan to Pay Prevailing Wages.

Thousands of post cards bearing the words: "I have listened to Mr. Hopkins," were mailed under government frank yesterday by Federal Works Progress administration employés in Chicago to Robert J. Dunham, Illinois director of the WPA.

This message meant that the employés had heard Harry L. Hopkins, their national chief, make a nationally broadcast radio speech in Washington, in which he explained the present policies of the WPA—or at least it meant that the employés were willing to say that they had heard him.

Unquestionably the audience of persons on the pay roll was large both in Illinois and throughout the country. Mr. Dunham had written letters, which were distributed to all the WPA workers in this state urging that they listen in.

Nonradio Owners Listen.

Special arrangements for hearing the speech were made for the convenience of those who had no radio sets. One of the gathering places for those who couldn't listen at home was the Auditorium.

In his message to the men Mr. Dunham said: "I am eager to receive your comments and suggestions about this federal undertaking in which you have a part. For your convenience I have included as a detachable portion of this invitation a post card [requiring no stamp] which I ask you to use for this purpose."

Besides certifying that they had heard Hopkins tell of the plans for spending $1,425,000,000 of government money, the WPA employés were asked to tell whether they have prospects of private employment, and were urged to suggest good WPA projects for their communities.

Prevailing Wages to Prevail.

Hopkins, in his speech, announced that hourly wages under the new program would be the same as those usually paid locally, and would be determined in the local communities.

Thad Holt, assistant administrator in charge of employment, who with a number of others participated with Hopkins on the radio program, amplified this pronouncement. The rise in the hourly rate, where it was introduced, would not mean larger monthly payments to WPA men, he said. The current $19 to $94 a month would continue to be the maximum, he said, but the hours per month would be only enough to reach these maxima.

Jobs Only for the Needy.

As to the eligibility of workers, Holt said that the new appropriation bill, which becomes law as soon as the President signs it, provides that the employés must be people in actual need. Local officials in each community, he added, would decide whether an applicant actually is in need.

When Chester Gray of the American Farm Bureau federation asked whether the WPA program would prevent farmers getting seasonal laborers, Hopkins gave a qualified answer. Gray said there was "a ot of talk" to the effect that the farm labor supply was cut because "the government overpays its workers."

"The question is a tough one," replied the director. "There have been some cases where farmers paying decent wages could not get help because of relief work.

"On the other hand, there have been cases where farmers raised a rumpus because we didn't kick unfortunate people off the job so they could hire them at starvation wages.

"If a farmer can't get help he should state his case to his own local WPA office. But we are not going to kick anybody off these low pay jobs so some birds can get cheap labor—and that goes for all private employers. The wages offered must be decent."

Hopkins said that although white collar job projects had "gotten us into more hot water than anything else," he was willing to assure needy artists, musicians, actresses, and writers that they still would continue to have WPA jobs.

Denies Political Coercion.

Answering a worker's query as to whether WPA men had to make political contributions or present their applications through political personages, Hopkins said firmly:

"No one has to make a political contribution to get or keep a WPA job. No one has to support or promise to support any candidate, nor does he have to belong to any political party. This goes for administrative employés as well as project workers."

State Director Dunham also spoke on the program. He said that employés would have to work to hold their jobs.

"We have no room for loafers," he asserted, "and we will not hesitate to fire those who don't work."

J. G. BLAINE, BANKER, WEDS DAUGHTER OF LATE CZAR'S EQUERRY

New York, June 20.—(AP)—The Countess Irina Woronzow-Daschkow was married this afternoon to James G. Blaine, banker.

The bride is the daughter of the late Peter Michael Lafaref, who was a member of the council of the empire in imperial Russia and an equerry to the late czar. Her first husband died during the Russian revolution.

The bridegroom and his first wife, the former Marion Dow, were divorced in Reno last November.

U. S. TURNS DOWN HARBOR PROJECT FOR NORTH SHORE

Six years of effort by residents of Chicago's north shore suburbs to obtain an enlarged and improved Wilmette harbor received a setback yesterday when word was received that the war department engineers had disapproved the project. Notice of the disapproval was received by Norman Norse, secretary of the North Shore Harbor association.

"The principal grounds upon which adverse conclusion is based are that the largely local benefits do not justify the high initial cost to the United States of a reasonable development, and the principal local coöperation offered is unsatisfacory in character and insufficient in amount," said the report, filed by Col. L. V. Frazier, divisional engineer with headquarters at Cleveland.

Mr. Norse was informed that an appeal could be made to the board of engineers for rivers and harbors.

Capt. S. N. Karrick, acting United States district engineer in Chicago, made a survey and held public hearings last November and December. Proponents of the improvement ask that the present harbor be expanded from the present 5 acres to 30 acres and that the harbor be dredged to a depth of 8 to 12 feet. The present average depth is between 3 and 4 feet.

The enlarged harbor, it was said, would provide a refuge for pleasure and business craft at a point midway between Chicago and Waukegan.

MANY EPIDEMICS ABROAD TRACED TO SOVIET CITIES

Bordering Nations Act to Halt Disease Spread.

BY DONALD DAY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TALLIN, Estonia, June 20.—The congested, underfed cities of Leningrad and Moscow have become a dangerous breeding place for epidemics which threaten the health of Europe, especially northeastern Europe, according to public health officials of both Estonia and Finland, who are planning to meet this summer to confer on the best means of combating and controling diseases originating in soviet Russia.

Finland and the Baltic states already have experienced epidemics of scarlet fever, diphtheria, and chicken pox which have been traced to Russia, but the most threatening disease and the one which appears more frequently is influenza.

Travelers Carry Disease.

Preliminary investigations reveal influenza and other bolshevik bred diseases are brought across soviet frontiers into Europe by groups of excursionists. Cheap third class tours organized by the Intourist Travel agency of Russia to attract workers, teachers and other persons of small incomes to visit Russia to witness soviet achievements provide many disease carriers. The scanty number of travelers which Moscow permits to go abroad to visit relatives also helps to spread epidemics. Soviet diplomats stationed abroad, who are called to visit Moscow and Leningrad on business, also have been accused of spreading disease.

Baltic health authorities refuse to believe official soviet statistics which allege that public health in Russia has greatly improved during the second five year plan. According to their information actual starvation no longer threatens the population of Leningrad and Moscow, but they declare it will be years before the inhabitants will no longer be considered underfed and inadequately housed.

Frontiers Under Guard.

Estonian, Finnish, and Latvian health officials stationed along the Russian frontier keep a special watch for typhus carriers each winter and spring. All suspects are quarantined for a month.

Following the serious influenza epidemic this year the Estonian and Finnish press has begun a campaign urging special measures be taken to prevent what has now become an annual infection of various diseases from soviet Russia. Among the suggestions made are prohibition of excursions and tours to Russia during the first six months of each year, which is said to be the most dangerous period for epidemics. It is also proposed that all travelers from Russia during the same period be subject to close medical examination at the frontier.

WIRE WALKER FIGHTS FOR LIFE AFTER A FALL

Ashtabula, O., June 20.—(AP)—In the silence of a hospital room, O. K. Stewart, 61, struggled tonight to survive the bugaboo of high wire walkers—the first fall.

"A performer like me only falls once," said the man who claimed to be dean of his profession.

Stewart's career of 47 years as a wire walker probably ended, hospital attendants said, when he plunged 40 feet from his precarious cable onto a band stand in the midst of a night carnival performance. He was critically injured.

Two thousand awestruck spectators saw the cable slacken under his nimble feet, causing him to fall.

Wife Shows Husband Two Can Play at Hiring Sleuths

Set a detective to catch a detective. Mrs. Cathryne Hall, 48 years old, 6149 North Kilpatrick avenue, did this three weeks ago, and yesterday she filed an amended complaint for divorce against her husband, Charles L. Hall, wealthy publisher of race horse periodicals.

Her bill, filed with Judge Rudolph F. Desort of the Superior court by Attorney Benjamin H. Ehrlich, supersedes her original suit for separate maintenance brought last March.

In this new action Mrs. Hall charges that her husband deserted her, beat her, threatened to kill her, and committed adultery. They were married March 4, 1910, and separated Oct. 30, 1934.

A Parade of Sleuths.

On June 1, three months after she started suit for separate maintenance, Mrs. Hall's bill alleges she discovered that certain men, presumably detectives hired by her husband, were shadowing her. In order to determine if her suspicions were correct, Mrs. Hall said she in turn engaged detectives to follow the other sleuths.

This trail led her agents to a furnished apartment in a hotel at 5550 Kenmore avenue, where her husband received reports from his own men, the bill alleges.

Unable to engage a room next to the suspects, the accepted modus operandi of private detectives, Mrs. Hall said her agents shinnied up to the roof of the hotel, directly above the apartment, where they bored holes so they could watch proceedings below.

On June 8, 10, and 12, Mrs. Hall's bill says, her detectives peeped through the apertures and perceived her husband making love to a young woman. On the last date, Mrs. Hall said, she was present when the detectives raided the room and found the couple together.

In addition to this rendezvous, Mrs. Hall alleged that her husband had his office in the Engineering building at 205 West Wacker drive, fitted up as a "love nest" with a "studio couch, radios, and cans of his favorite beer."

Asks Half of Assets.

Because the nature of her husband's business—supplying tips on race horses—took him out of the state often, Mrs. Hall does not want monthly payments. Instead, Attorney Ehrlich said she would ask that she be given half of all her husband's assets as an "assignment in bulk."

The bill stated that Hall had $300,000 and an income of $200,000 annually. Mrs. Hall also asks title to their home in the Sauganash district.

A year ago last March Mrs. Hall brought a suit for divorce at the same time that she filed a $100,000 alienation of affections suit against Miss Bernice Cwik, her husband's secretary. This divorce bill was dismissed, when the Halls became reconciled, but the alienation action is still on file. According to Attorney Ehrlich, Miss Cwik is still Hall's secretary.

CARRY SIXTEENTH BODY FROM RUINS OF N. Y. BUILDING

2 Officials Suspended in Collapse Probe.

New York, June 20.—(AP)—The death toll in the collapse of a seven story apartment building was set at sixteen late tonight when firemen dug to the bottom of the tangled débris.

Satisfied there was no likelihood of discovering additional bodies, police and fire officials halted searching operations. A dozen victims of the crash were in hospitals, two seriously injured.

City and county officials had launched a many sided investigation into the cave-in of the apartment building in the Bronx, which still was under construction when the roof and seven floors of the building fell through on Friday.

Two Officials Suspended.

Attached to the standing walls were banners which proclaimed the structure, ironically, "The House of Tomorrow."

"We can't lay this to an act of God," said Patrick J. Reville, commissioner of buildings in the Bronx. He said he did not think heavy rains of the last week had been responsible for weakening construction.

"It may have been caused by overcrowding; there is a human element in this," he declared. Reville suspended two inspectors pending a grand jury investigation.

Victims on Roof for Pay.

The victims were workmen, most of them bricklayers, who had gone to the roof to get their pay only a few moments before quitting time.

Andrew C. McCarthy, assistant district attorney of the Bronx, questioned the builder, Louis Steinberg, and his son, Max. They were ordered to appear at the district attorney's office with all of the building plans, specifications and data.

Recover 12 Bodies from Debris in Brazilian Flood

RECIFE, Brazil, June 20.—(AP)—Twelve bodies were recovered today from the débris of houses wrecked in Cabo by a flood of the Pirapama river.

RARE BOOK REVEALS 'DEMOCRATIC SOCIETY' ORGANIZATION IN 1793

Washington, D. C., June 20.—(AP)—Twelve years before the Democratic party came out of a name-switching event, the grandson of Benjamin Franklin set out in Philadelphia to organize the Democratic Society of Pennsylvania, May 30, 1793.

This fact, which is not related in history books, was unearthed today by V. Valta Parma, the custodian of the rare book room at the Library of Congress.

A little yellow, eight page pamphlet, so rare as not to have been previously recorded, was found by Parma. It outlined the principles of the Democratic society, but related none of the details of how the society came about.

One line in ink across the first page, written by a contemporary, said it was "by B. F. Bache and Dr. M. Leib." Both of these men were keenly interested in public affairs in Philadelphia in those days at the end of the eighteenth century when the republic was just being set up. Bache was a grandson of Franklin.

LIQUID AIR BLAST DAMAGES CURIE LABORATORIES

PARIS, June 20.—(AP)—The Joliot-Curie laboratories were slightly damaged today by an explosion during an experiment with liquid air. No one was hurt, but the blast was heard for blocks around and its force threw a tall column of smoke into the air. M. and Mme. Joliot-Curie were conducting the experiment with laboratory assistants. Mme. Joliot-Curie, daughter of the discoverers of radium, recently was made undersecretary of state for scientific research in the government.

MEXICANS FIGHT TO REMOVE HEAD OF L. CALIFORNIA

TIJUANA, Mexico, June 20.—(AP)—Tijuana and the rest of the northern district of Lower California stirred with political unrest today as strong criticism of Gov. Gabriel Gavira was voiced by party leaders and labor officials.

Gustavo Guttierez, president of the National Revolutionary party for the northern district, leaders of the district's labor unions, and the heads of agricultural organizations signed a strangely worded bulletin which was sent to every home and business establishment in Tijuana and Mexicali. The National Revolutionary party is the party of President Cardenas.

The bulletin referred to Gavira as "that despised tyrant" and threatened "firm resistance" to the enforcement of his policies. The circular contained hints of armed revolution. Leaders in Mexicali and the agricultural districts sent an ultimatum to Cardenas, demanding he remove Gavira, and replace him with the Mexican president's brother, Damasco Cardenas, speaker of the senate.

Jewish Children Barred at Berlin Vacation Spot

BERLIN, June 20.—(AP)—Jewish children from the east side of Berlin found themselves unexpectedly barred today from Bad Klingenberg on Lake Rummelsburg, close to the capital. "Jews not wanted," said a sign erected just as the summer vacations of Berlin public schools began.

"21 3/8 MILES PER GALLON"

SAYS C. F. E.* OF DETROIT

. . . and remember, this lowest-priced General Motors eight is the smoothest eight in the world!

Such mileage in an eight is nothing less than phenomenal. Yet great economy is only one reason for Pontiac's popularity. It is smoothness that is winning it fame and friends—smoothness that cannot be excelled at any price. Sit behind Pontiac's Silver-Streak and get a new experience. Watch the miles flow by with less effort, greater comfort, and at lower cost than you have ever known before.

G. A. TORRISON, PHYSICIAN, DIES OF AUTO INJURIES

Was Struck by Taxicab Last October.

Auto Injuries Fatal

DR. GEORGE A. TORRISON.

Dr. George Abraham Torrison, 71 years old, 2338 North Kedzie avenue, an eye, ear, nose, and throat specialist in Chicago for forty-five years, died yesterday in the Presbyterian hospital of complications which developed from injuries incurred Oct. 21 when he was struck by a taxicab at Dearborn and Goethe streets.

Dr. Torrison suffered a fractured pelvic bone. John Stanfield, 4935 Broadway, driver of the cab, was notified to attend the inquest tomorrow. He told police the specialist walked in the path of his cab.

Began Practice in 1891.

Dr. Torrison was born March 23, 1865, in Manitowoc, Wis. He was graduated in 1889 from the college of physicians and surgeons at Columbia university and studied two years in Vienna. In 1891 he came to Chicago and began his practice.

Dr. Torrison was a member of the staf of the Presbyterian, Lutheran Deaconess, and Lutheran Memorial hospitals. He was associate clinical professor of oto-laryngology at Rush Medical college.

Survived by Widow.

He was a member of the Union League club, the Art Institute, and the national, state, and Chicago medical societies. He was also a member of the American College of Surgeons and Physicians. His widow, Emma Torrison, and two daughters survive.

Up to 2 p. m. yesterday 459 persons had been killed in automobile accidents in Cook county since Jan. 1. In the same period 360 were killed and 7,841 injured in Chicago.

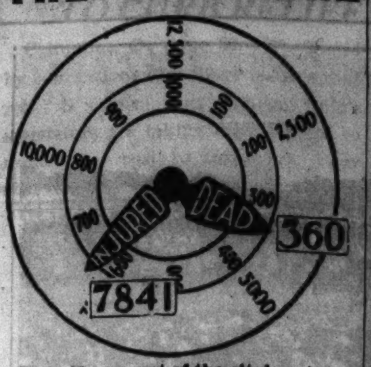
$4,500,000 CROWN OF THE ANDES TO BE SHOWN HERE

The crown of the Andes, a gold diadem studded with emeralds, valued at $4,500,000, will be given a private showing this evening at the Drake hotel under the sponsorship of the Most Reverend William D. O'Brien, auxiliary bishop of Chicago, and D. F. Kelly, Catholic lay leader. The crown was brought to Chicago yesterday by Warren J. Piper, diamond importer, who purchased it from its South American custodians in New York recently. Piper said he represented a syndicate of Chicago men who invested in the crown as a business venture.

The crown was fashioned in Popayan, Colombia [then a part of Peru] in 1590 by the Spanish conquistadores, who took the emeralds and gold from the Incas they conquered. It was intended as a thanks offering to the Virgin Mary because Popayan had escaped a plague that scourged other parts of the country. The crown has been in the possession of the Popayan cathedral ever since. Piper said he first heard of it in 1915 when he learned the czar of Russia was negotiating for the crown and dispensation had been obtained from the vatican for its sale for the benefit of Popayan charities.

Piper said yesterday he hopes to pertuade the syndicate to keep the crown intact rather than break it up and sell the 453 separate emeralds.

THE MASSACRE



Over 98 per cent of the city's automobile fatalities are of a nature physically impossible on an elevated highway.

CONVICTION OF 3 IN MAIL FRAUD TRIAL IS UPHELD

The United States Circuit Court of Appeals yesterday upheld the sentences of three Chicagoans convicted recently in Indianapolis of mail fraud in connection with the operation of two investment houses here. The defendants and their sentences are: Louis Stern, 74 years old, 5 years in prison and a $5,000 fine; Sam Schweitzer, 8 years and a $7,500 fine, and Harry N. Collins, 2 years and $1,000 fine. Stern has pleaded guilty here to a similar charge and is awaiting trial. He was associated with the firm of J. L. Marks who was sentenced previously. Stern, Schweitzer and Collins conducted Louis Stern & Co., and H. N. Collins & Co.

MISHAWAKA MAN, 93, DIES.

Mishawaka, Ind., June 20.—[Special.]—John B. Grimes, 93, one of the oldest residents of this city, died today.

CHEER ON CHEER HAILS PULLING HORSES' COURAGE

10,000 See Ohio Team Win Tribune Contest.

Sparkplug, a brown Belgian-Percheron cross, and Prince, a bay Belgian. This team, owned and driven by John Prough of Millersburg, Ind., carried 3,200 pounds 15 feet.

Flatter and Osterman, who received a prize of $100 for their winning team, said the horses had been hitched together only once before. Moyer's second place team had won a previous contest at Portland, Ind., and Prough's team had won two previous competitions. Moyer received a $75 prize and Prough a $50 prize.

Awards were also made for individual horsemanship, regardless of the final standing of the teams in the pulling contest. Norman Miller of Dana, Ind., driver of a team which finished fourth in the pulling event, won first prize of $15 for horsemanship. Osterman, driving the winning team, won the $10 second prize for horsemanship.

Loudspeakers Inform Crowd.

Dinsmore and Robbins were at a microphone in the judges' stand, keeping the crowd informed over a loudspeaker system, of the names of the entries and analyzing the horses' achievements.

Dinsmore has seen hundreds of horse pulling contests all over the country, but he was enthusiastic over the events yesterday. He said it was the greatest contest he had even seen.

"Isn't that a magnificent pull?" he said excitedly once as a pair of bays went through their paces. Or, again, "That's a beautiful team," or, "Did you ever see such coördination?"

When a team of horses was hitched to the truck containing the dynamometer, the driver climbed to a seat on the truck. The horses flung their manes spiritedly, prancing as their lighter brethren—race horses—would at the post.

The Origin of "Team-work."

Then came the driver's command: "Let's go there, Dick! Come on, Bob! Come, on, come on, come on!"

The great equine muscles rippled, the broad backs heaved, the deep hocks strained and the weight went forward, foot by foot, yard by yard until 27½ feet—the prescribed distance—had been traversed and the whistle blew and the dynamometer settled.

The voice of the driver, carrying pleading, command, personal urge, was all that was needed. No whip nor play of reins was allowed—nor were they necessary.

"Most of these teams have a combined weight of about 3,000 pounds," Dinsmore said, "and that seems to be the ideal demanded by farmers. The horses stand about 16 hands high. The contest showed that the tests and the prizes offered by THE TRIBUNE have aided in the development of horsemanship during the last year.

Really a Pushing Contest.

"When a team is in action, each horse carries exactly the same share of the weight. The bulk of the strain comes on the hocks. The teams actually push rather than pull, because the weight has been transferred to their collars.

"These draft horses need to be indomitable in heart. You can't tell much about them by looking at them. There's something you can't see—it's heart, courage, that last fighting inch of pull."

The crowd gathered early in the morning for the weighing in of the contesting teams. The scales were inspected by Joseph Schmitz, weighmaster of the Chicago Board of Trade.

The interest of the spectators mounted steadily as the elimination contests proceeded, the weights on the dynamometer being moved higher for each trial of the twenty teams. Each driver had his individual way of getting the most out of his horses. Some shouted and urged, others called out the names of their horses, others whistled shrilly.

More than a hundred Boy Scouts from Elmhurst, Lombard, and Glen Ellyn set up camp on the hillside and aided in taking care of the crowd. Hundreds of automobiles were parked under the trees.

RESULTS OF CONTEST

Prizes, totaling $550, were awarded for team performance and individual horsemanship in THE TRIBUNE horse pulling contest. Of these awards $500 were for pulling and $50 for horsemanship. In the following list after the amount of the prize appears the name of the owner-driver, the names of the horses in the team, their combined weight, and the load they pulled and the distance:

FIRST PRIZE, $100—Cary Flatter [owner], and Willard Osterman, Greenville, O.; Dick and Bob; weight, 3,185 pounds; pull, 3,200 pounds, 27 feet [full distance].

SECOND PRIZE, $75—Burlist Moyer, Greensfork, Ind.; Harry and Jim; weight, 3,170 pounds; pull, 3,200 pounds, 20 feet.

THIRD PRIZE, $50—John Prough, Millersburg, Ind.; Sparkplug and Prince; weight, 3,210 pounds; pull, 3,200 pounds, 15 feet.

FOURTH PRIZE, $40—Norman Miller, Dana, Ind.; Jim and Dick; weight, 3,210 pounds; pull, 2,900 pounds, 26 feet.

FIFTH PRIZE, $35—Ted Sanfelipe [driving for Balistrieri brothers of Milwaukee]; Peggy and Bud; weight, 3,230 pounds; pull, 2,900 pounds, 21½ feet.

SIXTH PRIZE, $30—Floyd Lieurance, Viola, Wis.; Bob and Cal; weight, 2,950 pounds; pull, 2,900 pounds, 13 feet.

SEVENTH PRIZE, $20—Frank Kreckler [driving for Balistrieri brothers]; Shorty and Bob; weight, 3,205 pounds; pull, 2,750 pounds, full distance.

EIGHTH PRIZE, $20—August Hoffman, Montague, Mich.; Pat and Mike; weight, 3,275 pounds; pull, 2,750 pounds, 25½ feet.

NINTH PRIZE, $20—John A. Day, Springport, Ind., King and Queen; weight, 3,115 pounds; pull, 2,750 pounds, 25 feet.

TENTH PRIZE, $20—Eugene Showalter, Middlebury, Ind.; Molly and Bill; weight, 3,185 pounds; pull, 2,750 pounds, 14 feet.

ELEVENTH PRIZE, $20—Roy Griebel, Marengo, Ill.: Jerry and Jim; weight, 3,270 pounds; pull, 2,600 pounds, full distance.

TWELFTH PRIZE, $20—Neal Ciurro [driving for Balistrieri brothers]; Scotty and Prince; weight, 3,160 pounds; pull, 2,600 pounds, 23½ feet.

THIRTEENTH PRIZE, $20—Henry Leibundguth, Hinsdale, Ill.; Shorty and Tom; weight, 3,160 pounds; pull, 2,600 pounds, 15 feet.

FOURTEENTH PRIZE, $20—Leonard Ackman, Marengo, Ill.: Queen and Bessie; weight, 3,185 pounds; pull, 2,600 pounds, 10 feet.

FIFTEENTH PRIZE, $20—Ed Anderson, Marengo, Ill.; Dick and Nig; weight, 2,730 pounds; pull, 2,400 pounds, 17 feet.

The awards for horsemanship follow:

FIRST PRIZE, $15—Norman Miller, Dana, Ind.

SECOND PRIZE, $10—Willard Osterman, Greenville, O.

THIRD PRIZE, $8—Frank Kreckler, Milwaukee, Wis.

FOURTH PRIZE, $7—Leonard Ackman, Marengo, Ill.

FIFTH PRIZE, $6—John A. Day, Springport, Ind.

SIXTH PRIZE, $4—Eugene Showalter, Middlebury, Ind.

Last year the contest was divided into two classes, one for teams with combined weight over 3,000 pounds and the second for teams under that weight. Balistrieri brothers won second prize in the lighter competition and seventh prize in the heavy competition. Prough, whose team won third prize this year, was fourth last year in the competition under 3,000 pounds.

CROWD OF 10,000 WATCHES TRIBUNE HORSE PULLING CONTEST

Twenty teams from five states competed yesterday in the second annual horse pulling contest before a crowd of 10,000 persons at the Chicago Tribune's experimental farm near Wheaton. An Ohio team won the contest, with an Indiana team second. The strength of each team was measured by means of a dynamometer, a weighted instrument mounted in a truck. City folks as well as farmers were attracted by the contest.

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Bob, a gray Percheron, and Dick, a sorrel Belgian, entrant No. 1 and the winning team in the horse pulling contest held yesterday on the Chicago Tribune's experimental farm near Wheaton. They were driven by Cary Flatter of Greenville, O. The team registered a pull of 3,200 pounds, 15 pounds more than its combined weight of 3,185 pounds. The pull was equivalent to moving a wagon load of nearly 21 tons along a granite pavement.

NOTES ON PULLING CONTEST

At the pulling contest grounds, 125 Boy Scouts from 45 troops directed motorists, carried messages and assisted in the first aid tent.

The most popular individual horse throughout the competition was Queen, 11 years old, a bay Percheron mare owned by John T. A. Day of Springport, Ind. Spectators were told over the public address system how Queen helped save the life of her master last week when he was attacked by a mad bull.

License plates on automobiles at the grounds were from Michigan, Wisconsin, Indiana, Illinois, District of Columbia, Minnesota, Iowa, Florida, Louisiana, and Georgia.

Sergts. John T. Warren, John Griffith, James Curtin, Jerry Looney, and Herman Steinberg of the Chicago detective bureau pickpocket detail moved through the crowd on the lookout for suspects. They made no arrests.

Thirty-six Wheaton Legionnaires, headed by Leo M. Ford and aided by 28 of the women's auxiliary and 25 boys and girls, had charge of the lunch counter, where 1,000 pounds of meat and corresponding amounts of other supplies were cleaned out.

The Horse and Mule Association of America offered a watch fob medal to the spectator who came closest beforehand to the judges' final ratings on the teams. So many spectators competed that the judges were still looking over the guesses last night.

Charles Hadley, Republican candidate for attorney general, in a little speech, complimented THE TRIBUNE on the success of the pulling contests.

The first visitor to the first aid tent was an elderly gentleman who asked Dr. R. H. Wheeler and the nurse to help repair his broken cane.

1898 VETERANS CHOOSE NUNAN AS COMMANDER

Lincoln, Ill., June 20.—(AP)—Charles W. Nunan of Champaign was elected Illinois commander of the United States Spanish war veterans today at the conclusion of the organization's 33d annual encampment here.

A resolution was adopted that the Illinois primary law be amended to provide for only one ballot.

Danville was chosen for the site of the 1937 encampment.

The auxiliary of the veterans' organization, also assembled here, elected Mrs. Ella H. Arting, Chicago, president.

PACT TO UNIONIZE HALTS STRIFE ON INDIANA ROAD JOB

Brazil, Ind., June 20.—[Special.]—Labor troubles on state road 59, between Brazil and Ashboro, was ended today with approval by U. R. Price, contractor, of demands by Terre Haute organizers that all men employed on the job be unionized.

Some of the men will join the International Order of Hod Carriers for common labor. Others will join the Steam Shovel Engineer's union.

Clashes between union pickets and workers have interfered with construction work for two months.

MIDWEST CROPS BATTLE DROUTH AND BUG SWARM

Farmers Here for Pulling Contest Tell Outlook.

BY FRANK RIDGWAY.

Crop prospects vary from poor to good according to reports brought by contestants from various parts of the central west to THE TRIBUNE'S second annual Horse and Mule Pulling contest yesterday at the Wheaton experimental farm.

Farmers from Ohio, Indiana and Illinois, said drouth and pests were causing trouble in their sections while Wisconsin farmers apparently have little to worry about.

Eugene Showalter of Middlebury, Ind., said that corn and other crops are suffering in his part of the state from lack of moisture. Grasshoppers are taking the corn on many farms. The pests are stripping the alfalfa fields of their young tender shoots. Grasshoppers are so thick they completely cover fence posts around many corn fields in his neighborhood in northern Indiana about 10 or 12 miles south of the Michigan line.

Oats Growth Is Stunted.

Mr. Showalter said corn is about 6 inches high, but needs rain. The growth of oats is short and much of the crop cannot be cut with a binder unless rain comes before harvest. Wheat in that region was injured during the winter, especially where not protected by snow. There is a fair crop where fields were protected.

Down in central Indiana, Spencer Rice of Dana reported that corn is only fair and in need of rain.

"We have not had a rain for several weeks in my neighborhood," he said. "Our corn is knee high. Fortunately we have no chinch bugs and few grasshoppers. Oats in my community are poor. We will have about a half crop of oats and two-thirds of a crop of wheat.

"The wheat in my section is beginning to turn yellow. We should be cutting wheat in about ten days. Our first cutting of alfalfa was short. The soy beans are fair; some did not come up because the ground was too dry to sprout them."

North Indiana Needs Rain.

John Prough of Millersburg in northern Indiana asserted that corn in his section needs rain, but is not yet hurt. The oats crop is suffering. Heads are beginning to shrivel up from lack of rain. Wheat is fair and just beginning to turn. Harvesting of wheat will be started in two weeks. The first cutting of alfalfa was satisfactory, yielding an average of about 1½ tons per acre. There is a good crop of clover in the making. Farmers in Mr. Prough's neighborhood expect to get about one ton of clover to the acre.

Representatives from the Jerferis and Flatter farm near Greenville in Darke county, Ohio, observed that corn is knee high, in fair condition, but needs rain. Seventeen year locusts are thick in their section, but there are no chinch bugs or grasshoppers. Fruit pests, however, are so thick that they have eaten practically all the leaves off the trees in fruit orchards and off currants and gooseberry plants.

Greenville men said the oats crop is only fair, short and is beginning to head. Without rain farmers expect to have only about half a crop of oats. An average wheat crop is expected.

The tomato crop canned in about fifty factories in the Greenville territory is saving the day for many west central Ohio farmers. Growers expect to pack a bumper crop of tomatoes if they have a reasonable amount of rain between now and picking time.

Floyd Lieurance of Viola, Wis., related that Wisconsin farmers in his section have had plenty of rain. They have good crops of corn, oats, barley, and soy beans. Oats and barley are heading. "Our pastures," added Mr. Lieurance, "are wonderful."

Bad Seed Corn a Factor.

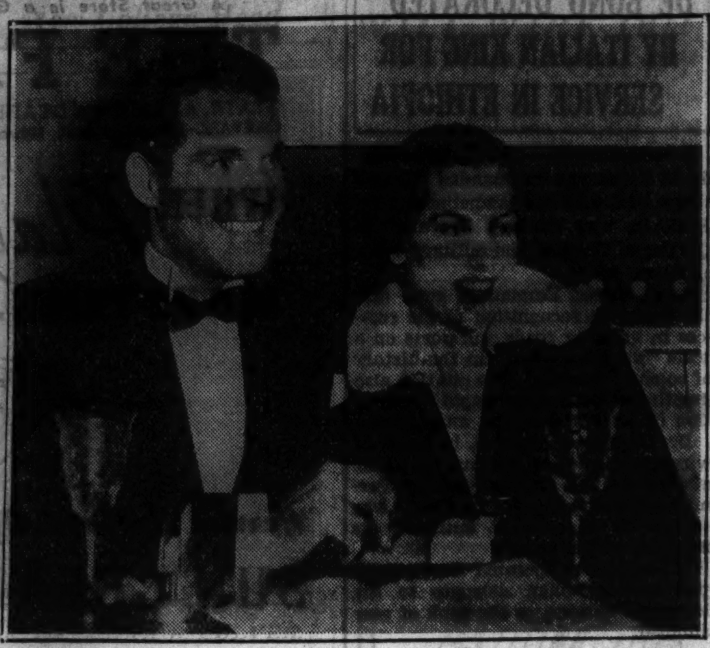
H. C. Catey, who came along with Burlist Moyer's team from Green Ford, Ind., said:

"We have a good prospect for corn if we can have a rain soon. We have a good stand considering the bad seed corn situation. Our wheat is fair, but our oats are short. Most of the oats are headed out, but from lack of rain the straw is so short much of the grain cannot be cut with a binder. Our alfalfa soon will be burnt out."

Farmers from Michigan termed corn in the Muskegon region fairly good, but declared the soil was too dry to let it develop satisfactorily without rain. It has been too cool in Michigan for most crops to thrive this season. Peas for canning, however, were favored by the low temperatures. The lima beans have just been planted and the ground is too dry to sprout them. Oats are short and wheat is fairly good in the Muskegon territory, according to reports.

R. J. Baird, manager of Cedarell farm near Plano, Ill., said corn growers in this section need rain badly. Oats have been set back from lack of moisture. Wheat will be ready to cut in about ten days.

Wedding Ends Trial Engagement



Fred MacMurray, motion picture actor, and Lillian La Monte, New York model formerly of Asheville, N. C., were married yesterday in Las Vegas, N. M., after a "trial engagement" announced in 1934.
[Acme Photo.]

Ceremony in Office

Las Vegas, Nev., June 20.—[Special.]—Fred MacMurray, film star, and Miss Lillian La Monte, New York model, who announced an experimental bethrothal in 1934, were married here today. The ceremony was a private one, held in the county clerk's office.

Witnesses were Mrs. Melota MacMurray, mother of the actor, who accompanied the couple in their flight here from Los Angeles last night, and John F. Cahlan, Las Vegas newspaper man. After the ceremony the couple and Mrs. MacMurray left in a commercial airliner for Hollywood.

The departure of the young couple from Los Angeles last night was kept secret from friends and studio officials, who had been trying all day to locate the actor.

MacMurray, a Beaver Dam, Wis., boy who made good as a saxophone player in Chicago, met Miss La Monte, a native of Asheville, N. C., several years ago when they appeared together in a New York show. In announcing their trial engagement they said they wanted to be sure their careers would coincide.

OHIO'S SENATE DEBATING BILL TO CURB RELIEF

Columbus, O., June 20.—(AP)—Faced by contentions of welfare leaders that relief is a permanent problem, Ohio's legislators are taking drastic steps to reduce the cost to taxpayers. They also would eradicate chiselers from a relief population of about 488,000 persons.

The senate will take up Monday night a bill, already approved by the house, to impose severe restrictions on the counties' expenditures of relief funds and to fine or imprison persons who obtain aid without being entitled to it.

Branded a "starvation" measure by welfare leaders, the bill would limit the average monthly allowances per family to $9 in rural counties, $10 in semi-urban counties, and $12 in urban counties.

County officials have protested that no family could live on $12 a month. Proponents say only the average allowance would be limited, but that would not set a maximum.

The bill would appropriate $6,500,000 for relief grants to counties during the last six months of this year. Efforts to increase the amount by $2,000,000 were defeated in the house.

Another objective of the bill is to force upon the counties part of the financial burden. Those counties whose relief expenditures have exceeded $12 per family would have to reach into their own pockets to continue relief at the present average. The average in Cuyahoga county last month was $22.31 per family.

The reins on relief expenditures would be held by the state commission. The counties would have to submit budgets, showing how they intended to spend their relief grants, before receiving an allowance from the commission.

Legislators have admitted frankly that the $6,500,000 will not be anywhere adequate to meet what the counties have represented as their needs.

FOUND DROWNED IN TUB.

Mrs. Louise Keller, 65 years old, 929 Sunnyside avenue, was found drowned yesterday morning in the water filled bath tub in her home. A stepdaughter, Miss Louise Koth, told police Mrs. Keller was ill and had attempted suicide five years ago.

U. S. MUST GO ON WITH ITS HOUSING PLAN, SAYS ICKES

New York, June 20.—[Special.]—The federal government must go ahead with its housing program to help the lowest income group, because private initiative, unable to get profits from decent housing for one-third of the country's population, has done nothing to improve conditions, Public Works Administrator Harold L. Ickes declared here today.

Speaking at ceremonies marking completion of the foundation work for "Harlem river houses," the second largest PWA housing project in the city, Ickes expressed the hope the PWA housing program will "develop into a tidal wave of sentiment for housing" and praised the Wagner-Ellenbogen housing bill in congress as opening the door of opportunity to those who live in "fire traps and unhealthy rookeries."

Among other speakers were Mayor F. H. LaGuardia and Langdon W. Post, chairman of the New York City housing authority and tenement house commissioner.

While the resplendent band of Imperial lodge No. 27 of the Elks played, Bill Robinson, famed colored dancer, tapped a few steps on the foundation and handed the bricks to the officials.

CUTS IN PENSIONS BLAMED ON NEW WELFARE BUDGET

Joseph L. Moss, director of the Cook county bureau of public welfare, said yesterday a new budget adopted for the state welfare department at Springfield is responsible for reduction in old age pensions. Payments recommended by the county bureau at $10 to $15 a month have been cut $1 to $4 at Springfield.

After a talk with officials of the state bureau, Moss said he learned of the new budget. "This was the first intimation I had that there was a second budget," he said. "They had never notified us of a change in plans. State officials think it is good management for them to show a surplus of cash, eve nif the old people are not being adequately cared for." James H. Andrews, superintendent of the state pension division, announced in Springfield yesterday that Cook county applicants would receive their first aid within two weeks. He said a pay roll bearing 602 county names would be sent to the state auditor early this week. Of 52,000 applicants in Cook county 3,000 have been recommended for pensions so far and more than 600 have received approval notices.

635,000 OF AGED RECEIVE PENSIONS IN 32 OF STATES

Washington, D. C., June 20.—(AP)—The social security board said today 635,000 persons in 32 states and the District of Columbia, about 65 per cent of the aged needy of the United States, were receiving old age assistance from grants provided by the federal government to bolster state funds. Plans awaiting approval include New York, Texas, Florida, and Hawaii. Texas will not receive any funds until July 1.

The federal quarterly allotment now amounts to $16,788,854, and the total amount spent in the states approved—federal funds plus state funds—during the three month period is $32,122,678.

The federal government pays the state a sum equal to half of any amount up to $30 a month which the state pays to a needy person 65, not cared for by a public institution. The 32 states, the number pensioned, and their pensions, are:

Alabama, 5,000, $8; Arkansas, 15,000, $10; California, 68,575, $25; Colorado, 25,000, $25; Connecticut, 8,000, $19.83; Delaware, 3,593, $10; District of Columbia, 1,500, $30; Idaho, 7,000, $25; Indiana, 36,000, $16; Iowa, 30,000, $14.50; Maine, 1,500, $25; Maryland, 7,800, $18; Massachusetts, 27,974, $25; Michigan, 27,500, $16.50; Minnesota, 22,000, $25; Mississippi, 15,000, $3.50; Missouri, 27,000, $9.50; Montana, 6,909, $22.25; Nebraska, 20,000, $18.33; New Hampshire, 2,900, $20; New Jersey, 16,700, $15.80; New Mexico, 5,295, $10; North Dakota, 5,830, $20; Ohio, 90,000, $15.10; Oklahoma, 34,399, $8; Oregon, 10,000, $25; Rhode Island, 1,991, $18; Utah, 5,550, $30; Vermont, 4,300, $11; Washington, 15,000, $20.58; Wisconsin, 30,000, $20; Wyoming, 2,017, $24.28.

Texas will have 56,250 to receive $20 a month.

Pay Envelopes for 10 Years Found Unopened at Death

New York, June 20.—(AP)—For 46 years Herman Schadow worked as messenger and orderly at the Lenox Hill hospital. Last week Schadow died at 73. Today Public Administrator James Egan disclosed that Schadow's pay envelopes for ten years, containing cash, were found intact in his room. Liberty bonds and a bank account swelled his estate to $7,000.

INSISTS BRITISH DROP SANCTIONS TO STOP NEW WAR

Baldwin Defies Critics; Pleads for Arms.

LONDON, June 20.—(AP)—British leaders battled tonight over the question of sanctions as Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin took the stump in Scotland to defend his government's action in advocating their removal from Italy.

Baldwin declared military strength was needed for collective security, and said: "Let advocates of collective security who are unwilling to provide a single volunteer for our forces or a single shell for aircraft think of that.

"If war should come by collective security every nation will be in it up to the neck.

Sounds Solemn Warning.

"I believe the horrors of another modern war in Europe might lead to a revolt of the peoples against all leaders. You might find Europe in a state of completely barbarous anarchy from end to end.

"Let us not underrate the risks of sanctions and collective security."

Pleading for support of the government's rearmament program, Baldwin said: "If risks have to be taken, if we ever have to fight again, see that our own people at all events have the best there is to fight with in quality and quantity."

The government's about face on the question of sanctions drew sharp attacks from various quarters, including the Labor party, the Liberal party, and the League of Nations union.

Explains Embargo Failure.

Before a Conservative rally at Wishaw, Scotland, Baldwin explained that an oil embargo against Italy during the Italo-Ethiopian war was impracticable because of the United States' attitude.

He suggested it would be well to get the United States and other nonmembers to join the league of nations in order to prevent aggressions.

"Collective security," Baldwin asserted, "is incredibly difficult with some nations out of the league. But we shall try to get them back into it.

"If we had Japan, the United States, and Germany in the league collective security could be worked out tomorrow."

The prime minister said collective security would never work unless the participating nations were prepared to threaten simultaneously with military sanctions.

Calls Situation Ironical.

"You come up against that awful fact," declared Baldwin, "that to try for peace by collective security the first step means more war preparations. It is a horrible irony of a situation, yet you cannot get away from it."

Lord Cecil, president of the League of Nations union, directed his efforts toward stirring up a world-wide mobilization of public opinion in support of the league.

A union meeting which he addressed at Scarborough passed a resolution urging the government not to recognize Italy's annexation of Ethiopia and not to grant loans to Italy.

David Lloyd George, former prime minister, announced he was overwhelmed with letters and telegrams of congratulation from every part of the country praising his stand against the lifting of sanctions.

"What surprised me most," he said, "is the universality of resentment at the treachery of the government in its betrayal of the league."

ROOSEVELT LIFTS BANS APPLIED IN ETHIOPIAN STRIFE

End of Hostilities Are Officially Noted.

Washington, D. C., June 20.—(AP)—President Roosevelt today lifted the arms and financial embargoes and other war restrictions invoked by the United States against Italy and Ethiopia under the neutrality act.

Officially recognizing the end of hostilities between the invading Italian conquerors and Emperor Haile Selassie's tribesmen, the chief executive proclaimed the termination of all American restrictive measures applied when he recognized a state of war existed.

Travelers Are Affected.

These were:

1. An outright embargo on shipments from the United States of arms, ammunition, and implements of war to either of the belligerent nations.
2. An outright ban on any American financial assistance to either country.

Other Bans Lifted.

3. Standing warning to American travelers that use of any ships of either country would be at their own risk.
4. Standing warning to American businessmen that those engaging in any transactions with the belligerents did so at their own risk.
5. Moral pressure to prevent American exports to either country of so-called "war materials," such as steel, iron, copper, and oil, in quantities exceeding peacetime levels.

LAKE FREIGHTER IS ON FIRE; COAST GUARD TO RESCUE

Erie, Pa., June 21 [Sunday].—(AP)—Coast Guardsmen in a motor lifeboat and a cutter early today were aiding a Lake Erie freighter reported afire 20 miles from Erie last night. Identity of the freighter or the number of its crew was not known.

Residents of Northeast, Pa., reported the burning ship visible from shore last night. They said black smoke was pouring from the freighter, but reported the cutter and lifeboat had reached it and were standing by.

The freighter then was reported proceeding toward Erie under its own power, the Coast Guard boats close by to give assistance if it was needed.

FRANCE RESISTS BRITISH PLAN TO CHANGE LEAGUE

Fears Security Pacts Will Isolate Nation.

PARIS, June 20.—(AP)—France hastened tonight to counter Great Britain's plan to change the league of nations, fearing it might reduce her to a "state of dependency" in Europe.

A series of "suggestions" were rushed to foreign governments as a prelude to a scheme to strengthen the league—a scheme which the cabinet hoped would protect the French position.

Premier Leon Blum's proposal, it was stated, would retain the present league machinery which links her to her little entente [Rumania, Jugo-Slavia, and Czechoslovakia] and Russian allies. The government feared the British plan, reported as envisaging regional security pacts for western, central, and eastern Europe, would force her into isolation.

Seeks Military Air.

The French plan would require signatories to the proposed regional alliances to take immediate military action in the event of aggression within their own district. Nations outside the affected region would be obliged to apply economic sanctions against the nation named as the aggressor.

Sources close to Premier Blum reported the premier had renewed his pressure on Georges Bonnet, minister in many cabinets, to accept the post of ambassador to the United States. The present Washington ambassador is Andre Lefebvre de Laboulaye.

It also was reported the replacement of three other ambassadors was under consideration. They are Count Charles de Chambrun, at Rome; Charles Alphand at Moscow, and Jean Herbette, at Madrid.

Honduras Quits League.

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras, June 20.—[U. P.]—Honduras withdrew from the league of nations today, following the recent lead of Guatemala. An executive decree announced the resignation. Honduras' withdrawal was the seventh since the league was founded Jan. 10, 1920. The others were Brazil, Costa Rica, Japan, Germany, Paraguay, and Guatemala. The latter country resigned only last month.

ITALIANS HEAR BRITISH MEDITERRANEAN NAVY WILL BE BOLSTERED

ROME, June 20.—(AP)—The newspaper La Tribuna, in a London dispatch today, said Great Britain would increase her Mediterranean fleet permanently by 130,000 tons of heavy ships and construct a naval base at Cyprus.

The newspaper said the admiralty intended to institute an air and naval base at Cyprus so as to create in the Suez canal zone a strategic triangle between Cyprus, Haifa, and Alexandria.

It is also reported the British would keep the battle cruisers Hood, Renown, and Repulse permanently in the Mediterranean, with an escort of lighter ships to include four new 9,000 ton cruisers of the Southampton class and many submarines. This fleet will give Britain superiority over Italy, La Tribuna said, even after Il Duce launches two new 35,000 ton warships.

ITALY DECLINES SEAT IN PARLEY ON DARDANELLES

But Keeps Eye on Turks' Demand for Forts.

ROME, June 20.—(AP)—Italy will be an absent but interested partner when signatories of the Lausanne treaty meet Monday at Montreaux, Switzerland, to discuss Turkeys' demand for permission to rearm the Dardanelles.

Il Duce will continue his policy of suspended collaboration in European affairs by sending no representatives to the conference, but he will follow it closely from a distance in the belief the conferees may discuss a Mediterranean pact.

If the conference continues after the league of nations assembly lifts sanctions from Italy, as it is expected to do shortly, the Italians may attend.

Opposition to Plan Seen.

"It is absurd to expect Italy to coöperate in collective action parleys in Europe while a large group of surrounding countries continue manifesting hositility toward her," a press ministry official said of Monday's conference.

Behind this mask of hurt indifference, however, diplomats see guarded opposition to the Turkish aim. There are historic reasons for this feeling.

Mutual Italo-Turkish distrust is one of Europe's "naturals" in the light of Italian African expansion.

Island Air Base Nearby.

Twenty-five years ago Italy defeated Turkey in a war in which she obtained Libya and the Dodecanese islands. The latter gave Italy a strategic position commanding the southern end of the Ægean sea, a few miles from Turkey's Asia Minor coast.

Italian airplanes at their base on the Island of Leros are within easy striking distance of Constantinople and Ankara.

Furthermore, President Ataturk of Turkey beat off an Italian post war attempt to gain a zone of influence in Turkish Anatolia. Italy's Versailles conference "defeats" are among the bitter experiences which bolster Mussolini's justification of his Ethiopian war.

DE BONO DECORATED BY ITALIAN KING FOR SERVICE IN ETHIOPIA

ROME, June 20.—(AP)—Marshal Emilio de Bono, who commanded the first stages of the Italian campaign against Ethiopia, was made a chevalier of the Grand Cross of the military order of Savoy today.

King Victor Emmanuel gave him the honor in recognition of his services in building roads and ports on a scale "unprecedented" in the history of colonial warfare. The citation also mentioned De Bono's "rapid" occupation of Adowa, Adegrat, and Makale.

Dr. Guglielmo Marconi, inventor of wireless telegraphy, was named a rear admiral of the Italian navy by Premier Mussolini today. The decree was issued by Mussolini's authority as minister of the navy.

Il Duce also appointed Baron Pompeo Aloisi, Italian delegate to the league of nations, to the rank of rear admiral.

MORE THAN 800,000 NEW 1936 CHEVROLETS have been sold

America is giving overwhelming preference to Chevrolet because it's The only complete low-priced car

MORE than 800,000 new 1936 Chevrolets have been built and sold—more than four-fifths of a million since announcement day—the largest volume of business that Chevrolet has enjoyed in any comparable period in its entire history.

Record-breaking sales always indicate record-breaking value, and that is why we are printing these figures. They are important, not because they establish a record, but because they carry the following message to all people who have yet to buy their 1936 cars.

America is choosing Chevrolet because America is convinced that Chevrolet represents the most motor car for the least money.

"The most motor car," because it's the only low-priced car with such vitally important features as New Perfected Hydraulic Brakes and Solid Steel one-piece Turret Top for greatest safety; Improved Gliding Knee-Action Ride*, Shockproof Steering* and Genuine Fisher No Draft Ventilation for greatest comfort; and a powerful High-Compression Valve-in-Head Engine for the most efficient all-round performance.

And "the least money," because Chevrolet's low purchase price, low operating costs and low maintenance costs make it the most economical of all cars to own.

America is saying these splendid things about Chevrolet with actual buying orders! Follow America's judgment. Place your order for a new 1936 Chevrolet—the only complete low-priced car!

PARISIANS ANGRY AS PRICE OF WINE BOUNDS UPWARD

New Deal Labor Measures Raise Cost of Living.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, June 20.—With the thermometer 90 in the shade, sizzling heat for Paris—Parisians were astounded today when they found themselves faced with a 20 per cent increase in the price of "Vin Ordinaire," the cheap red and white wines with which every Frenchman washes down his meals.

Paris wine merchants explained the increase by the burden of new labor legislation, indicating that prices would soon rise even higher. Groups of incensed consumers assembled at wine shops, gesticulating wildly and causing near riots.

Sugar and Meat Up.

The increase in the price of wine was only one of many alarming symptoms of imminent general rise in the cost of living which already is higher in France than most other European countries. In groceries—the price of sugar has gone up 10 to 15 centimes a pound. Meat—always expensive in Paris—has attained fantastic prices. Mutton chops sell for $1.50 a pound, steak $1 a pound, and smoked ham $1.50.

Laundries have raised their prices sharply. Gasoline has gone up 10 per cent. It now costs 75c for a can containing five liters [a liter is equivalent to 1.0567 liquid quarts]. Many small shopkeepers are exploiting the situation to raise prices on all kinds of commodities on various pretexts.

The government has promised to take drastic measures to prevent profiteering, but so far its action is purely Platonic and the workers are beginning to realize that bigger wages will not buy more food.

The ministers of justice, national economy and commerce were scheduled to meet today at Premier Leon Blum's residence to discuss means to combat the high cost of living, but the meeting was called off at the last moment. Even radical economic experts predict a general 40 to 50 per cent increase in prices within the next few months following a complete application of new labor laws.

Café Proprietors Meet.

In many quarters of town today café and restaurant proprietors met to discuss the advisability of a general rise in prices.

In the opinion of many observers this ineluctable rise in the cost of living is the greatest danger which Blum's New Deal has to face and the one most likely to neutralize complicated legislation designed to raise the buying power of the masses.

In the hopes of slowing down the movement, the public prosecutor opened an investigation on a huge scale for indictment of individual wholesalers and retailers as profiteers.

Strike Closes Riviera Resorts.

PARIS, June 20.—(AP)—A general strike of hotel and restaurant workers closed the doors of fashionable Riviera resorts in Cannes today and forced a prince to hunt for his lunch.

Prince Andrew of Greece, uncle of King George, living at one of the hotels, had a difficult time finding luncheon. He finally obtained a snack in a small café on a back street.

The Riviera strike coincided with the first move by Paris rightists to eject idle workers occupying their place of employment. The rightists, numbering twenty under the leadership of Deputy Raoul Sabatier, smashed into a restaurant, threw seven strikers into the street and occupied the place themselves. Sabatier said it was the start of a "counter revolution."

PETARD BLASTS IN BUILDING STRIKE ALARM MADRID

MADRID, June 20.—(AP)—A number of small petards exploded today in and near construction projects affected by the strike of building workers in Madrid.

The explosions created minor panics, although there was small damage and no one was hurt. Several persons were arrested.

Strikes continued in Barcelona, Cadiz, and a number of towns in Seville and Huelva provinces. Political clashes claimed two more lives.

New College Head

DR. RAYMOND B. CULVER.

[Moffett Photo.]

Dr. Raymond B. Culver, professor of Bible and religious education at Linfield college, Oregon, has been named president of the Frances Shimer Junior college, Mount Carroll, it was announced yesterday. Dr. Culver will assume his new duties Aug. 25.

GEO. N. TAYLOR JR. IS EVANSTON'S NEW POSTMASTER

The United States senate last night confirmed the appointment of George N. Taylor Jr. as the new postmaster of Evanston.

Mr. Taylor is 39 years old and resides at 2651 Eastwood avenue, Evanston. He is a member of the auto service firm Swan-Taylor in the suburb and has been a Democratic precinct captain for some years.

The father of the new appointee, George N. Taylor Sr., was postmaster in Evanston from 1914 to 1921. The elder Taylor was displaced by William J. Hamilton, who has since held the office. Mr. Taylor Sr. is 80 years old and resides at 1200 Elmwood avenue, Evanston.

Evanston political observers said that Mr. Hamilton was allowed to hold his office until the present, although a Republican appointee, largely because there were more than a dozen Democratic applicants and the party chiefs were unable to agree on whom to choose.

GUARDS SHOOT TWO MEN TRYING TO STEAL BEER

Two men were wounded early today by the fire of special railroad agents who interrupted them and two companions as they were attempting to steal barrels of beer from cars on a siding of the Chicago and North Western railroad at 1500 Holt street. They are Edward Lewandowski, 36 years old, who gave a fictitious address, and Paul Makowski, 29 years old, 1431 Luce street.

The shots were fired by Thomas Mulvaney and Lee Padisch, who had been assigned to watch the cars containing beer. The four thieves attempted to flee when they approached, but Lewandowski and Makowski surrendered after they had been struck. A bullet struck Makowski in the back and his condition is serious, according to physicians at the Bridewell hospital. Lewandowski's left arm was injured.

ITALIAN TROOPS RE-ENACT TAKING OF ROME TODAY

ROME, June 20.—(AP)—Italy's picturesque Bersaglieri troops will review a hundred years of history and the taking of Rome tomorrow when they march from the Porta Pia to the Quirinal gardens. They will honor the memory of King Carlo Alberto of Sardinia, symbol of Italian unity.

Premier Mussolini, himself one of the Bersaglieri in the world war, planned to lead them in their ceremony at the palace in placing a wreath on the king's tomb.

By marching from the Porta Pia the Bersaglieri recall the stirring year of 1870 when their predecessors broke through the city's wall to wrest Rome from the popes, who went into sixty years of voluntary "imprisonment" in the Vatican as a result. The Bersaglieri were formed in Turin as an infantry company by Gen. Alessandro La Mammora in 1836.

SAILOR FALLS IN, DROWNS.

Ellsworth G. Burns, 39 years old, 2034 North Clark street, a deckhand on the yacht Allama moored in Belmont harbor, was drowned early yesterday in the harbor when he slipped from the gangplank as he was leading a party of friends aboard the boat.

PREDICTS FRANCE WILL WIPE OUT PRISON COLONY

PARIS, June 20.—(AP)—The Blum government will take the first steps leading to abolition of France's South American penal colony, Gaston Monnerville, deputy from Guiana, predicted today.

"The ministers of colonies and justice in the new Socialist government are sympathetic to the appeal from Guiana colonists," he said. "With their support bills covering necessary changes in the penal system and leading to the abolition of the colony will pass."

For years colonists of the Guiana mainland have pleaded with successive governments to end what they called a "living insult to the continent of South America."

The abolition of the prisons, including those on the notorious Devil's Island, would require complete reorganization of France's penal system, for under the law all French criminals sentenced to long terms go to Guiana.

STABBED BY ROBBERS.

Bruce Taylor, 38 years old, 6317 Greenwood avenue, was stabbed in the chest and left hand early today by two colored robbers who held him up at 63d street and Indiana avenue. The men fled after taking $13 from Taylor.

ITALY EASES ON ETHIOPIAN TITLE FOR HER ENVOYS

ROME, June 20.—(AP)—Italy found a new formula today to lessen the difficulties of her ambassadors to countries objecting to the Fascist annexation of Ethiopia.

Presenting their credentials, the new ambassadors are to speak in the name of "His Majesty Victor Emmanuel, king of Italy and emperor of Ethiopia."

Countries to which the ambassadors are accredited are to reply only "His Majesty Victor Emmanuel, king of Italy."

Agreements to such procedure have already been received from Moscow and Warsaw and approval is awaited from Washington. The new accredited envoy to the United States is expected to be Fulvio Suvich, former undersecretary for foreign affairs.

Only 136 days remain in which to save your country.
What are you doing to save it?

LANDON AS REPUBLICAN COMMANDER IN CHIEF.

Almost from the first onset of the Roosevelt revolution the opposition was at a disadvantage. The Republican party was pretty well scattered by the election four years ago and its position was not bettered in the congressional elections two years later. Its veterans were out of favor and many of them were retired. Some of the party's able men remained, but they were virtually useless in the congressional panic which converted the national legislature into an office of registry. All it did was to record that certain bills had been received, would be stamped, and would be issued as laws.

If there had not been such a stampede out of the halls of congress the opposition might have had a rallying point there. But against an ossified majority the voice of protest could hardly be heard. Not only was it raised in vain but little opportunity was given it. As time went on and New Deal measures became more threatening and oppressive some defenders of the American system, not all of them Republican, were able to make themselves felt. But still congress was not giving the opposition a chance to focus.

Uncoercible Republican and independent newspapers formed the first centers of resistance. If the press gag code had been obtained by default of opposition or by successful intimidation the fight for freedom would have been lost, indeed. A handful of embattled editors, like the farmers at Lexington, fired the first shot.

At times it seemed as if the fight was almost one of partisan warfare. Little bands similar to those once led by Marion and Sumter against Cornwallis in the south hovered around the edges of the great federal burocracy, converted into a communistic soviet, and did what damage they could. The long rifle men were sharpshooters at the New Deal policies and their raids caused flurries in the arrogant ranks, but still the opposition was conducting, even if valiantly, a warfare of individual men single handed against a great host.

Probably the most effective public speaker of the party of opposition was Mr. Hoover, who, not being a candidate for nomination and not desiring to be the chief of a new organization, spoke as a patriot and a private citizen. The Grass Roots convention, a largely spontaneous affair, gave form to the revolt, but it did not produce a man of destiny. There was still the uncertainty. What would be the rallying point and whose the dominant voice in the campaign against communism in the United States?

Mr. Roosevelt and his supporters had every advantage in their hands. They controled a dominant party organization and it was apparently useless for a protesting Democrat even to imagine that he could make any change in his party's program, no matter how eagerly he desired to do so both to serve his country and ease his own conscience.

The methods by which the American republic could be saved were plain enough, but there was no fated certainty that the Republican convention would meet the requirements, although it was admittedly the only hope of the opposition. The bewildered, apprehensive citizens had no other place to go, but they did not know what they would get there. Fortunately the convention recognized that a spontaneous movement had taken place, rousing the enthusiasms of the rank and file of Republicans. The delegates accepted this as compelling writing on the wall and nominated the man who plainly had become the man of the hour, Gov. Landon of Kansas.

Now all is changed. The party of opposition has a leader, unanimously accepted. It has a rallying point. Its forces feel a sense of organization and the confidence of having a common direction toward a desirable objective. Their morale is restored. They are marching on. They are confident they can make the distance.

From now on the campaign is in the hands of Gov. Landon and his selected advisers. The independent forces which have prepared the way for this will fall in line and do their part as they see the way to do it. Landon is the head of the party and the vedettes who have been out on the front for three years and a half are accepting the advantages of a common cause with an accepted champion.

The scattered forces have been brought together. They have a standard and a standard bearer. They are agreed in principles and purposes. A reorganized Republican party invites the support of all citizens. Landon can save this country.

BURNING CHURCHES.

The flames of thirty-six churches burned by fanatic radicals in Spain during forty-eight hours could not be seen from our American shores, but they throw a light to which the church people and the church leaders of our land had better open their eyes. Happily for us fanaticism has not thrived in the free air of this republic. If it has sometimes blazed up the spirit of our people has quickly quenched it. But that is the spirit which a powerful propaganda has been at work to destroy.

By exploiting depression, to turn countryman against fellow countryman, to turn class against class, to inflame prejudice and rancor, to throw contempt upon the symbols of our Americanism and pervert the lessons of history this propaganda has sought to make way for the conquest of free government and the establishment of autocratic burocracy inspired by the radical doctrins now destroying human liberty and the structure of civilization in Europe. With the other liberties our collectivist New Dealers would enchain and eventually destroy will most certainly go the liberty of worship. Religious tolerance is the growth of the order the American people created and have maintained. It will not survive that order. The radical clericals at work to replace it with socialist or communistic machinery are blind or disloyal to the social and political order which has given freedom to the church. In the fundamental law of the system they are so dissatisfied with stands, as the very first of its guaranties of civil rights, the decree that congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof. The great guardian which has made this and our other liberties effectual in the life of the nation, the Supreme court, is assailed by all the enemies of the American system. They would put the torch to it if they dared. If it goes, freedom of religion will soon follow it.

SAINT JOAN.

The revival of Shaw's play, "Saint Joan," calls attention to the fact that though the movies are not so bad and getting better they still are pretty poor as a steady diet. The movies would make a mess of Joan of Arc. They would bury her under battle scenes, renunciation scenes, bits of comedy, and unending pageantry, much of it stupendous and all of it unquestionably gorgeous. This is said in full knowledge of the fact that a picture of Joan, that was not without merit, was made a number of years ago, but it was not popular. It was not in the Hollywood manner, which is equivalent to saying that it was a movie only in the limited sense that it was recorded on film and was, therefore, capable of being shown on a screen.

The movies are produced for an audience of millions scattered all over the world. That is why the story of Joan could not be filmed successfully except as romance or pageantry. As soon as the producer began to think of the meaning of Joan in the history of her country and of the human race he would be stymied. He could hardly avoid being unintelligible to large numbers of his customers and infuriating to as many more.

Mr. Shaw was under no such limitation. His heroine had been admitted to Catholic sainthood only a short time before his play was produced, but that only encouraged him to declare her a pioneer Protestant. God spoke directly to her, or so she thought, says Shaw, and when the dignitaries of the church gave her contrary advice she ignored them. Having done his best to offend Catholic sensibilities, Mr. Shaw could promptly turn upon Protestants and present the Inquisition, that favorite horror, as a scrupulously fair tribunal, determined to prevent society from tearing itself to pieces. He could present Joan as less a saint than a nationalist before the day when nationalism was a respectable sentiment in western Europe and he could cast grave doubts upon the abiding worth of any and all nationalisms, English, of course, in particular.

These deliberate attempts to irritate the settled mind are, of course, typical of Shaw, but they are also typically anti-Hollywood. To a public tired of banalities this kind of writing is refreshing. The contrast is the more vivid because "Saint Joan" happens to be the most eloquent play written in English in recent years. Mr. Shaw has given distinguished expression to bold ideas. No wonder his play has been revived and no wonder it has been a success.

Editorial of the Day

MARRIED THE BOSS' DAUGHTER.

[Decatur (Ill.) Herald.]

Count Galeazzo Ciano was born into the lesser Italian nobility, but realized early in life that if he was to have a career he would have to make it for himself. So when he reached man's estate he wooed and won Edda Mussolini, daughter of Il Duce.

Since that time Count Ciano has done rather well. His father-in-law made him minister of propaganda. When Mussolini decided upon the Ethiopian campaign Son-in-law Ciano went to Africa in command of an air squadron and gave distinguished service. After a triumphant return home Count Ciano was made minister of foreign affairs in the Italian cabinet, a post graciously surrendered by Father-in-law Mussolini. At 33 Count Ciano is the youngest foreign minister in the world. In the light of recent Italian foreign relations and a probable future foreign program Count Ciano has a most important job.

Crown Prince Humbert is heir to the Italian crown, but Count Ciano is now accounted probable successor to Mussolini. The Italian dictator did not care to set up a rival dynasty by designating one of his sons to succeed him. But Ciano is a member of the family. Nobody appreciates that more than the son-in-law. He has a good job, but few young men envy him Il Duce for a father-in-law.

Count Ciano's accession is not a certainty. Should Mussolini be removed from the picture there would be other moderately young men with a claim to the succession, notably Air Marshal Italo Balbo and Dino Grandi, Italian ambassador to the court of St. James's, both experienced in Fascist councils.

Meanwhile Count Ciano is sitting pretty because Benito Mussolini is definitly not "the sick man of Europe."

GEORGE'S LITTLE HELPER.

"What happened, George?" she asked her husband who had got out of the car to investigate.

"Puncture," he said briefly.

"You ought to have been looking out for this," she remarked. "Didn't you remember the guide told you there was a fork in the road?"—Exchange.

LIBERTIES OF AN AMERICAN

XIV.

"Nor shall private property be taken for public use without just compensation." [From the fifth amendment to the constitution of the United States.]

There is a strange heresy that the constitution distinguishes and discriminates between "property rights" and "human rights." Among those who put it forward most persistently are those Pied Pipers of chaos who wish to destroy both liberty and property, and realize that they must destroy the constitution to accomplish their end. They are sufficiently answered when their objective is recognized and exposed.

But there are others who advance the argument, men who are passionate in their devotion to human liberty and who have convinced themselves that property rights and human rights are somehow separate and exclusive and conflict with each other. In so far as they are sincere in their contention, as many of them are, they deserve an examination of their logic.

Property has no rights. There is only the right to own property, which is a human right.

Our whole progress toward the security and comfort which we call civilization has been accomplished by means of tools by which we satisfy our wants better than with our bare hands, of clothing and dwellings which shelter us better than our bare skins or the trees of the forest, of arts which multiply the accidental beneficences of nature—in sum, by the acquisition of property.

The greatest liberty which farmers ever won was the right to own their lands instead of holding them at the pleasure of a feudal lord. Security against illegal search and seizure, one of the greatest civil liberties, would be meaningless if men had not first won the right to own the homes which the law protects against intrusion. Freedom of worship would be a mockery if churches might be expropriated.

The parallels continue indefinitly. They can lead to but one conclusion: The right to own property, which must always be governed by the fundamental rule that no man may use his property for the injury of others, is indistinguishable from other human rights; it is not antagonistic to human rights; on the contrary, the right to own property and to work to accumulate property is the greatest human right of all, for it is the right to live.

If we would see how protection of property rights is likewise a protection of other human rights we can find few better examples than the history of that principle, taken from the English common law and embodied in the fifth amendment to the constitution, that private property may not be taken for public use without just compensation.

This guarantee of liberty had its roots in the evils of an ancient English institution called purveyance, which it was adopted to prevent. Purveyance was the prerogative of purchasing goods for the royal household. It was exercised by court officials and in very early times became a subject of abuse.

It was inevitable that the royal ministers and officers should use the kingly privilege for their own benefit. The prices paid under purveyance, it should be understood, were below market prices. Sometimes, but not always, the difference was laid upon the county in which the goods were taken.

The purveyors had many forms of graft. A favorite one was to requisition more than was needed and to sell the surplus goods, taken at an artificially low price, for their own benefit. Another was to demand delivery at an inconvenient place as a means of extorting bribes from those who wished to be relieved of the exaction.

The name purveyor became so hated in England that it was changed by law to achatour, or buyer. But a change in name did not remedy the abuses, nor were they stopped by numerous statutes designed to restrain them. Parliament finally determined that the only effective remedy was abolishment of the whole institution of purveyance, which was accomplished in the settlement under which Charles II. was restored to the throne.

The yeomen who saw their wheat and hides and wool carried off by the purveyors at a fraction of the market price held no finespun theories as to a distinction between property rights and human rights. They saw the bread of their children vanish with the carters' loads, and knew that to the extent of their losses they were just as much slaves as if they had tended their fields and flocks under an overseer's whip.

It was the abuse of purveyance by the king's officers, rather than the king himself, which made the institution intolerable. The founders of our government could see that the same abuses might tempt the officers of a republic. While they recognized that government must possess the right of eminent domain, by which it takes private property for public use, they guarded against abuses of that right, of which purveyance is one, in the fifth amendment.

Further discussions of the liberties guaranteed Americans by the constitution will appear in these columns from time to time.

A NEW REPUBLICAN PARTY.

[Rockford Register-Republic.]

The Republican party will go before voters of the country with a liberal platform and with Alf M. Landon, liberal governor of a prairie state, as its standard bearer. Even before the platform was adopted it was plain that the Republicans had something to offer very different from the party which nominated Harding in 1920 and Coolidge in 1924, and different even from the party which renominated Mr. Hoover four years ago. The Landon boom was in great part spontaneous, and developed so strong a popular following that the dominant leadership in the convention passed from eastern men to a group centered about the state of Kansas.

By his surprising popular appeal, Gov. Landon captured not only the nomination by a virtual unanimity of the delegates but has aroused the imagination of the entire nation with his plain speaking and his refusal to dramatize himself. In his quiet, determined way he has conquered those who usually decide the character of the Republican party, the politicians whose business it is to muster the vote. He demonstrated his abhorrence for the fine legal phrasings when he sent a telegram to Cleveland before his nomination giving his interpretation of two of the planks in the platform.

Gov. Landon has a philosophy which holds that the nation's farmers need and must have helpful legislation, but not at the price of their liberty and dictation from Washington. He feels they are entitled to aid equally with industrial workers, but his program is based on an abundance of crops rather than scarcity. He feels that it is indefensible to force up living costs.

Taxes have been piled upon taxes, increasing the cost of living, retarding reemployment and crippling business, the budget is hopelessly out of balance and the national debt at an all-time high. This reckless spending, which has jeopardized the national credit, he feels, must be stopped.

He commits himself to a program to end the political favoritism which has been shown to many states by the present administration. The indictment of the present administration could be carried on, but there is no indication that Alf Landon has any intention of pursuing such a course. There is perhaps no one who realizes better than he that the Republican party this year has a high duty to the nation to perform, the duty of providing the most effective leadership possible against what his party keynoters have described as the liberty-destroying philosophy of the New Deal.

TAKE SUN BATHS AND HOW.

SOME one has called the sun the "giver of life." This is essentially true when we consider that life could not exist long upon this earth were it not for the sun's rays. Green plants cannot produce food in the dark. We are strictly dependent upon the light and heat furnished by Old Sol.

Like other powerful forces, light can destroy as well as stimulate. We know that a child exposed to the sun within reasonable limits will not develop rickets, and here we have an excellent example of the benefit of light upon the whole body [metabolism] quite apart from tanning of the skin. Attention has been called to the fact that the heat rays of the sun, while important, do not bring about chemical changes within the body; that it is the ultraviolet—the invisible rays—that do the job. The more direct the rays the stronger is their effect. Dirty air—that is, a dust filled atmosphere—will filter out ultraviolet light. Just so will a greasy skin or one that is covered.

There is no type of white skin that will stand prolonged exposure to direct sunlight without damage. Even brunettes who tan easily will observe that the skin becomes drier, chaps more easily, and wrinkles. The loose, open necked dresses of our out-of-door girls, through the effects of both sunlight and air, invite the acquisition of what is known as "automobile neck." Sometimes numerous dilated blood vessels appear, with considerable drying and thickening of the skin. In other words, the skin of the neck and a V-shaped section of the upper chest will show signs of premature aging. Occasionally tiny, thickened areas called keratoses form. These are frequently observed on faces, hands, and necks of persons who are largely employed out-of-doors. The distinguished dermatologist Unna described what he called "sailor's skin" found in those who are exposed to excessive amounts of sunlight.

Few of our beach loungers would be quite so enthusiastic over acquiring a deep tan could they recognize the possible danger that is in the offing. Sunburn is no help to a normal skin. On the contrary, it may greatly increase the spread of skin diseases such as acne, eczema, and other types of inflammatory disorders.

Sun and open air during the summer should be sought for eagerly, but only on a program of exposure that will bring about a protective tan gradually. The first bare skin contact with the sun should vary from a few seconds to a minute or two, depending upon the individual. Experts who direct sun baths have learned that redness which lasts more than four or five hours is really a burn. The effect may be greatly decreased by coating the skin with a layer of cold cream, under which circumstances exposure may be for a longer period. There should result, however, a slight tanning of the skin with each increasing interval.

If circumstances permit, the entire body should be exposed at the same time—the first day, 30 seconds; the second day, one minute, increasing thereafter by one-half minute each day until the skin begins to assume an obvious brown. Subsequently the intervals may be lengthened by two or three minutes each day, provided no burn has appeared in the meantime. The eyes should be shielded with smoked glasses and a bath or shower precede each session.

If exposure of the entire body is not possible, start with the feet and ankles. For these areas five minutes may not be too long, as the skin in this part of the body is substantially more resistant. The knees may be bathed the next day for a few minutes, with double the time on the feet and ankles. Progress upward, reaching the face and neck on the fifth or sixth day. The back of the body should be handled in the same manner.

A severe sunburn is sometimes attended with as definite symptoms as a burn caused by fire, and the destruction of skin may be gauged by the amount of peeling. If damage develops the treatment should include immersion in a salt water bath—roughly, one pound of common salt to a tub half full of water. Only sterile ointments should be used, as infection of the skin may prove an annoying complication. If headache, nausea, vomiting, and temperature result, the management of the case should not be attempted without skilled aid.

BLOOD PRESSURE.

R. W. M. writes: My husband, 63 years old, has had high blood pressure but is now considerably improved. He still has pains in the chest, very severe at times. Nitroglycerin tablets relieve him for a short while. Are these dangerous to the heart?

Nitroglycerin does no harm to the heart and will relieve the pain of angina pectoris. Your husband should be under the care of a skilled physician who will advise him as to the most desirable program. Certain tissue extracts have been developed recently that are of value.

MUST MAKE LEGAL ENTRY.

Chicago, June 10.—[Friend of the People.]—I have a friend who came originally from Ireland and entered this country illegally from Canada in February, 1924, via Detroit. 1. Is he subject to deportation? 2. He has been granted patent papers from Washington on a mechanical idea in 1935. He has a few more ideas on which he wants to apply for patents, but he has been told that he can't do that. He wants to know the law on this before going any further. 3. Are there any papers he can take out to show he can remain here? He understands he can't take out his citizenship papers. If he can't apply for these patents he will leave the country. W. H.

1. If he entered the United States prior to July 1, 1924, and has not been absent therefrom since that time, he would not be subject to deportation merely on the ground of illegal entry.

2. This does not relate to immigration or naturalization, and this office has no information on this subject.

3. Under existing legislation only those aliens who entered the United States illegally prior to June 3, 1921, and have not been absent from this country since that time, may apply for legalization of their entry. There is a bill pending in congress to extend this privilege to those aliens who entered in this manner prior to July 1, 1924. At the present time it appears that the only way in which the subject may adjust his immigration status is to leave the United States and make a legal entry for permanent residence. It is suggested that he call at room 718, new postoffice building, in order that all the facts in his case may be ascertained and he may be appropriately advised in this regard.

FRED J. SCHLOTFELDT,
District Director of Immigration and Naturalization, Chicago District.

CLOSING HOURS.

Chicago, June 5.—[Friend of the People.]—Is there a regulation in Chicago concerning the hours of bowling alleys? In our neighborhood is a bowling parlor which permits bowling as late as 2:50 a. m. The usual quitting hour seems to be approximately 1:30 a. m., although it is not uncommon to hear them playing even later. They have the windows wide open, consequently the noise at that hour of the morning is quickly carried throughout the neighborhood. Isn't there some recourse for working people who have to get a fairly good night's rest? H. M. F.

Officers interviewed the manager of the bowling alley complained of and he stated that he usually closes his alleys at 1 a. m., but sometimes a party stays a little longer to finish a game; but in the future he stated that he will insist that all bowling be stopped at 1 a. m. promptly and has assured us there would be no further cause for complaint.

JAMES P. ALLMAN,
Commissioner of Police.

VEHICLE TAX.

Freeport, Ill., June 12.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I was arrested in city "A" for driving a car without vehicle license and forced to buy vehicle license. 1. My contention is I do not have to buy their license since [2] I have been rooming and working in city "A" for almost a year, but still claim city "B" as my home. I applied for my state license from there and vote in that city. 3. Therefore I claim myself a citizen of city "B" and not subject to vehicle license laws in city "A." 4. Am I right? 5. Supposing I am right, could I demand a refund [6] plus the arrest charges? If so [7] how would it be best to go about collecting? J. C.

1. Section 1034 of chapter 24 of the State Bar Statutes provides that "no person shall be required to pay any such vehicle tax by any municipality in this state except the municipality in which he resides."

2. The facts that you state are not conclusive as to where you reside.

3. It is not a question of citizenship, but of residence.

4. Probably not.

5. Depends on whether you paid "under protest."

6. We do not understand you.

7. It seems probable that the amount is not large enough to make court proceedings worth while.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

DAY BY DAY IN THE MAKING OF THE CONSTITUTION

BY JAMES MADISON.

[Father of the Constitution and Fourth President of the United States.]

Fear of the Large States

Philadelphia, Pa., June 21, 1787.—In convention. Mr. Jonathan Dayton from New Jersey took his seat. Dr. Johnson of Connecticut: on a comparison of the plans proposed from Virginia and New Jersey, it appears that the latter was calculated to preserve the individuality of the states. The plan from Virginia did not profess to destroy this individuality altogether but was charged with such a tendency. One gentleman alone, Col. Hamilton, boldly and decisively contended for the abolition of state government. If it could be shown that the individuality of the state would not be endangered many objections would no doubt be removed.

Mr. Wilson of Pennsylvania: His respect for Dr. Johnson, added to the importance of the subject, led him to attempt, unprepared as he was, to solve the difficulty which had been started. It was asked how the general government and the individuality of the states could be reconciled and how the latter could be secured against the former. Might it not on the other side be asked how the former was to be secured against the latter? If a security be necessary on one side it would seem reasonable to demand it on the other. But taking the matter from a more general view he saw no danger to the states from the general government. In case a combination should be made by the large ones it would produce a general alarm among the rest and it would be frustrated. The general government will be as ready to preserve the rights of the states as the latter are to preserve the rights of individuals.

Mr. Madison was of the opinion that there was less danger of encroachment from the general government than from the state governments. All examples from other confederacies prove the greater tendency in such systems to anarchy rather than tyranny. Our experience had fully illustrated this tendency. The great objection made against an abolition of state government was that the general government could not extend its care to all the minute objects which fall under the cognizance of the local jurisdictions. The objections as stated lay not against the probable abuse of the general power but against the imperfect use that could be made of it throughout so great an extent of country and over so great a variety of subjects. [On the question of resolving that the legislature ought to consist of two branches all were ay except New York, New Jersey and Delaware, no, and Maryland divided.]

Mr. Wilson of Pennsylvania considered the election of the first branch by the people not only as the corner stone but as the foundation of the fabric. [On this question all were ay except New Jersey.]

On the question of the term of office in the first branch:

Col. Hamilton urged the necessity of three years. There ought to be neither too much nor too little dependence on popular sentiments. Frequency of elections tended to make the people listless to them. In Virginia it had been lately found necessary to force the attendance and voting of the people by severe regulations. [On the question of striking out "three years" all ay except New York, Delaware and Maryland. New Jersey divided. Two years adopted.]

OF LADIES WHO KILL.

Chicago, June 16.—After studying a number of mate killing cases from the sidewalks of New York [Vera Stretz] to the middle west [Betty Martin] and the Golden Gate [Mrs. Amy Dumbrell], where the old pioneering spirit is still blowing sixty miles an hour, or the balmy pastures of the Bible belt [Mary Johnson, Welch, W. Va.], I venture to answer A. E. Johnson's question:

Any member of the fair sex [mistress, sweetheart, wife] may kill her male slave without endangering her liberty or her life by due process of the law, for she kills in a "crime of passion," in self-defense, or while temporarily insane. But, pray, keep in mind, killing "in self-defense" may sometimes require the "heroine" to climb ten stories after midnight to awaken her victim before emptying the family pistol.

There is only one exception. She may be punished after it has been proven without any doubt whatsoever that she practiced her skill for purely monetary motives, especially after entering into a conspiracy with another man for doing so [Ruth Snyder]. Otherwise a woman is always safe if she shoots in true gangster fashion [a minimum of four blasts].

In England and other countries justice is administered according to the evidence presented, whether the criminal happens to be male or female. Therefore the typical American indoor sport of bumping off the male of the species will not take root abroad but will always be confined to our feminine ridden and henpecked shores. H. A. S.

VACANT LOTS.

Chicago, June 14.—Being one of the workmen M. Merkle states are leisurely raking, cutting weeds, and spreading sand dug from a hole, I cannot let his letter go unanswered.

The purpose of our work is to clean and level lots. We remove rubbish, weeds, poison ivy, etc., so children can safely use the lots.

M. Merkle wants to know why sand is spread over lots. The city does not remove this collection of refuse, so a hole is dug to bury it, sometimes 8 feet deep, which leaves the sand left over to be used in filling in low spots and leveling the lot. R. FISHER.

THE PANTS SCORCHER.

Chicago, June 11.—Roosevelt's pretty quiet. Maybe he's waiting. Better not wait too long, Mr. Roosevelt! Alf Landon's going to scorch your pants with that prairie fire Mr. Farley was talking about. Not wishing you any bad luck, but I hope he does!

What we need is more of Alfred Landon's type and less of those card sharks who are always willing to dish out a new deal because they can manipulate most any kind of a deck.

RAYMOND I. BRASEL.

HOBSON'S CHOICE.

Chicago, June 13.—I would like to know the origin and meaning of the expression, "Hobson's choice."

ALEX ZANDER.

FROM A FULL BACK'S MOTHER.

Chicago, June 15.—I agree with "Grateful Mother" in today's Voice of the People that it is right and just to say thank you for favors done, but while her heart is filled with gratitude mine is crushed and seared by the heartache and disappointment of my 17 year old son who was denied his diploma and participation in graduating activities for the sake of ½ credit of fall botany, which is a dry, uninteresting, unnecessary study of dry weeds and grasses.

My son during this fall semester gave all his strength, energy, loyalty to his school on the football team, which did spectacular work on the south side, entering the finals with Lindblom. My son entered the game with the top of his finger cut off two days before the final game, suffering untold agony and risking his life from infection to the injured hand out of loyalty to his school. Being a full back, he was needed during and after the football season.

He was unable because of this injury to give his concentrated attention to this dry and uninteresting subject of weeds to the satisfaction of the teacher, who would not permit him to make up his work, although he pleaded with the teacher and principal to be permitted to make it up so he could graduate and not disappoint his mother, dad and brother who had so nobly sacrificed for him, all during this depression, his father being out of work four years.

The teacher's reason was that all her fall records and outlines for fall work were put away in a cupboard, and she was not required to give private lessons and anyway, why worry? You can make it up in summer school. And so a grief stricken and disappointed family had to help this 17 year old lad face the heartache and crushing blow of being held back while his four year classmates and the rest of the squad graduated. And now he must spend eight weeks and $12 and learn about fall weeds and grasses when his spring semester's work in the same study netted him an E plus and he received a passing grade in all other studies.

A PARKER MOTHER.

ALMOST CONVERTED.

Chicago, June 11.—President Roosevelt, at Little Rock on June 10, held that speedier transportation made our national charter obsolete. This is reminiscent of his reference to the "horse and buggy days," following the decision on NRA and is a premise that I have not been able to accept. However, he may convert me. The ten commandments sometimes cramp my style, but I find that travel was even slower when they were handed down than it was in 1789, so on his theory it will be all right to disregard them.

West McHenry, Ill., June 14.—We want to write you a few lines to let you know how much we enjoyed your broadcast of the convention. Mr. Ryan, Mr. Henning and also Mr. G. Heater gave a very good description of the whole affair.

MOBILIZE TROOPS TO SMASH IRISH REPUBLICAN ARMY

Meeting Place Ringed by Free State Soldiers.

DUBLIN, June 20.—(AP)—The Free State called out soldiers in full kit tonight to cement a ban on the irrepressible Irish republican army. The defense ministry, moving to stop an intended I. R. A. assembly at Bodenstown, twenty miles south of Dublin, ordered troops thrown around the entire town.

Other regiments were mobilized in reserve nearby at Curragh. Excursion trains which had been booked to take parties to Bodenstown were canceled. Belfast police were reinforced.

The republican meeting at Bodenstown was to have been held at the grave of Theobald Wolfe Tone, eighteenth century advocate of an Irish republic.

Army Members Jailed.

De Valera's government has been arresting I. R. A. members for several months. Several have been sentenced to prison by military tribunals, among them Maurice Twomey, the republican army chief of staf.

With Dublin city elections but ten days away, some thought the militant rap at republicanism might check an anticipated landslide for President Eamon de Valera's Fianna Fail party.

It was generally considered, however, the republicans would fail to divert enough votes of young sympathizers to jeopardize a Fianna Fail victory.

Twenty-five of the 94 candidates for the 35 seats on the Dublin corporation are De Valeraites. Seven are republicans.

Softens Stand on Britain.

Along with the preëlection war on the republican army, a politico-military organization separate from the regular standing army, observers noted an apparent softening in De Valera's attitude toward Great Britain.

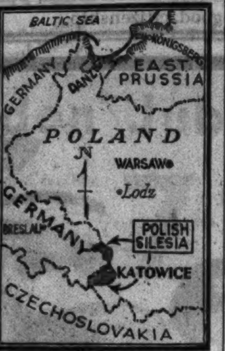
The president, speaking in league of nations debate in the dail yesterday, said a "vast vein of good will" in the Free State would be released if Britain's attitude changed, and added if the nation were "free" it would coöperate in British defense plans.

That is impossible at present, he added, but he assured the deputies Britain would come to the Free State's defense if it were attacked by any other power.

A Dublin newspaper reported Anglo-Irish talks had been started at London, but the story was not confirmed in either capital.

Polish Court Convicts 98 Nazis of Plot to Grab Silesia

KATOWICE, Poland, June 20.—(AP)—A Polish court dealt out sentences today to 98 Nazis accused of participating in a treasonable plot to reunite upper Silesia with Germany. Fourteen persons were acquitted.



Those convicted drew ranging sentences from 18 months to 10 years. Originally there were 113 defendants, but one committed suicide during the trial.

The prisoners accepted the verdicts in silence, and there was no repetition of demonstrations which occurred earlier in the hearing.

Three Get 10 Years.

Jozef Zaganp and two other accused ringleaders received the 10 year terms.

The defendants were accused of having belonged to a subversive Nazi organization which was to have received money and munitions from Germany for the alleged Silesian uprising.

The province was to have been forcibly detached from Poland in July, 1937, the prosecutors charged. Authorities said many of the Nazis escaped into Germany.

In passing sentence today, the presiding judge asserted:

"The plebiscite of 1921 gave part of Silesia to Poland. This decision is irrevocable."

He served warning that Polish citizens attempting to violate Polish sovereignty must realize they will be severely punished.

Official sources intimated the alleged Nazi activities might seriously affect Polish-German relations.

These sources contended that although Adolf Hitler has concluded a 10 year nonaggression pact with Poland, his party allegedly is directing illegal organizations in Poland aimed at the separation of Polish territory.

Should this be continued, these persons added, Poland may find herself compelled to change her policy toward Germany.

Papers Ignore Trial in Berlin.

BERLIN, June 20.—(AP)—German newspapers made no mention today of the verdicts in the Katowice Nazi trial.

Colombia Nabs Publisher for Plotting Military Coup

BOGOTA, Colombia, June 20.—Primitivo Crespo, newspaper publisher, was arrested today on a charge of plotting a military coup to overthrow the government during President Alfonso Lopez's proposed visit to Ecuador and Peru.

SEVILLE, Spain, June 20.—(AP)—Twelve miners were killed and several injured tonight in an explosion in a coal mine at Villanueva de las Ninas.

ONE PARALYSIS VICTIM CURED; OTHERS BETTER

Robert S. Hotz Jr., 12 years old, 605 East College road, Lake Forest, returned yesterday with his mother from the Brooks school at North Andover, Mass., where he was stricken with infantile paralysis. Mrs. Hotz said her son is completely cured.

Mrs. Philip D. Armour, whose son, Philip IV, 19 years old, is recovering from an attack of the disease at the Passavant hospital, returned to her home at Greenbay road, Lake Bluff. Mrs. Armour had remained with her son at the hospital while he was seriously ill. He contracted the disease at St. Mark's school, Southboro, Mass.

Young Armour's cousin and school mate, Charles, son of the A. Watson Armours of Lake Forest, was able to be up for the first time yesterday. He has been confined to his home with the same ailment.

AL CAPONE LOSES PLEA FOR PAROLE FROM ALCATRAZ

Chicago Gang Chief Now on 5th Year of Term.

Washington, D. C., June 20.—[Special.]—Al [Scarface] Capone, former Chicago gang chief, has been denied a request for parole from Alcatraz Island penitentiary, the justice department said today.

The gangster was eligible for parole at the expiration of one-third of his ten year sentence on Sept. 3, 1935. He was sent to prison for violation of the income tax laws and began serving his sentence on May 4, 1932.

May Apply Again Later.

Justice department officials said Capone could ask that his parole application be considered again later. Failing to win parole, the prisoner's next hope will be the expiration of his minimum term with good behavior allowance on Jan. 19, 1939. His full term expires May 3, 1942.

Reports from the penitentiary indicate that Capone has been a good prisoner and has avoided prison intrigue.

Records Are Withheld.

The prison bureau does not disclose the record of prisoners, however, in accordance with a belief that "public enemies" should fade out of public notice when they enter prison.

Prison officials cite the desire of most criminals to gain publicity through their crimes, and hold that a lack of publicity is part of their punishment as well as an element in rebuilding for useful citizenship.

Shanghai Students Renew Campaign Against Japan

[Copyright: 1936: By the New York Times.]

SHANGHAI, June 21.—[Sunday.]—(AP)—Student anti-Japanese demonstrations flared anew this morning when large numbers of students began gathering at the railroad station demanding free transportation to Nanking. At the capital they planned to demand a stronger government policy toward Japan.

Graham MAGIC of the SUPERCHARGER!

Visualize these two engines. The smaller engine (actual photograph) is the 112 H. P. Graham Supercharger, which, although weighing 300 pounds less, actually develops the same horsepower as the larger, heavier engine outlined above.

The Graham Supercharger engine develops more horsepower than many engines having 2 to 6 more cylinders. The Supercharger solves the problem of unnecessary, costly, and unproductive motor weight. Added cylinders without added power only increase operating cost. Graham owners save as they drive with the Supercharger.

You'll never know what a modern motor car can do until you've driven a new Graham Supercharger and we're ready to prove it TODAY. Call or phone.

CLAIMS ALBERTA WILL GET SOCIAL CREDIT BY FALL

Aberhart Promises First Step in Two Months.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

EDMONTON, Alta., June 20.—The first steps toward a social credit system in Alberta will be taken within two months, Premier William Aberhart asserted recently. He was discussing the difference between the certificate plan now being inaugurated and the social credit plan of which the government is committed, under which $25 in credit would be given every adult each month.

First step will be the registration of the citizens who are entitled to receive the basic dividend, the premier said, and following that the payment of dividends to certain classes will be started. The plan will be enlarged as the circumstances warant, he explained.

Replies to Charges.

Replying to charges that the present plan to issue stamped certificates to finance public works projects is the only social credit plan the government has, Aberhart said:

"The government's plan to issue certificates is not a basic social credit plan, but only a temporary relief plan. If we can put the unemployed in a position where they can earn enough to provide for themselves during the year we will have removed the objectionable features from relief and at the same time have improved the morale of the people.

"We hope within the next two months to be taking the first steps leading to full implementation of social credit in Alberta. The best answer to our critics will be given then."

$2,000,000 Certificate Issue.

Great interest is being taken in the issue of $2,000,000 of stamped certificates by the government. A large body of wholesalers in the province have announced they will not accept this "script," as they call it. A delegation from the Edmonton Chamber of Commerce, which interviewed the cabinet on the subject, announced the plan is dangerous and likely to result in calamity.

Within two weeks the new certificates will be issued and, according to W. A. Fallow, minister of public works, numerous projects for highway construction all over the province will be started.

The certificate plan is based on what the premier describes as the "velocity of circulation." One stamp each week of one cent denomination, to be sold by the government, will be affixed to the certificate and this will make it "hot money" which everybody will want to keep moving. In two years time the amount of one cent stamps on the certificates will squal its face value and it will have performed many times the face value in being exchanged for trade.

The stamps will insure that the government has the cash in hand to redeem the certificate when it is finally presented.

Critics of the scheme charge it is just another huge tax scheme, by which people will pay for their certificates, but the premier points out that the increase in business that will follow will many times compensate the holders of certificates for the small rate of interest on the circulation or use of their own credit as citizens of the province. He points to banks and the issue of bank checks to illustrate the working of the system.

ARGENTINA FACES DICTATORSHIP TO SAVE REPUBLIC

Fear Bitter Clash Between Rightists and Leftists.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SANTOS, Brazil, June 20.—That Argentina is heading for a semi-military dictatorship is the opinion expressed by many Argentine citizens who have arrived here recently. They believe it will not be the dictatorship which is being openly advocated by the extreme conservative elements in that country, but a dictatorship forced upon Gen. Agustin Justo by events.

In other words, if the Argentine "National Front," foreseeing its total and permanent eclipse as a political power, decides upon extreme measures to prevent it, Gen. Justo may be forced to establish something like a mild dictatorship himself to save the republic from the chaos which would result.

Call Justo a Patriot.

"There is no need to fear a dictatorship of the extreme right," observers say, "because Gen. Justo is a patriot in the first place. In the second place any dictating to be done he will do himself, but it will be undertaken as a last resort to prevent a catastrophe befalling the country."

These opinions were expressed in reply to questions regarding the manifesto recently issued in Buenos Aires by conservative leaders and which caused astonishment.

RIGHTISTS ALARMED

BY HAROLD TATAM.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUENOS AIRES, June 20.—As a result of the successes of the opposition parties in the recent elections in the capital and the provinces, except in instances where the nonpartisan "electoral board" admitted that fraud was rife, the official, or National Democrat [conservative] party has reached the conclusion that the results were due to the influence of "demagogic" propaganda upon "ignorant masses" of electors. The conservatives also have decided that the best means of preventing such a "disastrous contingency" as the rise to power of the opposition is to amend the constitution in such a way that the ignorant elector will have no right to vote. In the meantime, they say, a dictatorship is needed in order to afford opportunity to bring about that drastic reform.

The announcement was made in a manifesto to the nation from the "national front" [an alliance of the right parties] formed to oppose the "popular front" [an alliance of the left parties] when it was realized that the latter was favored by the people.

Couched in Startling Words.

The manifesto was couched in startling terms—so startling that it has alienated the support of much moderate conservative opinion.

"In its fierce denunciation of the ignorant masses and the absurdity of allowing them a voice in the affairs of the nation, it might have been based on the sentiments expressed by King John of England before the barons at Runnymede forced him to moderate them," one observer said. "It came as a distinct shock to public opinion throughout the country."

There has been little reaction to this remarkable document so far, because the opposition leaders are awaiting the publication of the promised list of signatories. The man in the street also is awaiting congress' verdict on the validity of the elections which were won by the official party by what is described as questionable means.

See Storm Breaking Soon.

Eventually the storm must break. In the event congress invalidates the elections and orders new ones, which would presumably mean a National Democrat defeat, the "national front" will be faced with the problem of how to engineer its desired dictatorship.

President Justo so far has shown no sign of how he would view "strong measures" on the part of the "national front." There is no reason to suppose that he would countenance any sort of coup d'état on its part to establish a dictatorship. However, there is every reason to believe that he will exert his influence to prevent the hotheads of either party from plunging the republic into the kind of strife which marked the early years of its existence.

The Glasgow is the first of six cruisers of the 1935 naval program to take the water. Haile Selassie, deposed emperor of Ethiopia, watched the launching from a yacht.

Heart Disease

RECENTLY published figures show that fatalities from HEART DISEASE increased in Chicago during 1935 while the number of deaths from all causes decreased. Scarcely a day passes that the newspapers do not carry a story of the sudden collapse of some comparatively young and supposedly healthy business executive at the height of an important and valuable career. The loss of these men, aside from the shock to family and friends, is an economic waste which in many cases could and should have been prevented.

These sudden and tragic deaths are usually the result of an overtaxation of hearts that have been previously damaged by an infection which the individual did not know existed—or they may have been caused directly by high tension working and living habits. The most common causes of heart trouble are rheumatic fever, sore throat, diseased tonsils, toxic thyroid, high blood pressure, extreme worry or mental strain, irregular living habits and syphilis. Many of these ailments, especially syphilis, can cause extensive damage to the heart before the patient is aware that anything is wrong. Regular periodic medical examinations, including the use of all the facilities which modern medicine provides, would disclose the presence of these infections as well as evidences of worry or strain, in most cases, before the heart was affected. When these conditions are discovered early, proper care can be instituted that will eliminate the trouble or prevent further development. Protection lies in knowing at the earliest moment whether some hidden infection is encroaching upon the heart. Today, very little time and very little expense are required for these regular inspections. They can be made by competent physicians employing every modern medical facility, including the X-ray, at fees almost anyone can afford to pay. The time required at a UNITED MEDICAL SERVICE for a COMPLETE HEART EXAMINATION is less than an hour, including X-ray, electrocardiogram and laboratory tests, and the total cost is but $6.00.

All examinations and treatments are rendered through a friendly, personal relationship, by competent and experienced medical men with special knowledge and training in their respective fields of medicine who feel that their greatest service to patients lies through a responsible medical organization. Complete, modern medical facilities are available to aid in diagnostic and treatment service, including the newest and most complete X-ray equipment in the Middle West, a modern and completely equipped medical laboratory and other necessary scientific apparatus.

A Complete Heart Examination Includes—1st, a physical and clinical examination by an experienced physician, including the use of the stethoscope and blood pressure estimation test; 2nd, an electrocardiogram of the heart's action made by the electrocardiograph, a highly sensitive machine which picks up and records the electrical changes in the heart muscles for observation and study; 3rd, a six foot distance X-ray picture of the chest showing the outline of the heart and larger blood vessels to reveal abnormalities of contour and size and a fluoroscopic X-ray study when indicated; 4th, medical laboratory tests, including urinalysis, complete blood and serological examinations. This complete examination is $6.00.

COURT ACTIONS HIT HANDLING OF TAX FUNDS HERE

Gill and Nash Sentenced for Contempt.

The method of collecting and distributing special assessment funds in Cook county came under fire in two court actions yesterday.

In one case County Treasurer Joseph L. Gill and his predecessor in office, Thomas D. Nash, were sentenced to the County jail for contempt of court for failure to turn over $11,550 in special assessment funds to the village of Broadview. The other court action is a suit for an accounting against the city in federal court questioning the procedure by which the city has been retiring special assessment bonds.

Charge Funds Mishandled.

Attorneys for the plaintifs in both cases pointed out the need of public officials to recognize the fact that such funds must be considered as trust funds marked for a particular purpose and not as public money to be distributed as they see fit. It was largely in the special assessment funds that the shortage of approximately $414,000 was disclosed in the county tax redemption fund during the régime of Robert M. Sweitzer as county clerk.

The order finding Gill and Nash guilty of contempt was entered by Judge Daniel P. Trude in Circuit court at the request of attorneys for the village. Both officials, however, were saved from going to jail yesterday when Judge Trude granted a stay of mittimus until July 15 to enable them to seek an appropriation from the county board to cover the amount.

Judgment Two Years Ago.

Judgment of $11,000 in special assessment funds and $550 in general tax money was obtained against the county treasurer two years ago when the court held that the treasurer had illegally withheld this amount from the village.

"Instead of putting this money to the credit of Broadview in a special assessment fund," said Attorney Guy C. Guerine, counsel for the village, "the treasurer mixed the money with other funds. He maintained that Broadview owed the county money and that this balanced the books. Their whole system is wrong, as they know there should be no co-mingling of the funds."

First Filed Against McDonough.

The original suit was filed against the late Joseph B. McDonough, when he was county treasurer. On his death and when the county continued to refuse payment, his successor, Nash, was named and in turn the present county treasurer.

"I have repeatedly asked Nash and Gill to pay this judgment or to ask the county board for the money," Attorney Guerine said, "but they have done nothing. Because I lacked the proper political pull, I got nowhere, so I was forced to seek the contempt action."

In charging off Broadview's $11,550 claim the county treasurer deducted 50 cents an item as the cost of collecting 23,100 miscellaneous items in accordance with the fees charged municipalities for collecting delinquent special assessments. The legality of such fees is pending before the Illinois Appellate court.

Bring Suit for Bank.

The accounting suit in federal court was filed in behalf of the Chase National Bank of New York and Maurice H. Ewer of Mount Clair, N. J., holders of approximately $700,000 of the special assessment bonds issued by the city.

The bill, filed by Attorneys Leonard C. Mead of Geneva and John K. Newhall of Aurora, complain the city has retired the assessment bonds in numerical order instead of on a pro rata basis. Under this procedure, the attorneys pointed out, holders of low number bonds are given payment in preference over holders of higher numbered bonds, thus giving priorities not waranted by law.

The suit charges further that city officials have diverted the collected assessment funds to pay other obligations.

Resembles School Board Case.

Attorney Mead charged the city had failed to segregate the various funds collected under each assessment and distribute the principal and interest on a pro rata basis. The attorney explained the bill of complaint was similar to a suit filed in federal court by the Norfolk and Western Railway company against the Chicago board of education.

In the Norfolk suit Judge Charles E. Woodward ruled on April 17 that the board of education was required to pay off 1929 tax anticipation warrants on a pro rata basis and not in numerical order. An appeal on Judge Woodward's ruling is pending in the United States Circuit Court of Appeals.

According to Attorney Mead, the bonds held by his client matured between 1927 and 1935 and were issued on improvements completed a number of years ago at a cost of between $30,000,000 and $40,000,000.

The bill, which seeks appointment of a master in chancery to hear evidence, was assigned to Judge John P. Barnes.

LEGION TO STAGE CHILDREN'S HOME PROGRAM TODAY

Bloomington, Ill., June 20.—[Special.]—Four thousand American Legionnaires and auxiliary members representing every post in the state will make the eighth annual pilgrimage to the Illinois Soldiers and Sailors children's home at Normal tomorrow. One thousand members of the Cook county council of the American Legion will take toys, candy, and picnic lunches to the 700 children at the home. Other state posts will furnish the entertainment and money for the numerous prizes.

The morning and afternoon programs have been planned entirely for the children. Races of all kinds and other athletic contests will be held.

Work to Start on Wieboldt's Million Dollar Department Store in River Forest

NEW UNIT WILL HAVE 4 ACRES OF SHOPPING SPACE

In Heart of Oak Park's New Business Area.

BY AL CHASE.
[Real Estate Editor.]

Work will be started within a few days on the million dollar Wieboldt department store at the southwest corner of Lake street and Harlem avenue, River Forest, Elmer F. Wieboldt, president of Wieboldt Stores, Inc., said yesterday. Located in the heart of the Oak Park-River Forest shopping district, the new three story structure, it is asserted, will be the world's most modern department store in both design and equipment. It will be the largest in the Chicago area west of the Ashland avenue Wieboldt store and will have foundations capable of carrying two additional stories.

ELMER F. WIEBOLDT.

Sixth in the Wieboldt chain of neighborhood and suburban units, the new building will be ready for shoppers on Feb. 15, 1937, Wieboldt said.

To Have Windowless Walls.

Of Indiana limestone, with great longitudinal bands of glass brick and a wide vertical shaft of glass brick at the corner in place of the usual windows, the new store will be a striking example of extreme modern design. Holabird & Root are the architects.

A feature of the year 'round air conditioning system will be the use of cold water from a deep artesian well to be sunk on the premises to keep the temperature down during summer months. In addition the roof will be flooded with several inches of water to insulate the upper story against heat.

It has been suggested that a section of this artificial roof pond be lined with sand and made into a wading pool and sun beach for youngsters of shoppers. Whether this is practicable or not has not been determined.

Permanent Sidewalk Canopy.

Another feature common in Europe and in some southern cities, but new to the Chicago area, will be a permanent canopy built out over the entire sidewalks along the frontage of both Lake street and Harlem avenue. This will shield pedestrians from sun or rain and enable them to window-shop in all kinds of weather.

Lighting effects will be emphasized both inside and outside the store. All interior illumination will be of the indirect type. In addition to daylight filtering in through the bands of glass bricks on the two street elevations, there will be regulation windows on the west and south sides, overlooking a large parking space and an alley.

On the outside the use of graduated colored lighting effects similar to those on the Firestone sign at A Century of Progress has been suggested for the three big signs. There will be two tall vertical letter shafts at the street ends of the building and a long horizontal sign at the corner. These all may be made to glow in slowly changing colors if the Firestone idea is carried out.

Four Acres for Shopping.

The store will front 196 feet on Lake street and 211 feet on Harlem avenue, covering approximately one acre. Its basement and first, second and third floors will have a total of about four acres of shopping space. When the unit is completed the six Wieboldt stores will have a grand total of more than 33 acres of floor area.

As the Oak Park-River Forest store will cater to a large suburban area, extensive parking space will be provided just west of the building on Lake street.

According to President Wieboldt the unit will contain all the regulation departments found in the other stores, including a large grocery and meat market in the basement, and a service café on the first floor. It will have three large double door elevators. Ceilings will be high throughout the store.

First Store Started in 1884.

The first Wieboldt store on Milwaukee avenue near Ashland was started by W. A. Wieboldt Sr. in 1884. The second store, at Lincoln and Belmont, was opened in 1917. A third was started in 1925 at Ashland, Monroe and Ogden. Store No. 4 is in Evanston on Davis street. In Englewood is the fifth Wieboldt store, a five story structure on 63d near Halsted.

In addition to President Wieboldt the other officers of Wieboldt Stores, Inc., are: Werner A. Wieboldt, chairman of the board, and A. R. Findley, secretary-treasurer.

Chicago Firm to Manage Hoosier Lake Project

Pon & Co. announce they have been appointed sales agent for the Lake Dalecaria development, comprising 600 acres three miles south of Crown Point, Ind.

Contracts Awarded

Contracts awarded in Chicago the week of June 12 to 18, according to figures supplied by the F. W. Dodge corporation, totaled 50, with a combined cost of $894,695. For the corresponding week last year there were 36 contracts totaling $297,000. So far this year the total cost of contracts is $16,425,030, compared with $10,417,589 for the same period last year.

Pabst Head Builds Home on North Shore

Work has just been started on what is said to be the most elaborate and modern residence erected on the north shore in many years, the Georgian home of Harris Perlstein, president of the Premier-Pabst corporation, at Glencoe. Pereira & Pereira of Chicago are the architects.

Completely fireproof, air conditioned, with elevator service, thoroughly insulated, equipped with automatic fire alarms, flood light burglar protection, independent temperature control for every room, wood burning fireplaces, taproom and screened-in porches, the new Perlstein residence will stand in the middle of a six acre tract bounded by Sheridan road, Ravine glade, and South and Longwood avenues, only a short distance from the lake.

All Walls of Stone.

Construction will be of steel and concrete slabs, with exterior walls of Wisconsin Lannon stone, trimmed with Indiana limestone and topped with a rust colored tile roof.

The first floor plan provides a large main hall, 18x37, from which opens on one side a living room, 37x26, with a sun parlor facing the lake. On the other is an oval shaped dining room, 25 feet long, from which opens a circular breakfast room. Also opening off the main hall is a large library, with built-in shelves and a fireplace.

There are five bedrooms, each with private bath, and all except one, with a wood burning fireplace. There also is a large upstairs sitting room and screened porch and dressing room off the master bedroom. In the servants' wing there are four bedrooms.

Flood Lights for Burglars.

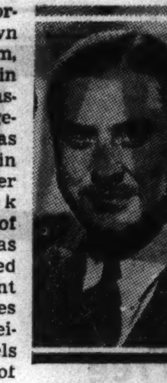
A taproom, billiard and game room, and a lounge are provided in the basement. The third floor eventually is to be made into a large ballroom.

All trim throughout the house will be of birch, enameled white, with the exception of the library, which will be paneled in walnut. The entire house, with the exception of the kitchen and servants' quarters, will be air conditioned both winter and summer. All windows will be double plate glass with air space between.

Flood lights concealed in the copper downspouts under the roof will flood the building and grounds with light at the touch of a button in case burglars are suspected. A four car garage with quarters above for several employés and a large greenhouse adjoin the residence on the north.

HUGH MICHELS OPENS OWN REAL ESTATE OFFICE

Hugh C. Michels, for the last twelve years with the Chicago Title and and Trust company, has organized his own real estate firm, specializing in commercial leasing and management. He has opened offices in the Loop Center building, Clark and Madison, of which he has been appointed managing agent by the trustees of the Levi Z. Leiter estate. Michels was in charge of commercial leasing for the Chicago Title and Trust, and also was active in the management of several downtown buildings, under the direction of reorganization groups. Previously he had supervised the real estate management division of the title concern.



HUGH MICHELS.

WALGREEN REAL ESTATE MANAGER BUYS RESIDENCE

Arthur S. Bowes, manager of the real estate department of the Walgreen company and also a director, yesterday purchased the fourteen room three story brick residence at the northeast corner of Ellis avenue and East 48th street, for an undisclosed consideration. The property fronts 170 feet on 48th and 75 feet on Ellis.

After extensive modernization Bowes will occupy the residence about Oct. 1, according to H. R. Hoffman, of McKey & Poague, who negotiated the sale. George R. Kirkup of the Medical Protective company of Wheaton was seller.

Brokers' Notes

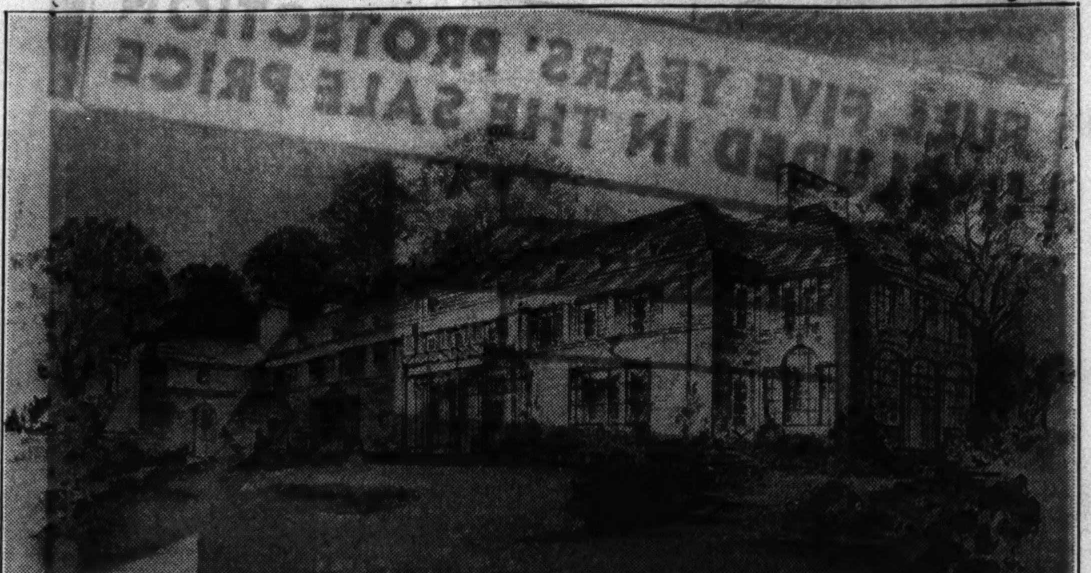
Edward Gregor, who has been in the real estate business on the northwest side for the last sixteen years, has enlarged his offices at 4200 Lawrence avenue by leasing two stores and remodeling into modern offices. This was necessitated by rapidly increasing business, it was stated.

William G. Booth announces the opening of an office at 8 South Dearborn, where he will operate a real estate, loan, and appraisal business. He formerly was principal land appraiser for the housing division of the PWA.

MODERN SHOPPING CENTER FOR WESTERN SUBURBANITES

Wieboldt's million dollar three story department store, of extremely modern design, as shown above, will be erected at the southwest corner of Lake street and Harlem avenue, in River Forest, diagonally across from the Oak Park store of Marshall Field & Co. and directly opposite a forest preserve. Holabird & Root are the architects. Details are given in an adjoining column.

Georgian Residence to Be Erected in Glencoe



Harris Perlstein, president of the Premier Pabst corporation, will build the above residence on a six acre tract in Glencoe bounded by Sheridan road, Ravine glade, Longwood avenue, and South avenue. Pereira & Pereira of Chicago are the architects. Details are given in an adjoining column.

BEGIN TOMORROW ON $100,000 CINEMA FOR BEVERLY HILLS

Work will start tomorrow morning on a $100,000 moving picture theater in the Beverly Hills district. An 800 seat playhouse is to be erected on the south side of West 107th street, between Wood street and Hale avenue, by George Arquilla, who owns and operates the Rainbow theater in West Pullman. It will be called the Academy.

Plans by Architect George Buckley call for a cinema of modern design with two stores adjoining the main entrance to occupy a site 75 by 150 feet. It will be air conditioned. The Burnside Construction company has the general contract.

Arquilla purchased the theater site and adjoining property, 225 by 250 feet in all, from Ernest B. Cressap for an undisclosed consideration. Racine Thompson, of the office of Bartholomew O'Toole, was broker. It is understood the adjoining vacant land not used by the playhouse will be utilized for parking for patrons.

This will be the second moving picture theater to be erected in the Beverly Hills area during the last two years. The Beverly was built at the southeast corner of 95th and Ashland in the summer of 1934.

WARD LEASES SIX STORY BUILDING IN SUPERIOR ST.

Montgomery Ward & Co. yesterday leased the entire six story and basement building at 519-31 West Superior street, from the Chicago Title and Trust company, trustee, for an undisclosed term of years at a reported annual average rental of $20,000. The building contains 100,000 square feet of floor area.

The company will use one floor for its printing department and the balance of the building for expansion of other units. Lang, Weiss & Cella were brokers.

FHA Plans Information Bureau for Homewood

The Federal Housing administration will open an information bureau tomorrow in the Cook County Trust and Savings bank in Homewood. Norman J. Reilly, FHA field representative, will be at the office from 9 to 4 and from 7 to 9 to give out information regarding FHA insured mortgages.

Leases Monroe Street Building for New Cafe

George O. Cobb, former manager of Miss Scott's tea room, at one time in the old Women's Temple building, La Salle and Monroe, has leased the building at 166 West Monroe, 20x180 feet, from Jennie R. Gerstley. After modernization he will open a new restaurant on June 22, according to Eli Geiger of the George S. Lurie company, who negotiated the lease.

MOVES AFTER TWENTY YEARS.

August Motycka, who has operated a fruit and vegetable store at 3356 West 26th street for twenty years, has leased larger quarters at 3316 West 26th.

Survey Shows Cash Paid on Straus Issues

For the first time a complete survey of interest and dividend distributions to the security holders of reorganized bond issues in the middle west and southwest, originally financed by S. W. Straus & Co., was issued yesterday by M. A. Rosenthal, president of the Securities Service corporation, which provides reorganization service to bondholders' committees.

"The survey indicates an increase in distributions on real estate securities, which is growing rapidly," Rosenthal said. "In 1933 only four of this group of reorganized issues in the central western states made any distribution. In 1934 thirteen issues made distributions and in 1935 there were forty-seven. This year, up to and including June 30, fifty-two issues will have made distributions."

Half on Paying Basis.

Rosenthal stated that to date there have been approximately 120 Straus properties reorganized. Of these 57, or approximately half, have been placed on an interest or dividend paying basis, as shown in an adjoining list. Thirty-seven have had interest payments made and twenty, in which stock in new corporations was given to bondholders in place of bonds, have paid dividends.

He said that there have been several Straus properties which have never defaulted and others which have defaulted but which have not been completely reorganized.

The sums paid out in dividends, both earned and in liquidation, and in interest distributions on the new securities are reported to be as follows:

1934 and prior	$ 672,088
1935	1,416,626
1936 to June 30	906,832
Total	$2,995,546

Part of Bonds Retired.

"In addition to the $2,995,546 distributions, a number of properties have retired portions of the new bond issues through sinking fund operations," said Rosenthal. "The total face amount so retired is $968,480. In addition to distributions of cash and the retirement of bonds by means of purchase through sinking funds, substantial reductions of unpaid reorganization expenses have been made by many properties.

"New first mortgages in limited amounts were placed on some properties to pay taxes and reorganization expenses and in a number of cases these have been reduced by prepayments. Of the total distribution of $2,995,546 there have been paid $2,655,371 on account of interest and $340,175 in dividends."

Baird & Warner Open New Branch Office in Oak Park

Baird & Warner announce the opening of a new major branch office at 101 South Oak Park avenue, Oak Park, under the management of Jules F. Fisher. Fisher, who has been with Baird & Warner for the last eight years, was president of the Evanston Real Estate board in 1933.

BEG YOUR PARDON

Leo A. Solomon, president of the G. C. Modernize Old Building to Aid Street

Modernization of the building at the northwest corner of East street and Ellis avenue which, hoped, will lead to the improve of other nearby structures built [illegible] ing the 1893 World's Fair Exposition period, was announced recently by Harold J. Betts, real estate consultant.

"We are taking the corner of this building, or about 66 feet on 55th street and 44 feet on Ellis avenue, and entirely modernizng this segment more or less as an experiment," Betts said. "In this section we are installing main floor stores and apartments which will be modern in every respect.

Few Improvements.

"During the Columbian Exposition period 55th street from the Illinois Central station to Washington park was developed, mostly with three and four story buildings of the old bay type. There has been little modernization or normal improvement of the structures in many years.

"With the upper space, particularly, becoming antiquated in appearance, design, and equipment a poor class of tenants was attracted. This in turn hurt the street and the first floor merchants have felt the influence of the change in the upper floor residential space.

In Good Area.

"If this were part of a broad movement in the entire Hyde Park district and its environs, there might be nothing to do as a corrective measure, but the University of Chicago is directly to the south and there is a good residential district to the north. Therefore, we have a street in the center of an attractive neighborhood which is not up to par.

"We expect to have the remodeled building completed between Aug. 15 and Sept. 15. Walter McDougall is architect and Charles Waterton is general contractor. When finished the building will stand thoroughly modern surrounded by antiquated structures. We expect the results of the undertaking to have a bearing on the future of the entire street."

NEW FACTORY UNIT WILL GIVE JOBS TO 100 MEN

The Flintkote company, roofing manufacturer, has purchased land adjoining its Chicago Heights plant on 17th street near Wentworth avenue and will spend more than $200,000 for an addition to the factory, it was reported yesterday.

On the property acquired is an old structure, most of which will be wrecked. The balance will be modernized and in addition a new two story unit will be erected, 120x160. Excavating will be started this week.

The new unit will be used for the manufacture of asbestos shingles and asbestos siding and will give employment to 100 men.

HARLEM HEIGHTS PROJECT GETS FHA APPROVAL

The Federal Housing administration has approved the Harlem Heights development of the Robert Bartlett Realty company for insured financing through the FHA. The property is between 119th and 127th streets, Oak Park avenue and 74th avenue.

Fifteen homes have been completed, four are under construction, and, according to Bartlett, three are under contract with four more in the process of negotiation. Although none of the homes built was financed through the FHA, they are now eligible for it. Bartlett predicts 100 homes will be built at Harlem Heights by Christmas.

MORTGAGE MEN PLAN OUTING AT GLEN OAK CLUB

The annual golf tournament of the Chicago Mortgage Bankers' association will be held at the Glen Oak Country club, just east of Glen Ellyn, next Thursday, June 25. Cups and other prizes will be awarded at a steak dinner following the tournament.

Members of the committee in charge of arrangements are Leroy F. Pape, chairman; George H. Dovenmuehle, T. C. Hull, Robert Jacobsen, Earle Vincent Johnson, and Ferd Kramer.

Ritchie Stockholders Form New Organization

Stockholders of the Ritchie Bond and Mortgage company recently voted voluntarily to dissolve the corporation. A new company has been formed, the Ritchie Realty and Management company, with Charles T. Ritchie as president; Herbert S. Brownell, vice president, and Harry S. Chinberg, secretary-treasurer. It will occupy the quarters of the old concern.

All but a few of the bond issues underwritten by the Ritchie Bond and Mortgage company have now been reorganized and a majority of the reorganized buildings is paying dividends to the stockholders, who were the former bondholders, according to Chinberg.

MERCY HOSPITAL BUYS OLD HOME OF HENRY LYTTON

The three story, twenty-five room stone residence at 2700 Prairie avenue, former home of Henry C. Lytton, president of The Hub, was purchased yesterday by Mercy hospital from Walter Lytton. According to a hospital official it will be used either as a nurses' club or a guest house, after considerable modernization.

The house, standing on a lot 60x180, was erected by Col. A. A. Sprague in the late '90s and later purchased by Henry C. Lytton, who made it his home for several years.

The sale was made by George E. Doyle, sales manager of the Hyde Park Real Estate Service. The price was not disclosed. Other sales reported by Elmer E. Baldwin, manager, included six apartments at 5466 Kenwood avenue from the First National bank to Adolph M. Lang, and the three story residence at 4438 Ellis avenue from Anne Hardy Eckstrom to Edgar L. Schnadig.

NUMEROUS JUNE WEDDINGS HOLD SOCIAL INTEREST

Margery Preston Is Bride of Harry Nacey Jr.

BY JUDITH CASS.

Many weddings of interest took place yesterday in Chicago and the suburbs. At 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon in Wheaton, where Mr. and Mrs. Howard P. Preston are occupying the home of Mrs. Horace O. Westmore this summer, their daughter, Miss Margery Preston, became the bride of Harry M. Nacey Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry M. Nacey of Lake Shore drive.

The wedding service was read in the living room before an improvised altar of greens and white flowers, and a reception followed for the small group of relatives and close friends present. The bride wore a cool and summery dress of filmy white marganza over a white satin slip. The dress was made with a round high shirred neckline, puffed sleeves and a train, and with it the bride wore a tulle veil which was attached to a pearl coronet. She carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley.

Miss Virginia Preston was her sister's only attendant. John Nacey served his brother as best man. After a wedding trip to Bermuda Mr. Nacy and his bride will be at home in Knoxville, Tenn., where he is engaged in business.

Stevens-Cummer Nuptials.

Miss Caroline Stevens, who was married to Wellington Willson Cummer II. yesterday afternoon in the Fourth Presbyterian church in town, also chose a summery frock, one of white chiffon made with long, full sleeves and a round neckline. A girdle of crystal beads gathered the dress in tightly at the waist and then allowed the material to fall in soft folds back into a long train. A tiny round choirboy cap of crystal beading held a long white chiffon veil to her head, and she carried a spray of small white orchids. For something old and something borrowed, the bride carried a handkerchief that the bridegroom's mother. Mrs. Waldo Emerson Cummer of Jacksonville. Fla., and his two sisters carried on their wedding days.

The bridesmaids were Mrs. Robert H. Paul Jr. of New York, a sister of the bridegroom; Miss Elizabeth Jones, also of New York; Miss Virginia Stewart and Miss Ilma Jane Theurer.

James Palmer Johnson of Chicago served Mr. Cummer as best man. The church was decorated in greens and white flowers, with two large bowls of calla lilies, one at either side of the green-banked altar. Mr. and Mrs. Charles G. Stevens and Mr. and Mrs. Cummer received with the bride and bridegroom immediately following the ceremony at a reception which Mr. and Mrs. Stevens gave for their daughter and new son-in-law in their apartment at 1500 Lake Shore drive.

Mr. Cummer and his bride will spend the first part of the summer in Canada and will be at home in New Haven, Conn., next fall when he will resume his studies at the Yale Architectural school.

Ruth Stevens Is Bride.

At noon yesterday in St. Mary's church in Evanston, Miss Ruth Stevens, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Burt D. Stevens, became the bride of Thomas H. Anderson Jr. of San Francisco. The bride wore the same gown in which her two sisters were married. It was of white satin, and the veil that fell the length of the long train was edged with lace loaned by the bridegroom's mother. She carried gardenias and lilies of the valley.

Mrs. John Haas [Ann Stevens], Miss Marianna McCabe and Mrs. Don Petty, bridesmaids, wore print dresses with big blue hats and carried bouquets of bachelor buttons and roses. Mrs. Robert Gerlicher, another sister of the bride, wore light blue marquisette with a matching hat.

Francis S. Chambers Jr. of Pittsburgh served as best man. A reception followed in the cottage at the Glen View club which Mr. and Mrs. Stevens are occupying this summer.

Wearing her grandmother's wedding gown, imported from France in 1865, Miss Adelia Rollinson Barroll, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Edward Barroll of Winnetka, was married yesterday afternoon to Sarell Wood Beal Jr. of Evanston. The wedding took place in Christ church chapel, Winnetka, with the Rev. Leland Danforth of Kenilworth officiating. The bride's attendants were Mrs. Albert E. Wright Jr., Miss Jeannette Barroll, and Miss Barbara Beal.

Bouquet Like One in 1865.

The bridal bouquet was an old-fashioned one of white rosebuds and white sweet peas, exactly like the one Adelia Rollinson of New York wore in 1865 when she was married to Henry Ballard Barroll of Baltimore.

In Evanston at a quiet ceremony at home at 4:30 o'clock, Mrs. Elizabeth Harding Starrett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Harding, and Joseph D. Stockton, son of Mrs. John T. Stockton of Evanston, were married. The Rev. Paul A. Wolfe of the First Presbyterian church read the ceremony in the presence of the families. The bride was unattended. She wore a print dress and jacket, a brown taffeta hat and brown accessories, and gardenias. Walter Stockton served his brother as best man. Mr. Stockton and his bride will live in Evanston.

The Rev. Aloysius Dineen of New York officiated at the ceremony yesterday morning in St. Mary of the Lake church when his cousin, Miss Evelyn Cecilia McIntyre, became the bride of William Henry Conley. The bride was given in marriage by her brother-in-law, Glenn Frederic Davis, whose wife attended as matron of honor, and the Paulist choristers sang. Mrs. George V. McIntyre gave a wedding breakfast and reception for her daughter at home following the ceremony.

Sorge-Dunne Ceremony.

Detroit, Mich., June 20.—[Special.]—Ruth Ann Sorge, daughter of Mrs. Paul A. Sorge of Detroit, became the bride this noon of Eugene Lawrence Dunne of Chicago, son of former Gov. Edward F. Dunne of Illinois, at a ceremony in the Catholic chancery here. The Rev. Leo De Barry officiated.

Mrs. Carl M. Berry of Kansas City was the bride's only attendant. Robert J. Hummer of Chicago was the best man.

The bride wore a dusky pink sheer crêpe frock and cape with a brown and navy blue corded girdle and matching buttons at the neckline. The corsage was of cymbidium orchids. Her hat was a large brim Baku with dusky pink trim and her accessories were brown.

Following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was held at the University club. Mr. and Mrs. Dunne left for a trip to Sand Lake Country club, Eagle River, Wis. They will be at home after Sept. 1 on East Lake terrace, Chicago.

Among the out-of-town guests at the wedding were the bridegroom's father, Mrs. William J. Corboy, Mr. and Mrs. Richard J. Dunne, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Leonard, Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Dunne, Judge and Mrs. Robert Jerome Dunne, Miss Jeannette Dunne, Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Hummer, and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Illian, all of Chicago; Mr. and Mrs. Edward F. Dunne Jr. of Convent, N. J., and Mrs. Annie Quinlan, Miss Elizabeth Quinlan, and Walter R. Berry of Minneapolis.

Witte-Kemper Wedding.

Milwaukee, Wis., June 20.—[Special.]—St. Paul's Episcopal church was the scene at 6 o'clock this afternoon of the marriage of Frances Witte, only daughter of Dr. and Mrs. W. C. F. Witte, and William Rapp Kemper of Evanston. Mr. Kemper is the son of the Alfred C. Kempers of of Evanston, and a descendant of a pioneer Milwaukee family.

Miss Witte wore a bridal gown of imported triple sheer chiffon fashioned over shimmering white satin. A cluster of white lilacs formed a small wisp of cap. From it fell a tulle veil that reached the hem of her gown, small ripples at the side graduating to the length of the train. She carried a bouquet of white lilacs.

Mrs. John C. Meiners of Evanston, sister of the bridegroom, was the matron of honor. The bridesmaids were Mrs. A. John Rose Jr. of New York, the former Marguerite Kopmeier; Miss Jean Pearson of East Orange, N. J.; Mrs. Edwin A. Gallun, and Mrs. Louis Desire Caron Jr. Herbert Banze of Chicago was the best man.

A reception at the Milwaukee Country club followed the ceremony. After a month's honeymoon in Taos, N. M., the young couple will return to Chicago to make their home.

SIX IRIDESCENT HUMMING BIRDS AT BROOKFIELD

Six iridescent humming birds and three phainopepla [black crested fly catchers] arrived at the Chicago Zoological park in Brookfield yesterday after an overland flight from San Francisco.

The fragile birds take no credit for the flight, however, as they came in a United Air Lines plane, necessitated by the fact that they have to be fed every four hours on honey and water, dry locust meal and ant eggs.

All nine were the gifts of Eric C. Kinzie, bird collector of San Francisco. The tiny humming birds, whose beaks are longer than their bodies and whose delicate wings once were considered a fit delicacy for an emperor's table, must be kept in an even temperature of 75 degrees.

A zoo giraffe was formally named "Stilts" as a feature of Oak Park day yesterday. He was given his name by Shirley Gable, 9 years old, 705 Carpenter avenue, Oak Park. James A. Howe, president of the Oak Park village board, presided at the ceremony.

Mayor Cregier's Grandson Weds Elizabeth Shepard

Miss Elizabeth Ann Shepard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. True Shepard of Wilmette, was married yesterday afternoon in the Drake hotel to Ellsworth B. Cregier. Mr. Cregier is the son of the late N. Banks Cregier and the grandson of the late DeWitt C. Cregier, who was mayor of Chicago from 1889 to 1891. The bride was attended by Miss Elizabeth Miles of Arlington Heights and the bridegroom by Edward L. Gorey. The Rev. Henry Clark performed the ceremony.

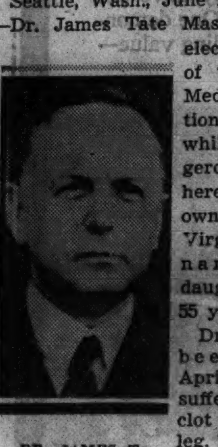
MEDICAL GROUP PRESIDENT DIES IN HIS HOSPITAL

Elected to Office While Seriously Ill.

Seattle, Wash., June 20.—[Special.]—Dr. James Tate Mason, who was elected president of the American Medical association last May 12 while he lay dangerously ill, died here today in his own hospital, the Virginia Mason, named for his daughter. He was 55 years old.



DR. JAMES T. MASON. [Acme Photo]

Dr. Mason had been ill since April 6, when he suffered a blood clot in his left leg. The leg later was amputated but his condition failed to improve. His death was expected hourly during the sessions of the A. M. A. in Kansas City at which he was elected president.

Born in Virginia.

Born in Orange county, Va., Dr. Mason came to Washington in 1907, two years after his graduation from the University of Virginia. He brought many young southern doctors here to serve internships in his hospitals.

His fame grew out of his work as a surgeon and a goiter specialist. He served as superintendent of the county hospital here from 1916 to 1920 and as surgeon-in-chief and superintendent of the Mason clinic and the Virginia Mason hospital since 1920. In 1930 he was vice president of the American Association for the Study of Goiter, and he was a former president of the Pacific Coast Surgeons' association.

Widow from Seattle.

In 1912 Dr. Mason married Laura DeWolfe Whittlesey of Seattle, who survives him, with three children—James Tate Jr., Mary Virginia, and Frederick De Wolfe Mason.

MOTHER TO KEEP CHILD, 6, IF SHE WEDS IN 2 WEEKS

Judge Michael Feinberg of the Circuit court yesterday awarded the custody of Raymond Meucci, 6 years old, to his mother, Mrs. Josephine Meucci, 25 years old, of Milwaukee, for a trial period of two weeks.

Should Mrs. Meucci marry Leonard Cionciola of Milwaukee within a fortnight as she and Cionciola promised the court they would, and should they provide a suitable home, Judge Feinberg said he would then make the custody order permanent.

Otherwise Raymond will be given back to his foster parents, Mr. and Mrs. Aldo Bachini, 1614 South 51st street, Cicero. They adopted the child after the death of his father in September, 1934. The Meuccis were living apart at that time. Mrs. Meucci had the adoption set aside a week ago.

During a court hearing Friday, she fainted when Raymond called her his "first mamma," and Mrs. Bachini his "true mamma."

Mrs. Amy Bitterman, 61, to Be Buried Tomorrow

Funeral services will be held at 3 p. m. tomorrow at the chapel at 316 West 63rd street for Mrs. Amy Bitterman, 61 years old, 978 Milwaukee avenue. She was the wife of Joseph Bitterman, for more than 25 years a clerk in the Municipal court and now a pensioner. Mrs. Bitterman died Friday at the Presbyterian hospital from a heart attack. Surviving, in addition to her husband, are two brothers, Alfred and Frank Macey, both of Jamesport, Mo.

Funeral Rites Tomorrow for Mrs. Ellen O'Grady, 85

Funeral services for Mrs. Ellen McCue O'Grady, for nearly 50 years a resident of Chicago, will be held at 9 a. m. tomorrow at St. Frances of Rome church, Cicero. Burial will be in Mount Carmel cemetery. Mrs. O'Grady, who was 85 years old, died Friday at her home, 1107 South Lyman avenue, Oak Park. Surviving are a daughter, Mrs. Mary Keenan, and seven grandchildren.

SCHOOLBOY AIDS MOTHER'S CAUSE IN DIVORCE CASE

Albert C. Buehler Jr., 13 years old, a student at Lake Forest academy, testified in the Superior court of Judge Rudolph F. Desort yesterday against his father in the suit for divorce brought by Mrs. Goldie Buhler, 30 years old, 151 Abingdon road, Kenilworth.

Mrs. Buhler is asking an increase in the $300 a month temporary alimony awarded her and their four children, whose custody she was given. She charges cruelty.

"Dad swore one time when he opened the laundry and said, 'This is the twelfth pair of socks I have taken out and none of them match,'" declared the son. "Another time dad slammed down the telephone receiver when mother started to call the police. Then he tried to scare mother by telling her he was going to call the police."

On St. Valentine's day last year, said the boy, Buhler came home with a "light blonde hair" on his coat lapel. Both of his parents have dark hair, the son testified. The hearing was continued for a week.

George W. Grady, Veteran Railroad Employe, Dies

George W. Grady, 60 years old, 603 North Mayfield avenue, an employé of the North Western railroad for 36 years, died yesterday at the Oak Park hospital. He was transferred to Chicago 26 years ago from the railway's Missouri valley shops at Logan, Ia., to the Kinzie and 42d street shops, where he became foreman. He was survived by his widow, Mrs. Mae J. Grady, two daughters and two sons. Funeral services will be held Tuesday at 3 p. m. in the chapel at 318 North Central avenue, and will be in charge of Austin Commandery, No. 84, Knights Templar. Interment will be at Woodlawn cemetery.

Harry R. Miller, Engineer at Wheaton College, Dies

AGNES TIBBETTS, 60, ONCE 'NEILSON SISTER' IN VAUDEVILLE, DEAD

New York, June 20.—(AP)—Mrs. Agnes Tibbetts, 60, former vaudeville actress, once featured as one of the "Neilson Sisters," was found dead today in a West 43d street hotel where she had been living.

She was born in Norfolk, Va.

She was known on the vaudeville stage as Agnes Neilson, touring from 1894 to 1920. Later she appeared in motion pictures and recently had a part in a WPA theater project.

THOMAS E. DUNN, AN INSPECTOR IN CUSTOMS, DIES

Thomas E. Dunn, 72 years old, 5929 Midway Park, an inspector in the United States customs service for the last 47 years, died of a heart ailment early yesterday in his home. A daughter, Mrs. Catherine Carroll, told police her father had become excited over the broadcast of the Louis-Schmeling fight. Besides Mrs. Carroll, Mr. Dunn is survived by another daughter, Mrs. Irene Cotter, and two sons, John M., a clerk for the city council, and Thomas E. Jr.

Mount Vernon, Ill., June 20.—[Special.]—E. M. Walker, one of Jefferson county's veterans of the civil war, died today in his 93d year.

EXTEND DEADLINE TO THURSDAY FOR RELIEF REQUESTS

The deadline for local governments of the state to file applications for state relief funds with the Illinois Emergency Relief commission has been extended from yesterday until next Thursday. Leo M. Lyons, executive secretary of the commission and head of relief for the city, said the delay is necessitated by failure of all governments to list their relief needs for July, the first month in which Chicago and all townships of the state will administer relief.

After July 1 the only function of the IERC will be to allocate to the various counties $2,000,000 a month from the state sales tax. "Since we will have a very definite sum to allocate, it is imperative we know the needs of all townships before we begin to distribute the fund," Lyons said.

G. A. GALLEY, 66, SUPERVISOR OF RIVERSIDE, DIES

Gustave A. Galley, 66 years old, died suddenly of heart disease yesterday at his home, 341 Nuttall road, Riverside.

Mr. Galley was for three decades head of the clothing manufacturing department of Sears, Roebuck & Co., but resigned eight years ago. He had since been supervisor of Riverside township, in which he had lived since 1915.

Surviving Mr. Galley are his widow, three sons, and five daughters. Funeral services will be held at 3:15 p. m. tomorrow in the chapel at 177 Woodside road, Riverside. Burial will be in Forest Home cemetery.

IT'S GRASS, NOT HAY FEVER, BUT SNEEZE IS SAME

Although the ragweed season, in which the bulk of seasonal hay fever suffering occurs, is more than six weeks away, many persons in the Chicago area are feeling the effects of the current grass season, which sends pollen into the air and often causes hay fever symptoms.

This season the grass pollen is scarce, however, due to the dry, cool spring, which has not allowed grass to flourish and mature pollen freely, experts pointed out yesterday.

Last year, when moisture was plentiful, pollen during this period amounted on one day to 120 grains per cubic yard of air. The last pollen count made in the loop this week by doctors affiliated with the Illinois State Medical society showed 32 grains per cubic yard. Of these, nine were grass pollen; eight, red sorrel; four, pine; one, unidentified; eight, rust, and two, alternaria, a form of fungi or molds.

The grass season starts about May 20 to 25 and continues to July 25, Dr. Feinberg said. At present June grass, red top, and timothy are pollinating. Sufferers affected by one grass are affected by all, and about half of the persons who develop hay fever symptoms from ragweed also suffer from grass pollen, Dr. Feinberg said.

FIRST OF CITY'S NEW BUSES DUE EARLY IN JULY

Deliveries of the first of 100 new streamlined double deck buses for use on Chicago streets will begin early next month. This was announced yesterday by the Chicago Motor Coach company.

Benjamin Weintraub, vice president, said the company will use the new equipment on four of its major lines. He said all the buses, which are being built by General Motors corporation at Pontiac, Mich., will be delivered within four months.

The buses are similar to experimental models which have been in operation here for the last year with improvements added as a result of the experience gained with the first models. Each bus will seat 73 passengers.

The new units will be placed in operation on the Drexel-Hyde Park, Washington boulevard, Sheridan road, and either the Addison street or South Park way lines.

MUSIC FESTIVAL ENLISTS PLAYERS OF HARMONICAS

Girl, 16, Will Compete with Man, 46.

BY PHILIP MAXWELL.

A 46 year old man and a 16 year old girl are entered in the harmonica contest that will be a feature this summer of the seventh Chicagoland Music Festival, to be held under the auspices of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE and other newspapers and music organizations of the central states.

HARRIET ENTLER.

The man is Roscoe Willett, a janitor for the Jackson Storage and Van company of La Grange, who lives at 326 North Waiola avenue, La Grange. The girl is Harriet Entler, a third year student at Harper High school, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry E. Entler, 6632 South Irving avenue. The winner of the contest is to appear before 100,000 persons in Soldiers' field at the festival concert on Saturday night, Aug. 15.

He Doesn't Like Jaz.

Mr. Willett takes his playing quite seriously—no jaz for him. He was born in Centerville, Ia., and moved to Illinois eleven years ago. He usually carries a harmonica around with him, sometimes two or three of different sizes, and during his spare moments he can be heard playing "The Mocking Bird" or "Let Me Call You Sweetheart."

Miss Entler says she became interested in the harmonica when she passed a store window at 63d street and Ashland avenue that displayed the instrument. She has taught herself from a book of instructions. She will play "Rose Marie" in the Cook county preliminary contest, which will be held late in July.

Plan Yodeling Contest.

Another featured competition will be for yodelers. Official entry blanks for all the festival contests, which include bands, drum corps, baton twirlers, choruses, vocalists, violin and cornet players, and one for song composers, may be obtained by writing to the festival headquarters, room 1418 Tribune Tower, Chicago.

THE TRIBUNE again will offer gold, silver, and bronze medals to the hundreds of winners. During the last six years several thousand of these medals have been distributed, and today they may be found throughout the United States and Canada in the possession of festival victors.

Where One Medal Went.

Frank E. Trobaugh of West Frankfort, Ill., a lawyer and the director of the Egyptian Choral club, which in 1933 won first place in the mixed chorus contest, tells a touching story about the disposition of one of the gold medals.

A member of the chorus that year was William Davies, 73 year old Welshman, a member of a family that had five singers in the organization, representing three generations. Mr. Davies, a miner, received one of THE TRIBUNE'S gold medals awarded to all members of the club. It was one of his prized possessions.

Last March he died just after he had finished singing a Welsh song for a friend. The funeral services were held at Herrin. As the hundreds of friends and relatives passed his bier they saw the Tribune festival gold medal pinned on his coat lapel. It was buried with him.

SURVEY REVEALS CHICAGO STILL IS TOURISTS' MECCA

A survey of hotels, transportation lines, and automobile clubs indicated yesterday that the tourists who will visit Chicago this summer will number approximately one-third more than those of last vacation season. The various agencies all reported increases in reservations since May 1.

William J. Hennessy, head of the convention bureau of the Association of Commerce, said many visitors to the World's Fair in 1933 and 1934 are returning to the city each year to visit places they missed on their first trips. Others are making the city their vacation playground.

"The value of the Fair cannot be measured by just the two years of its duration," he said. "The financial good will be felt for years."

The Chicago Motor club reported the number of service calls from motorists from other states during May exceeded those for the same month a year ago by 33 per cent.

Railroad officials asserted it would take several months to compile accurate statistics, but all reported "a substantial increase in passenger ticket sales."

Warants Claim Goldstein Received Stolen Property

Meyer Goldstein, 40 years old, 4429 North Lawndale avenue, head of a wholesale tailoring company, was charged with receiving stolen property and with attempting to obtain a loan on $10,000 in forged bonds of the American Telephone and Telegraph company in warants issued yesterday by Judge George B. Weiss in Municipal court. The bonds, according to Assistant States Attorney Richard Austin, came from P. David Pinkussohn, who was sentenced recently in federal court to two years in Leavenworth penitentiary.

REVEALS WIDOW'S GIFT OF MILLION TO MICHIGAN U.

1,847 Get Diplomas; 92d Commencement.

Ann Arbor, Mich., June 20.—[Special.]—The University of Michigan, at its 92d annual commencement today, awarded diplomas to 1,847 graduates, conferred honorary degrees on eleven persons, including Walter P. Chrysler, auto manufacturer, and announced a gift of $1,000,000 to the university by the widow of a former partner of Henry Ford.

Dr. Alexander G. Ruthven, university president, who gave the commencement address, announced the gift, which was made by Mrs. Mary A. Rackham of Detroit, widow of Horace Rackhan.

"Human Adjustment" Research.

The fund, President Ruthven said, is to be used for research in "human adjustment," such as the rehabilitation of those whose usefulness to society because of old age or physical defect would otherwise be lost.

Chrysler received the honorary degree of doctor of engineering. Among the others honored was William D. McKenzie, Chicago attorney, who received the honorary degree of master of arts.

Fifty-two from Chicagoland.

Fifty-two students from the Chicagoland area, of whom 31 were from Chicago, were among the 1,847 who received diplomas. They are:

UNCLE DROWNS AFTER HE SAVES NEPHEW'S LIFE

Alexander Sanish, 28 years old, of Whiting was drowned yesterday in Wolf lake after he had saved the life of his nephew, Raymond Justak, 11 years old, who had fallen out of a rowboat.

Raymond and his brother, Eugene, had gone with Sanish to the lake to fish. When the older boy fell overboard, his uncle plunged in at once. Then, fearing that an attempt to reenter the boat would capsize it and endanger Eugene, he swam toward shore with Raymond.

He pushed the boy up the bank just as he became exhausted and sank in water not more than four feet deep.

Policeman's Wife Slugged When She Resists Holdup

Mrs. Anna Neville, 49 years old, 7259 South Maplewood avenue, battled early today with a young man who attempted to rob her near 71st street and Campbell avenue. In the struggle she was struck on the head with a piece of pipe. She continued her resistance, however, and the man fled without getting her purse. Mrs. Neville is the wife of Sergt. Jerry Neville of the Stockyards police.

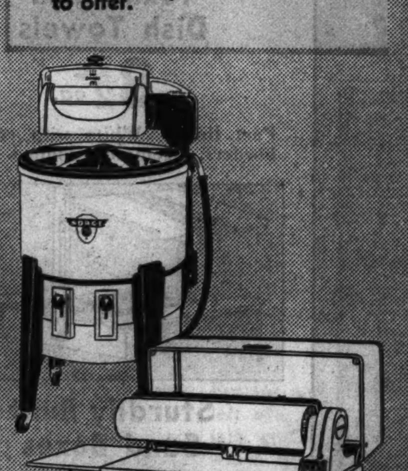
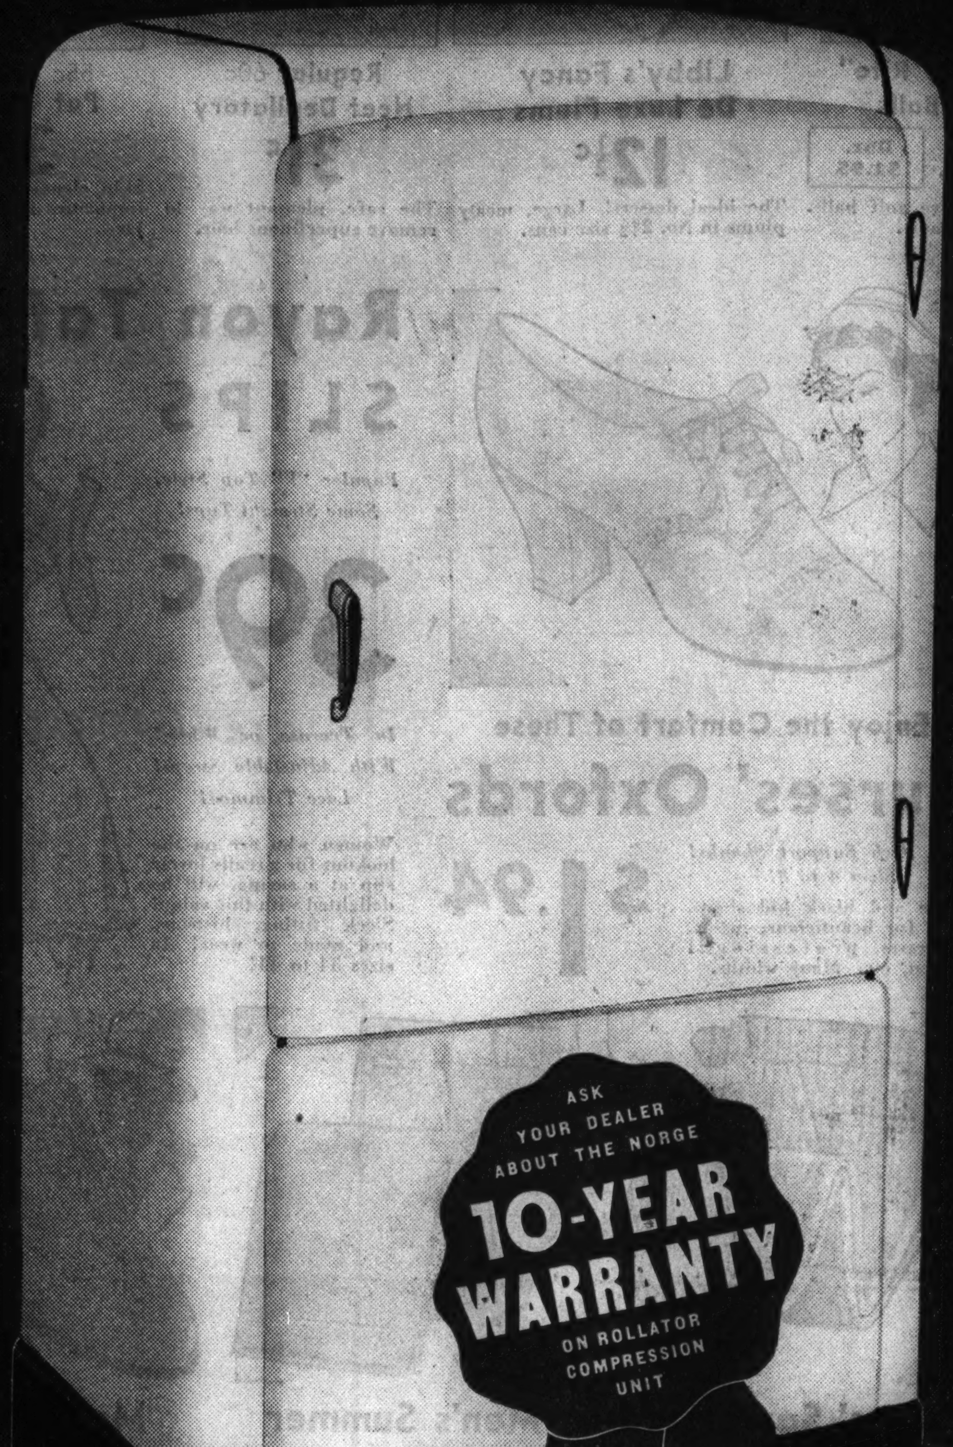
CONCENTRATOR GAS RANGE...designed to match the Norge Rollator Refrigerator in style, convenience, dependable operation, economy, long life. Many models from which to choose—every one a big dollar value. If you are using an obsolete gas range, it will pay you to see what the Norge dealer has to offer.



AUTOBUILT WASHER AND DUOTROL IRONER . . . give you soundest value in modern home laundry equipment. Norge offers five washers—with or without drain pump—powered with gasoline motor if desired. Six ironers enable you to select one that has exactly the features you wish.



Norge sets the Pace!

Norge originated 30 of the most important features in modern refrigeration. THE ROLLATOR cold-making mechanism—introduced in 1926. MODERN STYLING—introduced in 1932. COMPLETELY SEALED ICE COMPARTMENT—introduced in 1926. And 27 other outstanding features. Norge set the pace in the past. Norge sets the pace today. Norge will set the pace in the future.

Ask these two questions about the refrigerator you buy . . . (1) HOW BIG IS THE MOTOR? . . . (2) HOW EFFICIENT IS THE COMPRESSOR? And the answers to those two questions will give you an idea of how the refrigerator will perform when the weather gets really hot.

Even the smallest Norge is powered with a motor so big that the surplus-powered Rollator Compressor—the cold-making mechanism—will have plenty of drive behind it to give you ample protection for your foods on hottest summer days. THAT'S why your Norge will never let you down when you need ice cubes or frozen desserts in a hurry. THAT'S why a Norge runs less—lasts longer—uses less current. A Norge uses less current than an ordinary electric light bulb.

THE ROLLATOR* COMPRESSOR...

Ask the Norge dealer to show you how this famous cold-making mechanism works. See a demonstration of the slow, easy, smooth rolling power which is so much more efficient than the usual hurried back-and-forth action of the ordinary refrigerating mechanism. See how it produces more cold for the current used. Ask about the "Marathon" Rollator—proof of the statement that the Rollator is almost everlasting. Get the facts about how a Norge in your home will cost you nothing because it will pay for itself.

* REG. U. S. PAT. OFF.

EVERY PRACTICAL, USABLE CONVENIENCE FEATURE

The Norge offered you today has Combination Bottle and Dairy Rack—Sliding Utility Basket to keep small items handy—Shelves designed to keep small containers from tipping—Adjustable Shelf for extra large storage space—Acid-resisting porcelain lining with all corners rounded—Hydrovoir for keeping fruits and vegetables fresh—many other improved features of convenience, time and work-saving. Yet, with all its convenience a Norge saves more than it costs—actually pays for itself.

CUBS TAKE 14TH IN ROW; BEAT DODGERS, 6-4

OWENS WINS FOUR N. C. A. A. TITLES; RECORDS FALL

CARPENTER OF U. S. C. THROWS DISCUS 173 FT.

Team Championship to Trojans.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Jesse Owens of Ohio State is the best college athlete in the track and field world. Southern California has the greatest team. And Kenneth Carpenter of that Trojan team performed one of the most noteworthy achievements of the year by breaking the world's discus record.

These were the features of the fifteenth national collegiate meet yesterday at Stagg field. They were approved by more than 9,500 who watched the nation's stars battle for qualifying positions in the final Olympic trials.

For the second year in succession, Owens won four championships. He accounted for more than half of the points which placed his team second to the victorious Southern Californians. In one of his races, the 100 meter dash, the fleet colored lad, captain of the Buckeyes, surpassed the accepted world record of 10 3-10 seconds by one-tenth of a second, and equaled the national collegiate mark set on this same track four years ago by Ralph Metcalfe of Marquette. Metcalfe never applied for international approval.

Trojans Pile Up Points.

Southern California scored in all events except two and piled up 103⅕ points to dominate the competition. Ohio State scored 73 points, 40 through the efforts of Owens. Indiana, led by the brilliant Don Lash, who made his first try at 5,000 meters, the distance he hopes to run for Uncle Sam in the Olympic meet at Berlin, finished third in the team standings with 42 points. Stanford was fourth with 32 points and Michigan took fifth place with 23.

Thirty-three colleges and universities from all sections of the United States scored points.

But Carpenter, by any standard of measurement, must receive the greatest individual acclaim. The Trojan giant tossed the discus 173 feet, more than one foot farther than it ever has been thrown. Carpenter's tremendous throw surpassed the modern Olympic record by nearly 11 feet. By virtue of his performance, Carpenter should lead American weight men to victory at Berlin.

Plenty of Records.

From the welter of excellent records yesterday, four National collegiate records, two world records, and one American record were gleaned. They follow:

1. Carpenter's world record of 173 feet in the discus.
2. Owens' :10.2 second dash for 100 meters, which surpassed the world mark jointly held by Percy Williams, Canada's Olympic champion of 1928, Eddie Tolan and Metcalfe.
3. Alton Terry's javelin throw of 226 feet 2¾ inches for a national collegiate record and the best performance by a native American. Matti Jarvinen, 1932 Olympic champion at Los Angeles and world record holder, also owns the American mark.
4. Archie San Romani, student teacher at Emporia, Kas., won the 1,500 meter race in three minutes 53 seconds to establish an N. C. A. A. record. By his brilliant race, in which Lash finished third, San Romani erased the record of Glenn Cunningham of Kansas, made at Stagg Field in the Olympic trials four years ago.

Vault Champs Tie Again.

Earle Meadows and William Sefton, Southern California's two vaulters, who defended their national collegiate title, again finished in a deadlock yesterday. But they raised the record to 14 feet 1¾ inches.

To this grist should be added the marks in Friday's preliminaries, when Forrest Towns of Georgia broke the accepted world record for 110 meter high hurdles. He was timed in 14.1 seconds. Towns won the championship yesterday after a duel with Dan Caldemeyer of Indiana. The time, however, was one-fifth of a second slower.

In the trials Friday Archie Williams of California, set a world record of 46.1 seconds for 400 meters around

Jesse Owens of Ohio State captures the 220 yard low hurdles, one of his four victories yesterday in the national college meet at Stagg field. Left to right are Leland La Fond of Southern California, sixth; Richard Kearns, Colorado, fifth; Ben Willis, Kentucky, third; Owens; Don Elser, Notre Dame, second; Dell Fishback, California, seventh, and Joe Patterson, United States Naval academy, fourth. Last year Owens also won four titles in the national college games. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

REFEREE TELLS HOW SCHMELING WHIPPED LOUIS

BY HARVEY WOODRUFF.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 20.—Max Schmeling, the fighter who came back, and not Joe Louis, hitherto the invincible Brown Bomber, will meet James J. Braddock, Cinderella Man of pugilism, for the heavyweight championship in September.

Such was an announcement made this afternoon at a victory celebration held in Schmeling's honor at the Forrest hotel. Max was present, his left eye, closed last night by Louis' jabs, still reminding of the conflict in which he knocked out the Brown Bomber in the 12th round. Louis boarded a morning train for Detroit, where his stepfather was in a dangerous condition following a paralytic stroke.

Max Finds Weakness.

Meantime Broadway was unable to return to normal. Possibly Broadway never heard of David and Goliath, or the Monitor and the Merrimac, other upsets in history. But it remembers how Braddock won from Max Baer a year ago.

How did Schmeling, who looked so badly against mediocre sparmates in all except one of his Napanoch training workouts, land that right almost at will against Louis, whose boxing skill had been compared to that of Jack Johnson and Joe Gans? Wishing to confirm our own judgment, we asked Referee Arthur Donovan. Donovan replied:

"Schmeling in the early rounds waited for Louis, a counter puncher to come to him. He was careful. He was more than that. He was smart. He noted that when Louis feinted with his left, he did not deliver the blow. He feinted first, then shot out the left. Schmeling sensed that. He swung his right as Louis feinted and landed before Louis did. Louis' left hand was carried low and it was easy for Max to reach over it. That solution of Louis' style probably won his battle."

Max Willing to Gamble.

Referee Donovan's diagnosis coincided with ours. True, Schmeling proved open to a left as he had been at training camp. His closed left eye attested that. He probably took those blows willingly with his methodical

MANGRUM'S 133 LEADS WESTERN OPEN TOURNEY

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Davenport, Ia., June 20.—Ray Mangrum, Dayton, O., professional, today took the thirty-six hole lead in the Western open golf tournament with a score of 133, nine under par. The lanky Mangrum, who went up and down the hilly terrain of the Davenport Country club yesterday with a 66, today tacked a 67, four under par, onto that.

That 133, which for the two day ride to the halfway mark included sixteen birdies, seemed to be sufficient to stand up without even a challenge throughout the day. The best minds among the attending statisticians agreed that it was the lowest thirty-six hole score ever turned in during a major American open tournament. Henry Cotton shot a 132 in consecutive rounds while he was winning the British open of 1934.

Guldahl Two Strokes Back.

Raymond thought so well of it that as soon as he had posted his score he prepared a wire to his wife to the effect that he was leading the field by seven shots. Presently that margin was reduced to an uncomfortable two strokes by the appearance of Ralph Guldahl of Los Angeles with a similar 67 for a card of 135.

Before the day was over, three other players over whom both Mangrum and Guldahl will have reason to worry in the thirty-six hole final tomorrow were in under 140, each with 139. They were Harry Cooper of Glen Oak, Chicago; MacDonald Smith, the 46 year old Californian, and Horton Smith of Oak Park.

Little, Penna, Take 140.

Next in line were Lawson Little of San Francisco, former amateur king, and Tony Penna of Chicago's Itasca club, each with 140. Frank Walsh, big Chicago Irishman from Bryn Mawr, posted a 141, as did Byron Nelson, the Metropolitan open title holder from Ridgewood, N. J. Johnny Revolta, defending champion from the Evanston club in the Chicago district, reached the turn for the final thirty-six holes with even par for the distance, 142.

Back of Revolta were such 143 shooters as Ky Laffoon of Northmoor, Al Huske of Butterfield, Zell Eaton of Oklahoma City, Byron

Cain Hurls Four Hit Game, But Sox Lose to A's, 2-1, on Homer

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Harry Kelley, 30 year old rookie right hander of the Philadelphia Athletics, yesterday held the White Sox to four hits, a scratch by Jimmy Dykes in the sixth, another single by Dykes with two out in the eighth, a double by Larry Rosenthal, and a scratch single by Tony Piet in the ninth for one run, the Sox total for the day.

Sugar Cain held the Athletics to four hits, a homer by Bob Johnson after the only pass on either side in the second, and a wasted single by Hayes in the same inning, an infield single by Puccinelli in the fourth, and a single by Moses with two out in the ninth.

Johnson's smack, his ninth homer of the year, did the business, a 2 to 1 victory for the Athletics in one of the fastest games played in years. The time was 1:16.

That, Men, Is Pitching!

Only 15 batsmen faced Kelley in the first five innings; only 22 faced him in the first seven innings and only 31 looked at his stuff in nine innings. Only three batsmen faced Cain in the first, third, fourth, fifth, sixth, seventh, and eighth innings. And only 31 faced him in the entire contest.

Yesterday's encounter was the second tough meeting with Kelley the Sox have had at Comiskey park this season. A month ago today they beat him, 3 to 2, scoring the winning run with two out in the 14th inning. Kelley, who was 30 years old last Feb. 13, went to the A's this year from Atlanta, He has been pitching professionally for 13 years, 11 of them in the Southern league, where he always had been consistent, though he failed to make good in brief trials with the Washington Senators and the New York Giants. He won 23 games for Atlanta last year.

That Fatal Walk.

The Athletics hopped off to a two run lead in the second inning as a result of Johnson's No. 9 homer. After both sides had gone out in order in the first inning, Puccinelli opened the second inning by walking. Higgins popped to Piet, then Johnson lined his homer into the left field stands, scoring Pooch. Dykes made a nice play to get Newsome after which Hayes singled to right. Cain tossed out Kelley to end the inning.

Puccinelli again got on first base to start the fourth, this time on a single off Cain's glove. Higgins was called out on strikes and Johnson bounced into a double play started by Piet.

Bonura was the first Chicagoan to reach base and the play developed the unusual circumstance of two errors being committed without the runner going beyond first. Zeke grounded to Higgins and Pinky threw the ball high over Finney's head. Bonura started for second, then looked around and saw the ball bounce off the boxes into Finney's hands. Bonura apparently was trapped, but got back to first when Warstler made a bad throw in the run down. The break gave the Sox no advantage, however, for Appling flied to Puccinelli and Kreevich hit into a double play.

Rosenthal Bangs One.

Dykes led off the sixth with the first hit off Kelley, a dribbler toward third. Grube then flied to Moses, Cain fanned for the second time and Radcliff bounced to Finney.

Dykes singled to center with two out in the eighth for his second hit, lifting the Comiskeys' total to two. Then Grube sent his third fly to Moses.

Rosenthal, making his first appearance in a Sox lineup, batted for Cain at the start of the ninth and doubled to left center, the third hit off Kelley. Rosenthal took third on a wild pitch and held on while Radcliff was being thrown out by Hayes. Rosenthal scored on Piet's roller toward third, beating Higgins' throw to the plate. Piet was credited with a single. Haas popped to Hayes and Bonura lined to Warstler.

Chicago Derby to Hollyrood; Carvola Is 2d

He's on his way toward this mixed up 3 year old championship is Hollyrood, the big bay colt which races for Hal Price Headley of Kentucky.

The big bay proved it in the Chicago Derby while a crowd of 20,000 looked on at the Hawthorne race course yesterday afternoon.

After being held under steadying restraint for a mile while he was running third, Hollyrood drove into the lead on the turn into the stretch. On and on he went, running in the smoothest strides a crowd at Hawthorne ever gazed upon.

Shakes Off Rivals.

One after another of his rivals came up to challenge. He shook them off with great confidence and went on to win by three quarters of a length.

Driving toward Hollyrood near the line of finish in second place was the Maryland filly, Carvola. A neck back in third place was Holl Image from the Superior stable of Chicago. This fellow was charging up on the outside in tremendous stride throughout the final furlongs and appeared to be running faster than all the others. Yet he didn't run fast enough to catch up with Hollyrood.

It was Hollyrood's second Derby triumph within a week. Seven days earlier he had won the $25,000 Detroit Derby in track record time. He didn't have to crack a track record to Win the Chicago Derby which had a gross value of $18,250, of which $13,000 went to Owner Headley as a result of Hollyrood's impressive triumph.

Hollyrood Timed in 2:05

Hollyrood ran this mile and a quarter in 2:05. A speedy early pace had been cut out by Sparta. The quarter was reeled off in :23 4-5, the half in :47 4-5, the three quarters in 1:12 3-5 and the mile in 1:39 1-5. That is, it was a speedy pace as far as the Hawthorne running strip is concerned this year. No spectacular time has been made there due to the deep cushion on the course.

Hollyrood went to the post as the second choice in the betting. Al Tarn's iron horse Rushaway enjoyed the post of honor. As a result Hollyrood paid $7.80 to win, $4 to place and $3 to show. Carvola to place was at $15 and to show at $8.40. The show price on Holl Image was $9.

Rushaway Has No Excuses.

Rushaway had no excuses to offer. He was in a contending position all the way around and Johnny Longden rode a smart, well timed race. When the real battle came in the stretch, the iron horse, which a month ago had won two derbies in two days, lacked the punch that would have taken him up to the leaders.

Rushaway finished seventh, beaten nearly five lengths for all the money.

It was the second biggest racing day of the Hawthorne season. The crowd arrived early. The stands, clubhouse and lawns were packed by the time the field went to the post in the first race. It was a lively betting crowd, until Rushaway failed in the Derby.

There was a delay of five minutes at the post, caused by the unruly antics of Mrs. P. A. B. Widener's Dnieper. Finally he got set in his starting stall and the word went out to go on.

Sparta Breaks on Top.

The filly Sparta from the Headley barn broke on top. At the end of the first quarter while the field was rounding the clubhouse bend she was leading by a length. She held a position next to the rail. Doran was running second and Hollyrood was third.

Down the back stretch they went in that order. Some of the trailers challenged Hollyrood during that stage of the battle, then dropped back.

The pace was too much for Sparta to maintain. She began to falter on the turn. So did Doran. When they shortened their strides Hollyrood moved into the lead.

Carvola Moves from 9th Place.

He held it until he looked up and smiled at the judges who were directly on top of the winning post. To be second Carvola had to move up from ninth place in the 12 horse field. She outfooted Holl Image while he was moving up from eighth position. After her dazzling display of early speed Sparta finished sixth with her head just in front of Rushaway's nose.

Hollyrood this morning has as strong a claim to 3 year old title honors as any horse in the country. He has won the Detroit Derby and Chicago Derby. His rivals for the crown are Granville, the winner of the Belmont stakes and Mr. Bones, the victor in the Dwyer stakes in New York yesterday. Bold Venture, Kentucky Derby and Preakness winner, is out of competition due to an injury.

Harvard Defeats Army in Intercollegiate Polo

New York, June 20.—(AP)—F. Skiddy Van Stade Jr. led Harvard to an 8 to 7 victory over Army today as the Crimson captured the intercollegiate polo championship in a tightly contested game on Governor's Island. Von Stade scored eight goals and was a tower of strength on the defense.

O'DEA'S PINCH SINGLE SCORES 2 RUNS IN 9TH

French Relieves Lee, Checks Brooklyn.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Brooklyn, N. Y., June 20.—Ken O'Dea, currently the No. 1 Cubs' backstop, was temporarily reduced to the status of a pinch hitter today, but even this limited appearance was enough for him to assist the title owning Cubs to their 14th straight triumph. O'Dea did his bit by singling in the ninth with the bases loaded, driving in two runs and fastening a 6 to 4 defeat on the Dodgers, who were unusually tough, but didn't neglect their fame as laugh producers.

The Cubs hopped away gayly to a four run lead in the first two innings and were just about to set themselves for an afternoon of ease when something happened to Bill Lee. The General, usually such a superior tradesman that the Dodgers can do nothing with his wares, couldn't leap the home half of the second inning. He was hurriedly blasted out and Larry French was not able to restore order until the score had been tied. Then there were no more runs until O'Dea took charge.

How Cubs Won.

After the Cubs had knocked out Lefty Clark they encountered no end of trouble against Tom Baker, although the latter was repeatedly embarrassed by the conduct of his mates. But the champions got to him in the ninth without outside assistance. Demaree singled and was forced by Allen, who stole. Cavarretta walked and so did English, loading the bases. This was where O'Dea stepped in as pinch hitter for French. He bounced a single into right, sent Allen and Cavarretta over the plate and officially registered the fifth victory of the campaign for French.

There were times when the champions appeared as bewildered as their fun loving opponents, but some of the Cubs' frivolity might easily be charged to the fact that their lineup was suddenly altered. Stanley Hack had to quit the party, bringing Bill Jurges back into action at short and moving English to third. Hack jammed the second finger of his right hand in a collision at the plate in the first inning and departed before the second was completed. The injury was mild, but he may have to rest for several days.

Hack Rams in with Run.

The Dodgers weren't quite ready to display their comics in the first inning, but this didn't prevent the Cubs from jumping away to a one run lead. Hack led off with a two base hit against the right field concrete. Herman expired on a fly to center. Galan singled to center and Hack scored, although he would have been nipped if he hadn't crashed into Berres and knocked the ball out of the catcher's hand. Galan reached third before Berres could untangle himself, but neither Hartnett nor Demaree could fetch him home.

Lee didn't get by his first inning without having to struggle. For a starter he whipped over a third strike on Bordagaray. Watkins singled to center, Bucher flied to Galan and Hassett singled to center. Lee pitched himself into a full house by walking Taylor. He delayed his departure by getting Frey on a pop up for the third out.

Bargain Double for Allen.

The first of a series of happenings which gave the Cubs three runs in the second was Allen's fly which Taylor dropped. The scorer called it a two base hit, which in Brooklyn is excusable. Cavarretta bunted to Hassett, but there being no place in which to make a play Phil profited by a hit. English singled to center to

BROWNS BATTER GROVE; DEFEAT RED SOX, 7 TO 5

Barrage in Third Drives Star from Mound.

St. Louis, Mo., June 20.—(AP)—Five home runs featured the Browns-Boston game here today with St. Louis claiming three of them and defeating the Red Sox, 7 to 5. In winning the Browns drove Lefty Grove off the mound.

Harland Clift, Browns' third baseman, hit two into the left field seats and Jimmy Foxx put his 18th of the season in the same place. Dutsy Cooke and Sammy West hit the other two.

The Browns drove out Grove in the third inning by putting together six hits for as many runs.

Jim Bottomley was lost to the Browns in the opening inning when he went out with an injured left hand.

TIGERS SHUT OUT YANKS.

Detroit, Mich., June 20.—(AP)—Tommy Bridges showed little respect for the New York Yankees' reputation as heavy hitters today as he pitched the world's champion Tigers out of a seven game losing streak with a 5 to 0 shutout over the Yanks.

The slim right-hander held the league leaders hitless for six innings, limited them to five safe blows altogether, handed them their first shutout since May 12, struck out 11 men, and snapped Lou Gehrig's consecutive game hitting streak at 18.

HURLERS DUE TO WORK TODAY IN MAJOR LEAGUES

New York, June 20.—(AP)—Probable pitchers in the major leagues tomorrow:

NATIONAL LEAGUE.

Chicago at Brooklyn [2]—C. Davis and Warneke vs. Mungo and Brandt.
Cincinnati at Boston—Hollingsworth vs. Benge.
St. Louis at New York—J. Dean vs. Smith.
Pittsburgh at Philadelphia—Swift vs. Kowalik.

AMERICAN LEAGUE.

Boston at St. Louis [2]—W. Ferrell and Wilson vs. Hogsett and Andrews.
Philadelphia at Chicago—Fink vs. Phelps.
New York at Detroit—Ruffing vs. Rowe.
Washington at Cleveland—Whitehill vs. Hildebrand.

Phelps to Pitch for Sox; Macks May Use Fink

Babe Phelps will pitch against the Athletics in the final of the series at Comiskey park this afternoon. Connie Mack is secretive, but the Sox continue to expect Herman Fink.

The Yankees come to town tomorrow for three games. The Sox have licked them in four of the seven games played thus far.

The double with which Larry Rosenthal made his major league debut was a hard shot to left center.

In losing yesterday the Sox tossed off a chance to go into a third place tie with Washington and Cleveland.

Cain has pitched two great games in his last two times out except for tossing a home run ball. When he beat Lefty Grove last Tuesday the only runs he granted were two homers by Jimmy Foxx, and the total yesterday was on a homer. The wildest man in the league last year, his control has been remarkable since joining the Sox.

Dean Leads in National Pitcher Poll

Boston, Mass., June 20.—(AP)—A carload of votes from the mid-west poured in today to give the colorful Jerome [Dizzy] Dean the lead in the fans' choice for National league pitchers in the all-star game here July 7.

Today was the last day for balloting and the results will be made public June 27.

Dean, talkative twirler for the St. Louis Cards, was running a poor third to the stalwart Carl Hubbell of the New York Giants and Van Mungo of the Brooklyn Dodgers until league officials tallied latest returns.

Warneke Is Fourth.

Still in fourth place was Lon Warneke, rounding out the quartet that will probably be available to Manager Charley Grimm when the teams take the field.

The contest for second base position on the National team remained in doubt. League officials chalked up what they believe would be enough votes to land Bill Herman, young infielder for the Chicago Cubs, second place position. Votes rolled in, however, for Stuart Martin of the Cards.

Hack Picking Up.

Pinky Whitney held the edge for the third sack but new votes gave Stanley Hack of the Cubs an outside chance.

In the American league Joe Di Maggio continued to pile up a lead over rival outfielders.

With Lefty Grove of the Boston Red Sox and Lefty Gomez and his teammate, Monte Pearson, of the New York Yankees already sure of pitching positions on the American team, Schoolboy Rowe of the Detroit Tigers and Ted Lyons of the Chicago White Sox continued to battle for the fourth position.

CUBS, SOX WILL TOUR TOGETHER ON SPRING TRIP

The White Sox and Cubs will journey together eastward from California through the southwestern cactus belt as a part of their 1937 spring exhibition programs, J. Louis Comiskey, owner of the White Sox, announced yesterday following a conference with Cub officials.

It was said that no definite dates have been arranged, but it is reported that the teams will have their regular series in Los Angeles, after which they will play dates in such centers as San Bernardino, Cal.; Yuma, Phoenix, Tucson, Ariz., and San Antonio, Tex.

It is probable that the Sox will hook up with the Pittsburgh Pirates and tour the middle south. Whether the Cubs will again proceed from San Antonio to Florida is problematical, according to officials.

Manager Grimm has made two requests. He asks that no protracted series comparable to the 1936 six game set with the Giants be booked with a National League team. He also wants to stay late in the deep south and avoid bookings in cities like Birmingham, Nashville and other places subject to winter blasts in early April.

Phil Collins Hurls Today in Mills Games

Games Today

Chicago Firemen vs. Mills, Mills stadium, 1:30 p. m. [2].

Kalamazoo vs. Duffy Florals, Shewbridge field, 1:30 p. m. [2].

Chicago Giants vs. Spencer Coals, Spencer field, 1:30 p. m. [2].

Strengthened by the addition of Fidgety Phil Collins to its pitching staf, the Mills baseball team will seek its tenth and eleventh straight victories when it meets the Chicago Firemen in a double-header at Mills stadium this afternoon. The first game will start at 1:30 o'clock. Women will be admitted free.

Jim Vaughn, winner of four of the nine straight victories, will be on the mound for the Mills in the other game.

Doug McWeeny, former Brooklyn ace righthander, will pitch for the Firemen in the second game. Last Sunday McWeeny defeated Racine, Wis.

Several semi-pro stars, formerly of the Mills who will appear in the Firemen lineup are Bill Conroy, second baseman; George Beall, first baseman; Johnny Ross, shortstop, and George McNamara, center fielder.

Fred Spurgeon, former Cleveland star, will bring the Kalamazoo Independents to Shewbridge field to meet the Duffy Florals in a double-header. Spurgeon plays second base, the same position held on the Florals by Bill Akers, who used to be a major league opponent of Fred's when with Detroit and Boston.

Another double-header will bring together the Spencer Coals and the Chicago Giants at the former's park. Pete Beam and Al Le Comte will start on the mound for the Spencers, while John Donaldson and Henry Clay, a pair of left handers, will work for the Giants.

CLIPPER SMITH GETS VILLANOVA COACHING JOB

Philadelphia, Pa., June 20.—(AP)—The Rev. Charles Melchior, chairman of the board of the athletic directors at Villanova college, confirmed today the appointment of Maurice J. [Clipper] Smith as head football coach and director of athletics.

Smith, who resigned yesterday as coach at Santa Clara [Cal.] university, succeeds Harry Stuhldreher, now at the University of Wisconsin.

Father Melchior said Smith signed a contract of indefinite tenure. He did not disclose the terms. Smith will arrive from California in a few weeks.

SHAW SUCCEEDS SMITH.

San Jose, Cal., June 20.—(AP)—Lawrence [Buck] Shaw was named head football coach today at the University of Santa Clara, replacing Maurice J. [Clipper] Smith who resigned to accept the same position at Villanova college.

Shaw, who previously had coached at Nevada and North Carolina, was brought to Santa Clara in 1929 as assistant coach. Both Smith and Shaw are Notre Dame graduates.

HUBBELL WINS 9TH AS GIANTS BEAT CARDINALS, 7 TO 6

Losers' Lead in League Cut to One Game.

New York, June 20.—(AP)—The Giants cut the St. Louis Cardinals' National league lead over the Chicago Cubs to one game today as Carl Hubbell won his ninth victory of the season, 7 to 6.

He held the Cards to six hits and one run for the first seven innings before they found the range for three runs in the eighth and two more in the ninth, the latter two coming on young Stu Martin's homer with a mate on base.

BEES, 7; REDS, 6.

Boston, Mass., June 20.—(AP)—A ninth inning rally gave the Boston Bees a 7 to 6 victory over Cincinnati today and evened the series.

Hal Lee's single in the final inning with two out and the bases loaded sent Bill Urbanski across the plate with the winning run and brought 5,000 spectators to their feet.

The Reds tied up the game in their half of the ninth. Then, with the Bees at bat and Benny Frey in the box for the visitors, Urbanski singled to left and went to second on Gene Moore's bunt.

Schmeling Knocks Out Louis Review of Week's Sports

When an all-day rain on Thursday caused a postponement of one day in the much ballyhooed boxing bout between Joe Louis, one time Chicago Golden Gloves champion, and Max Schmeling of Germany, one time [1930-'32] world's heavyweight champion, it washed away not a little of the interest in the battle. Louis' sensational career, during which he had won 27 consecutive fights, 23 of them by knockouts, made it appear to those who know about pugilism that Schmeling would be just another step in the colored boy's triumphal march toward the heavyweight championship.

Interest among those who pay the freight on the heavyweight extravaganzas staged in New York already had shown their lack of interest earlier in the week by refraining from buying tickets for the bout. Promoter Mike Jacobs' earlier predictions of another "million dollar gate" became more and more vague. Indications were that the fight would not gross anywhere near a million, that Jacobs might even have difficulty escaping a deficit on the production.

Delay Expected to Hurt Max.

The delay was expected, moreover, to be to the German's disadvantage. It gave him 24 more hours of idleness to brood over Louis' record, which already included two former heavyweight champions, Primo Carnera and Max Baer. Stolid Joe was expected to take the delay with his customary equanimity.

So when 39,878 moved into the Yankee stadium on Friday night it was with the expectation of seeing Louis crack Schmeling down within four rounds or so. The odds on the outcome were whatever one wanted to make them, simply because there was little or no Schmeling money in sight.

But as early as the first round it was obvious that Louis was not up against another boxer overawed by fear of skill and power. In the second round, though it was not apparent to the crowd, Schmeling cracked Louis with a blow that left him dazed through the rest of the fight. In the fourth round he slashed a right to the colored boy's jaw and Louis went down for a count of two.

Collapse Comes in 12th.

From then on Schmeling pounded, pounded, pounded. Louis' strength slowly ebbed away under the terrific punishment. In the twelfth he collapsed completely. Three more terrific rights to the jaw sent him to the canvas. He made a feeble effort to arise, rolled over on his face, and lay inert as the referee tolled off ten fateful seconds. The official attendance was 39,878. Gross receipts were $547,531 and net receipts were $464,945.

McCarthy Made Manager of American All-Star Team.

Because of the continued illness of Mickey Cochrane, who as manager of the champion Detroit Tigers automatically became manager of the American league team which will meet the National league in the fourth annual all-star baseball game on July 7, Joe McCarthy, manager of the New York Yankees, was appointed manager by President Will Harridge of the American league on Friday.

The New York Yankees on Sunday traded Outfielder Ben Chapman to the Washington Senators for Jake Powell.

Zell Eaton of Oklahoma City shot 66 on Tuesday, added it to his 73 of Monday for a 36 hole total of 139, and won the Illinois state open golf championship at Decatur.

Cubs Run Victory Streak to 14 Straight.

Onward and upward climbed the Chicago Cubs last week as their winning streak ran into its third week, reached fourteen straight, and left them within one game of the league leading St. Louis Cardinals. The White Sox, largely through some masterful pitching, won a series from the Boston Red Sox and went into a brief tie for fourth place as both Cleveland and Detroit continued to falter. The week's record of won and lost:

MR. BONES IS EASY WINNER IN DWYER STAKES

Second Money to Pullman; Memory Book Third.

New York, June 20.—[Special.]—Except for the first few yards, John Hay Whitney's Mr. Bones led from start to finish in the $11,050 Dwyer stakes at Aqueduct today to prove that his great race in the Belmont against Granville was not a flash in the pan. The dark brown son of Royal Minstrel was a 7 to 10 favorite with a crowd of 15,000 and finished the mile and a furlong over a fast track 1:45 4-5.

In the Belmont Mr. Bones was beaten a nose after making all the early pace. Today he once more made the pace, but there was no Granville to range up behind him. The colt that ran second was the Sage stable's Pullman, one that was considered by most only a sprinter. He was able to take the place a length and a half before Memory Book.

Next Race Is Classic.

Mr. Bones carried 119 pounds and ran in a manner to please Trainer Jim Healy. Mr. Whitney was not present, but friends wired him congratulations on the coast. He plans to start his colt next in the Arlington classic at Chicago, according to Mr. Healy.

In the secondary feature, the Lion Heart steeplechase, the old winning combination of the amateur, Rigan McKinney, and a Thomas Hitchcock horse again proved invincible. Mr. Hitchcock showed his Ferryman for the first time this year. This four year old gelding, a roan son of Puttenden, ran the two miles in the smart time of 4:05 3-5.

At the finish George H. [Pete] Bostwick's Escapade was second, two lengths back of the winner, and six before National Anthem.

Foul Claim Not Allowed.

Hurry Harry, the only other starter, was fourth. H. W. Clements, rider of Ferryman, lodged a claim of foul after the finish but it was not allowed.

Ferryman carried 137 pounds and opened as favorite at 8 to 5, being played to a closing at 6 to 5. The victory was worth $1,170 to the owner of the winner.

In the main event the winner's share of the purse was $8,500, the largest purse Mr. Bones has garnered. He was off well but not quite as fast as Pullman and Excite, which were away flying. But Gilbert sent Mr. Bones along the rail to such advantage in the first fifty yards that he soon was in front.

Betters Put In a Big Day at Hawthorne

The betting at Hawthorne yesterday ran close to the $500,000 mark. It was the second biggest betting day of the Hawthorne season.

◆

Senator Bill Connors, looking none the worse as a result of the battle of the mustard jar in Springfield, arrived early and bet on the first four winners.

◆

George Raft, Carl Laemmle, and Guy Lombardo were among the early arrivals and they all aroused a suspicion that they were buying tickets on Rushaway.

◆

Charley Ford, one of Hawthorne's big stockholders, has been trying to win the daily double ever since the meeting started. He got the right combination together yesterday and took down $24.

◆

Alex Gordon motored over from Arlington Park to see the Derby run. He was around with Hal Price Headley all afternoon and must have bet on Hollyrood.

◆

Col. Edward R. Bradley, now 75, elbowed his way through the crowd and displayed the pep of a young fellow of 45. He didn't wager on Bow and Arrow, but was confident the colt would run a good race.

◆

Hollyrood was shipped back to Detroit last night and his running mate, Sparta, was sent to Latonia to run in the Latonia Oaks next Saturday.

◆

Jocky Sonny Workman returned to New York last night after riding Tatterdemalion in the Derby. He said he expected to be at Arlington throughout most of the meeting.

◆

Marica, a 3 year old black daughter of Epinard-Canberra owned by Howard Oots of Kentucky, won the mile and a sixteenth fifth race yesterday in a way to indicate that she might be one of the best 3 year old fillies at the track.

BLACK HORSE AND OAK BROOK POLO TEAMS TO CLASH

Capt. Roy D. Keehn Jr., returned from an eastern trip, will lead the Black Horse Troop polo squad against the Oak Brook Four this afternoon at No. 3 field at Oak Brook, Cermak and York roads. Each team has won once this season. Capt. Keehn will be at No. 4.

Lieut. Bill Kirby probably will be in shape to take his No. 1 post, but if his injured hands can't stand the gaff, Lieut. Dick Strauss will be in that spot. Capt. Paul Butler will be at No. 2 and Lieut. Harry Owen will be the No. 3 player.

Capt. George Bates has the Oak Brook squad in top form with Chuck Winston at No. 1, himself at No. 2, Capt. Maxwell Corpening at No. 3, and Jim Hannah at back. Jack Armstrong is the reserve and can fill in at any of the posts capably.

The game will be started at 3:30 o'clock with six chukkers to be played.

LAKE FOREST HORSE SHOW DRAWS BRILLIANT FIELD

One of the chief attractions at the Lake Forest horse show, which will open at Onwentsia on Thursday, continuing for four days, will be the appearance of the Mississauga Horse, Canadian jumping team. It will be the first appearance of the Canadians in any other than British territory. Taking the fence, left to right: Capts. A. K. Jordan and R. E. H. Ogilvie.

Mitzie, pony bay mare, winner of many blue ribbons and championships, including stake titles at the International shows in 1934 and 1935, is owned by Mrs. A. C. Thompson of Chicago. Mrs. Thompson is at the whip and will drive Mitzie in the Lake Forest show. The Lake Forest show proceeds will go for the benefit of the Lake Forest hospital fund and has drawn 296 horses comprising 956 entries in 75 classes. The horses come from leading stables throughout the country. The entries will compete for $6,000 in prizes. Twenty-six children from the South Shore Country club will compete in a special good hands class. Many own their own ponies.

Owens Wins 4 Titles; Breaks World Mark

one turn. Yesterday racing around two turns, Williams won the championship in 47 seconds after a fight with Al Fitch, of Southern California. Williams won the decision by inches. Coast runners took all scoring points except fifth which went to Ray Ellinwood of Chicago, holder of the Western Conference quarter mile title.

Chink Wallender of Texas equaled the world's 100 meter record Friday; Foy Draper equaled the Olympic 200 meter mark; and Herschel Neil of the Northwest Missouri State Teachers college established an N. C. A. A. record for the hop, step, and jump. Carpenter also set a collegiate discus record in the trials.

No event attracted more attention than Lash's 5,000 meter victory. Lash, who last week at Princeton set a new world mark of 8:58.3 for two miles, ran the distance in the excellent time of 14 minutes 58 5-10 seconds. While Lash was nearly a half minute slower than the Olympic record of Lauro Lehtinen, he labored under the handicap of his previous 1,500 meter run. There is every reason to believe he will be a serious contender at Berlin.

Jesse Marches On.

Lash led briefly during the second lap, resumed the lead at the end of the first mile, which was run in 4 minutes 48 seconds, and then forced his nearest competitor, Barney Gedwilas of West Virginia, to quit at the end of 2½ miles. Tommy Deckard, also of Indiana, finished second, and Jimmy Smith, also of Indiana, was fourth. Kenneth Waite of Michigan State was third.

Owens 'four titles were won in the two sprints, the 220 yard low hurdles, and the broad jump. In this last event Owens cleared 25 feet 10⅝ inches, still far under his world record of 26 feet 8¼ inches, but indicative that he still has the spring to approach that distance. Another excellent jump was made by Kermit King of the Pittsburg, Kas., State Teachers, whose 25 feet 2⅛ inches earned second place.

400 METER HURDLES—Won by Bob Osgood, Michigan; Herman Nelson, Oklahoma, second; Jack Patterson, Rice Institute, third; Loren Benke, Washington State, fourth; B. Stout, Ball State Teachers, Muncie, Ind., fifth; Dell Fishback, California, sixth. Time, :53.4.

MIDGET AUTO RACES CARDED AT THREE TRACKS

Midget auto races will be held in the Chicagoland area at three tracks today and tonight, with events scheduled tonight at the Riverview speedway, Addison street and Western avenue, and the Chicago Midget speedway at Lincoln, Devon, and McCormick boulevard, while the Wolf Lake track reopens with a card this afternoon after being closed for a week to make the track repairs.

A fifty lap event heads the ten race card at the Riverview speedway in which Pat Warren, Harry MacQuinn, and Art Hartsfeld will seek to protect their lead in the point standing from inroads by Curly Mills, who has returned from racing in the east, and Don Welch, a newcomer from Los Angeles.

The Riverview card also will include four qualifying races, a consolation race for nonqualifiers, a team match, and a popularity race in which fans will pick the pilots. A. A. A. officials will supervise the races.

At the Evanston speedway a thirty lap event heads the card, with Wally Zale a slight favorite over Everett Rice. Zale is a leading driver on St. Louis, Detroit, and Milwaukee tracks, while Rice two weeks ago lowered the Evanston track record to 17.77 for a lap.

The American Legion will sponsor the races at Wolf Lake track this afternoon. The track is located on U. S. route 41 in Hammond, Ind. The grandstand has been extended 200 feet and will accommodate three thousand.

WINS INDIAN CLUB TITLE.

New York, June 20.—[U. P.]—Edward A. Hennig, 56 year old Cleveland engineer, a world's champion 32 years ago, tonight won the Indian club swinging title of the United States.

Winner trained by E. L. Snyder. Went to post at 2:22. At post 3½ minutes. Start good, from gate. Won easily, place driving.

DARK FRIEND, on the inside throughout and showing speed from the start, shook off ARTHUR B. after reaching the turn and continuing with fine speed held sway thereafter. TRYANHURRY, well up from the start and forced to race wide, held on with good courage. ARTHUR B. showed speed from the start, saved ground the final three-eighths and held on well, though failing to hold TRYANHURRY.

SECOND RACE—Six furlongs. Purse $1,000. Net value to winner, $700; second, $200; third, $75; fourth, $25.

Time, :23 1-5, :47 2-5, 1:13. Two dollar mutuels paid: My Surprise, $5.80 straight, $3.60 place, $2.60 show; Board Trade, $5.00 place, $3.20 show; Rickey Roo, $3.40 show. Winner trained by G. B. Scallon. Went to post at 2:57. At post 3½ minutes. Start good, from gate. Won easily, place driving.

MY SURPRISE, away slowly and far back for almost three-eighths, began to improve his position fast on stretch turn, came around the leaders in final eighth and had something left. BOARD TRADE, well up from the start and in hand until reaching the final quarter, stood a drive gamely. RICKEY ROO also well rated but never punished, was on inside the final three-eighths and raced gamely to the last sixteenth where he quit.

THIRD RACE—Six and one-half furlongs. Purse $1,000. Net value to winner, $700; second, $200; third, $75; fourth, $25. [Daily double, 1st and 3d races, paid $24.00.]

Winner trained by J. Hanover. Went to post at 3:31. At post 1 minute. Start bad, from gate. Won driving, place same.

GOV. LAFFOON going in his best form and under strong riding after three-eighths, weakened after wearing down SLIP KNOT but stalled off the latter the entire final eighth. SLIP KNOT, given a hustling ride and showing the most speed, failed to withstand the winner when entering the stretch and came again mildly on outside entering final eighth but weakened thereafter. CORAL REEF JR. failed to keep up on the turn, closed well when clear in stretch.

Time, :23 4-5, :47 4-5, 1:12 3-5, 1:39 1-5, 2:05. Two dollar mutuels paid Hollyrood, $7.80 straight, $4.00 place, $3.00 show; Carvola, $15.00 place, $8.40 show; Holl Image, $9.00 show. Winner trained by D. A. Headley. Went to post at 5:12½. Start good. Won driving, place same.

HOLLYROOD close to the pace from the start and under steadying restraint for a mile opened up a clear lead quickly after coming around the leader in the final quarter but had to be strongly shaken up to hold CARVOLA safe. Latter forced to race wide, improved her position steadily and closing with determination was slowly getting to the winner. HOLL IMAGE outpaced for a mile and brought to outside in stretch where he made up much ground and was strongest of all in the final stages.

Miss Dolphin Gallops Home in Detroit Stake

Detroit, Mich., June 20.—(AP)—E. F. Seagram looked on wistfully today as Miss Dolphin, a filly he lost for $4,000 in a claiming race a few weeks ago, raced 5½ furlongs in 1:05 to equal the Detroit track record and win the $5,000 added Moslem Temple stakes. Miss Dolphin, now owned by Mrs. A. M. Creech, won easily.

W. L. Gregory Is Named Head at Washington

Walter L. Gregory, hotel executive and Chicago business leader, yesterday was elected president of the Washington Park Jocky club at the annual meeting. He succeeded John P. Harding, who will continue as a member of the board of directors.

Roy Carruthers was reëlected secretary and general manager. The new board of directors is composed of Gregory, Carruthers, Harding, Harry H. Lobdell, and James G. Condon.

Washington Park, which will hold a late summer meeting this year instead of the late spring meeting it has been conducting annually since the legalization of racing in Illinois, opens Aug. 3 and will run through Labor day, Sept. 7. Seven major stakes will serve as highlights of one of the most ambitious racing programs being offered by any American race course this season.

Washington Park's new president, previously unidentified with the turf, is vice president of the Palmer House company. He is also president of the Chicago Exposition authority which is developing the former site of A Century of Progress into a permanent exposition, and is chairman of the board of the State street council.

"My own part in the management of Washington Park," Mr. Gregory asserted in taking office, "will be in the interests of the Chicago racing public. We hope to succeed in making every racegoer feel that he is welcome at Washington Park; that racing is being conducted with his interests in mind, and that it is still a sport which requires training, breeding, and courage in both horses and men."

350 to Ride in C.Y.O. Bike Derby Today

Garfield park will be the site of the third annual Catholic Youth organization bicycle derby today as 350 riders compete against one another for the city championship honors and an imposing array of prizes to be awarded to the winners. The meet, sponsored by the Garfield Park Business Men's association, of which Ray McCarthy is president, will start at noon.

A crowd of 25,000 is expected to witness the events, according to officials of Garfield park, who have made preparations to accommodate several thousand by installing temporary bleachers. The program will end about 3 o'clock with the holding of a costume parade and the selection of a beauty queen.

Leading Clubs Entered.

Entered in today's events are Chicago's leading cycle clubs, including the C. Y. O., Henry playground, Southtown Cycle club, Italian-American Cycle club, Chicago Wheelman, Kollman A. C., Danish-American Cycle club, and the Norwegian-American Cycle club. Defending the title will be the C. Y. O. Cycle club, whose representatives won the meet last year.

Among the individual stars who are expected to star in today's races are some of the greatest riders in the midwest. Charles Yaccino, Ray Ligman, Frank Earhart, Al Bird, Joe Berlano, and Oscar Junter are some of the stars entered. Brilliant individual performances today may qualify the winners for the U. S. Olympic squad.

List of Events.

The list of events follows:

Class C, 1 mile; novice, 1 mile; novice, 1 mile; class C, 2 miles; A and B, 2 miles; girls, stock bike, 1 mile; boys, stock bike, 1 mile; junior boys, 1 mile; novice and class C, 5 miles; 10 miles; men's open, 20 miles; ingo bike race, 1 mile.

Polo Player in Hospital with Fractured Ankle

Charles W. Buckley II., 26 years old, grandson of Charles W. Buckley, head of the Board of Trade firm of Buckley & Co., was recovering yesterday in the Highland Park hospital from a fractured ankle incurred when his polo pony threw him Friday during a practice match at the Barrington Polo club.

NATION'S TURF STARS READY FOR ARLINGTON MEET

Rich Prizes Draw Top Horses, Jockies.

The country's topmost thoroughbreds will soon be in Chicago and they'll be off in the first race of the Arlington Park Jocky club's gala season which opens one week from tomorrow afternoon.

More topnotchers are trooping to Arlington Park this year than ever before, the nominations for the rich array of stake events indicate.

And more fans are coming, too, for it is the fashionable thing to do in many a home along the north shore to entertain house guests during the month of July and let them spend their afternoons at Chicago's most beautiful track.

Discovery to Come Back.

Early in the season—perhaps for the Stars and Stripes handicap on July 4—Alfred G. Vanderbilt's great champion of last year, Discovery, will come back to Arlington. Waiting here to match speed and stamina with him will be such stars as Roman Soldier, Azucar, Cavalcade, Chanceview, Chance Sun, Good Gamble, Dark Winter, Good Harvest, Sation, King Saxon, Firethorn, Corinto, Time Supply, Top Row, and all the other headliners in the handicap ranks.

The 3 year olds—those good ones that are left in training—will be here in full force. Granville, the Belmont stakes winner, and his great rival, Mr. Bones, will both seek the Classic stakes, which nearly every year decides the championship of this division. Hollyrood will be in the thick of that fight. So will Rushaway, Count Morse, Jean Canach, Valiant Fox, a star from California, The Fighter, Bien Joli, Bow and Arrow, Split Second, He Did, Grand Slam, Holl Image, and others that have distinguished themselves this season.

Bold Venture, Brevity Out.

Bold Venture will be missing because of a mishap in training, and so will Brevity.

If Granville can repeat his Belmont stakes victory in the Classic his claims to the 3 year old title will be about as strong as are those of Bold Venture. It will be recalled that Bold Venture had all he could do to beat Granville in the Preakness by a nose.

The best 2 year olds in the country will come here seeking the rich prizes offered in the Arlington Futurity, Lassie stakes, and the Hyde Park stakes.

Chicago's champions from the powerful stables of Mrs. Ethel V. Mars and Warren Wright will go against the best of these from every other section of the country. From Latonia will come the Dixiana stable's star youngsters. They have been winning just as often this spring as have the juveniles in Mrs. Mars' big stable.

From the east will come all the juveniles that have distinguished themselves on New York tracks. This list includes Black Look from C. V. Whitney's stable, War Admiral, a son of Man o' War; Knight Gallant, owned by Mrs. Isabel Dodge Sloan; Airflame, from A. G. Vanderbilt's stable; Goldey F., unbeaten in her first eight starts; Apogee, a double stakes winner; Scintillator, Gurkha, Optic, Rebellion, and Planetoid.

The Arlington Futurity, which will gross somewhere in the neighborhood of $60,000, will be the richest race of the year in Chicago and the Lassie stakes with a gross value of $40,000 or more is the richest 2 year old filly stake run in the world.

Best Jockies Will Ride.

At Arlington the best jockies in the land will also congregate. Sonny Workman and Wayne Wright will be there. So will Eddie Arcaro, Alfred Robertson, Nick Wall, Leo Belaski, Charley Stevenson, Johnny Nolan, Jimmy McCoy, W. Saunders, Paul Keester, Jack Westrope, Basil James, Charley Parke, D. Brammer, De Camillis, and other leaders.

THREE OLYMPIC BOXERS TO HELP REFEREE AT SHOW

Andy Scrivani, Chester Rutecki, and Johnny Brown, members of the American Olympic boxing team, have been added to the boxing and wrestling show which will be held Thursday night at Ravisloe Country club in Homewood, Ill., in conjunction with the annual golf tournament and spring stag. They are included among the judges and referees who will officiate.

Art Oliver, Olympic heavyweight champion; Barney Ross, world welterweight titleholder; Lou Talaber, former middleweight wrestling king; Leo Lomski, the old Aberdeen Assassin; Johnny Behr, Olympic coach; Capt. Roy E. Davis, chairman of the Olympic boxing committee, and Johnny Coulon, erstwhile bantamweight monarch, also will participate in the show. Two changes in the card have been made, J. J. Lipp, chairman of the sports and pastimes committee at Ravisloe, announced yesterday.

Jackie Reed, south side middleweight, who has scored seven consecutive victories, has been substituted for Jim Miller against Sherman Edwards, Joliet sectional Golden Gloves champion, in one. The other involves the sustitution of Joe Jawgiel, Division street Y. M. C. A. champion, for John Mazur, who suffered a fractured rib in a bout the other night, against George Snoddy, Coulon gymnasium lightweight. The balance of the card:

Eddie Helstrom vs. Clifton Foy [3], lightweights.
Bob Wiley vs. Dave Schimmel [3], bantamweights.
Herman Vanderplow vs. Morris Tucker [3], 145.
Earl Gibson vs. George White [3], 126.
John Helstrom vs. Frankie Agnes [3], 135.
Frank Talaber vs. Roy Rickenbocher, light heavyweights [wrestling].

Dorothy Workman Takes Eastern States Net Title

Haverford, Pa., June 20.—(AP)—Dorothy Workman of Los Angeles won the women's Pennsylvania and eastern states singles tennis championship today, defeating Mrs. J. B. Jessup of Wilmington, Del., 4-6, 6-2, 6-3.

EXPERTS FIND IT HARD TO FORGET LOUIS, EVEN NOW

Most of Them Say They'd Do It Again.

New York, June 20.—(AP)—Many of the experts, who forecast that Joe Louis could name his round and winning punch against Max Schmeling, stubbornly stuck by their judgment today as they attempted to adjust themselves from their rude awakening.

Others felt something like the condemned man, who, en route to the electric chair, muttered: "This will be a lesson to me."

Back from their hotels, homes and newspaper offices, where they received an unmerciful roasting, the experts demonstrated their ability to "take it" by joining a luncheon party in honor of Schmeling.

What They Say Now.

All congratulated Schmeling and laughingly joined the party. The inquiring reporter, who failed to discover one writer before the fight who seriously picked Schmeling to win, garnered the folowing representative opinions:

Joe Williams, New York World-Telegram: "How wrong every one was! Schmeling's victory was no upset in actuality. He really figured to win."

Austen Lake, Boston American: "If I had it to do over again I'd pick Louis."

Bill Henry, Los Angeles Times: "Any one who could figure Schmeling had a chance to win either was crazy or kidding himself."

Caswell Adams, New York Herald-Tribune: "I'm still not certain Schmeling is the better man. I'd pick Louis again."

Sec Taylor, Des Moines Register: "I'm going to believe anything from now on, even if some one tells me Minnesota's football team won't score a point next fall."

Hard to Convince.

Jack Miley, New York Daily News: "It was a typographical error. The printers at my paper, sore because I didn't give 'em fight tickets, changed names on me."

Alan Gould, Associated Press: "Schmeling turned in a performance as fine as it was unexpected, with all the odds against him. He proved anything can happen, but that still doesn't alter the fact he did not figure to win, by any known yardstick."

Tommy Laird, San Francisco News: "I still say Louis can lick any fighter alive. There was something wrong somewhere."

Hype Igoe, New York Evening Journal: "I picked Louis, but I'd pick Schmeling next time. He has just the right to counter the Bomber."

Heavyweight Champion James J. Braddock had a big time for himself as he barged into the party without an invitation. Autograph seekers, who had ignored him for months as they read vivid tales of the Brown Bomber, besieged him until he raced for cover.

"I'm all out of practice," he said as he shooed away an autograph hunter in final desperation.

Advice from Champion.

"So long, Max," said the champion. "See you in September."

"O, yah, good luck," replied Schmeling, who came to the party wearing dark glasses to protect his shut left eye.

Harry Wills, the famous black panther of yesterday, drew a large crowd around him as he uttered his philosophy.

"It's the same ole story," said big Harry. "I fought 'em all for 20 years. Maybe they all were bums, but, mistah, they all could hit.

"I don't think Louis is through. Sure, he took an awful licking, but I was proud of that boy as he lay on that canvas. Yes, suh. He showed his heart was right. And when a man's heart is right, he can win. Didn't Mistah Schmeling prove that las' night?"

Just as the party broke up, Braddock stuck his head in the door to give the experts one last piece of advice.

"When Max and I fight, boys," he said, "why, just pick the referee."

German Press Asks for Title Fight in Berlin

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, June 20.—A high honorary rank in the Hitler Guards awaits Max Schmeling when he flies home to Germany on the Zeppelin Hindenburg next week. Had Max won the world's heavyweight title the jubilation in Germany today could not have been greater or more widespread. It is only regretted that the title fight against Braddock will be decided in America.

One section of the German press already is campaigning strongly for a change of venue to Berlin. It is claimed that if it were staged in the new Olympic stadium in Berlin, every one of its 100,000 seats would be sold out long in advance.

The National Zeitung in Berlin comments that Americans may be unable to imagine a world title fight taking place elsewhere than in America, "but times have changed." The paper added:

"Before last night's fight America had no opponent for Braddock and it was necessary to cable Europe for some one to come put an end to Louis' triumphal progress."

Reichsfüehrer Hitler listened in to the fight in his private car on his train traveling from Berlin to Munich. Earlier he had given special orders to see that his radio was in perfect order. The füehrer's enthusiasm grew as the fight progressed and when he arrived at Munich his first action was to cable congratulations to Schmeling and Schmeling's film star wife, Anny Ondra, in Berlin. He also sent the latter a big bouquet of red roses.

AND WAS LOUIS SURPRISED, TOO!

Referee Tells of Schmeling's Fight Tactics

Teutonic fixedness of purpose to provide openings for his own right cross.

Again to Referee Donovan, this writer vouchsafed: "I thought the turning point was Schmeling's right hand blow in the third round rather than the right hand knockdown in the fourth round. What did you think?"

Low Blows Inconsequential.

Donovan hesitated, then answered: "Perhaps you're right. After the knockdown, Louis' steam was gone. His blows lacked their old time power. But I remember that third round blow. It was a terrific right which landed high, about the ear. I was watching his corner in the minute rest and its effect seemed to take hold then. Yes, probably you're right."

"Did you ever consider stopping the bout?" we asked.

"No," replied Donovan. "Those low blows of Louis did not hurt Max. You can't hurt a man in the ring with the protective equipment they wear. Under the New York rules, a fighter cannot win on a foul, but he can lose the round by foul blows. I made mental note of it. Possibly Schmeling simulated more agony than he actually felt to impress the judges."

No Disagreeable Aftermath.

Unlike many recent bouts of the first flight, there was no unpleasant aftermath. Ifs, perhapses, excuses, yes—but no cries of craven, not even an intimation that all was not on the up and up.

Schmeling who for weeks had answered in the negative all queries whether he would fear Louis, fulfilled his promise. He was not afraid. He fought a smart fight, following a plan from which he never deviated.

Louis, although deflated as a one punch destroyer, answered that question so often asked "Can he take it?" Joe, not once, but many times took on the chin the full force of Schmeling's vaunted right hand. He was game to the core, although fighting by instinct from the fourth round to the finish.

Only 22 years old, he should again be in the challenging ranks unless this defeat, his first in 28 professional appearances, takes something from him. Not courage, but that cool confidence which had frightened other opponents.

Max Saves Strength.

Joe Louis never has been a foul fighter. Ringside opinion was that he was so tired and weary when he switched to a body attack in the seventh round in an attempt to turn the tide that the low punches simply were the result of lack of direction and fatigue. Schmeling, too, was tired at that stage, but nursed his strength carefully for two rounds before resuming his winning tactics.

"Louis' jaw began to swell early. Did you ever figure it might be broken?" we asked Donovan.

"It was so big and puffed in the twelfth round that had not the knockout occurred then I would have asked a commission physician to examine it in the rest period."

So what in opinion of critics figured to be the most one sided fight in years turned out to be one of the greatest battles and one of the most outstanding upsets of the last decade.

Chicago Is Out.

One bit of tragedy connected with the fight was the death of old Tom O'Rourke, noted manager and promoter of boxing for two generations. O'Rourke went to Schmeling's dressing room before the battle to express good wishes. As he started to leave he said: "My dying wish would be that you defeat this Louis." As he struck the cooler air outside the dressing room he dropped dead. Schmeling was not told of it until after the fight.

If Louis had won Chicago was seriously considered as site for a Louis-Braddock fight in September. Feeling now is that Schmeling and Braddock might draw better here. There probably would be the usual preliminary wrangles and possibly legal entanglements before the issue is clinched. That the bout will take place is practically assured, however.

Schmeling will leave for Berlin Tuesday aboard the Zeppelin Hindenburg, Manager Joe Jacobs announced today. Max will travel alone. He will remain in Germany for the Olympics and then return to New York to begin training for the Braddock bout.

Macomb, Ill., June 20.—[Special.]—The Normal university faculty golf team defeated Macomb Teachers college golf team here today 17 to 13.

Maccabees and Sparta Battle in Cup Replay

BY OFFSIDE.

The Spartas and Maccabees occupy the center soccer interest today as they meet in a replay of the Peel cup final battle. Two weeks ago these teams battled to a 1 to 1 tie after two hours of play. Last Sunday Sparta clinched the Chicago professional league title play by tieing with the Moravsha Orlics. The clinching of the league title, however, may prove costly to Sparta, as Scott, Vicek, and Monroe left the field with injuries. Trainer Danny Russell, however, yesterday reported that these men would play today. The game will start at 3 o'clock at Kuppenheimer stadium, 18th street and Keeler avenue. sand.

The Maccabees have enjoyed a two week rest, refusing to play their final league game last week and accepting a fine at the league meeting. They are counting heavily on the play of Weck Henney, right full back.

In the first Peel cup final fans witnessed a lively fist fight between Scott of Sparta and Cuthbert of the Maccabees. The battle led to a ruling by the Peel cup commission on today's game. Fines will be imposed for any misconduct on the field.

Officials today will be Tom Compton, referee, and Hughie Foy and Jack Johnston, linesmen. An opening game between the Ravenswood Hearts and the Hakoahs will start at 1 o'clock. Today's Peel cup lineup:

SPARTA.		MACCABEES.
Trasnek	G	Fisher
Scott	R. B.	Henney
Murnka	L. B.	Davidson
Sterba	R. H.	Von Drasek
Tomik	C. H.	Art Waldron
Pearson	L. H.	Ogilvie
Monroe	O. R.	Lillie
Kriz	I. R.	Pearlman
Wolf	C	All Waldron
Vlcek	I. L.	Cuthburt
Robb	O. L.	Molvie

The International league has one match scheduled today. The Norwegians, who at present lead the Amateur league, will meet the Viennas at 4600 West Fullerton avenue, starting at 3 o'clock. The Vikings will celebrate Swedish day at Geneva, Ill., meeting a picked team from the Hansas and Schwabens, starting at 1 o'clock.

U. S. POLO TEAM RIDES TO VICTORY OVER BRITONS, 8-6

Retains International Cup with Second Triumph.

LONDON, June 20.—(AP)—Slowed down by a spongy turf, but clicking magically when it counted most, America's youthful big four successfully defended the international polo cup today, winning the second and deciding match from England, 8 to 6, on the famous Hurlingham club field.

Replying with two first period goals after Hesketh Hughes, England's sharpshooting No. 1, had electrified the crowd of 12,000 by scoring on a pass from Gerald Balding in the first 25 seconds, the Americans—Eric Pedley, Michael Phipps, Stewart Iglehart, and Winston Guest—never were headed thereafter.

The victory was the United States' tenth consecutive cup match triumph since 1914 and enabled the Americans to defend the trophy for the fourth successive time.

End Series Wednesday.

A third and final game will be played Wednesday to complete the series, but it will be only an exhibition. The big silver cup was presented to Guest, captain and back, by the duchess of Gloucester. He took it to the dressing room, where it was filled with champagne by Bobby Strawbridge, chairman of the United States Polo association, and the rival players sipped it dry.

Sultry heat and a field drenched by last night's downpour greatly retarded the players and their mounts and the match fell far short in excitement of the opener, won by the Americans, 10 to 9, on June 10. Under these conditions the English were slight favorites.

Almost Tie Score.

In the closing seconds of the sixth chukker, after Capt. H. P. Guinness scored to put his team one goal behind the Americans at 7 to 6, the crowd lifted a crescendo of groans as Eric Tyrrell-Martin's drive hit the goal post and nestled at the base of the post. Guinness and then Tyrrell-Martin made lunges at the ball, but it rested there with just an inch or two needed to tie the score. Guest finally charged in and sent the ball far afield.

That, plus a double somersault from his mount by Iglehart in the second period and a three goal rally in the fourth which put England back in the running, was the high spot of the match.

Iglehart Goes Into Spin.

A few minutes after Guest scored on a sharply angled pass from Pedley to put America in front, 3 to 1, the invaders' back missed a goal try on a brilliant backhand flip from Iglehart. Iglehart left his seat in making the shot and turned two complete circles as he struck the turf. He got to his feet quickly and ran in pursuit of his mount, Paddock Bound.

After Iglehart scored at the outset of the fourth period to make the score 5 to 1, Britain came back with two goals by Balding and one by Hughes, but Phipps stemmed the rally with a tally as the period ended.

All of the victorious players participated in the scoring. With three goals, Pedley again led the American scoring, but he was far below his record equaling nine goal pace of the first match. Hughes counted three times for the losers.

Miss Scoring Chances.

The Americans might easily have won by a larger margin had it not been for sterling defensive work by Balding and Guinness and their own overeagerness. They missed twelve scoring chances—twice as many as the British.

Guest redeemed himself after inaccuracies in the first match, playing in spectacular form both on the defense, where he effectively bottled up Balding, and on the attack in feeding passes to his teammates. Although ragged at times, it was the Americans' ability to rise with beautiful team play at critical points that accounted for retention of the cup.

Lineups:

AMERICA [8].		ENGLAND [6].
Eric Pedley	No. 1	H. H. Hughes
Michael Phipps	No. 2	Gerald Balding
Stewart Iglehart	No. 3	E. Tyrrell-Martin
Winston Guest	Back	Capt. H. Guinness

Score by periods:

America	2	1	1	2	1	0	1	—8
England	1	0	0	3	1	1	0	—6

Goals—Pedley [3], Guest [2], Iglehart [2], Phipps, Hughes [3], Balding [2], Guinness. Free shots: America—Guest, none out of one. England—Balding, one out of two. Referee—J. Nelson. Umpires—Capt. H. C. Walford and R. R. Ashton.

POLOISTS SUE TO RECOVER $11,702 PAID IN TAXES

New York, June 20.—(AP)—The United States polo association which claims that it is operated "for scientific and educational purposes" and is exempt from paying income taxes, today filed in the federal court a suit to collect $11,702.63 and interest from the government.

The amount represents tax installments paid between June and December, 1931, as 1930 taxes.

The association, suing through its treasurer, Eldridge T. Gerry, maintains that the tax was "illegally and erroneously assessed." It sets forth that it operates to foster and develop polo, that it is a nonprofiting pleasure and recreational club, that no part of its net earnings enure to the benefit of share-holders or individuals, and that it is entitled to exemption under section 103 of the revenue act of 1928.

Anglers Head for Wisconsin and Black Bass

BY BOB BECKER.

If fishermen who are at home instead of in the north woods listen closely this week-end they are quite apt to hear noise coming down from Wisconsin because the black bass season opened yesterday in that state and the boys are up there [many thousand strong] joining in the chorus of "When It's Black Bass Time in June," or something like that. It's a season that anglers always look forward to, since both the large and small mouthed species are popular game fish both with bait casters and fly rod fishermen.

Bass lakes are so numerous in Wisconsin that it is not easy to pick out just a few as possibilities for a trip. For example, one can get good fishing even in southern Wisconsin on lakes such as Lake Geneva, Brown's lake near Burlington, and others which are easy to reach by automobile or train. Here are a few suggestions farther north in the state.

Crivitz, Wis.—We suggest the High Falls reservoir for the fly fishing black bass enthusiast. It would be difficult to find a better place for a beginner at fly; not much accuracy is needed to cast the big back water on the Peshtigo. You can get out among the stumps and snags, shoot out the lure in most any direction, and have a chance to make a fish strike. The fish are not very big, but there are enough there to give one some sport. A stream near by for trout.

Winegar to Land o' Lakes along the boundary lines—The Wisconsin-Michigan boundary line country is above the range of muskies. When the northern muskellunge was distributed by nature this fish didn't get into the drainage going toward Superior, although a few lakes above "the line" have been stocked with muskies. The lakes along the border and below it are on the small side and always have been primarily fishing spots for bass, pickerel, and walleyes. This is true beyond the boundary above Mamie lake. The exception is beautiful Thousand Islands lake, which is a deep one with lake trout in it as well as bass. One of our favorite lakes on the Michigan side is Cisco, which can be worked with both a fly and a bait casting rod. We recommend some short canoe jaunts up there in that triangle bounded by Boulder junction, Land o' Lakes and Winegar.

PARKER, RIGGS TO MEET TODAY IN TENNIS FINAL

McDiarmid and John Are Eliminated.

Frankie Parker and Robert Riggs yesterday afternoon went into the final of the national clay court tennis championship at the River Forest Tennis club. They will meet this afternoon for the title.

Parker, whose home is in Milwaukee, but whose scholastic work is in Lawrenceville, N. J., dropped the first set to John McDiarmid of the University of Chicago, but steadied, and after the second set came on with a rush. The scores were 4-6, 6-4, 6-2, 6-2.

Playing a base line game Parker was caught by McDiarmid's chop shots in the first set. He solved the attack in the second set and opened up a hard driving offense that forced the Maroon star to many net faults.

Welsh Beats Reese.

Riggs, who registered from Los Angeles, scored over Vernon John of the University of California in straight sets, 6-4, 7-5, 6-4. The winner depended to no little extent upon accurate lobs to thwart John's rushes to the net.

Bernard Welsh of Washington, D. C., defeated William Reese of Atlanta, for the New England states singles title, 3-6, 7-5, 6-3, 1-6, 6-4. The tournament was held at Hartford, Conn., but was delayed, and it was agreed the finalists could decide the matter at River Forest.

COLLEGE MEET TOMORROW

A field of 82 college tennis players, the pick of 35 campuses from all sections of the country, will assemble at Northwestern university tomorrow morning for the first round of the 52d annual national intercollegiate tennis tournament. Play will continue all week, with the finals in both singles and doubles scheduled for next Sunday.

Bennett, Newton Defend Titles.

A wide open fight is anticipated in the singles, since Wilbur Hess of Rice, last year's champion, and Leonard Patterson of California Tech, 1935 runner-up, have both graduated. Dick Bennett and Paul Newton of the University of California, last year's doubles champions, will return to defend their title.

Ernest Sutter of Tulane, a brother of Cliff Sutter, 1932 champion and former Davis cup player, is No. 1 seeded player. He was a semi-finalist last year. Other seeded players in the order of selection are Vernon John, Southern California; Russell Ball, Northwestern; Paul Guibord, Dartmouth; Charles Carr, Southern California; George Ball, Northwestern; Richard Bennett, California; Ben Dey, Stanford; Ralph Minnich, Princeton; Norman Bickel, Chicago.

Guibord, Minnich Lead East.

Every section of the country has sent strong delegations. Guibord of Dartmouth, fourth seeded player, and Minnich of Princeton, seeded ninth, head the eastern forces.

The south will make a strong bid to keep the title in that section of the country. Nine southern schools are entered.

A strong Pacific coast delegation is on hand. Stanford is represented by five players, including John Law, Ben Day, and William Seward.

Northwestern, Big Ten champions, and Chicago, runnerup to the Wildcats, head the 12 central states schools. The schools are Iowa, St. Louis, Bradley Tech, Wisconsin, Illinois, Ohio State, Cincinnati, Michigan State, and Kalamazoo college.

CUBS WIN 14TH IN ROW AS O'DEA SINGLES IN NINTH

Pinch Hitter Brings 6 to 4 Victory.

score Allen and in the interests of better baseball Clark was excused from service. This made room for Baker, but the change merely meant added hilarity.

Baker got Lee on a fly to Bordagaray before lending his personal touch to the party. He walked Hack, loading the bases, and also walked Herman, forcing Cavarretta to score. Galan was out on a pop to Hudson. Baker then climaxed the inning by letting the ball drop out of his hand while winding up to pitch to Hartnett. This constituted a balk. English scored and the two other runners advanced. Baker finished the inning by fanning Hartnett.

Dodgers Tie Score.

The kind of fun the Dodgers indulged in in their half of the second wasn't so good for the champions. Lee invited the four run rally and his own dismissal by passing Hudson. Berres singled and Baker doubled, Hudson scoring. Bordagaray's single sent Berres and Baker across. French came to the rescue and nailed the next two batters, but Hassett singled to right and Bordagaray scored the tying run. Hassett then stole second, but he didn't travel any farther.

After conducting themselves surprisingly well for several innings, the Dodgers put on another bit of clowning in the sixth, but Baker refused to be annoyed. Jurges led off with a single. Herman bunted to Hassett and there wasn't a chance in the world for a play at second, but Hassett threw. The ball sailed into center field, Jurges going to third and Herman to second. Galan fouled out and Hartnett was purposely passed, filling the bases. Demaree then tapped to Baker and a double play was perpetrated by way of the plate.

More Trick Stuff.

The Dodgers pulled some more of their trick stuff in the eighth, but Baker again stood up under the treachery of his pals. French led off with a single and was forced on Jurges' bunt. Herman bounced to Frey, who foolishly threw to second after Jurges had arrived there. Baker hurdled this handicap on Galan's foul fly to Watkins and Hartnett's roller to Bucher, but the Cubs finally got him down in the ninth.

DAVIS, WARNEKE PITCH

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Brooklyn, N. Y., June 20.—Curt Davis and Lon Warneke will be the Cubs' pitchers for the double-header with the Dodgers tomorrow. The Brooklyn starters will be Van Lingle Mungo and Ed [Lefty] Brandt.

Max Schmeling's victory over Joe Louis in the twelfth made Johnny Gill the winner of the $30 pool the Cub players had formed among themselves. Billy Herman did better than that by remote control. His wife won $200 as the result of a $25 wager on Schmeling.

The flop of the Dodgers on their recent western tour cooled off the home rooters. Prior to that trip the team had a daily at home average of 8,200 paid. Since returning their average has dropped to $2,500. Today's turnout was 3,695.

Frank Demaree came up with a single to open the third inning and while it didn't lead to any scoring it did extend the lad's hitting streak to sixteen consecutive games.

Charley Root was entrusted with the two run lead in the ninth and he didn't hestitate about getting to the finish line. He set down three men in a row, one of them being Bordagaray, who fanned.

State Women's Golf to Start Tomorrow

Peoria, Ill., June 20.—[Special.]—The third annual Illinois state women's golf tournament conducted by the Chicago Women's District Golf association, which has become one of the best events in the central states during its short career, will open Monday at the Country club of Peoria.

An entry list of nearly one hundred is reported by Mrs. George C. Davis of the Oak Park club of the Chicago district. Monday's program will consist of an eighteen hole qualifying round at medal play, with match play in the championship flight and a number of others beginning Tuesday. Match play will continue throughout the week, with trophies and prizes being awarded in all flights, including those for the consolation bracket enlisting first round losers.

Hilda Mae Livengood of Flossmoor and Danville, who won the 1935 title at Springfield last year, will defend her championship in the meet opening here tomorrow. Other Chicago district stars, including Ellamae Williams of River Forest and Mrs. S. L. Reinhardt of Northmoor, will be among the contenders for Miss Livengood's crown.

122d Artillery Poloists Defeat Olympia Fields

6 Marks Fall in New York A. A. U. Track

New York, June 20.—(AP)—Six meet records fell today as track and field athletes representing the New York Athletic club monopolized the Metropolitan Senior A. A. U. events which also served as district qualifying events for the Olympic team.

Four of the six record breakers were New York A. C. teammates, led by Bill Bonthron, former Princeton star, who captured the 1,500 meter run after a sensational sprint. The others were Robert Rodenkirchen in the 200 meter dash, Horace P. Odell in the javelin, and James Hucker in the 400 meter hurdles. The other records were hung up by Elno Pentti of the Millrose A. A. in the 10,000 meter run and Martin Glickman, Syracuse university freshman in the 100 yard dash.

McCluskey Sets Pace.

Bonthron's spectacular victory in the 1,500 meter run, the first of his comeback campaign, came after he had hung back in the thick of the 11 man field for three-quarters of the race, which was paced by Joe McCluskey, former steeplechase champion. The former Princeton star flashed into action halfway on the final lap and won by about ten yards from Ernest Federoff of the Millrose A. A., who was second. Bonthron's time, four minutes 1-10 second, was 1-10 of a second faster than registered last June by Joe Mangan.

The oldest record to go was the javelin mark, set in 1930 by Dave Myers of New York university, at 202 feet 11 inches. Odell, former Manhattan college intercollegiate champion, created a new standard of 204 feet 11¾ inches.

The 100 meter dash saw Glickman defeat Ben Johnson, former Columbia university intercollegiate champion, and clip 2-10 of a second from the mark of 10.9 seconds, made last year by John Kunitzky of the New York A. C.

Clips Two-Tenths off Hurdle Mark.

In the 200 meter run Robert Rodenkirchen, Dickinson High school, Jersey City, furnished a surprise by shattering 6-10 of a second from the mark of 22 seconds held jointly by Kunitzky and Robert Kane, also of the N. Y. A. C. Rodenkirchen had two yards to spare on Johnson.

Hucker's :55.6 in the 400 meter hurdles was 2-10 of a second faster than Joseph Healey's 1933 record of :55.8, while Pentti's performance in the 10,000 meter run clipped 16 1-5 seconds from the 1933 mark made by George Barker of N. Y. A. C. Pentti, never headed and powerful at the finsh, was caught in 32:25.2.

PRICE CARDS 148, WINS GLEN FLORA CLUB GOLF TITLE

Bob Price, former club champion, won Glen Flora's invitational golf tournament with a 36 hole score of 77—71—148 yesterday. The present champion, George Whyte, was just five strokes back, 79—74—153, to take second low gross.

More than 200 golfers turned out for the event. Prize winners included:

First low gross 36 holes, Bob Price, 77—71—148; first low net, Ev Slobe, 152—12—140; second low gross, George Whyte, 79—74—153; second low net, R. R. Kilponen, 160—20—140; low gross morning round, guests, Edgar Lindenmeyer, 73; first low net, members, George Doyle, 97—25—72; first low net, guests, Vic Schramm, 75-3—72; first low gross, members, H. L. Murphy, 80; afternoon round low gross, guests, John Dolence, 74; low guests, members, Char Whyte, 76; low net, guests, Stanley Hodnik, 76—6—70; low net, members, J. L. Price, 83—11—72.

George Dunlap Jr. Wins New York Amateur Golf

PATTY BERG SHOOTS 70.

Denver, Colo., June 20.—[U. P.]—Patty Berg today shot a record breaking 70, nine under par, in a practice round for the Women's Trans-Mississippi Golf tourney which starts Monday.

Kokes Defeats Holmstrom to Win Golf Title

Decatur, Ill., June 20.—[Special.]—Wilbur Kokes of the York Country club, a young fellow who said at the luncheon intermission today that he didn't care about this game of golf, is the new state amateur golf champion.

Competing in his first tourney since 1933, outside his activities as a member of the University of Illinois team, Kokes overwhelmed Johnny Holmstrom, 15 year old Rockford High school sophomore, 7 and 6, in the final of the sixth annual Illinois state amateur tournament at the Country club of Decatur today.

Whether the 22 year old Kokes likes his golf or not, he proved himself an able shotmaker. Young Holmstrom never had a chance after the first nine holes. Kokes was in the lead from the turn on the first 18 this morning to the finish.

After a more or less erratic 18 this morning Kokes came through with some of the finest golf of the tourney to beat Holmstrom.

Kokes' medal card shows no less than seven birdies for his day's play. Four of them came during the first 18, notwithstanding his repeated shots to the rough and into the sand pits. This afternoon he got the other three on the out nine, to go into his big lead through the 27th. At the intermission this noon he was out in front, 3 up. The medals at this point showed Kokes with 39—37—76 and Holmstrom with 39—42—81.

After beating Moreland yesterday, Holmstrom was figured as a good match for Kokes. He failed, however, to produce any championship form, probably due to inexperience since his only other tourney play was in the qualifying round of the state event at Rockford last year. The youngster did not qualify.

Kokes qualified with a 116 score, ten strokes higher than Gus Moreland, tourney medalist. Holmstrom reached match play with a 119 qualifying score. Kokes defeated Art Floberg, Rockford, 3 and 2, in the first round of match play; Bob Price, Waukegan, 2 up in the second round; Johnny Hobart, Rockford, 2 and 1, in the quarter finals, and Steve Williams Jr., of the Evanston Golf club, 7 and 6, in the semi-finals.

REX MAYS WINS 100 MILE AUTO RACE AT GOSHEN

Goshen, N. Y., June 20.—(AP)—Rex Mays of Glendale, Cal., won the 100 mile national championship auto race over the Goshen triangular mile track today. Mays drove the difficult 100 miles in 1 hour 18 minutes 31.47 seconds, averaging 76.409 miles per hour.

Wilbur Shaw of Indianapolis was second, a third of a mile behind. Doc Mackenzie of Eddington, Pa., was third. Floyd Roberts, Van Nuys, Cal., was fourth, and Billy Wynn of Detroit, fifth.

Mays, the Pacific coast champion, moved into the lead in the first lap and set the pace all the way. His lead through the first 50 miles was just a matter of yards, and at no time during the race did he have more than a half mile advantage.

In the early stages of the race Roberts was pressing him, and in the last half Shaw and MacKenzie kept him pushing the throttle down to the floor.

Mays' prize for winning was $2,200.

Ray Mangrum Leads Western Open with 133

Harcke of Morrison, Ill., and Jack Grout of Fort Worth, Tex.

The qualifying limit for the closing 36 holes proved to be 158, 65 players tieing on lowering that figure.

Card Includes Nine Birdies.

Mangrum's card today was one for the records, only three holes, all pars, being played in orthodox fashion. It included nine birdies, the like of which Ray could never recall having done before.

The best single nine hole performance of the tournament on the first nine was submitted by old Mac Smith, who had an exuberant 32, four under par, an edge he held to the finish for a 67. Cooper, runner-up in the now historic National open, and winner of this title in 1934, hung up a 69 this afternoon to tie Mac Smith at 139.

Shortly after, Horton Smith and Revolta appeared, Horton with a 70 and Johnny with 69.

Mangrum's card:

KIEFER BREAKS WORLD RECORD FOR BACKSTROKE

Des Moines, Ia., June 20.—(AP)—America's acquatic stars heightened Uncle Sam's hopes today when they bettered one world and two American long course marks in the National A. A. U. swimming meet.

Adolph Kiefer, 18-year-old Chicagoan, led the record smashing with a 1:06.5 performance in the 100 meter backstroke for a new world mark. The Lake Shore A. C. representative clipped one and three-tenths seconds off the old record he established at Detroit last summer.

TRIBUNE SAILING REGATTA WILL OPEN LAKE WEEK

Yachtsmen of All Ages Compete Next Sunday.

Lake week, the annual celebration officially opening the Great Lakes for the summer will be opened next Sunday with THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE Sailing Regatta for Small Boats, off Montrose yacht harbor.

Yachtsmen aren't the only boating enthusiasts who will sail the sloops, dinghies, and canoes in the regatta. That yachting is a democratic sport is indicated by the boys, girls, and women who will be among the skippers and crews.

Advance entries show that the Snipe class, which is expected to be represented by the largest contingent of any class, will be sailed by yachtsmen of all ages. School boys who will enter their craft in the opening race for Snipes will compete on even terms with veteran yachtsmen.

Worthman Wins Many Medals.

Commodore Henry [Hank] Worthman, head of the western division of the American Canoe association, is expected to finish either first or second in that class. Worthman, who has been national and international sail canoe champion, has many cups and medals collected over a decade of racing. Racing against him will be a field of experts and beginners, one man or boy in each boat. In the two other classes of boats two persons will sail.

After the first division for the four class races, and the dinghy winners' match race, two special races will be sailed.

Yacht racing for boys and girls this year is receiving its first impetus by the Lake Michigan Yachting association. Commodore Joseph Moller, who has raised his son to be an expert helmsman in small craft, is the first man to handle junior sailing activities for the L. M. Y. A. He is in charge of the juniors at the regatta, who will sail their own special race after being represented in the regular events.

Four to Sail for C. Y. C.

Four boys, all under 18, have been chosen to sail in the junior race under the Chicago Yacht club burgee. They are Sea Scouts of the club's ship, Privateer. The Jackson Park Yacht club will have one or two teams, as well as the Columbia and Sheridan Shore Yacht clubs. One or two girls entering the Lady Skippers' race are also considering entering this junior race, sailing against boys. Dinghies of the Chicago Corinthian Y. C. class will be loaned to the junior teams by the owners of the craft for this event.

Probably the most interesting event on the regatta schedule will be that for yachtswomen. Snipe class sloops, with their owners at the sheets, will be given over to women sailors in this race. Entries already received include several society women, debutantes, schoolgirls, mothers, co-eds, office girls, and one bride. One of the yachtswomen has been a crew member in a Mackinac race windjammer.

MICHIGAN CITY RACE

Henry Babson's 67 foot yawl Maruffa, sailed by Commodore Joseph A. Moller, finished first in the annual race to Michigan City yesterday. Maruffa crossed the lake in 3 hours 32 minutes and 39 seconds.

Bagheera, John T. [Bud] Snite's schooner, won the cruising division time prize and also won the class A cruising event, in which Maruffa was second on corrected time.

The class B cruising race was taken by Rubaiyat, the flagship of the Columbia Yacht club, with Commodore Nathaniel Rubinkam as owner-skipper.

The new 30 square meter sloop Lil Singva, owned by the Robinson brothers, won the Universal time prize. Second in the time prize rating was Nancy, an R sloop, and third Skoal, a Tumlaren sloop.

California Is Favorite at Poughkeepsie

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., June 20.—[Special.]—The University of California's rowing aggregation, winner of the last three runnings of the annual collegiate regatta at Poughkeepsie, again will be the favorite Monday when seven varsity crews speed away from the starting line.

The Golden Bears, beaten once this year by the speedy Washington crew, definitly established themselves as the boat to beat, in what was probably the last workout, Friday, when they reeled off another fast race against time.

However, despite California's fast trials, there will be many among the thousands of spectators at the Hudson river spectacle, who believe that in cheering for Washington they will be backing the winner. Washington is said to have one of its best crews in several years—and Washington crews always are a serious threat in the four mile race.

There seems to be little doubt in the minds of qualified observers that the winner lies between these two crews, with a rather lusty minority reminding western supporters that Cornell is a factor in the race which cannot be discounted lightly.

The others of the seven competing crews are those of Columbia, Pennsylvania, Navy, and Syracuse.

Coach Buck Walsh of Navy has expressed the view that "Cornell looks toughest," while the modest Kay Ebright, who learned his rowing at Washington, picks his favored Californians to place third. He figures first place will be a tossup between Washington and Cornell, with Navy fourth.

CRUICKSHANK LEADS IN OPEN.

Newport News, Va., June 20—(AP)—Bobby Cruickshank of Richmond, shooting for his fourth state open title, reached the half-way mark in the 72 hole battle two strokes ahead of the field with 138.

U. S. COLLEGIATE GOLF MEET TO OPEN TOMORROW

Michigan Entry Tops Field of 150.

Collegians on a thousand campuses throughout the land have been doing it with cap and gown these last few weeks, but beginning tomorrow at the North Shore Golf club they'll do it with brassie and mashie in the big commencement exercises of the undergraduate golf world—the thirty-eighth national intercollegiate championship tournament.

It is a lengthy, and by tradition a highly interesting convocation, this gathering of the young men who in the last few years have gone out of their own league to dominate the national amateur itself. In its thirty-eight years the intercollegiate has produced two United States amateur champions, one British amateur titleholder, and three runners-up for the American crown. In addition it has begun to send up the most feared threats in the amateur, and has placed several golfers on the last few Walker cup teams.

150 Golfers Compete.

The battle at North Shore this week, which will not end until Saturday sundown, enlists an army of 150 golfers recruited from every large university and college in the country. Heading the list will be the University of Michigan, winner of the last two team titles in the intercollegiate. Captaining the Wolverines will be Chuck Kocsis, twice Big Ten champion and the low amateur in the recent national open, at Baltusrol. Ed White of Texas, individual winner last year, having graduated, will not defend his title.

The team championship will be decided through the thirty-six holes of medal play which constitute the qualifying round for the match play bracket with eighteen holes tomorrow and the final eighteen on Tuesday. Match play will begin Wednesday with two eighteen hole rounds, followed by thirty-six hole matches on Thursday, Friday, and Saturday.

Michigan Entry Formidable.

Aside from the formidable Michigan entry of six men, with Johnny Fischer of the Walker cup team the only absentee of the 1935 team winners, the tournament brings eight men from Stanford, five from Harvard, a strong quartet from the University of Dayton, six from Princeton, six from Louisiana State, eight from Northwestern, and five from Loyola of Chicago.

Outstanding individual contenders in addition to Kocsis will be Fred Haas Jr. of Louisiana State, runner-up to White last year, and a teammate, Paul Leslie; Willie Turnesa, only amateur member of New York's famed professional family, competing alone for Holy Cross college; Art Doering, Chicago boy who is registered from Colorado college; Lyn Lardner, Wisconsin member of the Harvard team, and Don Edwards and Verne Stewart of Stanford.

Includes Big Names in Game.

The intercollegiate roster of champions includes a number of the big names of the game. Jess Sweetser won the championship for Yale, and then went on to win the national amateur as well as to become the first American player to capture the British amateur. George Dunlap Jr., a Princetonian, won the intercollegiate in 1930 and 1931, and took the United States amateur in 1933. Watts Gunn of Georgia Tech and Jack Westland of the University of Washington each finished runner-up in the amateur. Last year Walter Emery of Oklahoma, intercollegiate king in 1933, made the most brilliant showing of the field in the national amateur at Cleveland, going to the final before Lawson Little completed his title slam by eliminating him. The 1934 winner, Charley Yates of Georgia, is a member of the 1936 Walker cup team, as are Emery and White.

In the team play each school may be represented by from four to six players. The team with the lowest thirty-six hole aggregate for four men will be awarded the team trophy.

TRIBUNE A. A. WILL HOLD GOLF TOURNEY FRIDAY

The fifth annual golf tournament of the Tribune A. A. will be held Friday at the Ravisloe Country club, 180th street and Western avenue. In addition to the golf tournament, marbles and horseshoe pitching contests will be held and a softball game played.

Winner of the blind bogey tournament will receive the Arch Ward trophy. Other prizes will be given for the lowest gross and net scores. Second and third place gross and net prizes also will be awarded.

The Tribune A. A. is composed of athletic officials at TRIBUNE sports events and the "wrecking crew."

COCHRANE OUT OF HOSPITAL; TO REST ON RANCH

Detroit, Mich., June 20.—(AP)—Manager Mickey Cochrane of the Detroit Tigers today was discharged from a hospital after a ten day rest and announced he would leave tomorrow by airplane for a short vacation on a ranch in Wyoming.

Cochrane, who collapsed recently during a game, said he would spend two or three weeks there fishing.

His condition was diagnosed at Boston as overactivity of the thyroid gland, but hospital attachés here said physicians were inclined to believe nervous tension caused his illness.

Munger, Texas Golfer, Wins Southern Amateur

Memphis, Tenn., June 20.—[U. P.]—Jack Munger, Dallas, Tex., youth, won the 1936 southern amateur golf championship today by defeating Freddie Haas, 20 year old Baton Rouge, La., youth, 3 and 2.

Eden's "Shame."

Ever since he became British foreign secretary last December, handsome young Capt. Anthony Eden has been one Briton who backed league of nations trade penalties against Italy to the hilt. Time and again he defended his policy in the house of commons. But meanwhile Italy went on conquering Ethiopia, defying sanctions. When Italy surprised Britain by winning the war in April, the penalties remained a big reason for Italy to refuse to participate in the struggle for European peace.

The British cabinet met Wednesday and did the expected. A majority decided that the sanctions it sponsored against Italy last November should be lifted. Eden was opposed.

But on Thursday, Eden arose before the house of commons again. Said he: "The government has come to the conclusion there is no longer any use in continuing these measures as a means of pressure against Italy. . . . If it means admitting failure, this is one instance it has got to be faced."

Eden explained that European peace was a greater end. [That Britain's peace was in great danger was the theme of Secretary of War Alfred Duff Cooper's attack on pacifists in a London speech. He said: "We are told that we should never frighten people, but I think it is the duty of all those persons in authority to frighten the people of this country out of their wits."]

Laborite members of parliament roared "Shame!" and "Treachery!" at Eden. They prepared to align themselves against the new British foreign policy in further parliamentary debate this week. Some went so far as to demand that Eden resign as did Sir Samuel Hoare, his predecessor, when the latter's plan to give Italy two-thirds of Ethiopia was decried last fall [Hoare is now first lord of the admiralty]. Nevertheless, the cabinet had France's support. Premier Leon Blum's cabinet announced Friday it would accept removal of the league boycott. The actual retreat is up to the league of nations assembly, which will meet June 30. Fifty-two nations voted for sanctions against Italy.

To wartime Prime Minister David Lloyd George's cry of "cowardly surrender" Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin replied that ending sanctions was "the wiser of two courses." Baldwin called for a British-German-French peace treaty. [See main news section.]

It was indicated the cabinet would attempt to persuade Realmleader Adolf Hitler of Germany to support peace efforts. But in Berlin a government spokesman commented that Hitler considered Britain's questionnaire in part an insult. This quiz paper was sent to Hitler after the other Locarno signers were deadlocked on Germany's remilitarization of the Rhineland last March. It wanted to know how he would guarantee peace. It appeared that Hitler would be noncommittal if he replied at all.

French Crisis.

Except for scattered outbreaks which prolonged disorder, France's industrial strikes subsided last week. But the agitated state of Socialist Premier Blum's new government did not subside.

Continued removal of gold from France by capitalists and others left Blum with a vital problem. The state's credit was weakening and the treasury has little surplus. Vincent Auriol, minister of finance, first told the chamber of deputies that Blum would not reduce the franc's value. But on Friday Auriol obtained the chamber's approval of an indirect inflation of $2,200,000,000. His loan bill provided that the treasury would indefinitly postpone redemption of 900 million dollars in bonds held by the Bank of France. Then $1,300,000,000 in treasury notes would be printed as security for a gold loan from the bank. In principle, the government devaluated the franc. The whole deal would leave the treasury with $1,100,000,000 which, Auriol estimated, would be slightly more than enough to meet the 1936 treasury deficit. He hoped this and refusal "to soak the rich" would stop the flight of capital. [See Business Review.]

The French cabinet decreed that all Fascist leagues—such as the Croix de Feu—must be dissolved. This followed a riot in Marseilles when 5,000 leftist strikers attacked 3,000 nationalists on parade. The General Federation of Labor, which effected strike settlements for union workers, accused Col. Francois de la Rocque's Croix de Feu of trying to divide the workers while others accused the order of trying to prolong the strikes. De la Rocque declared his 700,000 followers were going to take "political action," but did not explain.

Roger Salengro, minister of interior, ordered police to arrest agitators, whether communist or Fascists. He charged that followers of Leon Trotzky, Russian bolshevik exiled after a quarrel with Dictator Stalin, were inciting workers to seize factories in defiance of agreements. Maurice Thorez, communist leader, objected to Salengro's policing of strikers, maintaining the government should continue to favor them.

At a workers' celebration of labor gains Thorez declared French factories soon would become the property of the workers. That was why, he said, the factories had not been damaged. The newspaper Paris Soir revealed a secret agreement between the Confederation of Labor and Blum. This, the Soir said, provides that the government would take over any industry under strike if a shortage of an essential commodity threatened. It would give the strikers 100 per cent support against their employers.

Salengro early in the week announced that 265,000 workers had returned to work in the sections most affected by strikes. At the height of the strike 1,000,000 "folded arms." Apparently a large number of these had agreed to resume work, but the exact situation was obscured by new strikes.

Blum forced his reform legislation, intended to satisfy every demand of the workers, through the senate. The chamber of deputies had already passed the bills for a 40 hour week, collective bargaining, paid vacations, etc. The cost of living mounted as a result of the labor legislation. [See main news section.]

Meanwhile many another country was swept by strikes. [See Foreign Notes.]

"Revenge Roehm."

The newspaper Paris Soir's correspondent in Berlin reported that a "Roehm Racher" [Revenge Roehm] organization was waging a campaign of murder and terror against Nazi officials, Hitler not excepted.

Capt. Ernst Roehm, the Brown Shirt leader slain in the "blood purge" of the Nazi party in June, 1934, had 20,000 Brown Shirt followers who swore to avenge their chief, the dispatch said. The correspondent continued that many Schutzstaffel [hand picked Hitler guards] and Storm Troopers have been found slain with "RR" chalked on their chests. The guards and Storm Troopers were leaders in the assassinations ordered by Hitler to "clean up" overly ambitious and loose moraled Nazis.

In Berlin a propaganda ministry spokesman declared the Paris dispatch was "nonsense," that there never was nor will be a Roehm organization.

Three days later Heinrich Himmler, 36 years old, chief of the Schutzstaffel and the GSP [secret police] was given full command of all police in Germany. It was Himmler who in 1934 sat as one of the judges who condemned "rebel" Storm Troopers to death before firing squads.

Washington

Congress.

The Seventy-fourth congress, having cleaned up most of the important "must" legislation on its calendar, adjourned sine die at midnight. Most of the Democratic members were preparing to leave immediately for their national convention in Philadelphia. Many congressmen who attended the final sessions of house and senate may be missing next January when the Seventy-fifth congress convenes. Under the "lame duck" law the next congress will have no hold-over members.

Both house and senate were driven throughout the week toward adjournment. By Thursday administration leaders had whipped the two chambers into line for final action on the few important pending bills. The senate that day adopted the conference report on the 2 billion 400 million dollar deficiency bill and sent the measure to the White House. The bill carries 1 billion 425 million dollars for so-called work relief.

The senate also adopted the conference report on the 143 million dollar interior department appropriation bill. [See Business Review.]

In a last minute surprise the senate concurred in house amendments to the Walsh-Healy bill imposing NRA labor and hour standards upon holders of government contracts. The bill, first passed by the senate last year, was dormant in the house for a year because of protest that it was an attempt to circumvent the Supreme court rejection of the original NRA.

The house defeated efforts to enact food and drug control legislation, rejecting on a standing vote, 190 to 70, a compromise measure approved earlier by the senate. [See main news section.]

On Wednesday the house defeated the attempt of the senate to include in the deficiency bill a $10,000,000 item for the proposed Florida ship canal and the senate conferees receded on the amendment.

By a vote of 263 to 76 the house on Wednesday defeated overwhelmingly the Black-Smith anti-lobby bill. Preceding the vote Representative Martin L. Sweeney, Ohio Democrat and formerly a supporter of President Roosevelt, delivered a blistering attack against the President. The house action put an end to the long pending measure which had been pushed vigorously by Senator Hugo L. Black [Dem., Ala.], chief inquisitor of the senate.

The Wagner housing bill, which sets up a United States housing authority composed of five $10,000 a year members, was passed by the senate Tuesday, 42 to 24, and killed yesterday when the house banking and currency committee tabled it.

Tax Bill.

Unable to force their views on the deadlocked senate-house conference considering the administration tax bill, the senate conferees gave up the fight Thursday and agreed to a compromise which was a victory for the administration. The conference report was rushed to completion and was passed in the house immediately. The senate passed it yesterday.

It was conceded that the compromise law would fall far short of the $829,000,000 bill passed by the senate and that it would fail by several hundred million dollars to produce the revenue demanded by President Roosevelt. Experts estimated the new law would produce 620 million dollars a year in permanent revenue, as demanded by the President, but would yield only 175 millions in temporary revenue.

Bonus.

Beginning Monday veterans of the world war throughout the country began receiving a total of 2 billion 237 million dollars in bonus bonds and checks from the federal treasury. The bulk of the distribution job was handled by the postoffice department.

If the veterans were not at home the bonus envelopes, sent by registered mail, were not delivered. A great majority of the 3,517,600 veterans, however, were at home, waiting.

Prepayment of the soldiers' bonus was voted by congress over the veto of President Roosevelt. The veterans were given the option of holding the bonds, which yield 3 per cent interest, or exchanging them for cash. It was reported the treasury expects to pay out between 500 million and a billion dollars in cash to the veterans by the end of June.

The average payment to the veterans was $550. Some received only a few dollars and some received as much as $1,500, depending on the length of service and whether the veteran borrowed against his adjusted service certificate. An American Legion survey estimated the bonus money would be spent by veterans as follows:

Payment of old debts, 31.4 per cent; homes and home life expenses, 32.4 per cent; business and investments, 7.8 per cent; family clothing, 7 per cent; motor cars and machinery, 8.7 per cent; insurance, education, savings accounts, and miscellaneous, 12.7 per cent. [See Business Review.]

Treasury.

A treasury statement made public Monday revealed the public debt of the United States to be $34,331,355,867, a staggering and unprecedented total for peace time. Since President Roosevelt took office the debt burden has increased 13 billion 395 million dollars.

The statement showed a current deficit for the fiscal year, ending June 30, of $4,684,940,227, as compared with $3,303,473,199 on the same date last year.

For the fiscal year, thus far, the New Deal has spent more than 2 dollars for every one received in taxes and other revenue. The expenditures total 8 billion 492 million dollars. Last year on June 15 the spending total was 6 billion 864 million dollars.

A recent sharp increase in the public debt was caused by the soldiers' bonus, but figures show that New Deal agencies are spending more than they did a year ago. The debt was increased by 2 billion 600 million dollars in one day by the treasury's biggest borrowing operation in peacetime history. Funds obtained from this borrowing will go toward supporting New Deal spending up to Sept. 15 and toward defraying bonus costs.

President.

Mr. Roosevelt returned to Washington on Monday from a swing through the southwest which carried him 5,000 miles. He appeared slightly weary from the tour, during which he made several speeches under a broiling sun. On Tuesday the President held his first press conference in ten days. Mr. Roosevelt was more interested in pleasantries than news. Asked what he thought of the Republican platform, he replied he did not think there was any news on that. Then he added, laughingly, that he had not said "in that."

On Thursday the President sat back in an easy chair to hear the speech which will nominate him at the Democratic convention. The speech was read by Judge John E. Mack of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., who will make the address at Philadelphia. Judge Mack nominated Mr. Roosevelt at Chicago in 1932. The President planned to remain in Washington until he leaves for Philadelphia to accept the nomination late this week.

Defense.

The most rigorous war games ever staged by troops of the Hawaiian department of the army were begun last week. Units made up of 19,000 men were ordered to be ready for instant mobilization at several strategic points on mountainous Oahu Island. The games were conducted under the supervision of Maj. Gen. Hugh A. Drum, department commander. Complete secrecy veiled the maneuvers.

Firing tests for two 14 inch railway coast defense guns were concluded Monday at Camp Don, Cal. The range fired was greater than that of battleships. Fifteen rounds of projectiles, each weighing three-quarters of a ton, were hurled 23 miles out to sea at a moving target simulating a zigzagging battleship.

A squadron of twenty-eight bombers and sixteen attack planes of the army air corps took off from Mitchel field, N. Y., Wednesday for Langley Field, Va. Aboard were 100 West Point cadets of the class of 1937. In Virginia the squadron "bombed" a mythical city. The maneuver was part of the annual aviation familiarization course for cadets of the military academy.

A new destroyer was added to the navy Wednesday. The U. S. S. Lamson was launched at the shipyards of the Bath Iron works, Bath, Me.

Capital Notes.

The preliminary report of Secretary of Agriculture Wallace on recipients of AAA benefit payments in excess of $10,000 was released Friday night. It revealed that huge payments were made to a comparatively small number of sugar producers. The largest single payment was $1,022,037 to the Hawaiian Commercial and Sugar company.

Democratic Convention.

Tuesday morning in the Philadelphia Municipal auditorium, James A. Farley, national Democratic chairman, will call to order his party's national convention. Present will be delegates representing 1,082 votes and alternate delegates representing an equal number. The actual number of delegates and alternates will exceed 2,164 because some of the votes will be split among three or four persons.

It is certain the convention hall, with a capacity of 15,000 persons, will be jammed. Last minute cramping of available space, it is expected, may increase the capacity to 20,000.

Soon after the convention is called to order a recess will be taken until evening. Then the delegates will reassemble to hear the keynote address of Senator Alben Barkley of Kentucky, who also was the keynoter at Chicago in 1932.

Next day the convention will get down to business, much of which will be done in committee. The resolutions committee will be drafting a party platform. Another important committee, that on rules, headed by Senator Bennett Clark of Missouri, a son of the late Speaker Champ Clark, will propose to the convention the abolition of the long controverted Democratic two-thirds and unit rules.

Senator Clark predicted last week that both rules would be dropped by the convention. The two-thirds rule requires a two-thirds vote of the delegates to nominate a candidate and the unit rule binds all members of a delegation to the majority vote of his delegation.

By Thursday it is probable the convention will have approved a platform and will be listening to many typical convention speeches. Permanent Chairman Joseph T. Robinson will introduce the orators and keep order with his gavel.

On Friday the Democrats will stage the big hullabaloo of nominating Franklin D. Roosevelt for President and John N. Garner for Vice President. Because the great majority of the delegates are pledged to Roosevelt, it is likely he will be nominated by acclamation.

Saturday the convention will move outdoors to nearby Franklin Field stadium of the University of Pennsylvania for the biggest whooping demonstration of the political show. That evening President Roosevelt will appear to make his acceptance speech. The stadium seats 80,000.

If Chairman Farley's plans are successful, the latter scene will be duplicated, except for the presence of Mr. Roosevelt and the convention delegates and officials, at many other stadiums, halls, and gathering places throughout the country. Those attending these rallies will be charged an admission fee of $1 to hear the President's speech over the radio. The money will go into the Democratic campaign fund. This plan began to have repercussions yesterday when it was learned that tickets for the rallies were being sold in federal offices. [See main news section.]

The Campaign.

The new leaders of the Republican party—Gov. Alf M. Landon of Kansas, candidate for President; Frank Knox of Chicago, candidate for Vice President, and John Hamilton, chairman, and other members of the national committee—held their first conferences at Topeka, Kas., last week.

Both Mr. Knox and Mr. Hamilton announced afterward that "we are taking orders from the boss, and the boss is Gov. Landon." An important development was a reorganization of the national committee. C. B. Goodspeed of Chicago was made national treasurer, to succeed George Getz, retired. Former Chairman Henry P. Fletcher was made general counsel, thus trading positions with the new chairman, Mr. Hamilton.

Gov. Landon and his family soon will leave for their summer home in Estes Park, Colo. The governor will return for a special session of the Kansas legislature in July. It is expected he will start an active campaign tour, probably a swing of the eastern states, following the day of the notification ceremonies, yet to be set.

Mr. Knox announced while in Topeka that he would make his opening campaign speech in New Hampshire on July 4. "And there'll be plenty of politics in that speech," he said.

Later in the week Mr. Hamilton went east to lay the groundwork for an aggressive campaign in that section. In connection with the efforts of Democrats to induce Gov. Lehman of New York to seek a third term Hamilton said: "Gov. Landon will carry New York whether Lehman runs again or not."

Following his visit east Mr. Hamilton plans to set up general headquarters in Chicago, from which he will direct the campaign.

Third Party.

The long awaited announcement of a third party in the field came Friday from Representative William Lemke, radical from North Dakota. He said he would seek the presidency as the head of a new "Union" party. Shortly after his announcement he received an indorsement from the Rev. Charles E. Coughlin's Union for Social Justice. Lemke said he also expects support from the late Senator Huey P. Long's Share the Wealth organization and the followers of Dr. Francis E. Townsend's old age pension group. Major party leaders yesterday studied the possible effects of the new group.

A probable supporting nucleus for Lemke's party will be the Farmer-Labor-Progressive federation of Wisconsin. This group, representing a union of nine radical organizations, planned to coördinate the radical voting strength at a convention opening in Oshkosh yesterday. The group recently split with the La Follette Progressive party because Gov. Philip La Follette would not subscribe to its more extreme policies. [See main news section.]

Political Notes.

The Pocatello, Idaho, Tribune reported Friday that Senator William E. Borah had announced he was willing and anxious to run for reëlection because of questions involved in the coming campaign.

Former Gov. Alfred E. Smith of New York, it was learned Friday, will not attend the Democratic convention. He will, however, be close by, in Maryland.

Mrs. Eleanor Gridley, former school teacher, who was present at Jackson, Mich., in 1854 when the Republican party was born, celebrated her ninetieth birthday in Chicago Friday. She received a congratulatory telegram from Gov. Landon.

Legislature.

The Illinois state senate early Friday passed the Adamowski bill increasing the portion of the 3 cent state sales tax diverted to relief from 1 to 1½ cents [see City]. The bill previously passed the house. The senate then adjourned the second special session until Aug. 4. The fourth special session, at which the permanent registration, or "honest elections" bill was passed, had been previously adjourned sine die.

Bills passed by the legislature permitting Chicago to issue bonds to pay outstanding judgments without a referendum were signed yesterday by Gov. Horner. [See finance section.]

The legislature took no final action on a bill designed to enforce central standard time on Chicago. The measure died on third reading in the house and was killed in the senate by a joint resolution for adjournment of the session.

A LIFE FOR A LIFE.

Edward Brown, 45, animal trainer at a San Francisco zoo, was gored and trampled to death Tuesday by "Wally," a six ton bull elephant. Park authorities ordered the animal, 23 years old, shot to death. Police marksmen killed the elephant Thursday after an unsuccessful attempt had been made to save his life. After the mayors of San Francisco and Oakland had protested, Attorney Alexander Mosslin asked the District Court of Appeals for a restraining order. It was refused.

Mrs. Lucille Hewson was granted a divorce by Judge Philip J. Finnegan after she testified her husband, Frank, deserted her because she refused to dye her red hair black.

Firemen in Rock Island, Ill., ran when a queen bee and her swarm invaded their station house.

Hans Peterson was plowing a field on his farm near Hudson, Wis. His plow turned up more than $100 in gold coins, some of them more than 70 years old.

George Washington, 33, colored, of Coldwater, Mich., admitted in court that he had yanked off the tail of a cow belonging to Mrs. Sara Edwins. He was sentenced to serve four years in the Michigan reformatory.

Chicago

The city council had some help from the legislature, but still could find no final solution last week to its financial problem when the state dumps administration of relief on local governments July 1.

On Monday the city-county joint relief committee, appointed by Mayor Kelly to find the answer, reported one possible way out. The county must have $3,000,000 a month to continue the care for the unemployed now handled by the Illinois Emergency Relief commission. A 30 cent tax against each $100 property valuation, passed by the legislature, would produce $400,000 and Chicago's share of the state sales tax allotted for relief would be about $1,200,000. Only a third of the sales tax, however, has been awarded for relief purposes. The committee demanded legislation that would divert two-thirds of the fund to relief, since that was the aim when the tax was increased from 2 to 3 cents last summer. Under a two-thirds division Chicago would have in all about $2,800,000 for relief.

On Tuesday the city council received the committee's report and voted to send the committee to Springfield to demand helpful legislation. It also approved Ald. Roger Kiley's charge that the state had shunted relief on to local governments while keeping the funds originally intended for relief.

On Wednesday Ald. J. M. Arvey and four other committeemen saw Gov. Horner but he took no helpful action.

State Director of Finance K. L. Ames Jr. again attacked Chicago officials, charging they "long ago learned to eat their financial cake and have it, too, by 'letting George do it.'". Leo M. Lyons, IERC executive secretary, on Monday had refused Gov. Horner's request that the IERC censure city and county officials for neglecting the relief problem. Lyons replied that not more than four of 1,400 townships can finance relief immediately after July 1. He predicted a general relief breakdown because July sales tax awards will not be available until the 20th.

On Thursday Mayor Kelly announced that on July 1 the city would take over the IERC's staf and offices although Chicago lacked even a way to pay the $300,000 administrative expenses. which cannot be taken from the state relief allotment. Ald. Arvey pointed out that the 30 cent real estate tax could not be adopted until after July 1 and that tax warrants could not be sold until 11 days later.

On Friday the state senate passed the Adamowski bill and sent it to Gov. Horner for signature. [See Legislature.] This bill would divert one-half of the 3 per cent sales tax to relief. A special appropriation bill is needed to make the funds available, however, and the legislature adjourned until Aug. 4. Even one-half of the sales tax will leave Chicago about $800,000 short, it was estimated. Gov. Horner opposed the bill and may veto it. Meanwhile Mayor Kelly appointed Lyons as Chicago relief commissioner. A drastic reduction of individual relief allotments will be necessary in July, the mayor anticipated.

The board of managers of the Chicago Bar association found thirteen Cook county judges guilty of unethical conduct for electioneering in the April primaries and expelled four of them from the association. Seven of these judges were among the forty-three of the Circuit and Superior courts who on May 13 withdrew from the bar association in protest of its investigation. The four expelled are Judges James J. Kelly, Oscar F. Nelson, and John J. Sullivan of the Superior court, and Judge Harry M. Fisher of the Circuit court. Said Judge Kelly, charged with making Bundesen for governor speeches: "It's rather odd that a man can be thrown out of an organization to which he no longer belongs."

City Controler Robert B. Upham announced that tomorrow the city will pay 18,000 employés $1,531,000 in salary cuts they lost in 1931 when the city council was economizing. Successful suits to restore similar reductions to Municipal court employés, firemen, and policemen have moved the city to avoid further litigation, Upham said.

Meanwhile 29 of the 50 sitting aldermen were maneuvering to sue themselves for pay cuts [$220,000 is involved, including the claims of twenty former aldermen and the estates of four dead aldermen] made during the economy régime. Assistant Corporation Counsel Quin O'Brien told Judge Harry M. Fisher in Circuit court that aldermen shouldn't be allowed to fight on both sides of a suit.

Agreeing to differentiate between the status of former and sitting aldermen, Attorney James W. Breen, who has already won several back pay suits, filed petitions separating them in two flocks. Each petition points out that an alderman's $5,000 salary is fixed by ordinance and cannot be altered legally during the elective term affected by the ordinance.

Said O'Brien: "If they want their cuts restored let them vote it in the council chamber and pass it over the mayor's veto. They shouldn't be allowed to . . . hide themselves behind court action. . . . Some . . . are a little worried over the effects on the public mind."

Judge Daniel P. Trude of Circuit court yesterday sentenced County Treasurer Joseph L. Gill and his predecessor in office, Thomas D. Nash, to the county jail. Judge Trude cited them for contempt of court for their failure to pay a judgment of $11,550 to the village of Broadview entered in 1934 for special assessment bonds and general tax money. Gill and Nash were granted a stay of sentence. [See main news section.]

The Chicago park district submitted a survey to the Illinois commerce commission as evidence that the Chicago Surface lines should remove the street car tracks in Lake Shore drive between Chicago avenue and Ohio street. This would make way for the district's plan of developing the drive from the new outer link bridge. The survey showed that only one-half passenger per car rides the line to its terminal at Navy pier. Comparing Michigan avenue motor trafic [which would be diverted to the outer drive when completed] to this, the survey showed that 64,821 vehicles crossed the Michigan avenue bridge on March 26. Meanwhile, the first of the two 80 ton trunnions [pivots] which will support the north leaf of the outer bridge over the Chicago river was put in place. The bridge will be completed in about four months but the viaduct to the south will not be completed until 1937.

Labor

Attorney General Cummings ordered a federal investigation Thursday into reported floggings of striking cotton choppers and others in east Arkansas. The inquiry came after Norman Thomas, candidate for President on the Socialist ticket, had appealed to President Roosevelt.

Earlier in the week Miss Willie Sue Blagden, a former social worker in Memphis, Tenn.; the Rev. Claude C. Williams, a professional organizer for various causes, and Frank Rawlinson of Columbus, S. C., described as a student of social conditions, were reported to have been whipped by white men in the Arkansas area where the strike is in progress.

The cotton choppers, seeking higher pay, have been on strike for several weeks. There have been numerous reports of floggings and other violence since the strike began.

A strike riot in which scores of shots were fired developed Thursday at the electric tool factory of the Black & Decker company in Kent, O. Five men were wounded. Police estimated that 5,000 men surrounded the plant during a four hour battle. The trouble developed after strikebreakers had been taken through the plant gates in trucks. Strike pickets were sprayed with tear gas when they attempted to stop the trucks. Col. Gilson D. Light of the Ohio National Guard and three other guard observers warned the crowds that further violence would bring armed Guardsmen to the scene. The men wounded were inside the plant. Strike leaders said they had obtained warrants charging the men inside with inciting a riot. The workers are on strike for increased wages.

On Friday forty-six company guards were held to the grand jury on the charge of inciting a riot. All denied the charge. Their bonds were set at $1,500 each.

The drive to organize workers of the steel industry in one big union, sponsored by John L. Lewis, got under way Wednesday at Pittsburgh. Lewis, head of the United Mine Workers of America, recently defied William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, who opposes the industrial unionization plan. He favors unionization by each trade as at present. The campaign by Lewis began as reports were current that steel companies were contemplating a wage increase.

RAVAGERS AFIELD.

A green sea of caterpillars invaded Ontario while a huge army of grasshoppers appeared last week in Nebraska and Iowa. Canadian authorities estimated the caterpillars had caused thousands of dollars of damage over a 100 mile area. Millions of hoppers, farmers said, were destroying alfalfa and small grains. Drouth was feared in many parts of the midwest.

Education

Speaking before a conference on child development at the University of Iowa, Prof. Moses Jung, who teaches students how to prepare for marriage, declared Wednesday that moral laxity is increasing among college students.

"Even the placid and unimaginative cannot help but be aware that something is wrong with the premarital life of our college population," he said. "Youth now often yields to experience and to experiment. Experimentation may be interesting, but it is often dangerous."

The breakdown of strict religious codes, the professor said, has resulted in lessened sex restraint.

Faculty and alumni members of Syracuse university began a movement Thursday for appointment of former President Hoover as chancellor of the institution. The present chancellor, Charles Wesley Flint, has resigned to become a bishop in the Methodist Episcopal church.

Donald MacMurray, 21, of New York, who was graduated Tuesday from the University of Chicago on completion of a four year course in ten months, was married in New York on Thursday to Miss Evelyn Ehrlich. They announced they would attend the summer session at the University of Chicago.

President William Foster Pierce of Kenyon college, Gambier, O., announced Monday that he would retire, effective Feb. 3, 1938. Dr. Pierce has been president for 40 years.

Three alumni of Northwestern university have been elected members of the university's board of trustees, it was announced Monday. They are Arthur H. McIntosh of Kenilworth, Walter D. Warwick of Evanston, and Owen L. Coon of Glencoe.

Women have been made eligible to receive Edison grants, an annual award of 100 scholarships, it was announced Monday in New York by the Thomas Alva Edison foundation. The scholarships are a living memorial to the late inventor.

Zioncheck.

District of Columbia commissioners filed a petition in court Friday requesting that Representative Marion Zioncheck [Dem., Wash.] be interned in St. Elizabeth's hospital, an institution for mental and nervous cases. The commissioners contended that Zioncheck is insane and has homicidal or other dangerous tendencies. He has been confined in Gallinger hospital under observation of alienists for more than two weeks.

Japan's expansion in China which the independent Canton government is now protesting started with the Chinese-Japanese war of 1894-'95. Since that time the far eastern territory controled by Japan has increased from 148,756 to 723,742 square miles [see map], and Japan has emerged from a medieval island of feudal war lords to a world industrial and military power.

The Chinese-Japanese war began when both China and Japan sent armies to Corea to put down a revolt against China. Japan won the war and the island of Formosa from China. Japan's next extension resulted from the Russian-Japanese war of 1904-'05. This grew out of the rival ambitions of Russia and Japan in China's Manchuria [now Manchukuo]. Russia was extending its Trans-Siberia railroad through Manchuria to Port Arthur on the Kwantung peninsula under army control. Japan defeated faraway Russia on land and sea. Its spoils were Russia's leases on the Kwantung peninsula and the South Manchuria railway, the southern half of Sakhalin Island [Karafuto], and control of Corea, which was officially annexed in 1910. As an ally in the world war Japan won control of German interests in China's Shantung province and mandates over German islands in the Pacific north of the equator. Thence a dozen years elapsed while Japan consolidated its economic, political, and military interests in Manchuria.

In September, 1931, Japanese troops seized Mukden, and thence spread through Manchuria, ostensibly to protect Japanese interests against banditry and Russian communism. Chinese Nationalists began a boycott of Japanese goods, spreading propaganda from Shanghai. In January, 1932, Japan bombarded a part of Shanghai and subdued Chinese troops in a month's lesson in docility. The three Manchurian provinces declared themselves the independent state of Manchukuo on Feb. 18, 1932, and then absorbed Jehol province in 1933. But Manchukuo actually represented a rich land grab of 460,383 square miles for Japan. Henry Pu-yi, last of the Chinese Manchu dynasty, was made a puppet king.

The Chinese revolution of 1911 had forced the abdication of Pu-yi, then 5 years old, as the emperor of China. Radicals who took the name of Kuomintang [National People's party] reflected the opposition to foreign exploitation and forced the institution at Peking [now Peiping] of a republican government, national in its intent to unite eighteen Chinese provinces traditionally dominated by war lords. But provincial and political dissension and revolt continually shook the government, while the world war meant entanglement and concessions to Japan and other foreign powers. The Kuomintang faction broke away and set up an opposing "national" government at Canton. The Peking government wobbled amid other revolts in northern China.

The Kuomintang party strengthened itself after splitting between conservatism and communism. In 1926 Gen. Chiang Kai-shek led a Nationalist army north and overthrew the Peking government. Chiang was forced to fight Japanese as well as Chinese provincials, but many Chinese welcomed him as an emancipator of China from foreign imperialism and civil war. In 1928 Chiang created a national government at Nanking directly responsible to the Kuomintang party. He later became dictator.

It was Chiang's troops which fought the Japanese at Shanghai in 1932, but Chiang no longer opposes his army to Japan's ambitions. Conservatively seeking Chinese political unity, Chiang lately has kept his troops at war on the communist hordes which ravage western China. The independent government of Kwangtung and Kwangsi provinces, centered at Canton, is an example of the lack of unity.

Three weeks ago the Canton government declared itself against Japan and called on Chiang to end his tolerance of aggression in North China. This followed Japan's increase in troops in Peiping and Tientsin and consolidation of political strength in Hopei and Chahar provinces. Gen. Chen Chi-tang, dictator of Kwangtung, and Gen. Li Chungsen, dictator of Kwangsi, sent troops north as an "anti-Japanese salvation army." Chiang sent troops to meet the Cantonese as they entered Hunan province. Last week the Canton and Nanking forces were deadlocked. Japan sent warships along the coast of southern China. Its consul at Nanking solemnly warned Chiang against permitting anti-Japanese agitation. Canton authorities rejected a similar Japanese demand. Another civil war was imminent as the Nanking and Canton troops concentrated on Hunan's southern border. The Cantonese withdrew but later were reported advancing within 60 miles of Hengchow. Canton's quest for greater independence of Nanking was another factor, but whatever the outcome, Japan had the whip hand.

Flying

Katherine May, only air stewardess with a flying record of more than a million miles, turned in her uniform to the United Air Lines last Sunday at San Francisco and announced she had made her last flight. The reason: She is to be married to Ted Johnson, dispatcher for the line at Salt Lake City. Miss May is rated as having spent more hours in the air than any other woman living. She is one of the original eight stewardesses employed by the line in 1930.

Pilot Jack Knight of Chicago, veteran flyer for United Air Lines, took off Wednesday from the Chicago airport on a regularly scheduled flight. It completed the flying of 100,000,000 miles by the line within the last ten years. United is the first company in the world to log that number of miles in regularly scheduled flights.

Pierre Cot, French minister of air, placed a provisional ban on flying in "sky fleas," the tiny planes which have been severely criticized in France and England because of the number of fatal accidents in which they have been involved. Cot said experiments were under way to improve the air worthiness of such planes.

Two Polish flyers in a plane over soviet territory without a permit last Sunday were surrounded by a group of Russian planes and forced to land near Minsk. The Poles said they were members of a civil flying club and had lost their way while on a recreational flight from Warsaw.

Seversky Aircraft, Inc., of Farmingdale, N. Y., was awarded an army contract Tuesday calling for seventy-seven pursuit planes and spare parts equivalent to eight additional planes. The planes will be of the single seat, all metal, low wing monoplane type. They will be powered by single radial engines and will have retractable landing gear. The government will pay $1,636,250 on the contract.

Reba Dee Gunn, 17, youngest airplane pilot of Fort Worth, Tex., was killed Sunday when her private plane crashed at an emergency landing field near Fort Worth.

Two navy flyers were burned to death near Norfolk, Va., Wednesday when their plane crashed. They were Lieut. Charles K. Mallory of Bethesda, Md., and W. C. Gray of Wharton, Tex., radioman. They were attached to the heavy cruiser Indianapolis.

Three coast guard aviators were killed Monday when their patrol plane plunged into Tampa bay, near St. Petersburg, Fla. They were Lieut. Charles M. Perrott, Walter O. Morris, radioman, and William D. Eubanks, mechanic.

Leland Pinkham, 30, of Aberdeen, Wash., was killed Sunday near Aberdeen when his parachute failed to open after he had jumped from a spinning plane.

With Dr. Hugo Eckener in full charge, the new Zeppelin Hindenburg was speeding yesterday on its third flight to America. The huge ship left Friedrichshafen Friday night. On its two previous flights to the United States Dr. Eckener acted only as technical adviser—because, it was generally believed, he had incurred the displeasure of Nazi officials.

SPOONERS ON A STATUE.

National park rangers stationed on Bedloe's Island, N. Y., did not notice a young man and woman spooning on the parapet of the Statue of Liberty. The rangers locked the iron gates and went home. Later a guard of the military police on the island heard calls for help. He discovered the couple. A police detail equipped with fire ladders rescued the spooners.

GOLD!

Gold fever seethed in Cripple Creek, Colo., Tuesday when reports were spread that "a big strike" had been made in the American Eagles mine. The first samples, according to mine officials, ran 1,020 ounces of gold, worth about $30,000, to a ton.

Foreign Notes

In Belgium the number of strikers swelled beyond 500,000 and Premier Paul Van Zeeland, who eight days ago formed a new cabinet, called out troops. Van Zeeland effected a settlement granting the workers higher pay and better working conditions. A dock strike at Antwerp was settled yesterday.

In Venezuela a general strike ended as 35,000 agreed to return to work. The strike was against a federal law banning public demonstrations. Both workers and the government claimed a victory.

In Algeria, Africa, France faced an industrial strike in sympathy with the French workers. Agricultural workers led by "foreign agitators" plundered various rural sections and necessitated troop control.

In Mexico 500,000 members of the Confederation of Workers called a half hour general strike in protest of the government's breaking of the Mexican national railways strikes a month ago.

In Spain the usual riots and strikes continued. In parliament José Gil Robles, Catholic Conservative, gave the following statistics of violence since the leftists won the Feb. 16 elections: 269 killed, 65 in 48 hours last week; 1,500 injured; 340 strikes in force, including 170 new ones; 160 churches burned, 36 in 48 hours last week, and 251 churches damaged; 10 rightist newspaper plants destroyed and 33 damaged.

The official death toll of Jews passed 38 and that of Arabs passed 42 as the Arabian revolt against British-favored Jews in Palestine ended its ninth week. Death penalty laws decreed by the Palestine government failed to stop the terrorism. Capital punishment was ordered for such offenses as firing on the military, throwing bombs, damaging communication wires, and obstructing or endangering the safety of ships and trains. It was reported that the Arabs' general strike was spreading to Syria, where nationalists revolted against the French mandate last winter. In Paris the conclusion of treaties with Syria and Lebanon, French mandates, was reported. This would make the two states independent but allied with France. Meanwhile Chicago Jewish groups prepared to send a delegation to investigate the Biro-Bidjan Jewish colonization project in far eastern Siberia just north of Manchukuo. The soviet government set aside the vast, bleak territory in 1927 to become an independent Jewish soviet state in 1937. Emigration from European countries is contemplated.

The Supreme court of Canada at Ottawa declared unconstitutional some of the 1934-'35 "new deal" legislation of the former government of Premier Richard B. Bennett. As in the United States Supreme court decisions invalidating the NRA, AAA, etc., the issue was chiefly state, or provincial, rights versus federal, or dominion rights in social reform and government regulation of business. Regulation of farm products marketing was declared invalid. So was employment and social insurance. The six judges reached tie verdicts on laws for minimum wages, limitation of working hours. They found laws regulating trade and industry partly valid. Fines and imprisonment for unfair business practices and an act compelling creditors to compromise on farmers' debts were found valid.

Science

A shadow traveling at 2,000 miles an hour cut a great crescent across Asia from the Mediterranean to the Pacific early Friday morning and scientists witnessed another eclipse of the sun. The duration of the total eclipse, caused by the passage of the moon between sun and earth, was about 2 minutes 25 seconds.

The Harvard university - Massachusetts Institute of Technology expedition at Ak-Bulak, Siberia, experienced good conditions for radio and astronomical observations. So did American observers at Kamishari on the Japanese island of Hokkaido. But rain handicapped observations of the National Geographic society and Georgetown university at Kustanai, Siberia. In all, there were 40 scientific expeditions in the eclipse zone. Soviet airplanes took spectrum photographs from above the clouds.

The little known chromosphere or flaming outer layer of the sun was the main interest, since it can only be examined during an eclipse. Another was the invisible green rainbow in the corona or luminous atmosphere of the sun. The chemical or chemical action which causes it is unknown. Another phenomenon investigated was the moon's radio shadow during the eclipse. This shadow, invisible and not round but comma shaped, appears to cause a hole in the radio roof of the stratosphere [upper layer of atmosphere] which reflects back to earth broadcasted waves. Radio waves hitting in the shadow, which is far above the stratosphere, do not bound back.

Evidence that the body's muscles store reënergizing chemicals for instant use, a phenomenon hitherto unrecognized in science, was produced last week at a meeting of the American Association for Advancement of Science at the University of Rochester, N. Y.

S. A. Guttman, R. G. Horton and D. T. Wilbur of Cornell university demonstrated that a frog's legs overcame fatigue in about 10 seconds from relaxation, but in half a second by tensing them. A Cornell gymnast reported that after chinning himself 20 times a short relaxation with arms outstretched left him with scarcely enough strength to resume chinning. But tensing his arms for an equal time enabled him to repeat the 20 chinnings.

The Cornell scientists believe that the "quick rest" restorative may be adrenalin, the fluid created by the adrenal gland [a gland adjacent to the kidney] when the body is under stress or the mind is excited.

Other milestones recorded at the meeting:

After a year's use of cortin, a hormone from the adrenal gland, to cure glaucoma, a hardening of the eyeball resulting in blindness, Dr. Emanuel M. Josephson of New York City announced his results. Members of the medical profession last year had criticized his claim of the properties of cortin as premature. But last week Dr. Josephson said that of the glaucoma cases he had treated, 44 per cent were restored to normal vision and 80 per cent showed no further symptoms.

Grace Kimball of Cornell university reported that electro magnetism 30 times as strong as the earth's magnetic field in which humans live had slowed down the growth of yeast cells 20 to 30 per cent. She declared that whether the natural magnetism retards human growth was unknown.

Dr. Sanford B. Hooker reported his discoveries in striving toward a major goal of medicine—the expansion of man's natural immunity to some diseases. Dr. Hooker declared that immunity is produced by a surface action of two protein molecules. One, a comparative giant, is called an "antigen." This creates small "antibodies" from the fluids around it in its own likeness. That fact, said Dr. Hooker, supported the medical knowledge that each shape of antibody immunizes against one disease only. He declared, however, that it was possible that a single antigen-antibody combination produced innumerable different immunizing substances because magnetic forces probably changed their shape. He found evidence that the power of the antibody to fight disease lay in its absorption or ability to stick to disease germs.

Crime

Before a crowd of 350 persons, eight of them women, Arthur Gooch, 27, was hanged Friday in the yard of the Oklahoma state prison at McAlester. He was convicted of kidnaping two Texas officers and transporting them into Oklahoma. Gooch was the first man to be executed under the Lindbergh kidnaping law. Hopeful to the last of executive clemency, he refused to make a final statement. President Roosevelt twice refused to intervene after Gooch had lost all appeals to the courts.

Mrs. Mildred Mary Bolton, 40, accused of shooting to death her husband, Joseph, 39, Chicago insurance broker, in his office Monday, was arraigned Friday before Chief Justice Denis J. Normoyle of the Criminal court. She entered a plea of not guilty. The case was assigned to Judge Robert O'Connell. Mrs. Bolton has admitted buying the gun used in the shooting but declared it was fired while she and her husband were grappling. They had been separated.

A coroner's jury decided that Myers Nielsen, 33, a paroled convict, murdered Mrs. Mary Jensen, 46, wife of a Chicago policeman, and then committed suicide in an apartment at 1502 South Kedvale avenue Thursday night. Policeman George Jensen, husband of the woman, sobbed at the inquest. He said he had no suspicion of his wife's friendship with Nielsen.

Investigation by Detroit and Michigan authorities of the Black Legion, night riding terrorist society, continued to make progress during the week. A new act of violence was attributed to the order Wednesday. Mrs. Dorothy Guthrie, who had disclosed to police the hiding place of a press on which Black Legion literature was printed, was found bound, gagged, and brutally beaten in her Detroit apartment.

On the same day 15 men were held to trial in Detroit, charged with Black Legion murder conspiracies. In custody are 34 men, all accused of taking part in atrocities blamed on the night riders. On Thursday Jesse J. Pettijohn, clerk of Ecorse township, was arrested. He was implicated in a legion murder conspiracy by Dayton Dean, confessed trigger man of the legion. [See main news section.]

Albert Walter, 28, self-styled enemy of all women, pleaded Friday that he be allowed to hang for the silk stocking murder Tuesday in San Francisco of Miss Blanche Cousins, 31, of Idaho Falls, Idaho, whom he met on a bus. Walter protested against a plea of insanity being entered for him by the public defender. "I am not insane and I want to get it over with," he said. After confessing the crime voluntarily, Walter led police to a small apartment. There they found the woman's body. She had been garroted with a silk stocking and raped.

Col. Mark O. Kimberling, newly appointed head of the New Jersey state police, conferred with Gov. Harold Hoffman on Tuesday and the next day began a study of the files of the Lindbergh kidnap-murder case. Kimberling said he would make a thorough study of the files before deciding whether to reopen the investigation of the crime for which Bruno Richard Hauptmann was executed. Gov. Hoffman, it was reported, favors a further investigation.

The governor delayed action on extradition papers for the removal of Ellis Parker Sr., chief detective of Burlington county, New Jersey, to Brooklyn. Parker, with his son Ellis Jr., are under indictment there, charged with kidnaping Paul H. Wendel, former attorney, in order to extort a false confession to the Lindbergh kidnaping. Gov. Hoffman was reported to have considered Parker for appointment as warden of Trenton prison, Kimberling's former job.

Police of East Orange, N. J., announced Wednesday they had solved the murder of D. McFarlan Moore, inventor and former associate of Thomas A. Edison. Moore was shot to death Monday in the yard of his home. Police named the slayer as Jean P. Gebhardt, an electrician and inventor thought to have been deranged, who killed himself Tuesday near Red Bank, N. J. Miss Beatrice Moore, 25, daughter of the slain scientist, identified Gebhardt's body as that of the murderer.

Charles [Lucky] Luciano, convicted chief of a $12,000,000 New York vice syndicate, was sentenced Thursday to serve from 30 to 50 years in prison. Ten other members of the ring, convicted with Luciano, were given heavy sentences. The convicts were taken immediately to Sing Sing penitentiary.

Al Capone has been denied a parole from Alcatraz Island prison, it was announced yesterday by the justice department. The former Chicago gang chief is serving a ten year term for violation of the income tax laws. [See main news section.]

Powhatan D. Bass, prison guard at the Virginia penitentiary, was killed Tuesday and another guard was wounded in a battle with eight convicts attempting to escape. Five of the latter were wounded. The guards and convicts were in a prison truck. When the convict driver refused a command to halt, wall guards opened fire with rifles and machine guns.

Religion

Roger W. Babson, noted economist, was elected Tuesday as moderator of the Congregational and Christian churches at the biennial session of the general council of the churches at South Hadley, Mass. The next day the new moderator said he believed the practice of birth control by members of the churches presented a "basic difficulty" in the path of their progress. Mr. Babson said a study during the last seven years of church attendance revealed a steady decline in attendance.

Homer Rodeheaver, former associate of the late Evangelist Billy Sunday, arrived in New York on Monday aboard the liner Normandie and reported having evangelized 10,000 residents of the Belgian Congo by playing a saxophone at them. "Surely, it was that many I reached," he said, "and, man, could they sing!" He said he traveled 16,000 miles in Africa holding revival meetings in villages.

Two churches of Manheim, Pa., in the Pennsylvania Dutch country, last Sunday paid their annual rent—a red rose.

The Zion Evangelical church contracted in 1772 to pay "one red rose in the month of June forever" as rent for a plat deeded to it by Baron von Stiegel, a glass manufacturer. The Tulpehocken Reformed church made a similar contract in 1745 with Caspar Wistar.

Mrs. Bessie Boyer Van Tassel, a descendant of Baron von Stiegel, received one of the roses. The other went to Mrs. Francis R. Strawbridge of Philadelphia.

Church congregations conducted a walkout last Sunday in Philadelphia. The members belong to the flocks of three Presbyterian ministers, dismissed by their church, who recently formed the new Presbyterian Church of America. The ministers conducted independent services and a big majority of their congregations followed them to new quarters. The ministers were dismissed for their refusal to abandon the independent board of foreign missions.

Thousands of American Roman Catholics were praying last week for the beatification of Mother Frances Xavier Cabrini, candidate for sainthood. On Tuesday at the Vatican the congregation of rites began the long, slow process of examining testimony gathered in Chicago hearings in 1928 and 1933 regarding the virtues and miracles attributed to her. Mother Cabrini established many hospitals in the United States and was the founder of the Missionary Sisters of the Sacred Heart of Jesus.

Lake Tragedy.

A picnic of school children from Lubec, Me., ended in tragedy Friday. Twelve of the 50 children on the outing were drowned when an outboard motor boat capsized in Lake Gardner, 25 miles from Lubec. Four children and a man aboard the boat with them were saved. One girl swam 100 yards to shore.

The lake excursion steamer Tashmoo with a gay crowd of 1,400 passengers aboard, narrowly escaped sinking early Friday. The ship struck a rock which tore a large hole in the bottom. Unaware of their danger, the passengers danced and sang as the frantic crew raced the ship toward safety. At Amherstberg, Ont., the vessel sank in 18 feet of water after passengers and crew were safely ashore.

Deaths

Brunner, John, 69, consulting engineer for the Illinois Steel company and decorated by the king of Sweden for achievements in engineering research, Evanston, Monday.

Calkins, Lucius A., 75, member of the Chicago Board of Trade for more than 50 years and the head of L. A. Calkins & Co., Evanston, Thursday.

Chesterton, Gilbert K., 62, distinguished English author, essayist, and critic, Beaconsfield, England, Sunday.

D'Avigdor, Vicomtesse Joan, 30, daughter of Comte Digby d'Avigdor, French diplomat, and former wife of George Kaufmann of New York, Reno, Nev., Sunday.

Fletcher, Senator Duncan Upshaw, 77, member of the United States senate from Florida since 1909, Washington, D. C., Wednesday.

Gleason, William P., 71, the "man who built Gary," Gary, Ind., Sunday. He was general manager of the Illinois Steel company works until his retirement in 1935.

Gordon, Francis, 73, chief construction engineer for the great Assuan dam in Egypt and twice decorated by the British government, Burlingame, Cal., Tuesday.

Gorky, Maxim, 68, famous Russian novelist, playwright, and propagandist, Moscow, Russia, Thursday.

Hedeen, the Rev. Olof, 76, Swedish Baptist church leader and retired professor of theology at the University of Chicago, Traverse City, Mich., Monday.

Hyde, William Emmett, 81, former supreme archon of the Royal league, Chicago, Sunday.

Kerner, Charles, 49, brother of Attorney General Otto Kerner of Illinois and a member of the state insurance department, Chicago, Friday.

Klaw, Marc, 78, a partner in the famous New York theatrical firm of Klaw & Erlanger, Sussex, England, Sunday. He retired in 1926.

Mason, Dr. James T., 55, famous surgeon and president of the American Medical association, Seattle, Wash., Saturday.

Nelson, John L., 86, one of three surviving members of Old Glory post, Grand Army of the Republic, Chicago, Thursday.

Reinsch, Dr. Herman, 48, senior member of the surgical staf of St. Francis hospital in Evanston, Evanston, Sunday.

Rice, Mrs. Eugenie de Roode, 94, a concert pianist of international note during the 19th century, Evanston, Monday.

Saxton, Dr. Blair, 46, a member of the faculty of Yale university for the last 21 years, New Haven, Conn., Tuesday.

Torrison, Dr. G. A., 71, a Chicago physician for 45 years, Chicago, yesterday.

Walthall, Henry B., 55, stage and screen actor, famous for his portrayal of the rôle of the "Little Colonel" in "The Birth of a Nation," Hollywood, Cal., Wednesday.

Wilber, Marshall D., 71, former Chicago yachtsman and sporting enthusiast, Pasadena, Cal., Tuesday.

Wolfe, the Rev. Maurice M., 33, rector of St. Phillip's High school, Chicago, Wednesday.

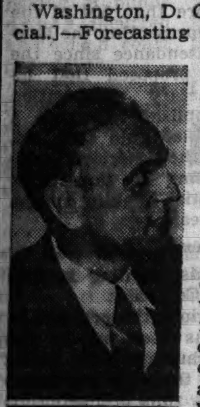
SEC DISCLOSES BROKER-DEALER DIVISION PLAN

Seeks to End 'Undue Price Influence.'

Washington, D. C., June 20.—[Special.]—Forecasting what may be the most revolutionary change in the history of the American brokerage system, the Securities and Exchange commission today revealed plans aimed at the elimination of the dual function which permits members of the country's stock exchanges to act as agents in behalf of others and also to trade securities for their own benefit.



JAMES M. LANDIS.

The organization of floor trading on the exchanges will be revised to create separate classifications of professional traders, who deal for their own account, and of brokers, who act in behalf of the public, it was announced in a report to congress.

Plans to Act Soon.

James M. Landis, chairman of the commission, said steps would be be taken within a few weeks to carry the program out under powers now vested in the commission.

Significant are the proposals to use credit restrictions to curtail security trading by members of exchanges which, the SEC asserted, has had "undue influence" on prices, and the statement that the SEC considers it a "continuing duty" to curb the broker-dealer conflicts of interest in share activity.

The federal agency also proposed to use its favorite weapon, publicity, to keep the public informed on the amount of stocks bought and sold by exchange members as another part of a program to remove types of trading which are said to affect prices and cause undesirable speculative trends.

Ordered by 1934 Act.

The report to congress, delivered this afternoon, was occasioned by the securities exchange act of 1934, which required the commission to report on the advisability of complete segregation of the functions of broker and dealer in the brokerage system. Although the commission concluded that it is not advisable for the congress at this time to enact such legislation, it laid down far-reaching general principles.

The combination of functions, the report said, "involves a conflict of interest which is provocative of abuse of the fiduciary relationship." It added that the survey had shown a type of dealer activity on exchanges "which exerts an undue influence on prices, leads to disorderly markets, and interferes with the effective fulfilment of the brokerage function."

In its revision of the brokerage mechanism of this country, which superficially at least would bring it more in line with the English jobber system, the commission said that it proposed to use the securities act of 1933 and the securities and exchange act of 1934 to the end of curbing the abuses.

Principal Aims of Program.

Some of the plan's aims are:

Members working on the floor of registered exchanges must choose between classifications as "brokers" or as "dealers."

As "brokers" they would be prohibited from trading for their own account while on the floor.

As "dealers" they would be permitted to trade for themselves but would have to maintain liquid resources sufficient to margin their maximum positions fully under the requirements set by the federal reserve board, now 55 per cent of the market price of a stock.

Members of commission houses handling orders for the public and carrying margin accounts would be permitted to trade for themselves only on a "cash basis," putting up the full amount of a purchase.

Specialists on the floor would be exempted from the restrictions in those securities they specialize in; otherwise they would be subject to the requirement for full margin in trading for their own account within limits on excessive trading already prescribed for specialists.

Exchange Officials Refuse Comment.

New York, June 20.—[Special.]—Charles R. Gay, president of the New York Stock exchange, and other exchange officials declined tonight to comment on the broker-dealer segregation report of the Securities and Exchange commission.

Members of the exchange, however, who have closely followed the inquiries on which the SEC based its recommendations, regarded them as no more drastic than expected.

Kentucky Ministers to Pray for Rain; Drouth Severe

Hopkinsville, Ky., June 20.—[U. P.]—Ministers in all the churches in the city and county will lead their congregations at the services tomorrow in prayer for rain to break the present drouth. Farmers have reported many of their crops ruined.

Chicago-Detroit Train Time to Be Cut 15 Minutes

The New York Central Twilight Limited will shave 15 minutes from its Chicago-Detroit schedule by running the 283.6 miles in 285 minutes with six stops, effective June 24, the company announced yesterday.

Illinois Taxed $3.38 by U. S. for $1 of Relief

For every dollar received from the federal government in relief payments during the last two calendar years Illinois paid $3.38 in internal revenue collections, the Illinois Manufacturers' association reported yesterday. "Industrial workers as well as employers in Illinois and other principal industrial states are carrying the load of relief payments in nonindustrial states," the association declared.

"During 1934 and 1935 Illinois received in federal relief grants $159,382,000," said the association. "During that same period internal revenue collections in Illinois amounted to $538,580,000. In other words, Illinois received in relief payments 29 per cent of the amount it paid in federal taxes."

Fate of Other States.

According to figures compiled by the association, New York, ranking state in manufacturing production, paid $1,240,495,000 in federal taxes and collected $347,953,000 for relief, or 28 per cent. Pennsylvania, second to New York and just above Illinois in value of manufactured products, fared better, receiving 55 per cent in relief payments, amounting to $243,699,000, of a two year tax bill totaling $438,349,000.

In Ohio, Michigan, Massachusetts, and California, all industrial or increasingly industrial, relief bounties ranged from 36 to 51 per cent of federal taxes.

Indiana received grants of $48,783,000 over 1934 and 1935 while pouring $99,864,000 into the treasury, or 49 per cent, the association calculated. Iowa got $23,354,000 for $48,503,000—48 per cent; Michigan, $98,647,000 for $237,175,000—42 per cent; Minnesota, $67,297,000 for $107,663,000—62 per cent; Wisconsin, $66,178,000 for $95,059,000—70 per cent.

Farm States Fare Well.

Turning to the agricultural states, the association deduced that there must be the unemployment distress. South Dakota, notable example, received $41,660,000, but paid only $2,872,000. South Dakota relief payments were 1,451 per cent of the state's tax collections. For every $2.87 paid in taxes by South Dakota the people of that state picked up $41.66, the ratio being 20 to 1.

North Dakota, New Mexico, Idaho, and Arkansas received in dole from 705 to 979 per cent of the total of federal assessments against them over the two years.

In 1935 Illinois turned in 9.82 per cent of the total internal revenue of the United States—8.26 per cent of the income taxes, 19.19 per cent of the AAA taxes, and 7.91 per cent of miscellaneous revenue, the association found. The state led all others in processing levies and was second in income taxes.

CHICAGO MEN LOSE APPEALS IN FRAUD CASE

Indianapolis, Ind., June 20.—[Special.]—Convictions of Louis Stern, Sam Schweitzer, and Harry N. Collins on charges of using the mails to defraud in a "bucket shop" enterprise here were upheld today by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals.

Stern received a five year sentence and was fined $5,000 in February; Schweitzer received an eight year sentence and a fine of $7,500, and Collins a two year sentence and a $1,000 fine. The alleged "bucket shop" was operated under the name of Louis Stern & Co.

Stern, who had offices at 160 North La Salle street, was convicted along with Schweitzer and Collins of a "sell and switch" stock scheme. Schweitzer, former Chicago dog track operator, was "financial expert" of the Stern office. Collins was president of H. N. Collins & Co., 160 North La Salle street, Chicago.

The mail frauds were alleged to have aggregated around $60,000.

Transit Revenues Larger Throughout Entire Year

New York, June 20.—(AP)—The transit industry last week completed a full year in which each week's transit revenues exceeded those of the corresponding period of the previous year, the Transit Journal reported today. For the week ended June 13 the magazine's revenue indicator stood at 104.5.

NEW 'ELECTRIC NOSE' DETECTS POISONOUS MERCURY VAPOR IN AIR

Schenectady, N. Y., June 20.—[Special.]—And now an "electric nose." The latest gadget of science is a device which detects poisonous mercury vapor in the air that the human nose just can't smell.

This new wrinkle was described tonight by Dr. N. T. Gordon at the General Electric research laboratory.

It is in operation at the General Electric mercury power plant here, and was developed by Dr. C. W. Hewlett. It detects one part of mercury vapor in 200,000,000 parts of air although the vapor is odorless, Gordon said. The human nose can smell one part of odor in over 1,000,000,000 parts of air, he explained, but cannot detect odorless substance.

The nose consists of "electric eye," or photoelectric tube equipment, an invisible ultra-violet light source, and an alarm. The visible light is concentrated on the tube. Mercury particles passing through the air absorb the light. The more parts of mercury vapor present, the more light absorbed. By measuring the variations in light shining into the "electric eye," it is possible to determine the amount of mercury in the air.

"Our device is able to sound an alarm when the concentration of mercury in the air is twenty times smaller than at the danger point," Gordon said.

FRENCH FRANC RALLIES; GOLD FLOW HALTED

New York, June 20.—[Special.]—The franc rallied strongly today and the flow of gold from Paris to New York came to a halt. This improvement was looked upon in foreign exchange circles as a reflection of the announcement made on Friday by the French finance minister of plans for penalizing the flight of capital.

The French currency rose to 6.60⅝ cents and closed at 6.59¾ cents, up 1⅛ points and 1⅜ points above the effective gold import price. Quotations of 90-day franc futures showed a corresponding improvement. Other gold bloc moneys advanced similarly.

As the gold-bloc currencies improved sterling declined. It dropped to $5.01¾, off ½ cent in the day and down 1 cent from a week ago. Currencies linked to sterling were all lower.

A shipment of $4,449,400 gold was received here today from France, putting total receipts of gold in the last week at $59,473,900. Of this $41,437,100 came from France, $7,089,900 from Mexico, $10,682,000 from Holland, and $264,900 from Great Britain. At San Francisco $455,000 gold was received from Australia.

Engagements of gold abroad last week totaled $24,931,000 of which $22,770,000 was taken in France, $1,143,000 in India, and $1,018,000 in England. In the previous week $48,290,000 was engaged. In all $398,000,000 gold has been engaged abroad since April 24, of which $323,200,000 has been taken in France. Including today's arrivals, $352,000,000 of the gold has been received thus far.

USE OF CHECKS INDICATES BIG BUSINESS GAIN

Business in the United States in the week ended June 17 gained sharply over the preceding week and a year ago, banking statistics indicated yesterday. Debits to individual deposit account, the bulk of which represents check transactions, amounted to $9,959,719,000, compared with $8,094,689,000 a week earlier and $8,652,645,000 in the corresponding period of 1935.

Part of the increase was attributed to the cashing of partial bonus checks by veterans who received government checks for odd amounts under $50 along with their bonus bonds.

In the Chicago area—the seventh federal reserve district—debits aggregated $1,294,198,000, compared with $1,004,689,000 in the preceding week and $1,021,481,000 last year. For Chicago alone the total was $785,667,000, against $612,446,000 last year.

74 Favorable Dividend Actions Set New 1936 Peak

New York, June 20.—(AP)—Favorable dividend changes in the week ended June 19 totaled 74, a new high for the year, compared with 64 in the preceding week, Standard Statistics company reported today. Unfavorable changes numbered 3 against 2 the week before.

Commodities Trade Larger, Prices Higher

Speculative trading in commodity markets expanded sharply last week and prices in several lines reached the highest levels of the season. A major "crop scare" resulted in a sharp advance in wheat, with the September and December future contracts commanding the best prices so far this season. Other grains also advanced.

Drouth Boosts Cotton.

Drouth in the south brought an upturn in cotton prices, with many deliveries touching new highs.

A decline in the market receipts of hogs at the principal live stock markets lifted prices of pork and pork products.

The upturn in hogs was reflected in the lard market, where all future contracts advanced. The July contract closed 70 cents a hundredweight above the preceding Saturday.

The cottonseed oil market advanced moderately, but losses developed in the sugar, coffee, and rubber markets.

Comparison of Prices.

The following table shows yesterday's closing prices on a representative list of commodities with comparisons for the preceding week and the high and low quotations for the season:

CO-ORDINATED AIR EXPRESS BOOSTS TRAFIC 85 PCT.

From a 63 per cent increase in February this year, the first month of coordinated air express service of the Railway Express agency, the margin shown by the new service over the combined express revenue of the contracting air lines a year previous increased to 75 per cent in March and to 85 per cent in April, United Air Lines announced yesterday.

Total revenue of the first three months of operation of the expanded air express service was 76 per cent above the air express revenue of its contracting air lines for the same three months of 1935.

The setup embraces nineteen United States air lines, forming a nation-wide air and air-rail express service, utilizing the 23,000 offices of the Railway Express agency for pickup and delivery, and placing responsibility for routing with the agency.

Chicago lines affiliated with the Railway Express agency, sharing in the increased tonnage out of the Chicago airport, are American Air Lines, Eastern Air Lines, Braniff, Northwest Air Lines, Chicago and Southern Air Lines, and United Air Lines. United reported that during the first five months this year it carried 40½ tons of air express.

INDEX SHOWS INDUSTRY GAIN FOR LAST WEEK

New York, June 20.—(AP)—The Associated Press index of industrial activity today was 90.9 of the 1929-'30 average, compared with 90.3 last week and 73.6 in the corresponding period a year ago.

The index, with its seasonally adjusted indices, based on the latest available statistics and with 1929-'30 as 100, follows.

Gardner-Denver Approves Recapitalization Plan

Quincy, Ill., June 20.—[Special.]—Stockholders of the Gardner-Denver company today approved a plan of recapitalization recently recommended by the directors.

DROUTH LOOMS TO UPSET NEW DEAL POLICIES

May Become Major Political Issue.

BY HOWARD WOOD.

Widespread drouth persisting in the great central plains area and other important crop producing regions of the United States is rapidly becoming a major market factor. It also threatens to project itself into politics in a big way during the coming presidential campaign because of the fact that severe drouth damage to farm crops would again throw into confusion the New Deal scheme of "planned scarcity" and limitation of production.

From all of the great agricultural states of the central west, except Michigan and Wisconsin, come alarming reports of lack of adequate rainfall this month following deficiencies in moisture in the two preceding months. The situation has been growing steadily worse since early this spring, when the outlook throughout the middle west appeared good because of copious precipitation during the winter months.

Wheat Belt Lacks Rainfall.

According to Nat C. Murray, Chicago crop expert, rainfall in April was only 53 per cent of normal throughout the wheat belt, extending from Ohio on the east to Oklahoma and Montana on the west. May followed with only 72 per cent of normal moisture. "Normal" varies in individual states, but in each case covers a period of thirty to fifty years, depending on the number of years official records have been kept.

The deficiency in May and June was not especially alarming in some states because of existing moisture reserves and the possibility that June rains would compensate for the lack of spring rainfall. The situation is not yet desperate in most states because heavy rains during the next week or two could save the spring wheat crop and resuscitate pastures in time, but as each rainless day goes by the lines of worry on the farmers' faces deepen and the prospects for normal crops diminish.

U. S. Report Admits Crisis.

Indicative of the seriousness of the situation was the action of the United States department of agriculture on Friday in breaking precedent by issuing a "supplementary" crop report pointing out the increasingly threatening drouth situation. Old timers at the Chicago Board of Trade said that not within their memory had the department ever before found it necessary to issue such a midmonth statement.

The supplemental report contained no statistical estimates on crop yields but warned that the outlook was becoming steadily worse throughout the wheat belt.

"Prospects for spring grains and hay crops declined during the first half of June and pastures also have been adversely affected by dry weather," the official statement said.

Rainfall in States Shown.

Precipitation in Illinois from June 1 to June 20, according to Murray's estimates, was less than 40 per cent of normal. Ohio had about 50 per cent of normal rainfall during the same period, Indiana less than 60 per cent, Minnesota about 60 per cent, Missouri about 33 per cent, Oklahoma 75 per cent, Kansas 50 per cent, Iowa 90 per cent, South Dakota 55 per cent, and North Dakota 33 per cent. Michigan and Wisconsin averaged a little better than normal.

The winter wheat crop is about ready to harvest and the real threat is to the spring crop.

A crop of about 500 million bushels of winter wheat is anticipated, compared with last year's 433 million bushels, but the spring wheat crop is expected to fall far short of the 250 million bushel "normal" figure. A poor spring wheat crop this year would make it three in succession.

Forecasts Canadian Wheat Influx.

Murray forecasts further importations of Canadian wheat into the United States during the next year. Until recently the experts had figured that larger 1936 crops would eliminate the necessity of heavy imports from Canada, which in the last year have run to 30 million bushels.

Wheat is not the only crop threatened. Lack of adequate rainfall in the central states has also affected pastures and the oats crop is reported to be maturing poorly. In the southeastern states early spring drouth severely reduced the production of potatoes and other spring vegetables marketed in the north, raising wholesale potato prices to $5 per hundred pounds at one time.

Nature Versus New Deal.

Nature's threat to reduce crops still further than contemplated in the New Deal's crop curtailment program, together with the heavier imports of meats and live stock made possible by the recently accepted reciprocal trade treaty with Canada, is expected to intensify the political battle over the administration's "planned scarcity" scheme.

In the first four months of 1936 the United States consumed 10,151,102 pounds of foreign pork, for example, almost seven times the volume imported in the first four months of 1935 and more than twenty times the imports of two years ago, according to the official department of commerce report released on Wednesday.

BUSINESS NEWS IN REVIEW

Bonus Payments Boost Retail Trade—New Business Gains Predicted—Steel Production Expands—Flow of Gold from Europe Is Heavy—Stock Prices Climb.

Business felt the first exhilarating effects of the distribution of bonus money to war veterans last week. Retail trade spurted in all parts of the country. Automobile sales were maintained at a high rate and the demand for used cars was reported to be the best at any time this year. Retail sales volume was estimated to be about 7 per cent ahead of the preceding week on the average over the country and about 12 per cent above the corresponding period last year.

While consumer goods began to move at an accelerated pace it was believed to mark only the beginning of the expansion. There was a lag between the distribution of the cash and bonds to veterans and the spending. A large share of the veterans elected to exercise their option to turn in their bonds for cash, but there was some delay last week in the conversion operations. The treasury, however, had flooded the country with small checks. Bonds were issued only in denominations of $50 and odd amounts due to veterans were paid by checks drawn on the treasury.

Clearings.

Bank clearings in New York City reached the highest level in six weeks and registered a gain of more than 7 per cent over the preceding week. Clearings of Chicago banks were 21 per cent above the corresponding week of 1935.

Steel.

The indices of the basic industries moved up again. There was no evidence that the gigantic steel industry was heading for a summer lull. The country's steel mills were running at 70½ per cent of capacity as the week drew to a close, an expansion of 2½ points as compared with a week earlier. More significant, the industry's backlog of orders continued to grow, giving promise that the current high operations would be maintained for some time.

Power.

The production of electric energy expanded again to a new seasonal high figure. Output was approximately 3 per cent above the preceding week and 14 per cent above a year ago with all geographical sections reporting gains.

Freight.

Among the major barometers railroad freight trafic alone registered some recession. While the volume of trafic held at the highest level in five years for the particular week of the year, there was more than a seasonable drop of 1.3 per cent from the preceding week.

Autos.

Production of automobiles for the week passed 100,000 units as compared with about 98,500 vehicles in the preceding week. Available figures indicated that the output for the second quarter, ending June 30, would be the largest on record for the period with the single exception of 1929, the industry's banner year.

Prediction.

Surveying the business and industrial scene, Col. Leonard P. Ayres, Cleveland bank economist, expressed the belief that business and security prices would continue to rise during the remainder of the year, the presidential election notwithstanding.

Legislation.

Business received no comfort from Washington during the week as congress rushed through a prodigious amount of new legislation [see Washington: Review Section] to add new worries to corporations and business men. On the President's desk, awaiting his signature, were 123 bills, many of which were of the gravest import to the business of the country. Included among them was the anti-chain bill which had been bitterly fought by business interests. The bill prevents manufacturers from making price concessions in favor of large purchasers. It was put through both houses by one of the most potent lobbies that Washington has seen in recent years.

Gold.

The international movement of capital out of the gold bloc countries to Great Britain and the United States continued heavy in the last week. When the Bank of France made public its report on Thursday it showed that the country's gold reserves had declined to the lowest point in five years. At the same time, the report showed, the note circulation expanded to a new peak as apprehensive Frenchmen hoarded currency. The franc fluctuated erratically throughout the week. The declaration of Finance Minister Auriol on Friday rejecting the possibility of franc devaluation and threatening penalties to hoarders brought a recovery in French funds in the foreign exchange markets.

The monetary gold stocks of the United States were augmented 63 millions in the week ended Wednesday, largely at the expense of France.

Money.

In Chicago Dr. Melchoir Palyi, former Berlin bank economist and an authority on international finance, told a group of bankers that a distressed world is now ready to discard "managed money" systems and return to the gold standard. But, he added, not all countries are in a position to make the choice. Great Britain cannot commit itself to stabilize the pound at a fixed figure in relation to gold because she realizes the threat of a European war. All European countries face the necessity of being prepared for war, and preparing for war and sound finance do not go together. Only the United States, he said, has a free choice in the matter.

Livermore.

Jesse L. Livermore, rated the most successful bear speculator who has ever operated in American markets, last week sold his membership on the Chicago Board of Trade. The reasons for his action were not made known, but brokers believed that Livermore was "through" as a commanding figure in the grain market. Livermore has been in difficult financial straits in recent years. In 1934 he was suspended by the grain exchange after filing voluntary bankruptcy papers. He was reinstated after making a composition with his creditors but he did not again attain his old stature as a market operator. During his long career he has operated extensively on both sides of the market with more than ordinary success, but was best known for his coups in selling the market short. His last big success was in 1929 when he made a fortune by going short in stocks.

JESSE L. LIVERMORE.

Streamliners.

As the country's railroads made preparations last week to celebrate the second annual "railroad week" next month another new streamlined train made its maiden run. The City of Denver, said to be the most luxurious yet built, inaugurated 16 hour service between Chicago and Denver over the North Western-Union Pacific lines. Only one incident marred the initial run. The eastbound City of Denver was held up by a slower steam powered train on the tracks ahead of it. The streamliner was forced to use the west bound track to pass the slower train and arrived in Chicago 14 minutes behind schedule.

Not to be outdone by the revived enterprise of the railroads the Crane company announced at the national plumbing convention that it was bringing out a new "streamlined" bathtub. The tub, the company said, will "harmonize with modern types of construction and architecture."

Nor does streamlining stop with trains and bathtubs if one may accept the word of Everett Brown of the National Live Stock and Meat board. At the annual meeting of the board in Chicago Friday he said that the demand for "streamlined" steaks has revolutionized the marketing of live stock.

"The housewives of today would not be satisfied with the cuts of meat which were purchased by their mothers," Brown said. "In this streamline age they demand streamlined cuts of beef, pork, and lamb."

Brown did not say how the husbands react to streamline fashion in food.

Taxes.

Chicago packing companies on Friday took steps to recover more than 100 millions in processing tax funds which they paid into the federal treasury before the AAA was declared unconstitutional by the Supreme court. The Cudahy Packing company brought suit in the federal court to recover nearly 12 millions. Swift & Co. filed a claim for 35 millions with the collector of internal revenue. Armour & Co. and Wilson & Co. filed similar claims yesterday.

Stocks.

The stock market advanced during the week on active trading. The volume of business was the heaviest since the week ended May 9 and all classes of shares were bringing higher prices. The higher level of business and industrial activity provided the basis for the upturn in share values.

Dividends.

Stockholders of a number of concerns last week were pleased with news that their directors had raised dividend rates of authorized extra payments. Perhaps the most pleased however, were the shareholders of the Niles Bement Pond company who for four years have received nothing on their stock. Directors of the company, which makes machines and tools, met Wednesday and declared a dividend of 50 cents a share.

GRAINS SURGE AHEAD ON NEW BUYING FLOOD

Drouth Grips Spring Wheat Districts.

Another wave of speculative buying flooded the grain pits on the Chicago Board of Trade yesterday, carrying all grains except July wheat and oats to new high marks for the season. Wheat prices were swept more than 3 cents a bushel higher. The full upturn was not maintained to the close but final quotations represented gains of 2 to nearly 3 cents.

Other cereals shared in the speculative enthusiasm and registered advances of approximately 2 cents a bushel each. Trading was exceptionally broad, although somewhat under the unusual proportions witnessed Friday, when the current buying surge got under way.

The devastating drouth in the spring wheat belt of the northwest showed no signs of abating. Crop reports from the area again were extremely discouraging.

Forecasts Indicate No Relief.

Official forecasts indicated no relief over the week-end. Private experts thought the weather might be unsettled but most observers agreed that any moisture which might be received would not be sufficiently heavy and widespread to improve the outlook as a whole.

Buying appeared from a variety of sources, including speculators, cash grain men and millers, who were removing hedges against grain moving into consuming channels. Profit taking sales were exceptionally heavy, while a large amount of week-end liquidation, some of which probably will be reinstated tomorrow, made its appearance. Realizing, pit brokers asserted, was the only factor which kept the market from extending its advance much farther.

Other Markets Keep Pace.

Other markets kept pace or outdistanced Chicago. Liverpool wheat, responding to Friday's upturn here, moved ahead approximately 3 cents, Winnipeg gained about 1½ cents, Minneapolis advanced 3 cents, and Kansas City nearly 4 cents.

Closing prices of September futures in Chicago follow:

	Yesterday	Friday	Week Ago	Year Ago
Wheat	$ .94	$ .91⅜	$ .86¼	$ .80⅝
Corn	.65½	.63½	.58⅛	.75⅛
Oats	.30⅜	.28⅞	.26⅞	.32⅞
Rye	.64⅛	.61⅞	.56¼	.47⅛

A surprising development was disclosed when official volume figures for Friday were posted yesterday. Total trading in wheat amounted to 60 million bushels for that day, and yet the open interest, the total of incompleted contracts, declined more than 3 million bushels.

Short Covering Indicated.

This situation suggested that heavy short covering occurred, although most observers had thought the short interest in the market was largely eliminated earlier in the week.

Disappointing crop comment on the winter wheat situation in the southwest was added to the depressing reports on spring wheat. Mrs. E. H. Miller, the James E. Bennett & Co. statistician, reported a decided change had occurred in the last week and that optimistic estimates of the harvest must be reduced.

Extremely high temperatures in the last few days, she said, are adversely affecting wheat in northern Kansas at a time when serious losses will occur with a continuation of heat and drouth.

ARMOUR, WILSON SEEK TAX REFUND OF 55 MILLIONS

Following the action of Swift & Co. to recover processing taxes paid into the federal treasury under the since invalidated agricultural adjustment act, Armour & Co. and Wilson & Co. yesterday filed similar claims with Carter H. Harrison, collector of internal revenue.

Armour sought the refund of more than $40,000,000. The Wilson claim was estimated to be upwards of $15,000,000. On Friday Swift asked $35,000,000, and the Cudahy company $11,909,000.

Nearly 40 millions in tax funds impounded by federal courts when constitutionality of the AAA was being attacked already have been recovered by the packing companies.

STOCKS ADVANCE MODERATELY BUT TRADING IS DULL

Speculators Await End of Congress Session.

New York, June 20.—[Special.]—Prices for stocks moved moderately higher today in a dull and practically featureless session. It was a typical Saturday performance, with the list moving about in a narrow range, but the number of gains far exceeding the declines.

Traders appeared to be more interested in the doings at Washington than in quotations and hopefully looked for the adjournment of congress over the week-end. Observers reported there was no pronounced sentiment on either side of the market, although the prevailing attitude appeared to be in favor of the bullish element.

In point of volume the trading was distinctly dull. In the abbreviated session approximately 317,000 shares changed hands.

Await Action on Tax Bill.

The speculative fraternity expressed a preference to remain on the sidelines until final action has been taken by congress on the new tax bill. Some short covering was reported to be taking place in leading stocks but indications were that it was not of sufficient importance to make itself noticeable.

Most of the leaders showed minor gains, with Chrysler dominating the little trading that took place. In the subsequent trading Chrysler developed into a feature, crossing par and going on to close at 101¼, registering a gain for the session of almost 3 points. General Motors was also higher, an advance of a major fraction being registered by its finishing quotation. Activity in the shares was of little importance.

Steel Group Gains Ground.

Steel shares were no better favored than other sections of the market in the early trading but they broke away and gained ground despite the moderate dealings. At the opening United States Steel common was only slightly higher but before the end of the first hour it had gained a full point. It added a fraction to its value in the final hour, bringing its gain for the session to 1½ points.

Bethlehem closely followed the action of the group leader and achieved a gain of 1⅛ points. Republic moved up a fraction. Inland Steel acted contrary to the trend by turning down more than a point.

The better sentiment for the steel shares was attributed to expectations that July operations for the industry will run higher than early estimates.

Farm Implement Shares Rise.

Farm implement shares were led into higher territory by J. I. Case, which chalked up an advance of 2 points. Deere moved up more than a point in a thin market.

Rails and utilities finished fractionally higher, with Western Union setting the pace for the power shares by appreciating over a point. Gains in the carrier section were generally confined to fractions.

United States Hoffman, Westinghouse, and Union Carbide each gained a point or more. Owens Glass also picked up a point.

BENDIX, ZENITH MOST ACTIVE OF CHICAGO STOCKS

Bendix Aviation yesterday replaced Zenith Radio as the most active issue on the Chicago Stock exchange, but held only a slight advantage over Zenith, which had held top position for two days.

These two issues were the only ones to surpass the 1,000 share level yesterday in an irregular market that totaled only 15,000 shares.

Bendix accounted for 1,150 shares and Zenith 1,100 shares, both closing at a net gain of ¼ point. There were 65 issues traded, of which 20 advanced, 21 declined, and 24 remained unchanged.

Last week a volume of 200,000 shares compared with 212,000 shares in the preceding week and 156,000 shares a year ago. There were 153 issues traded, including 74 advances, 54 declines, and 25 issues which remained unchanged.

D. J. O'Grady to Become Officer of Faithorn Corp.

D. J. O'Grady, former promotion and advertising manager of Marshall Field & Co., wholesale, announced yesterday that he has purchased an interest in the Faithorn corporation, printers and engravers, 504 Sherman street. O'Grady will become a vice president of the firm.

WARNS EXCESS RESERVES BRING DOUBTFUL LOANS

N. Y. Banker Tells Fear of Credit Expansion.

Bolton Landing, N. Y., June 20.—[Special.] — The abnormally large amount of excess reserves in the commercial banking system is exerting continuous pressure on the banks to make investments of the type which might "come back to plague them," S. Sloan Colt, president of the Bankers Trust company, warned today in his presidential address at the 43d annual convention of the New York State Bankers association.

Speaking to more than 500 of the state's bankers, representing the largest convention attendance since the depression, Colt proposed that international monetary stabilization should be accomplished through a return to a modified gold standard. He also asserted the American banking system is facing the same problems that the British banking system met a hundred years ago.

Easy Reserves Bloat Credit.

Referring to his warning against present reserves Colt said:

"In former periods the pressure of easy reserves has been one of the potent factors causing bank credit to expand faster than the legitimate needs of business, thus producing excessive credit expansion which fed the fires of speculation."

He indicated this might result in bad investments and continued: "The present volume of excess reserves is unprecedented in this or any other country. Thus far, however, they have resulted in little expansion of private credit. The increase in recent years has not come from business borrowing but largely from gold imports and governmental borrowing.

"This situation, of course, will not continue indefinitly. At some stage business confidence will return and with a continued rise in business activity credit expansion is likely to develop and gather momentum.

View on Credit Control.

"Under such circumstances credit controls may be necessary. We cannot go on indefinitly in a period of expansion with this supply of excess reserves and with these abnormal money rates. The problem is this: When should controls be exercised and what should be the nature of the controls?

"Ordinary measures such as open market operations and changes in discount rates might not be sufficient. The banking act of 1935 gives the board of governors of the federal reserve system further powers, namely, to raise reserve requirements.

"However, before using such powers, is it not pertinent to ask if some way cannot be found of withdrawing from our banking structure a substantial amount of the gold that has been imported during the last two years and of keeping out of the banking structure future imports of this type of gold? This certainly would be more in accordance with the facts of the situation."

RAIL WALKOUT NOT JUSTIFIED, ROOSEVELT TOLD

Washington, D. C., June 20.—(AP)—A special emergency board created by President Roosevelt to investigate disputes between the Western Pacific, Sacramento Northern, and Tidewater Southern railroads and certain of their employés, reported to the White House today that the cases "can and should be adjusted under the processes of the railway labor act," without any walkout.

"With these avenues of settlement available," said the report, "there is no justification for the employés involved to withdraw from the service of the three carriers."

UNION STEEL WORKERS GET PAY INCREASE

Atlantic City, N. J., June 20.—(AP)—Michael Tighe, president of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel, and Tin Workers, announced today members of that union would receive a 2 per cent wage increase, effective July 1.

The new wage agreement, Tighe said, resulted from negotiations with the Western Sheet and Tin Plate Manufacturers' association. The agreement will expire June 30, 1937, he said.

PERMIT CHICAGO BOND ISSUES TO PAY JUDGMENTS

Horner Signs Bills; City Will Save on Interest.

Gov. Henry Horner yesterday signed two bills, sponsored by State Representative Benjamin S. Adamowski, which permit the city of Chicago to issue bonds, without submitting propositions to voters, for the paying of public debts incurred through court judgments.

B. S. ADAMOWSKI.

City Controler Robert B. Upham said the legislation would prove highly beneficial to the city, which now has outstanding against it about 20 million dollars of judgments. By issuing bonds, he asserted, the city can cut the interest rate of 5 per cent which the judgments bear until paid.

"We feel," he said, "that bonds could be sold at this time with an interest rate not to exceed 3½ per cent, thereby saving 1½ per cent on the principal to the taxpayers.

No Funds for Retirements.

"At present the judgment tax fund, which is outside the corporate tax levy, is producing only enough to equal the interest, so it would be a great many years before the principal were cleared up. The bonds would run for only twenty years."

Upham said the credit of the city, already greatly improved during the last three years, would reach a still higher plane if the city could pay these overdue obligations. Many of the holders of the judgments, he added, are in need of their money. No interest has been paid on judgments since July 1, 1932, unless ordered by court. All of the income from the judgment tax levy is required to meet principal and interest payments ordered by the courts. The judgment levy is $1,250,000 annually.

Two Groups of Judgments.

Ordinary judgments against the city amount to more than 9 million dollars and accrued interest on this principal aggregates more than 2 million dollars, Upham stated. In addition, he said there are judgments in special assessment proceedings amounting to more than 7 million dollars, including accrued interest.

The bulk of these judgments were issued on claims arising from administrations preceding that of Mayor Kelly, Upham declared. The largest judgment holder is the sanitary district, which has claims aggregating 7 million dollars for power sold to the city in several years prior to 1933.

Acting Corporation Counsel Joseph F. Grossman, who has asked Gov. Horner to sign the measures, explained that the judgments arose from various sorts of claims against the city.

Several Types of Claims.

These claims include those attendant on damage to property on account of public improvements, condemnation judgments in cases where there were not adequate funds for financing the improvements, interest on condemnation awards when there were delays in payments and claims for other property damage and for personal injury.

Grossman asserted the judgments are debts of the city within the state constitution. He holds that even though the city is now above the 5 per cent constitutional debt limitation, due to the decline in assessed valuations since the debt was contracted, bonds can be issued as it simply involves substitution of one kind of debt for another.

Government Asked to Buy Cattle in Drouth Area

Bismarck, N. D., June 20.—(AP)—The Medora Stockmen's association appealed to the federal government today for a cattle purchase program as farmers throughout the state met to plan for the drouth emergency. The association, comprising membership from six counties in the hardest hit western section of the state, set at 7,000 the number of cattle necessary to be shipped out for lack of feed.

NOVEMBER BUTTER CLOSES JUST UNDER YEAR'S TOP

Drouth, light storings and receipts continued to exert a bullish influence on butter contracts on the Chicago Mercantile Exchange yesterday. Butter for November delivery swung back to its top price for the year in the face of realizing. Although the top was not maintained the close at 30 cents was just fractionally under the year's best price and ahead one-half cent a pound for the week. Turnover was light.

Egg futures were easier, with Octobers at their week ago price of 25¼c. Earlier in the week Octobers had established a high at 25⅝ cents.

Sales of the futures yesterday totaled 49 cars of eggs and 23 cars of butter. Prices of the futures follow:

SLUMP IN BEEF AND PORK PRICES HALTED IN WEEK

But Consumers Get Meats Cheaper than Year Ago.

Declines in beef and pork were halted last week, with price levels as a rule considerably below 1935 in both meats. The principal cuts of beef sold wholesale from 4 to 30 per cent under a year ago, while fresh pork cuts, except hams, ranged from 5 to 18 per cent lower than in 1935. Lard was 22 to 30 per cent under 1935. Hams sold 3 to 21 per cent higher.

A group of factors has contributed to the declines in consumer costs of most beef and pork. Among these factors are competition of relatively cheap meats produced in foreign countries that have been pouring into America, the glut of domestic beef in wholesale channels resulting from the record slaughter of cattle in recent months, and removal of the processing tax on hogs early in the year.

Best Grades of Beef Decline.

Packers are selling best grades of beef at the most decline, compared with a year ago. This is due to the unusual situation in the live cattle trade, where there is practically no spread between fair to good grades of light cattle and the good to choice grades of medium and heavy long-fed stock that produce the top grades of beef.

The attached table indicates how current wholesale meat prices compare with the same period in 1935:

Cattle Receipts Restricted.

Cattle receipts at Chicago were cut to 35,000 last week, the smallest since week ending May 16, and this relieved congestion in wholesale beef channels to some extent. Live costs of all slaughter stock at the stockyards moved up.

Most steers and yearlings closed 25 to 40 cents above a week ago. Cows and heifers advanced unevenly 15 to 40 cents. Calves rose 25 to 50 cents. However, the week's steer average at $7.85 was only 15 cents above the lowest weekly price since December, 1934.

Hog receipts were reduced to 68,600, smallest in four weeks, and this reversed the lower trend of early last week, the close being unevenly 5 to 30 cents above a week ago. The six day average, however, at $9.80 was off 5 cents due to earlier losses.

While pork is selling considerably lower than a year ago, net market returns to farmers last week were above any corresponding period in seven years and above 1935, when a heavy processing tax was collected on hogs by the federal government.

Lamb Shortage Relieved.

The acute shortage in the lamb market was relieved somewhat last week, receipts at Chicago of 36,100 being largest since middle of last month. The week's average was lowered 10 cents to $11.35.

Reports from the country indicate the lamb movement is expected to increase gradually through the summer as the new crop native and range lambs commence to move to market.

Insufficient stock arrived at the stockyards yesterday to warrant a change in quotations.

LARD ADVANCES ON BUYING STIMULATED BY GRAIN RISE

Lard futures rose 17 to 22 cents per hundred pounds on the Chicago Board of Trade yesterday on buying stimulated largely by an advance in grains. Clear bellies [salt pork] rose the limit for the day, 50 cents, to $13.62. Cash lard was quoted at $10.77 per hundred pounds, loose at $10.15, leaf at $10.00, and clear bellies at $13.55. Prices of futures follow, in dollars per hundred pounds:

COTTON AGAIN SPURTS TO NEW SEASONAL HIGHS

Cotton futures again pushed through to new high levels for the season on principal domestic markets yesterday. Prices in Chicago closed 55 to 85 cents a bale higher, or 11 to 17 points, net. Similar gains were registered elsewhere during the short session.

An advance in Liverpool prices and excellent foreign and domestic buying furnished the stimulus for the upturn. Weather had little influence. A moderate amount of profit taking and week-end realizing made its appearance, but this was absorbed without much difficulty.

Cloth sales were exceptionally good last week. Spot sales in southern markets yesterday amounted to 4,720 bales, at an average price for middling of 12.24 cents per pound. Spot prices gained .05 cent per pound to 12.30 cents in New York, 10 cents to 12.20 in Houston, and 20 cents to 12.20 in Galveston. Range of futures prices follows in cents per pound:

BENDIX UNION HEAD DECLARES STRIKE IS VOTED

South Bend, Ind., June 20.—(AP)—Union employés of the Bendix Products corporation voted to strike next Wednesday after their demands for 10 cents an hour increase in wages was refused, Thomas Jeffers, union president, said today.

Bendix officials said the increase was economically impossible and declared the Bendix hourly rate already was higher in some cases than the rate in other similar industries.

The union claimed that of the 3,500 employés 2,500 are union members. Company officials estimated the union strength at about 1,000.

Union officials estimated the average wage rate 46 to 56 cents an hour.

New York, June 20.—[Special.]—The persistent demand for Italian dollar bonds, which carried those issues to new high levels for the year on gains ranging from 2⅛ to 7¾ points, featured otherwise dull and routine trading in bonds today.

Domestic corporate bonds marked time during the two hour period, with prices varying only slightly from the previous close. Total transactions today amounted to $4,313,000, compared with $3,986,000 last Saturday.

Reflect Stand Against Sanctions.

Great Britain's stand in advocating abandonment of the economic sanctions against Italy was the major influence in the market for Italian dollar loans. The government 7s rose 2⅛ points to 87, which compares with a low of 60¾ earlier in the year.

Fiat 7s scored the widest advance, closing up 7¾ points, while Italian Credit 7s, Italian Public Utility 7s, Milan 6½s, and Rome 6½s participated in the upswing with substantial net gains. Trading elsewhere in the foreign list was quiet with movements restricted to small fractions.

Federal Bonds Are Firmer.

Due to the fairly large turnover of the new treasury 2¾s, due 1951 to 1954, United States government loans were somewhat more active than is usually the case on a week-end session, but prices held within a narrow range, closing 1-32 to 3-32 point higher on the day.

Speculative interest in the volatile corporate bonds was at a minimum. Over a considerable part of the list, however, values were inclined to soften a bit. Rails drew fair support, but some of the power issues sagged heavily, notably Abitibi Power 5s, which dropped 2 to 45¼.

Dividend Yields vs. Earnings.

Inquiries to this department indicate that the investment seeking public is placing too much emphasis on low priced shares and dividend yields and too little on earnings. Also often overlooked is the question of whether or not earnings improvement in proportion to sales gains is being prevented by increasing operating costs.

While it is natural for investors to prefer dividend paying stocks, too much stress must not be placed upon dividends and yields.

The value to the shareholder is present whether earnings are being paid out in dividends or go to increase the equity behind the stock.

* * *

If the dividend yield is high, investors should try to find out why. Why is it that one stock paying $3 annually is selling for only $40, while another stock paying the same dividend is selling for $75? The one yields 7½ per cent, the other 4 per cent.

All too often the high dividend yield indicates decreasing earnings—which will lead to smaller dividends—or little prospect of improvement in earnings.

The stock selling for $75 may be earning twice as much per share as the stock quoted at $40 and these earnings may be going into expansion. It may be that directors merely have been pursuing a conservative policy to build up surplus and that the dividend may be increased shortly if profits remain at the same level or continue to increase.

* * *

The practice of buying according to the price is so thoroughly discredited as to need little comment. How many persons would argue that the ten shares received in a 10 for 1 stock split are more valuable than the one held before the split? Each holding represents the same equity in the company.

Too often a prospective investor does not even know the name of the company he inquires about. He apparently glances down the yield or price columns of the market table and picks out a stock. One person, for example, asked how earnings are on "South American Gas and Petroleum listed on the New York board at about 5." What he had seen was "So Am. G. & P.," which is South American Gold and Platinum company.

* * *

What a company's business is and whether its products are receiving popular acceptance are matters which should be of major interest to an investor. Market prices are based on earnings and prospective earnings.

SEVERAL BOND ISSUES READY FOR SALE IN WEEK

Niagara Falls Power Will Offer $32,493,000 Loan.

Several moderate sized bond issues will become eligible for public offering this week, including $32,493,000 principal amount of Niagara Falls Power company bonds. This issue is among those completing the twenty-day period since a registration statement was filed with the Securities and Exchange commission.

The Niagara Falls Power issue consists of first and refunding mortgage bonds, 3½ per cent, series of 1936, due March 1, 1966. Morgan Stanley & Co. will head the underwriting group.

Among the larger issues will be $10,000,000 in first mortgage bonds of Broad River Power company of Columbia, S. C. The bonds will be due in 1966 and will be underwritten by a group headed by Halsey, Stuart & Co. Proceeds will be used to redeem other outstanding funded debt.

Other Utility Issues.

Potomac Electric Power company, Washington, D. C., seeks to issue $15,000,000 in 3¼ per cent first mortgage bonds, due July 1, 1966. The proceeds are to be used to retire 5 per cent consolidated mortgage bonds, due July 1, 1936, and 6 per cent general and refunding series B bonds, to be redeemed about Oct. 1. Any balance is to be used for general corporate purposes. The proposed maximum offering price is 105.

Western Massachusetts companies, Boston, on Thursday will be permitted to issue $11,000,000 in 3¼ per cent notes, due June 15, 1946. Proceeds are to be used for retiring $8,500,000 in 4 per cent notes and for the purchase of common stock of subsidiaries. First Boston corporation is expected to be the principal underwriter.

Steel Loan Is Sold.

National Steel company will issue $10,000,000 in 3¾ per cent first collateral mortgage sinking fund bonds, due June 1, 1965. The issue was sold privately on June 1 to Kuhn, Loeb & Co. and two associations, who in turn sold the entire issue to one purchaser for $10,088,000.

North American Acceptance corporation, Chicago, on Monday is scheduled to issue 8,000 shares of 6 per cent cumulative preferred stock, 17,637.5 shares of common stock and warants for 8,000 shares of common stock.

The preferred stock with warants attached is to be offered at $25 a share, while the 9,637.5 shares of common stock not reserved for the exercise of warants are to be offered at $10 a share. The company plans to offer the securities directly and will use proceeds for additional working capital.

Refrigerator Line Issue.

North Western Refrigerator Line company, Chicago, seeks to issue $1,470,000 in 4 per cent equipment trust certificates, maturing serially until 1943.

Proceeds are to be used in retiring $200,000 in 6 per cent equipment trust certificates, series A, and $550,000 in 5½ per cent equipment trust certificates, series D, and to pay off $349,023 in notes held by the American Car and Foundry company. The balance will be used for general corporate purposes.

Crown Cork and Seal company, Inc., plans to issue 225,000 shares of $2.25 dividend cumulative preferred stock, no par, with warants attached; 56,250 shares of no par common reserved for exercise of the warants. Paine, Webber & Co. will be the underwriters.

CHICAGO BANK STOCKS SPURT IN FAIR TURNOVER

Big gains in several bank stocks featured trading here last week, although volume was not large. First National improved 10 points to a high and close of 269 bid, 273 asked. The rights ranged between a low of 11 and high of 14¼, closing at 13⅞ bid, 14⅝ asked.

Continental Illinois was traded between 159 and 163, but closed unchanged for the week at 161 bid, 163 asked. Northern Trust gained 15 points to 800 bid, 815 asked, while Harris Trust improved 5 points to 390 bid, 405 asked and continued in better demand.

Merchandise Bank and Trust rose 15 points to 245 bid, 255 asked, on the announcement of a dividend increase from $4 to $6 annually. Lake Shore Trust and Savings soared 8 points to 70 bid, 74 asked. Terminal National was unchanged at 22½ bid, 24½ asked, Chicago Title and Trust continued firm at 163 bid, 166 asked.

MOTORS—TRAFIC—HIGHWAYS

"DRIVES AWAY" A PLYMOUTH

Summer weather brings added numbers of new car buyers to Detroit, to drive away their own cars from the plants in which they are built. Shown above is Dr. L. C. Boatman of Santa Fe, N. M., receiving the "release slip" which sends him away with his new 1936 Plymouth two door touring sedan.

SLOWPOKES ON STATE ROADS TO GET WARNINGS

Road hogs who blockade busy pavements by driving at a loafing pace will receive attention today from Illinois highway patrolmen. Supervising Sergeant Phil Renkosiak, in command of the state police in the metropolitan area, said that the slow pokes will be prodded by motorcycle men.

"The motor vehicle code forbids any one to drive so slowly as to impede a reasonable usage of the highway," said the sergeant. "Most of these idlers on the road are inconsiderate thoughtlessly, not viciously. They will be stopped and in polite language told of the inconvenience they are causing others.

Called Public Menace.

"There may be a few hard boiled motorists who believe they can drive as slowly as they please without regard for others. An arrest or two may be necessary to take care of these.

"It's not unreasonable to prosecute the slow pokes. They are a public menace, almost as great a hazard on the road as the excessively fast drivers. They force all who would travel at an ordinary pace to swing around them."

This type of road hog does his greatest harm on the two lane highways where there is always a risk in overtaking and passing in heavy trafic. Sometimes parades of six or a dozen cars are held back for miles by one driver too busy with conversation with his passengers to note trafic. When those delayed lose their patience, risks are taken to pass.

Common in City.

On the four lane highways, the slow driver does not cause so much inconvenience as long as he remains in the right hand lane. Even there, however, when trafic is heavy, he disrupts the orderly flow.

The slow poke is as common to city streets as to rural highways but the state police do not patrol in Chicago. Sunday drivers in the boulevards include some who have no destination and are merely riding around for the air. Motorists with social or business errands are forced to dodge around them.

It's not difficult to tell whether your leisureliness is becoming a nuisance. If the bulk of trafic is passing you, if cars are bunching behind you waiting for a chance to pass while the pavement ahead of you is vacant, you're a road hog. Step up, keep up with the parade.

VOICE OF TRAFIC

WIDEN U. S. 66.

Joliet, Ill., June 15.—We of this city forty miles from the loop agree with THE TRIBUNE that the greatest trafic need in the metropolitan area is an elevated highway system in Chicago. Most of us also agree that Joliet's greatest trafic need is an elevated highway to carry our trafic into Chicago.

However, about as urgent as the demands for modern facilities within Chicago, from our viewpoint, is the widening of U. S. 66 south of here through Wilmington. On the present old two lane road there has been a terrible slaughter. With several sharp turns and with heavy trafic the 18 or 20 foot slab is a death trap. JAMES P. SHARP.

AND WIDEN U. S. 30.

De Kalb, Ill., June 16.—THE TRIBUNE should renew its advocacy of a few years ago for the widening of the Lincoln highway out this way. Truck, bus and passenger car trafic are heavier now than when you were campaigning for this improvement. Why drop the campaign when it is only half won with the widening as far as Geneva, Ill.? ALL CARS NEED SERVICE.

Chicago, June 17.—In the stories about Chicago's compulsory automobile inspection, soon to become effective, too much attention has been given to the benefits to be derived from forcing the dangerous old junks from the streets. Just as dangerous as the junks are new and expensive cars in the hands of negligent owners. A 1936 model with the brakes lacking adjustment is more dangerous than a well maintained 1926 model. SOUTH SIDE CABS.

Chicago, May 27.—Between 63d street and 31st street on South Park and Michigan avenues there is operating a fleet of public taxis that are daily exacting a toll of death and destruction. I personally know of two people who have lost their lives in accidents in which these taxis were involved and many others who have suffered injuries and extensive damage to their machines.

The drivers of these vehicles have absolutely no regard for any one else on the street and are constantly breaking the law by reckless and insane driving. They have often killed and crippled people and destroyed property in their haste to pick up a dime fare; broken down trees, and lamp posts, and wrecked automobiles are a common sight in the district in which they operate. If an investigation was launched to estimate the damage done and the lives lost by these drivers the result would be appalling. J. T. WILLIAMSON.

STATE SETS UP RULES TO GUIDE CAR INSPECTIONS

But the Rigorous Tests Are Not Compulsory.

BY HAL FOUST.

Owners of mechanically unsafe automobiles are facing additional obstacles to their usage of public streets and highways. The Illinois department of public works last week published a manual for state inspection stations, setting up a rigorous test for machines to receive an official O. K. All garages and service stations in Illinois are invited to apply for designation as official inspection stations.

Unlike Chicago's compulsory safety tests, starting July 1, the state's inspections are voluntary. Cars registered within the city are to be checked at fourteen safety lanes operated on park pavement at locations distributed over the city.

Illinois police, however, will continue to inspect automobiles in highway trafic, giving owners of defective machines an alternative of making repairs and adjustments or facing prosecution. Last week they made their first brake tests in the metropolitan area.

State Examination Thorough.

While Chicago's tests will be free, financed from the wheel tax revenue, the state's official stations will be permitted to charge a fee not to exceed 75 cents. The state manual, however, calls for a more detailed and thorough examination than is given a car in the ordinary dealer service department. For example, read these directions for the steering check:

[a] The inspector shall drive or pull the vehicle over the wheel alignment tester with clutch out or gear shift lever in neutral position. Any error shown on the tester may be due to maladjusted tie rods, unequal camber or caster or other axle conditions.

[b] Inspect all tires for unusual wear which indicates incorrect housing or axle conditions.

[c] With weight of the vehicle off the wheels, inspect entire steering system for lost motion and accumulated play.

[d] Inspect steering system for unusual bind or tightness by revolving steering wheel through its full travel.

[e] With vehicle in same position, inspect king pins and bushings and wheel bearings.

Detailed Requirements.

The manual calls for similar thoroughness in testing brakes and with the same detailed requirements for lights, windshield wipers, horns, and rear view mirrors.

The popular agitation for noise abatement receives attention in paragraphs covering the exhaust system and the horns. No car is to receive an O. K. sticker unless equipment complies with the statute on these points. The law, enacted into the motor vehicle code last year, has not been enforced.

The paragraph on horns reads in part as follows: "The horn or warning device . . . shall not emit an unreasonably loud or harsh sound or whistle."

On mufflers the statute says the following:

"The muffler and complete exhaust system, including gaskets, must be in good working order and in constant operation to prevent leakage of gas and smoke and the making of unnecessary noise. The act prohibits the use of muffler cutout, bypass, or other similar devices upon a motor vehicle on the highway."

Bypass Mufflers.

The bypass muffler, outlawed by this provision of the code, is a favored device on the commercial trucks that thunder over the highways of the metropolitan area nightly. It may be detected by the layman in performance; at a steady cruising speed the exhaust is muffled, but when the engine is stepped up for low gear operation in starting or on grades the explosions roar.

Described mechanically, the bypass muffler has an outward appearance the same as other types; inside, the arrangement is such that with low pressure the exhaust gases pass through the quieting chambers, but with high pressure gases escape these chambers and leave the exhaust pipe unmuffled.

A state patrolman, interviewed by a reporter in a recent all night inspection cruise in THE TRIBUNE roadster, said that he didn't arrest trucks with bypass mufflers because he believed the case would not stand up in court without strong support from Springfield.

CHURCH GROUP WARNS OF PERIL TO U. S. LIBERTY

Sees Move to Limit Personal Freedom.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Pointing to an increasing denial of freedom and resort to violence throughout the world, the executive committee of the Federal Council of Churches in America has addressed a message to all the churches directing their attention to the threatening situation in this country and urging a united stand in support of the ideals of liberty for which the churches have stood since the foundation of the republic.

The curtailment of civil liberty by both fascism and communism as in Europe is, according to the message, to be feared also in this country and the solution of social problems is likely to be attempted by coercion rather than by enlightening discussion and free presuasion.

"Against such dangers," the message reads, "we must be on our guard, and no groups more so than the churches. In Russia communism sets out to eradicate religious belief, in Germany fascism attempts to coerce the church into supporting policies contrary to the fundamental teachings of Christ. Our opposition, as Christians, to the denial of freedom rests not alone upon the danger to the church but upon the conviction that the substitution of coercion for freedom is a direct challenge to our Christian faith in the value of human beings as the creation of God."

Warns of Intolerance.

While the menace of communism to civil and religious liberty has been pointed out frequently, the committee considers that not enough attention has been given to the more imminent danger of repressive tendencies of another sort.

"We observe, for example, a sinister intolerance which brands as communistic even those constructive proposals for orderly social progress which are the best defences against communism. Suspicion is engendered against thoughtful and patriotic citizens who stand for the right of labor to organize for better standards of living. Even churches are labeled as 'subversive' for pointing out economic injustices, which can be corrected if there be the will to do so, and for emphasizing the necessity of bringing Christ's spirit and teaching more fully to bear on our industrial life."

Tells of Gag Laws.

The message then mentions other "repressive tendencies" like gag laws which have been introduced into congress and passed by several state legislatures; teachers' oaths which are degrading to their professional standing and contrary to the free spirit of educational institutions; the groups of vigilantes who take the law into their hands, and the whispering anti-Semitic agitation so disturbingly discernible.

"The operations of the Black Legion in Michigan," the messages states, "disclose the extreme cruelty and social danger to which a Redbaiting, anti-Semitic, anti-Negro, anti-Catholic organization easily goes. Its use of the name of God Almighty in its oath is blasphemous and its description of itself as Protestant is unjustifiable and shameful."

The message closes with an appeal to Christian people throughout the nation to exercise the utmost vigor in opposing such tendencies as these, which are sowing fears, hatreds and dissentions at a time of great social emergency and danger when it is imperative that people should be able to think soberly and act unitedly.

Rogers Park Baptist church, 1900 West Greenleaf avenue, which was destroyed by fire April 19, 1935, will hold a public worship service this morning when the sermon will be preached by Dr. C. M. Dinsmore, secretary to the edifice funds and building counsel of the American Baptist home mission in New York City.

The rededication service will take place this afternoon with an address by Dr. A. M. McDonald, city executive of the Chicago Baptist association.

Charge of the Bike Brigade Called to a Halt

Arriving early at Garfield park, scene of the C. Y. O. Bicycle Derby to be held this afternoon, four fair aspirants for awards in the beauty queen contest, races, and costume parade are informed that they will have hundreds of competitors in what is scheduled as the west side's biggest bicycle day. C. Y. O. TO HAVE BICYCLE DERBY THIS AFTERNOON

Races, Beauty Contest on Program.

Featuring speed races, a beauty queen contest, costume parade and parade review of the history of the bicycle, the third annual C. Y. O. bicycle Derby will be held this afternoon in Garfield park. The Most Rev. Bernard J. Sheil is directing the event with the coöperation of the Garfield Park Business Men's association, headed by Ray McCarthy.

RAY McCARTHY.

Brought out of store rooms and dark attics, oiled and dusted off, old time "walking sticks," high wheelers and two, three and four seaters will be brought forth to portray the metamorphosis of the bicycle. The historical depiction, of special interest to older spectators recalling the days when high wheelers were "the thing," has drawn more than 100 entries.

Program of 13 Races.

A program of 13 races has been planned with the assistance of Nate Balter, supervisor of west side parks, and Phil Leiderman, recreational director of Garfield park.

Modern, streamlined bikes will be given their chance to perform in the numerous speed and stock races which are scheduled. More than 300 are competing for prizes in the speed events of which Carl Stockholm is director.

Several hundred more participants are entered in various other phases of the carnival, chiefly the beauty contest and the costume parade. The title of beauty queen of the Derby will be conferred upon the prettiest feminine cyclist.

Park authorities will close all the roadways in the park from noon today until the conclusion of the carnival.

Committee Is Named.

A committee of west side citizens is coöperating with the C. Y. O. and the business men's group in arranging the affair. These include Trueman H. Golightly, Walter J. Kelly, Al Feldman, Phil Scanlan, Archie Marschak, F. J. Finn, Eddie O'Donnelly, Dr. M. D. Traxler, Jack Elder, Norman Davis, Charles Faulhaber, and H. P. Hansen.

Mayor Edward J. Kelly and Bishop Sheil will head the list of honorary officials, including Thomas Courtney, Al Horan, John Clark, Walter Wright, William Harley, Fred Smita and Thomas Heaney.

Marillac League to Give Benefit This Afternoon

A benefit card and bunco party will be given by the Marillac league at 3 o'clock this afternoon at the Catholic Social center, 308 South Sangamon street. Miss Mary Jungwirth is secretary.

THREE SUBURBS WAR ON WEEDS TO HELP HAY FEVER VICTIMS

Hay fever sufferers residing in La Grange, Western Springs, and Hinsdale, as well as those who sympathize with afflicted ones, have combined to make war on the weedy section along 47th street between Western Springs and Hinsdale.

Each summer the open acres have produced ragweeds that have been a menace to the sneezers, and recent action was taken to lay the weeds low before they can create a nuisance.

R. E. Klein, vice president and cashier of the First National bank of Hinsdale, was chosen to accept contributions to a fund of $100 for labor expense. A tractor and mower have been offered for the weed cutting job through the courtesy of A. E. McKinstry and the International Harvester company and Hinsdale has agreed to furnish gasoline and oil for the tractor.

The Kiwanis club of La Grange and the Garden club of Western Springs has taken an interest in the campaign.

ANNUAL PICNIC OF ST. SIMEON'S TO LAST 2 DAYS

The annual picnic of St Simeon's parish, Bellwood, will open Saturday night and continue all day Sunday on the grounds surrounding the church on Washington boulevard, three blocks east of La Grange [Mannheim] road.

The parish is that of the Rev. Edward I. Dankowski, known as "Father Dan" in his capacity as state chaplain of the American Legion. For the last five years, the picnics have become homecomings for friends of Father Dankowski and his assistant, the Rev. Paul Koepke.

Next Sunday, Father Dankowski will celebrate a high mass. The picnic will follow. Meals will be served throughout the afternoon and evening. Entertainment will include ball games and other athletic contests, while pony rides will be an attraction for the children.

NEW SCHOLARSHIP HONORS MEMORY OF BLUMENTHAL

In memory of Oscar Blumenthal, Chicago attorney who died five years ago, an Oscar Blumenthal memorial scholarship fund has been established at the University of Chicago. The university's board of trustees recently accepted formally an initial gift of $600 from the donor, Morton Weinress, 231 South La Salle street, a friend and admirer of the late Mr. Blumenthal.

The fund will provide for one full $300 scholarship a year, to be provided annually by Mr. Weinress. The scholarship is to be awarded, preferably, to a west side student and, preferably, to a student from the Jewish People's institute.

Mr. Blumenthal, an alumnus of the University of Chicago, served as counsel for the General American Transportation corporation.

ROOSEVELT ROAD MERCHANTS HOLD CIVIC FESTIVAL

Contests and Novelty Acts on Program.

Parades, pyrotechnics, and street decorations are features of the Roosevelt road summer festival and mardi gras which began Thursday and will continue to next Sunday. The event is being sponsored by the Roosevelt Road Business Men's association and the Better Lawndale association and its territory includes the Lawndale area on Roosevelt road from Kedzie avenue to Central Park avenue.

MISS JOYCE ADLER.

With the coöperation of citizens and business men of the area, stores and buildings have been decorated. The neighborhood festival includes a program of exhibitions by massed bands, parades, drills, fireworks, novelty acts, and outdoor entertainment.

Have Popularity Contest.

Receptions have been planned for groups from other communities and two contests have been arranged. Miss Joyce Adler, 3417 West Roosevelt road, is leading the popularity contest. Miss Billie Brown, 3208 West Roosevelt road, is second, and Miss Catherine Olejarz, 2423 Lorel avenue, third.

Prizes will be awarded in the popularity contest as well as to winners of the baby parade which will be held during the week.

Booths Display Wares.

Booths have been erected in the business district for concessions and displays by local merchants.

Arrangements were made by a committee headed by Morton Levitan, pioneer Lawndale resident, and John F. McGrail. Publicity is supervised by Harry G. Green. Others assisting are Harvey F. Bohl, contest director; Frank Darr and Max J. Kurtzman, program, and Arthur Schimmel, editor of the Lawndale Examiner.

CENTRAL SOKOL WILL HOLD GYM FESTIVAL TODAY

OUR TOWN

Paragraphs About Some Folks You Know.

RESPONDING to a last minute invitation, Miss Dorothy Brodkin, winner of the 1936 junior college oratorical contest, and a student at Morton Junior college, won the plaudits of members of the Rotary club of Cicero, before whom she recently gave her oration, "Might Is Right." In a manner sincere and challenging, Miss Brodkin gave the Rotarians the thoughts of a junior collegian about the confusing picture which hangs on the eastern horizon across the Atlantic.

FOUR TEACHERS OF WEST SIDE GRANTED LEAVE

Four more west side public school teachers have been granted sabbatical leave permits for next year by the board of education. Under the school law the teachers must spend the time in study or travel and report their activities to the superintendent of schools.

They will receive their salaries less the amount paid substitutes doing their class work. The four teachers, their schools, and the manner in which they have said they will use their free time are:

Junia Cobb, Harrison Technical High school, study at Columbia university; Mabel Brundage, Howland elementary school, travel in Europe; Violet Davis, Talcott elementary school, study at the University of Hawaii, and Anne Marshall, Howland elementary school, travel in Europe. Winnie Sparks, a special teacher of art not assigned to a school, has been granted leave to study at the University of Mexico.

FEDERAL SAVINGS ASSOCIATION REPORTS GAINS

A gain of $35,000 in assets last month following an increase of $43,000 in April has been reported by John A. Sierocinski, secretary of the Second Federal Savings and Loan association, 4048 West 26th street. Public investments, exclusive of shares bought by the federal government, have accounted for the increase. Since the first of the year, 247 new accounts have added 35 per cent to resources. The association has approved an average of $100,000 a month in home loans for the last four months.

Hebrew College Auxiliary of Lawndale to Meet

The final dinner meeting of the Lawndale Ladies' auxiliary of the Hebrew Theological college will be held Wednesday night in the banquet hall at 3448 Douglas boulevard. Rabbi Abraham Elman will be toastmaster and Rabbi Leonard Mishkin speaker. Mrs. Sarah Aronson is president and Mrs. Lillian Elman honorary president.

NEARLY 4,000 TAKING COURSES AT THIS SESSION

Enrollment Up 500 Over Last Year.

The popular myth that school children rejoice with the approach of summer vacation and scorn their studies until reopening in September is being exploded in west side and west suburban summer schools. Approximately 4,000 high and elementary pupils are taking summer school work this year.

According to Charles J. Lunak, assistant superintendent in charge of summer schools, half of them are making up courses they failed during the regular year and the remainder are taking advance work in order to get ahead of their classes. Many of those taking advance work plan to be graduated from high school in three and one-half years.

Enrollment in west side summer schools increased by almost 500 pupils this year, according to Mr. Lunak. Austin High, 231 North Pine avenue, directed by Wilbur Wright, has 443 summer pupils registered. Crane High, 2245 Jackson boulevard, headed by Henry Hagen, has 560 pupils registered.

644 at Lane Tech.

Although Lane Technical, 2501 Addison street, Charles E. Lang, principal, is on the north side, Mr. Lunak stated it can be included in the list of west side summer schools because a great many west side boys are taking technical courses there. Lane has 644 pupils registered.

More than 1,000 pupils are registered in the four west side elementary summer schools. Andersen, 1155 North Lincoln street, Nellie Quinn, principal, has 172 pupils. Lawson, 1256 South Homan avenue, George Sype, principal, has 345 pupils.

Nobel, 4127 Hirsch street, Clarence Clarence Claxton, principal, has 300 Claxton, principal, has 300 pupils and Von Humboldt, 1410 North Rockwell street, C. Lineberger, principal, has 276 pupils.

Oak Park Leads Suburbs.

Oak Park High has the largest attendance of suburban summer schools with almost 650 pupils registered, according to R. N. Ketcham, head of the summer school. During the regular school year Mr. Ketcham is supervisor of freshman boys at Oak Park.

J. Sterling Morton Township High, headed by R. V. Hutchens, has a summer enrollment of 100 and Lyons Township High, at La Grange, headed by J. F. Towell, reports an enrollment of 147.

At Riverside-Brookfield High, 35 pupils are taking advantage of summer school work under the direction of Mr. J. G. Vance. While Glenbard High, at Glen Ellyn, does not have a summer school under the direction of the school board, 15 pupils are being tutored there by regular high school instructors. Henry Firley and Reno Kietzman are in charge.

Y.W.C.A. PROVIDES CAMP FOR GIRL RESERVE GROUP

Two sessions of summer camp for west side girls of high school age will be held by the girl reserve department of the Chicago Y. W. C. A. for the first time at the 200 acre Girl Reserve camp near Lemont. The first will be held July 19 to Aug. 1 and the second, Aug. 1 to 15.

Members of reserves at McKinley, Harrison Technical, Austin, and Lucy Flower Technical High schools and all girls of a similar age may attend. Membership in the Y. W. C. A. is not necessary. The camp will be equipped for all sports, recreation, and arts, according to Miss Jeannette Kiskaddon, chairman.

The camp site includes a location originally intended for a bird sanctuary and wild flower preserve. Headquarters are at the Central Y. W. C. A., 59 East Monroe street.

WPA IMPROVING CICERO WATER WORKS SYSTEM

Improvements to the Cicero waterworks, estimated to cost approximately $1,215,000, were started last week under the direction of Carl Bauer, state director of the PWA. The projects, aided by a PWA grant of $425,384, will employ a daily average of 532 men for approximately 8 months. It includes a new million gallon water tank, a new pumping station and the laying of 175,000 lineal feet of cast iron water mains. Better fire protection will be afforded through increased water pressure when the improvements are completed.

Precious Blood Parish Groups Will Give Dance

The Dramatic club and Young Ladies sodality of the Precious Blood parish will hold their annual June frolic and dance Friday night in the parish hall, Congress street and Western avenue. Those making arrangements are: James Costello, Miss Mabel McNamara and John Hefferman, tickets; Steven Palmer and Patrick Costello, welcoming committee, and Miss Mary Christofani, John Revell, Miss Dorothy Jones, and Dennis Scanlan, publicity.

PLAY ACTIVITY PROGRAM GROWS IN WEST SUBURBS

Sports and Handicraft Under Supervision.

Vacation time finds the west suburbs prepared for supervised recreational programs on a more extensive scale than ever in the past.

As evidence of the appeal of organized play to youngsters, a youth in Western Springs recently passed up a trip to the west coast that he might continue to fill his position on the baseball team. The lad is Robert Salveson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Salveson.

In Riverside, where reed weaving has become popular among children, Jim Anderson, the instructor, finds himself the center of popularity. Mr. Anderson has been blind for six years, and since losing his sight has found in reed weaving an occupation suitable to his sense of touch. He began by teaching the craft for three hours a week, and now five hours a day are demanded of him.

Western Springs Program.

Spring Rock park in Western Springs, where a community recreation program is sponsored by the local park board, has been improved. M. L. Whitaker, who for several seasons had charge of the Boys' club sponsored by the Rotary club of Princeton, Ill., and for the past year has been teacher of physical training and director of athletics at the McClure school, is director of the Western Springs program.

Activities at Spring Rock park start at 9 o'clock in the morning with games and a story hour for the primary group. For the older group there are softball leagues and tennis tournaments. John Oballl, at the Western Springs State bank has charge of the tennis court registrations. The wading pool in the park is again a favorite spot for children.

There are six teams in the Western Springs Indoor Baseball league—Village club, Berend's, American Legion, Firemen, Laundry, and Wolf Road A. C. Ray Ioas has charge of umpires. Miss Barbara Bartley is assistant park director.

Four hundred boys and girls are participating in the recreation program sponsored by the Riverside grammar schools and assisted by the WPA recreational project. H. F. Wernimont, director of physical education of District ninety-six, and John Walsh, superintendent of the WPA project, have organized classes in swimming, tennis, tap dancing, reed weaving, and handicraft. The program provides for ping pong, baseball, track and field events, tennis, handball, horse shoes, and checkers, in which tournaments are in progress.

Classes At Cermak Pool.

Ambrose Buckley supervises the playgrounds at the schools during the morning and afternoon sessions. Anthony Schubert has charge of swimming and league baseball.

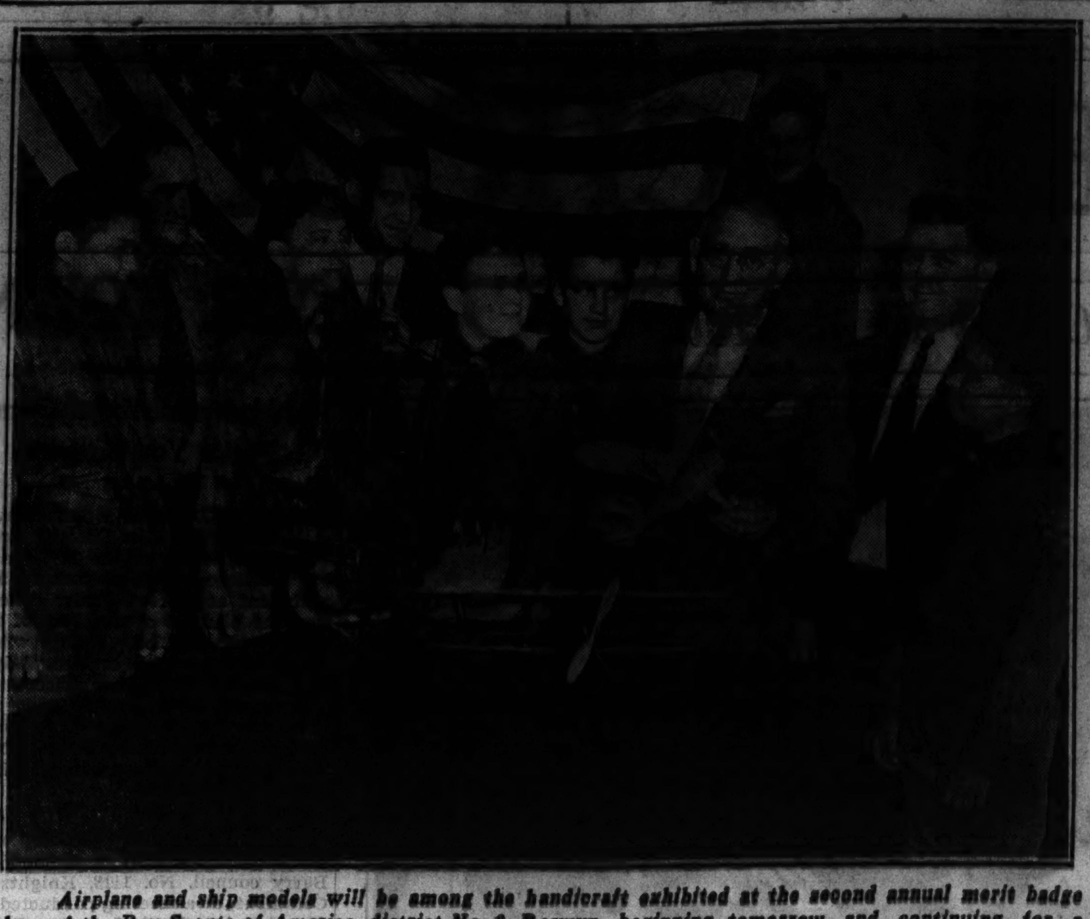
Cermak pool will be used for swimming classes. Courts at the high school grounds are used for tennis, the Central school building and grounds are used for various activities, and the park at Longcommon and Delaplain roads is used for league baseball. Miss Mildred Bercaw conducts the classes in handicraft.

The playground program sponsored by the Civic club of La Grange and La Grange Park is being conducted on five different playgrounds by Coach Robert O. Sedgwick and a corps of assistants.

Commodore Barry K. of C. Announce New Officers

New officers for the year 1936-'37 have been announced by the Commodore Barry council, No. 118, Knights of Columbus. They are George P. Bamber, grand knight; Francis L. McElligett, deputy grand knight; James T. Curran, chancellor; James E. Mahoney, recorder; James F. O'Brien, treasurer; John Tamburrino, warden; Daniel Keating, advocate; Joseph A. Farmer, trustee; Bernard Fornero, inside guard, and James S. Conley and Angelo Naples, outside guards.

PREPARING FOR MERIT BADGE SHOW



Airplane and ship models will be among the handicraft exhibited at the second annual merit badge show of the Boy Scouts of America, district No. 3, Berwyn, beginning tomorrow and continuing for a week, at the Lincoln school auditorium, 16th street and Gunderson avenue. Some of those making arrangements are (left to right) Robert Raiman, Commissioner Charles Hybl, Eugene Brunner, Arthur Kulle, district secretary; Joseph Wolfe, Arthur Abrams, Mayor Anton J. Janura, Dr. Edwin C. Reynolds, Clarence Wolfe, and (rear) Norman Mourecek.

SVITHIOD LODGES WILL HAVE BIG OUTING JUNE 28

25,000 Chicago Swedes Expected to Attend.

More than 25,000 Chicagoland Swedish-Americans are expected to attend the annual Svithiod day outing, sponsored by the 48 Svithiod lodges of Illinois next Sunday at St. Paul park in Morton Grove. Bernard Johnson, national grand master of the order, is general chairman in charge of the event.

BERNARD JOHNSON

A colorful program, in which more than 300 costumed persons will participate, is being arranged. The festivities, which will start at 10 a. m. and continue until 11:30 p. m., will include a concert by the 35 piece Svithiod concert band and a parade headed by the 40 piece Svithiod junior drum and bugle corps.

The afternoon program will be held from 3 to 5 p. m. and the evening from 8 to 10 p. m. The programs will include massed choruses, vocal soloists, accordian soloists, and folk dancing.

Assisting Mr. Johnson on the committee are Hjalmar Jonsson and Einar Johnson, vice chairmen; Ingrid Swanson, secretary, and Fred Nelson, treasurer.

Other committee heads are Nels Brostrom, Arthur Anderson, Fred Hallberg, Stella Johnson, Myrtle Larson, John Bergstrom, Gustave Olson, Carl Anderson, Otto Nelson, David Carp, Allen Anderson, Oscar Broms, Nels Wickum, Hjalmar Hurtig, Robert Seeberg, Ingeborg Jonsson, George Sundberg, Evelyn Odean, Astrid Krantz, Helen Edfors, Ingre Olson, Bernhard Anderson, John Gallivan, L. A. McGrath, Fred Moyer, Carl Seaholm, A. E. Holmberg, Dr. Carl Rydin, Otto Hanson, Carl Stockenberg, Ethel De Crow, and Ebba Sundberg.

Norwegian Woman's Group to Have Luncheon Friday

The Federation of Norwegian Woman's Societies will hold its annual midsummer luncheon, the St. Hans Fest, at 1 o'clock on Friday afternoon at the Chicago Norske club.

Bellwood Boys Turn Attic Into Model Railway System

Word that several Bellwood boys were operating a railroad on a budget of $25 a month caused Harry G. Taylor, chairman of the Western Association of Railway Executives, to make a visit recently to the home of William W. Haverly Sr., 708 South 23d avenue, Bellwood. Invited to the attic, Mr. Taylor found the chief engineer, dispatcher, and operating vice president busy with their hobby.

A "class H" locomotive was roaring around a curve and heading into the eastbound main line with a string of mixed freight cars in tow. Two main lines circles the room, elevated table high, while a maze of freight and passenger yards, containing 856 feet of track, showed the extent of the layout.

Quartet of Operators.

At his desk sat Bill Haverly, 18 years old, the dispatcher. At another post, Bob Haverly, 11, manned a power switch governing the northern division. Two other stations were in charge of neighborhood chums, Robert Peachey and Arlo Bartsch. The railroaders gave orders and reports on train movements to each other by telephone.

William Haverly Sr., a railroad man, explained that the road's appraised value was $8,475. One-fourth of the amount went into materials. The rest was labor on homemade rolling stock, stations, and track. The mixed freight snorts into a siding, switches click, the yard engineer plugs in current for track 6 of the roundhouse, the turntable rotates and out from the big eight-track roundhouse rolls the Pacific type locomotive.

There are six engines on the line that draw power from third rails. Thirty passenger cars, 120 freight cars, box cars and flats, hoppers and stock cars, and refrigerator cars make up the fleet.

Six Years in Making.

The cars, built to 1-45 scale, are of wood and bristol board with bronze trucks, and the passenger cars have roller bearings that give the smooth glide characteristic of new western trains.

"The railroad has taken six years to build," explained young Bill Haverly, "and we're not through yet. Signal towers will be electrically lighted, and we will have solenoid control of the switches so that a collision will be impossible.

"We have a couple of tough engineering problems," the chief engineer added. "We're not quite sure yet why the trains seem to run better around 9 o'clock at night than any other time of day, and we've the problem of heat to work on. On hot summer days, there is enough expansion in the brass rails to cause some stickiness in the switches, and we have an occasional derailment. We are working on that."

Profits from Hobby.

Congratulating the young railroaders, Chairman Taylor asked where the profit was made.

"Well, said William Haverly Sr., "the boys aren't out on the streets every night nor out in somebody's flivver. Put that down to profit."

"Added to that," reflected Chairman Taylor, "you're raising good railroad men."

BEG YOUR PARDON

The name of John F. Bruen, 4520 West End avenue, was omitted from the list of graduates of De Paul university in last Sunday's metropolitan section. Mr. Bruen received his bachelor of science degree in commerce.

RAIL CHIEF LAUDS BOY'S HOBBY

PATROL BOYS TO AID WEST SIDE SAFETY DRIVE

To Get Prizes for Aiding Play Yard Contest.

Patrol boys of the west side have been invited to extend their activities to vacation-time safety by the West Area council of the Chicago Motor club, of which Judge Roy F. Nix of River Forest is chairman.

"To stimulate play yard construction," said Judge Nix, "we will appoint a selected number of patrol boys as play yard supervisors in their neighborhoods. They will aid parents plan the yards and make inspections for glass and other debris."

Judge Nix said each patrol boy would receive a camera with which to make "before and after" pictures of the yards where he is supervisor. At the end of the contest, Sept. 1, special prizes will be awarded to patrol boys with the best records of accomplishment.

Committees to Aid Drive.

Judge Nix has appointed committees to push play yard organization. Erwin Thoendel, Forest Park safety commission; Gary E. DeButts, Oak Park superintendent of public works; Thomas M. Filas, secretary of the Cicero Chamber of Commerce; C. William Soderlin, River Forest police chief; Emile O. Bloche of Oak Park, and Judge Louis Senese of Melrose Park, have agreed to supervise selection of the patrol boys.

The committee to advertise the campaign also has been selected. Members are Thomas F. McBreen, president of the Melrose Park Chamber of Commerce; O. F. Profant, secretary of the River Forest Chamber of Commerce, and Robert B. Crandall, prominent in civic affairs.

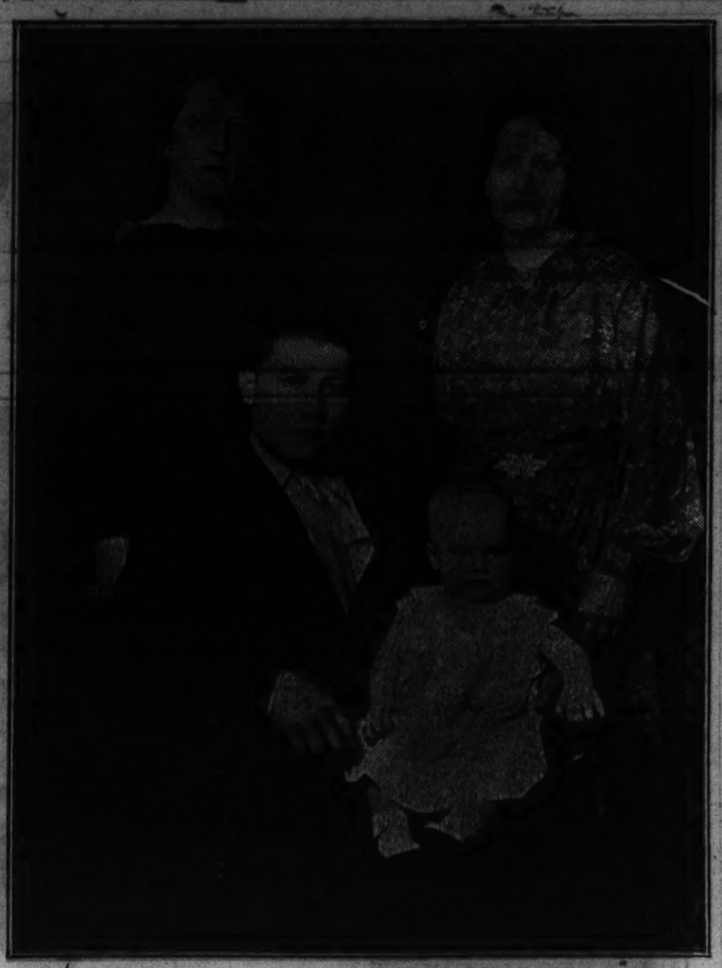
O. B. Balch, president of the Oak Park Coöperative club; R. H. Cooper, secretary of the Oak Park Chamber of Commerce, and Emile Bloche, council secretary, were delegated to obtain the support of local civic and business groups.

Seek Church Aid.

Judge Nix, O. F. Handke, director of the River Forest Chamber of Commerce, and George Stedronsky, president of the Cicero board of trustees, are members of a committee to work for play yards through churches and schools.

A play yard is a back yard or vacant lot equipped to provide recreation for children. The club has offered eight $20 merchandise certificates as prizes for the play yard equipment in Cook county—four for the best home-made devices and four for the best purchases. One award in each category will go to west side residents.

FOUR GENERATIONS



Four generations who gathered at the home of the youngest member, little Barbara Evelyn West, 5452 Le Moyne avenue, to celebrate her first birthday. Barbara is seated on the lap of her father, William Foster West Jr., Standing on the left is her grandmother, Mrs. William Foster West, 5515 Race avenue; while her great-grandmother, Mrs. William D. Carr, stands behind her. Mrs. Carr was a visitor from Scituate, Mass.

LA GRANGE MEN INVENT HIGHWAY SAFETY DEVICE

Reflecting Signal Warns of Trafic Approach.

Interest in trafic safety and inventive ability of two La Grange residents, Fred Gessler and Charles Scheel, have resulted in construction of a device which may become of universal use.

The warning signs recently were installed at a La Grange intersection unmarked by signals and have proved so effective in causing motorists to approach the corner with caution that those who have seen them work are enthusiastic over their success.

Safety Commission Head.

The light of an approaching car strikes the prismatic lens of the signs and is deflected in the form of a red light that warns drivers approaching the intersection at right angles from either direction. The lens is not visible to the car sending the signal.

Mr. Scheel is chairman of the La Grange safety commission, of which Mr. Gessler is a member. A year ago they began to discuss the need of a simple warning device which could eliminate night hazards at remote intersections.

Used Mirrors at First.

Experiments were made first with mirrors and then with prismatic glass lens which catch the light beams and reflect a red glow. The signs are placed near the curb at each of the four corners of a dangerous intersection, and the red glow is visible for an entire block.

When the signs were installed, their makers stationed themselves where their operations could be studied. Motorists, hurrying along the street, were slowed instantly by the red glow. If no car was approaching from another angle no signal was given and it was evident the coast was clear. Perfection of the device, which offered so many obstacles in its development, provided a thrill of achievement not only for the inventors but for their home community which has won national honors in safety campaigns.

'CANDID CAMEOS' ON AUSTIN BILL NEXT SATURDAY

Young Curtain Raisers in Annual Show.

The third annual presentation of "Candid Cameos," featuring three one-act plays, will be presented by the Curtain Raisers, young people's dramatic club, at 8:15 o'clock Saturday night at the Austin Town hall, Lake and Parkside avenues. Miss Mary Agnes Tynan, founder, will direct the production aided by Miss Frances Galgano.

MISS MARY TYNAN.
[Paul Stone-Raymor.]

Three individual groups will portray distinct types of early American drama, the first, "The Painted Heart," by players 9 and 11 years old. This cast includes junior members of the organization who have been studying for one semester.

The first play is a fantasy built around the fortunes of a princess who lost her heart and a prince who found it.

Melodrama of South.

The second play, "The Colonel's Carriage," represents the first attempt at melodrama by the intermediate group of players younger than 12 years who have been studying for two semesters. It is a story of intrigue and romance in a southern tavern on the eve of Gen. McClellan's advance towards Richmond during the civil war.

A comedy, "The Pot Boiler," will be given by the senior group. The cast includes members younger than 13 years who have been in the organization for three years. The play, by Alice Gerstenberg, is a satire on the old fashioned type of dramatic presentation.

The interlocutors will be Eileen Butler, club president, and Margaret Mary Whelan, secretary. The production will be interspersed with period and popular songs and dances under Miss Galgano's direction.

Director Writes Plays.

The organization has presented plays by Miss Tynan, "The Queen Was in the Parlor," "Alice in Wonderland," and "The Tea House of Sing Lo" in previous performances. The director instructs classes in speech at Presentation Grammar and Loretto and St. Mel High schools.

Players taking part are Eileen Butler, Regina McCann, Margaret Mary Whelan, Jean Kelly, Mary Mooney, Lorraine Burke, Margaret Walsh, Margaret Sheehan, Christine Calderone, Virginia Gearin, Catherine Tierney, Kathleen Hartnett, Betty Byrne, Mona Helen Kearns, Mary Mariani, Peggy O'Donnell, Patsy Lyons, and Beata Gough.

Ushers Club Dance.

The Ushers club of the Jewish Peoples' institute will give its fourth annual dance Saturday at the roof garden of the institute, 3500 West Douglas boulevard.

WILL WED TODAY

Miss Marietta Collett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred W. Collett of Hinsdale, whose marriage to Edward G. Conklin will take place this afternoon at 4 o'clock at St. John's Evangelical church, Hinsdale. After a honeymoon to Kentucky, the couple will reside in Hinsdale.

Young West Siders in "Candid Cameos"

The Curtain Raisers, young west side dramatists of 13 years of age or less, will present their annual production of "Candid Cameos" at 8:15 o'clock Saturday night at the Austin Town hall, Lake street and Parkside avenue. Miss Mary Agnes Tynan is in charge. The actors shown are, kneeling: Katherine Tierney, and, standing, left to right: Margaret Sheahan, Margaret Mary Whelan, Christine Calderone, Patsy Lyons, and Eileen Butler.

SEEK PWA GRANT FOR COLUMBUS DRIVE SUBWAY

George T. Donoghue, park district superintendent, was authorized by the park board last week to apply for a Public Works administration grant for the construction of a pedestrian subway beneath Columbus drive at 12th street. The subway cost is estimated at $100,000 by Ralph Burke, chief park engineer.

A pedestrian overhead passerelle was erected at that crossing during A Century of Progress by park officials and is still in use, but will be removed when the subway is completed, according to Mr. Burke. The subway will give access to the Grant park playing fields and extend southward toward the Field museum and Soldiers' field.

Since the subway will in all probability not be completed until fall, park district workmen are now repairing the passerelle for the use of summer crowds.

WEST SUBURBAN SCHOOLS PUBLISH TWO YEAR BOOKS

"Trojan," "Emblem" Stress Local Color.

Offering summer reading of particular interest to fellow students familiar with the contributors are "The Trojan," published at the end of the school year by the Downers Grove Community High school, and "The Emblem," literary magazine of J. Sterling Morton Junior college.

Writers of prose and verse apparently have been permitted to choose themes inspired by moods, regardless of setting, but much of the material deals with interesting local color. In "The Emblem," Harry Sklenar has written of the gypsy community on Harlem avenue and Pershing road, and Emily Sakala tells of suburban gardening.

Conversation in a neighborhood grocery store prompted the writing of a short story by Mary Helen Suchy, and Ruth Moulik describes her feelings "On Listening to a Sermon."

North Woods Setting.

Laura Tracy goes to the north woods for her short story setting. Genevieve Hatfield's story begins with 1875 and brings the episodes on down to the present time. Ruth Agate writes, "On Being Ridiculous"; Alice N. Tucker on "Tolerance," and Ervin Cermak on "Retreat from the Real."

Eugene Gosciewicz, who has long been interested in accident prevention, and is a member of the Cicero Safety council, has for his topic, "Youth Takes the Wheel." Lorraine Hanke has authored "Der Prediger und Hirten Stimme." Benjamin Borden has written the short short story.

Other contents include "Rural Humor," by Jack Yuccas; "Screeno," by Alice Swertfeger; "Fountain Pens I've Known," by Julia Shipla, and "The Sparrows Conference," by Margaret Stahl.

Poets Also Contribute.

The poets are Martha Cullum, Gilbert Liebenow, Laura Tracy, Olga Merenkob, and Genevieve Hatfield.

Twenty-three writers of verse and prose have contributed to the third anthology, sponsored by the Downers Grove High school chapter of Quill and Scroll. "Out of the Past," a story by Katheryn Rueber, leads the collection.

Bette Payne Staats proves herself the possessor of a distinct style in her two moods, "Easter in Church," and "Overheard at a Party." Don Warner writes of "Amateur Hour" on the radio. Equally modern is Robert Kendall's "Old Cars."

Finds Nearby Material.

Ruth Groves finds material close at hand in "Groves' Pool Parlor."

7 LITHUANIAN GROUPS TO HAVE PICNIC AT LISLE

One of the largest picnics ever sponsored by the seven United Lithuanian societies of Proviso township will be held today at Lisle grove, Lisle, according to an announcement by Joseph E. Galeski, general chairman.

Starting at 10 o'clock this morning, the outing will last late into the evening. Free dancing and games will provide entertainment.

Buses to the grove will leave 19th avenue and Lake street, Melrose Park, hourly from 11 o'clock in the morning until 3 in the afternoon.

FIRST, IMMANUEL CHURCH TO HAVE REUNION TODAY

Services Will Recall Early Memories.

During the early development of Chicago as an important trading center, typified by the decade of the 1860s, a familiar and picturesque sight was the old lumber schooner fleet sailing down from the northern ports of the Great Lakes into Chicago and then up river to the wharves to be unloaded.

Memories of the sailors of those days will be reviewed today during the observance of the 68th anniversary and homecoming of the First and Immanuel Methodist Episcopal church, Kimball and Wrightwood avenues, a church founded by Lake Michigan sailors.

The program will begin at 11 o'clock with an anniversary sermon by the Rev. Edward Evensen, district superintendent. The Rev. John J. Wang, pastor, will present a historical sketch of the organization. A reunion, to which the older members have been invited, will be held at 3 o'clock. It will be addressed by the Rev. Arthur D. Klontz, pastor of the Austin Methodist church.

The present church is a consolidation of two Scandinavian groups, the First Methodist Episcopal church, founded in 1868 in a building at Sangamon street and Grand avenue, and the Immanuel Methodist Episcopal church, founded 50 years ago at Huron and Bickerdike streets.

Present during the ceremonies today will be the Rev. Isaac Johnson, the first pastor of the Immanuel Methodist group and three sons of the Rev. J. H. Johnson, first pastor of the First Methodist congregation, Dr. Wilbur V. Johnson, Dr. J. E. Johnson, and Cyrus Johnson. Notes on the history of the church have been compiled by Miss Ovedia Jacobs, daughter of O. B. Jacobs, one of the founders.

THOMAS ERICKSON WINS SCHOLARSHIP TO YALE UNIVERSITY

Thomas Erickson, president of the class of 700 recently graduated from the Oak Park and River Forest High school, has been awarded the Great Lakes regional scholarship to Yale university. The region includes the states of Wisconsin, Michigan, Illinois, Indiana, and Ohio. Only one student is elected for the honor. The scholarship carries a stipend of $850 in the freshman year and $600 for each of the three succeeding undergraduate years.

CHICAGO SEEN AS FOUNT OF BEST IN RADIO COMEDY

New Teams Ready for a Smart Sponsor.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

There has been considerable wailing lately in radio columns both locally and from coast to coast to the effect that the well of radio comedy is running dry. The tenor of these reports usually is that all good radio comedians have come from the vaudeville stage and that sooner or later we shall tire of these fellows and damsels—and then what shall we do? Radio, they argue, has never developed any fun makers of its own.

The plain truth is that radio has produced much of the best comedy on the air. It happens that considerably more than a fair share of these laugh getters got their start in Chicago. If sponsors had more courage than they do [many preferring to flock to Hollywood and put on one more guest star show from the movie capital] they would discover that there are several exceptionally promising comedy acts on the air during the daytime in Chicago right now.

First one that comes to mind is Don McNeill and Gale Page who put on an exceptionally funny program titled "Morning at McNeill's" at 10:30 Thursday over WMAQ and NBC. This program might well be retitled "Mid-Night" or at least "Mid-Evening at McNeill's"; put on at an hour in keeping with the title, and it would be bound to develop an enthusiastic following. Sooner or later McNeill is going to get the break he deserves and then he will be hailed as a new comic discovery from coast to coast.

A Promising Trio.

Then there are Tom, Dick, and Harry. They sing well but when they get down to the business of tom [and Dick and Harry] foolery they are even better. Some time a sponsor is going to agree with our evaluation of this unit and then listeners from coast to coast will begin whooping it up for them. Their daytime audiences and those folks who could bear to tune out Major Bowes last winter when they were doing "Funnybone Follies" already know their potentialities as funny men. Young Henry Hoople, the Scandinavian dialect expert who worked with them, also turns out a lot of laughable stuff.

Chicago's Parade of Comedy.

Consider the comedians Chicago radio has contributed:

Amos 'n' Andy who will probably still be broadcasting when Joe Penner, Ken Murray, Milton Berle, and many of the jokesters from vaudeville are forgotten.

Clara, Lu, 'n' Em, on the air for five years during the morning and now ready to do their stuff for an evening audience from coast to coast.

Lum 'n' Abner, those homespun comedians from Arkansas who got their network start here, and are just now beginning to rake in the money from the vaudeville stage after years on the air.

Fibber McGee and Molly, a comic team that has developed an exceptional following after only one year on the air.

Kaltenmeyer's Kindergarten, a perennial favorite.

Uncle Ezra, who entertains a lot of folks with the antics of his little 5 watt transmitter down in Rosedale.

Goodman and Jane Ace, who launched their successful "Easy Aces" act here on W-G-N.

Rhymer a Good Writer.

"Vic and Sade" is another show that must be mentioned whenever radio comedy is under discussion. Though it has pathos, too, it owes much of its success to Paul Rhymer's delicate comedy.

"Vic and Sade" is fortunate in having a liberal sponsor. If it did not it is likely that Rhymer would be snapped up for movie writing. His humor is that gentle stuff for which Tarkington has so long been known. And it has some of the flavor of Eugene O'Neill in "Ah Wilderness," which made a plenty funny movie.

Sooner or later sponsors will begin to comprehend that comedy is much more than a recitation of old jokes, catch lines, and trade-marked voices. I think that radio already realizes that if comedians are to wear well prime attention must be given to the material.

The authors of the material are at least as important as the actors. Vic and Sade, Amos 'n' Andy, Lum 'n' Abner have a freshness and vitality that such comedians as Eddie Cantor, Ed Wynn, Phil Baker, and other purveyors of ancient wheezes lack.

WOR's Sad Experience.

A lot has been made of WOR's recent sad experience in connection with auditions held for new comedians. Hundreds of acts were heard, and when it was all over it was found that not a single prospect was unearthed. That was quite to be expected. Auditions for all kinds of talent are being conducted the year around at most studios. Few finished Lily Pons and Lawrence Tibbetts are discovered that way.

MUSIC HATH CHARMS TO SOOTHE—

The Three Bears hear a story (musical) from Vivian della Chiesa, young soprano who recently left CBS for an NBC buildup. Picture was taken at the Chicago Zoological gardens in Brookfield.

ALEX M'QUEEN NEXT GUEST ON 'HOUSE PARTY'

Alexander McQueen will bring his collection of amazing and amusing facts to the Friendly Neighbor's House Party as the special entertaining feature at 10 a. m. daily this week on W-G-N starting tomorrow. McQueen is the genial scholar who has delighted many a network audience with his human interest programs which feature "Nothing But the Truth." Some time ago McQueen got considerable publicity from a survey conducted in the interests of science, to determine why women close their eyes while being kissed. Also, McQueen, although a confirmed and contented bachelor, is the author of a popular book entitled "What to Name Baby."

ITURBI WILL BE FINAL SOLOIST ON KOLAR SERIES

José Iturbi, noted Spanish conductor and pianist, will be the guest soloist with the symphony orchestra and chorus conducted by Victor Kolar in Detroit and broadcast over the WBBM-Columbia network from 8 to 9 tonight. This program will bring to a close the present Sunday evening hour concert series.

Kolar will conduct the orchestra and chorus in the opening number, Luther's setting of Bach's majestic "Ein Feste Burg."

Tribune Headlines to Be Aired at 8:30 Tomorrow

The reading of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE and Quin Ryan's sports review will be presented tomorrow night at 8:30 o'clock. On other evenings this week except Saturday it will be heard at the usual hour 8 o'clock. The Saturday period has not been set.

On Quin Ryan's sports shots, heard seven minutes after the start of the program, Bob Elson will present Ralph Metcalfe, Negro track star, Larry Rosenthal, new outfielder with the Chicago White Sox and Chris Fitzgerald, Steward of the Illinois Racing commission during the week.

An Actress Turns Writer Just to Prove She Can

Mignon Schreiber, author of and "Momma" Fox in the "Foxes of Flatbush," never wrote anything in her life before this script about the Jewish family. It was a defensive move on her part. She was tired of being identified as Daisy Douglas of the Hoofinghams and conceived the idea of writing herself another character. Around the character of "momma" she built the entire Fox family.

Sherlock Holmes Mystery to Be Solved Saturday

The second episode of "Tight Written Will," one of the most famous of all Conan Doyle's short mystery tales, will be featured on next Saturday's "Sherlock Holmes" broadcast over W-G-N and the Mutual Broadcasting System. The first episode was heard last night.

Judge Padden Takes Over Trafic Court Broadcasts

While Judge John Gutknecht vacations in Spain, France, and Germany, Judge Frank Padden of the Municipal court will handle the WBBM Trafic court broadcasts.

PREVIEW TONIGHT OF DEMOCRATIC MEET ON W-G-N

Convention to Be Reported from Philadelphia.

The opening broadcast of the Mutual Broadcasting system's elaborate program for covering the Democratic national convention, which opens in Philadelphia this week, will be heard over W-G-N from 8:15 to 8:45 tonight. The broadcast, which will originate in Philadelphia, will be a preview of plans for the convention which begins on Tuesday.

Tomorrow at 8 p. m. another fifteen minute program will be heard over W-G-N and Mutual, in which experts who will report the convention will be heard.

The staf which broadcast the Mutual network's report of the Republican convention from Cleveland will be heard again this week. Quin Ryan, W-G-N's veteran broadcaster-reporter; Arthur Sears Henning, and Arthur M. Evans, CHICAGO TRIBUNE political experts, and Gabriel Heatter, WOR news comentator, will again be heard. In addition, Isabelle Manning Hewson, Floyd Neale, and Al Stevens also will be on hand.

The Mutual Broadcasting system will have two booths in the convention hall, the great Philadelphia Municipal auditorium, which has been redecorated and refitted for the convention. From the booths the announcers and special broadcasts by comentators will be heard. On the speaker's platform Gabriel Heatter will be seated beside a special microphone from which point he will introduce and interview nationally known leaders.

The Mutual network also will have facilities in both the Benjamin Franklin and Bellevue-Stratford hotels and some of the broadcasts will originate in FFIL, studios, the Mutual outlet in Philadelphia.

The convention broadcasts are expected to run through Friday, with sessions starting at 10:45 a. m. and 8:45 p. m. Tuesday and at 11:45 and 8:45 the succeeding days.

Saturday, at 7 p. m., the official notification speeches to the candidates will be made from Franklin field, the University of Pennsylvania's athletic field in Philadelphia, and the acceptance speeches by the candidates heard. These ceremonies will be broadcast by W-G-N-MBS.

Scaffold Robbers' Story Next on 'Titans' Series

The story of Andreas Vesalius, the 16th century scholar who robbed the scaffolds of their dead to study human anatomy, will be portrayed in the University Broadcasting Council's Titans of Science drama which will be broadcast at 9 Saturday evening over W-G-N and the Mutual network.

Vesalius, who was a pioneer in the field of comparative anatomy and anthropology, was hindered in his work by the superstitious ideas of his times. The current belief that the dead human body should not be dissected to discover its structure was a barrier to scientific investigation. Vesalius overcame this difficulty in obtaining bodies by cutting criminals down from the public gallows after they had been hanged.

Maud Muller Will Sing with M. L. Eastman Tonight

Maud Muller, mezzo-soprano, will sing "Roses of Picardy" and Nevin's "The Rosary" as her portion of the request program offered during the Edison Symphony at 9:30 tonight over WENR. Morgan L. Eastman is conductor of the orchestra and will lead the instrumentalists in "Song of the Volga Boatman," Godard's "Berceuse" from "Jocelyn," Toselli's "Serenade" and Strauss' "Blue Danube Waltz."

Old Fashioned Melodies on Music Box Program

A program of old fashioned music will be offered by Harold B. Carr, during his "Music Box Hour" over W-G-N and Mutual from 7:30 to 8 p. m. Wednesday. Miss Nina Paisley, the contralto who gave up teaching voice to join the Nation's station a short time ago, will be featured in the solo, "Songs My Mother Taught Me." Ellis Frakes, baritone, will offer his interpretation of "Carry Me Back to the Lone Praire."

SOPRANO

Margot Rebeil, W-G-N concert soprano, who is heard on the Tuesday evening concert programs.

POLISH PREMIER HAS RECORD FOR CLEAN-UP WORK

Skladkowski Militant in Drive on Squalor.

BY DONALD DAY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WARSAW. — [By Airmail.] — The Polish government, which the late Marshal Pilsudski established as a one party affair in 1926, has now become a government containing the representatives of several groups which still refuse to acknowledge any central authority. The Pilsudski Nonpartisan party has been dissolved and its members have organized themselves into conflicting cliques led by men who are ambitious to govern Poland on diverging political lines. In Warsaw political circles the new cabinet of Gen. Lucian Skladkowski is expected to function till next winter.

Gen. Skladowski is a hardboiled army officer who likes hard work. His chief ambition is to make Poland a clean country. Some years ago when he functioned as minister of the interior his cleanup campaign gave him much sympathetic notoriety and all Poland, with the exception of local health authorities, welcomed his exploits. Each Friday night the general stood before a map of Poland hung on the wall of his office and, closing his eyes and turning around he would stretch forth his finger until it touched the map. Then he ordered his chauffeur to take him to the nearest town to that point.

An all night drive over Poland's miserable roads was nothing for the general. He descended upon the town of his choice like a tornado. With his chauffeur's help he first visited all the local hotels and inns, taking beds apart, looking behind picture frames, and, if the place looked suspicious, even tearing off wallpaper searching for vermin.

In more than 90 per cent of his vermin raids he found what he was seeking. Whereupon he ordered the hotel to close its doors, sealed them himself, and hung up a large sign announcing that the hostelry was closed because of vermin and would remain closed until a thorough renovation had been completed. These excursions which continued over a period of six months forced hotel and innkeepers to clean up their premises.

Today the arrival of the general's automobile in a small town or village signalizes a panic. Untidy housewives fear him worse than a cross-eyed Gypsy. The Starastvo, the village chieftain, would prefer to encounter an outbreak of spotted typhus than to see him walking into his headquarters. But the general has done more than any single man to help clean up Poland.

Poland's large Ukrainian minority views the new premier with much misgiving. It was during his former period in office that the general ordered the pacification of the Ukraine to liquidate the reign of terror of the Ukrainian Revolutionary party. Two divisions of cavalry sacked many Ukrainian villages, committing atrocities which shocked Europe. The general supplants Premier Zyndram Koscialkowski, whose liberal policy succeeded in winning the support of the Ukrainian leaders for the Polish state.

The new Polish cabinet, which has even less popular support in Poland than preceding governments, is the result of a decision of General Inspector Edward Rydz-Smigly of the Polish army to take over control. Under the new Polish constitution in wartime not the president but the inspector general becomes commander in chief of the nation. In a speech which the Polish press declared to be the most significant political declaration since the death of Marshal Pilsudski, the general inspector declared that opposing cliques and parties must bury their differences and cooperate for the welfare of the Polish army and incidentally the Polish state.

Poland, he said, was flanked by two great powers governed by dictatorships aiming to develop their military strength. Poland must do the same and the need of a stronger army outweighed all other considerations. The only person in the Polish army who had a right to raise a voice in political discussion, he concluded, was himself. The new premier, Gen. Skladkowski, upon being sworn in while wearing his uniform, declared he was going to obey the orders of the inspector general.

Although Poland's new government is exclusively an army government there are two important generals to whom Rydz-Smigly addressed pointed warning in his speech. They are Gen. Wladyslaw Sikorski, who was Pilsudski's chief aid in winning the battle of Warsaw, and Gen. Joseph Haller, leader of the Polish American Legion in France. Both men are being kept on active duty in order to keep them subject to military discipline, but both are strong opponents of the Pilsudski putschists and the succeeding governments.

Warsaw was electrified when it became known that the British Consul General F. Savory, who has been stationed in Poland since the inception of the republic and a recognized authority on Polish affairs, gave a reception for Gen. Sikorski. Sir Howard Kennard, British ambassador to Poland, was present and the political situation was discussed. Sikorski was also recently entertained by Herr von Moltke, the German ambassador, and his activities are being closely watched by Rydz-Smigly. Sikorski represents the interests of the National Democratis whose leader is Paderewski, who recently joined forces with Vincent Witos, outlawed exile leader of the Peasant party, and Gen. Haller.

Rumors concerning the possible resignation of President Ignacy Moscicki, leaving Rydz-Smigly possessing dictatorial power continue to fill Warsaw. The able president has during the last year succeeded in preventing the intrigues and plots of the opposing factions from developing into an open conflict. At present Rydz-Smigly's most dangerous opponents are the older group of Legionnaires headed by Cols. Alexander Prystor, Walery Slawek, and Ignacy Matuszewski, who have been eased out of control of the government by the adroit maneuvers of the president. The colonels have announced themselves as the political heirs of Pilsudski and being his oldest collaborators their claim to be the real government of Poland is still to be fought out. Possibilities of new putsches are not excluded.

Little is known in Warsaw concerning the economic program which will be designed to help Poland enlarge her armaments. It is now being formulated. The government admits new taxation is out of the question and the possibility of floating another forced loan is also excluded. Poland's possibilities of obtaining financial help from abroad are meager. Just how the government intends to finance its program is a mystery. In Warsaw banking circles there is an impression that the gold backing of the currency will be decreased permitting a large emission of new money to cover government needs. The budget has been balanced by some fancy figuring but the deficit remains, although well hidden.

Beginning with the large government burocracy and including business men, peasantry, and deflowered politicians, dissatisfaction is widespread.

American official observers stationed in Warsaw see little hope for any improvement in either the internal political turmoil or the unhealthy economic situation. As one competent diplomat expressed it: "Conditions in general are going to get generally worse and worse and worse. Poland has not yet turned the corner."

NEW DE PAUL EDITORS

MISS MADELINE SCHAEFER.

CLIFFORD MACDONALD.

Miss Madeline Schaefer, 5000 West 22d place, Cicero, has been chosen as the 1937 editor of the De Paulia, De Paul university's weekly newspaper, and Clifford MacDonald, 307 North Central Park avenue, has been appointed editor of the 1937 De Paulian, annual publication of the university. Both will be seniors in the college of liberal arts and science next September.

SOPRANO

Miss Agnes Hoyer, 16 year old soprano, a student of Carl Schurz High school, who is entered in The Chicago Tribune Cook county west side vocal contest of the seventh Chicagoland Music Festival, which will be held beginning Thursday evening, July 30, at the Chicago Woman's Club theater. Miss Hoyer's father is pastor of the St. Stephen Evangelical Lutheran church.

PHILHARMONIC TO HIRE WINNER OF MUSIC FESTIVAL

Will Appear as Soloist on Aug. 25.

BY PHILIP MAXWELL.

RICHARD CZERWONKY.

In addition to appearing before 100,000 people in Soldiers' field at the seventh Chicagoland Music Festival concert to be held Saturday night, Aug. 15, the winning man of the festival vocal contest has been offered a paid contract to sing as soloist with the Chicago Philharmonic orchestra Aug. 25, in Grant park. The engagement is announced by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, sponsor of the annual festival, and is made possible by the orchestra director, Richard Czerwonky.

This is the second contract to be offered a festival winner. The victorious girl will be engaged by the Northern Trust company to sing with the Northerners, famed male octet, directed by Harry S. Walsh, on its W-G-N program Aug. 17.

An electrician, a recent amateur vocal contest winner, a 16 year old Carl Schurz High school student and a 20 year old contralto, who has been a contestant twice before will be heard at the Cook county west side competition, which will open Thursday evening, July 30, at the Chicago Woman's club, 72 East 11th street.

Won Third Place Last Year.

The mechanic is Roy Nelson, 40 years old, 5026 Lawrence avenue. He is married and says he likes to sing as a pastime. The young man, who already has tasted victory, is Harry Swanson, 26 years old, a baritone, of 2501 North Ballou street. He won first place a month ago at a contest sponsored by the United Swedish Singers of Chicago. Last year he won third place in the west side Tribune meet.

A pretty little Schurz student, Miss Agnes Hoyer of 2959 North Kenneth avenue, is the daughter of the Rev. A. J. Hoyer, pastor of the St. Stephen's Evangelical Lutheran church, and is a member of this choir which won third place in the recent Northwestern university competition.

Eager to Try Again.

Miss Ruth Anna Gauger, 914 North Pine avenue, is the girl who will try again. She says: "This will be my third contest, and although I have never won any place I think the experience is well worth the disappointment."

Evelyn Perry Aid Group to Give Dinner Wednesday

The Evelyn G. Perry Aid society, a northwest side club, will meet at 8 o'clock tomorrow evening at the Stevens hotel to make the final arrangements for the earning fund dinner which will be held on Wednesday evening in the continental room of the Stevens. Mrs. Florence I. Goldman has charge of arrangements.

FETE ARRANGED FOR 4TH OF JULY IN BROOKFIELD

Aerial bombs will start Brookfield's celebration on the morning of July Fourth, according to details recently worked out by the general committee of which James A. Marek is chairman. A parade at 10 o'clock will be followed by the dedication of Brookfield Kiwanis park.

The winning team in the Brookfield soft ball league contest held during the morning will be presented a trophy by A. A. Lokay. Picnics will be held at Kiwanis park.

The afternoon program provides for the dedication of a plaque by Spanish-American war veterans, contests sponsored by the Veterans of Foreign wars, and American Legion carnival features.

Spanish-American war veterans will hold a camp fire at Zahora's gardens and sponsor Santiago day exercises at Gross school.

Throughout the evening, the Legion carnival will be an attraction, and at 9 o'clock there will be a display of fireworks.

Thirty-five men have enlisted in the campaign to raise funds for the Naperville Community week, including a Fourth of July celebration, of which Mark Pickell is chairman. Five days of festivities are planned.

The Naperville celebration will include a swimming meet, a Mardi Gras, fireworks, and an amateur radio contest.

Symphony in Irving Park to Give Summer Concerts

Joseph Roesel, president of the Irving Park symphony orchestra, has announced that the association will present open air concerts on the grounds of the Irving Park Y. M. C. A. every Wednesday evening during the summer. The orchestra, directed by John M. Anderson, will appear in the first of the series. Later presentations will feature other music organizations of the community.

R. O. T. C. REPORT HITS 3 SCHOOLS ON WEST SIDE

Inadequate Facilities Are Listed in Survey.

Facilities of three west side public high schools were listed as "inadequate" for proper instruction of military science in the annual R. O. T. C. report to Superintendent of Schools William H. Johnson last week. Recommendations for improvements suggested in the report by Col. William F. Morrison, director, will be taken up by the board of education this summer.

Deficiencies in the respective schools in this area noted in the report are as follows:

HARRISON — Inadequate storage room for equipment. [The minimum is 20 by 25 feet.]

MARSHALL — Insufficient drill space [indoor space should be at least 50 by 50 feet, varying with the enrollment]; rifle range has no heat and no light.

McKINLEY—Insufficient facilities, although some improvement has been made; insufficient drill space; no classroom; no rifle range.

Colonel Morrison stated many of these deficiencies could be adjusted satisfactorily, and, in the case of complete lack of room, certain arrangements could be made. His second major recommendation deals with an increased personnel. At present, beside the five army officers acting in executive capacity, 27 enlisted men are assigned to duty.

Urges More Instructors.

The report stated that at least 35 enlisted men are necessary to instruct the cadets efficiently and requested an effort be made to obtain this increase. In this section, 1,289 in five units received instruction last semester from five enlisted men and one retired army man.

Col. Morrison's investigation revealed many of these men necessarily spent a good deal of time handling, distributing and managing equipment, the property of the board, which, as such, should be the responsibility of a person hired by the board. He recommended this situation be altered so instructors may devote their full time to classroom and field work.

A problem which will come up next year for the first time regards the enrollment of freshmen. The national defense act of 1919, and its subsequent modification, which provides for the present system of military training, prescribes that only second, third and fourth year students be allowed to enroll.

To Ban Freshmen.

With permission of army authorities, freshmen have been allowed to enroll the same as advanced students. This practice will be discontinued this fall, thus precluding the usual 3,000 incoming students from enrolling.

Further, though freshmen may be recruited and allowed to use government equipment, they cannot be issued uniforms. To remedy this, Col. Morrison suggested the purchase of these additional uniforms, comprising 40 per cent of the total, by the board.

Another difficulty confronting the R. O. T. C. administration here is obtaining enough textbooks.

"We are using the Bond Manual," the colonel said, "but have experienced considerable difficulties in obtaining enough of them. I would recommend the R. O. T. C. textbook be put on the list of textbooks to be obtained and issued the same as any other textbook.

Asks Uniform Instruction.

For more uniform instruction, the report asked that periods of instruction in all units be changed so that some standard can be attained. As it is, there are seven corps which receive training but three days a week whereas the others meet five days a week.

The colonel also urged two changes in the relationship of the R. O. T. C. band to the marching unit. He claims several bands are too large in proportion to the size of the entire unit. This means too many uniforms of the school's allotment are given to band members, thus restricting the size of the complementary unit.

The other situation is that of the neglect of military instruction to band members.

"At some schools," he said, "the band reports to the military instructor for one or more periods a week, and I would like to see this system tried in all schools."

To Improve Efficiency.

This, while not preventing the regular band leader from giving the usual instruction, will bring the band more up to par with the rest of the unit in military efficiency.

In concluding his report, Col. Morrison added that:

1. Should any new units be added to the system, inspections should be made and proper facilities prepared prior to the installation of the unit.

2. In any new construction where it is possible R. O. T. C. instruction may be installed, proper provision therefor should be made in the plans.

3. In view of the shortage of instructional personnel, I recommend that R. O. T. C. instruction be discontinued in the branch schools.

The enrollment in the city last semester reached 7,456 in the public schools whereas the authorized enrollment was 8,370.

These dealers offer a large selection of stamps, from beginners' packets to complete sets and entire collections. Look for this column in Sunday's Chicago Tribune!

GARDEN LIGHTING GLORIFIES DRAB HOME ENVIRONS

Outdoor Illumination Is Inexpensive.

BY LOUISE BARGELT.

Our home lighting shows signs of traveling out and around our houses this summer! So if we are not entirely absorbed in building a new house or watching the marvels of plastic and structural surgery being performed on our old house we may be moved to consider in what small and divers ways we can make our gardens and shrubbery and paths and pools as colorful by night as they are by day.

It is only recently, indeed, that garden lighting has caught the imagination and become a possibility for the owner of a moderate priced home.

A few years ago garden lighting was confined to festive occasions when we sought to light our outdoors by stringing Japanese lanterns on wires and letting them sway feebly or furiously, as the wind dictated, above our terraces and lawns.

New Practical Units.

Now we use such practical units as flood lights, reflectors, and shields, with a foundation of such utilitarian items as weatherproof sockets, wires, and cables. But the feats performed by this array of drab looking equipment—which, incidently, need not be at all expensive—are all out of proportion to the costs and efforts involved. Almost magical feats they are, for they turn our simplest garden and garden spots into quite enchanting night pictures.

Every home owner knows his own outdoor space best. He knows which points are good and which are less attractive, and which flowering plant or shrub or garden corner has the most appeal. Naturally he will want a soft night light to play on the most effective spots. And no bird house or lily pool, arbored retreat, pergola, or trellis should be overlooked in considering strategic points for the outdoor lighting plan.

If a home owner is electrically minded and has a talent for doing things himself he should be able to make a successful installation of some night time illumination. That is, of course, if the scheme is kept simple and no elaborate plan is contemplated.

Soft Lighting Best.

The first summer a home owner indulges himself and family in a bit of the "illuminated outdoors" he probably will do a great deal of experimenting. Which is really quite easy to do since lighting methods are usually flexible and the present outdoor units are portable and easily moved from one part of the yard to another.

First of all there must be one or more outside outlets. These can be in the house wall, or the garage, or in some wood or concrete blocks on the ground. Wires can be taken from the light current in the house and run out to the lawn and gardens overhead or underground. [If a home owner is doing this work himself he should consult some local electrical expert in regard to community rulings on electrical wiring. Different localities have their different requirements!]

Next comes the selection of the outdoor equipment.

The most satisfactory lighting for the average sized garden and lawn will be a soft, concentrated lighting on one or more strategic garden points.

Reflectors Stop Glare.

Besides these flood lights there are various types of garden light fixtures and ornaments. Some of these are inexpensive little metal reflectors in the shape of birds and flowers and tiny animals. These hide the source of the light and eliminate any glare.

If one is building a pool in the yard this summer he can give it an under water outlet at the time of construction. However, if a pool is already built a rubber cord can be let down into the water and the lamp hidden from view by a lily pad. Under water lighting is by far the most effective night illumination for a pool, though it is quite possible to let the light shine down on the water from a nearby tree or shrub.

Pathways and steps can come in for their share of after dark radiance by light thrown on them from a concealed projector standing near them. Or a soft, low light can be cast along the walk by a little hole hollowed out in some low post and a lamp placed in the niche.

Different shades of bulbs create different light effects. A daylight blue bulb will give an effect of daylight. A blue green bulb will give a moonlit glow. Pale blue and pale green or white will cast a faintly mysterious light. When it comes to the under water lighting of a pool, however, several gay colors can be used to create quite brilliant and sparkling effects.

There are weeks and months ahead for outdoor living when our terraces will serve as outdoor living rooms and our back yards as picnic grounds, with a rustic grille, perhaps, for a fireplace. Once we learn the few simple rules for some outdoor lighting we will be adding not only to the beauty of our house grounds but to their usefulness as well!

Mrs. Bargelt will speak over W-G-N next Wednesday at 2:15 p. m.

OAK PARK BUILDERS ORDER WILL INSTALL NEW LEADERS FRIDAY

Wayne A. Langston will be installed master builder of Oak Park chapter, No. 69, Order of the Builders at a meeting Friday night at the Oak Park Masonic temple.

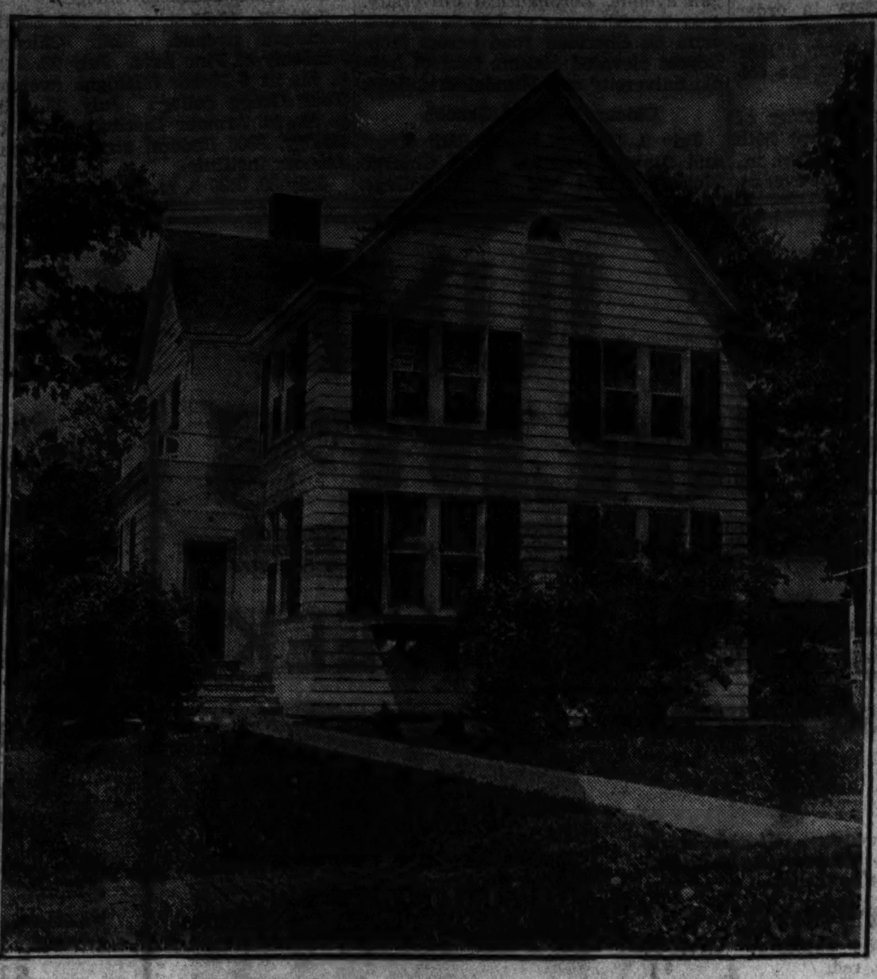
Thomas H. Wilson, retiring master builder, will turn the gavel over to Horace A. Langston, grand installing master builder, for the ceremonies.

Other officers to be installed are Edward G. Swenson, deputy master builder; John G. Langston, senior inspector; Donald S. Auten, junior inspector; Robert Wolff, secretary; Frank J. Kriz, treasurer; Edward T. Gardner Jr., senior overseer; Herman Becker, junior overseer; Robert Seeger, chaplain; James Eadie Jr., marshal; Robert Perkins, first steward; Richard Gross, second steward; Harold Reimer, third steward; Richard Seeger, fourth steward, and Loren Sayre, sentinel.

G. C. Swenson will head the advisory council of the chapter for the coming term.

COMPLETE TRANSFORMATION

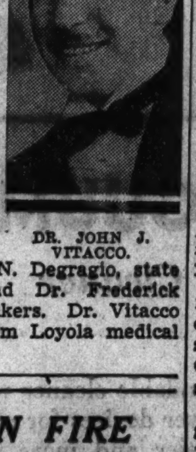


No remote resemblance does this new, two apartment home bear to its predecessor, which is shown in the accompanying illustration. Yet the two structures are fundamentally one and the same. For now this is the two family residence of Harvey Drew, 1420 Middaugh avenue, Downers Grove. Architect for the modernization, Harold Zook, 140 South Dearborn street. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Seeing is believing! Here is the Drew home before its recent change into a dwelling which contains two six room apartments. The architectural embellishments of thirty years ago were removed. The exterior was given new cypress siding, painted white, and new composition roof. The interior received many structural changes.

FRIENDS WILL FETE DR. JOHN J. VITACCO AT DINNER-DANCE

A dinner dance in tribute to Dr. John J. Vitaco, 1216 West Erie street, who recently completed his internship at the Garfield and Cook County hospitals, will be given by his friends Saturday night at the Hotel Sherman. Judge Francis Allegretti will be toastmaster, and Dr. Louis D. Morhead, dean of Loyola university school of medicine; Miss Florence Towne, superintendent of the Erie Chapel institute; Joseph N. Degragio, state representative, and Dr. Frederick Jirka will be speakers. Dr. Vitacco was graduated from Loyola medical school in 1933.



DR. JOHN J. VITACCO.

SUBURBAN FIRE FIGHTERS GROUP NAMES OFFICERS

Edward Mersh, assistant chief of the Evanston fire department, was installed as president of the Cook County Suburban Firemen's association at a recent meeting in Mount Prospect.

Other new officers are: Henry Bucher, chief of the Northbrook fire department, vice president; H. H. Miller, Park Ridge, secretary, and Charles Ladendorf, chief of the Glenview fire department, sergeant at arms. Presiding over the meeting was Chief James Young of the Chicago Fire Insurance patrol. The retiring president is Chief Wesley Comfort of Palatine.

218 POUND CAKE FEATURES RIVER FOREST FESTIVAL

Among the memories of River Forest's recent centennial celebration is the birthday cake, with 100 candles, which was tasted by hundreds of villagers and visitors on the closing night of the week's festivities.

The golden loaf cake, two and a half feet in diameter, three feet high, and weighing 218 pounds, was the gift of Frank and Eugene Leonardi, who held open house at their Lake street store.

The cake, patterned after a birthday cake once designed for Queen Elizabeth, with white frosting and pink and green decorations, took two days to bake.

Miss Mary Murphy, oldest living native resident of the village, and her twin sister, Mrs. Anna Hight of Oak Park, did the official cutting.

Among the thousand guests, who partook of the confection were John L. Brink, village president; Oscar P. Wodack, village trustee; Knox Burno, member of the school board and chairman of the local safety commission; Judge Roy F. Nix, Judge Hugh G. Gardner, and William Soderlin, superintendent of police.

Housewives interested in the ingredients of the cake were informed the recipe included 35 pounds of sugar in the frosting, while in the main body of the cake there were 52 dozen eggs, 49 pounds of sugar, 50 pounds of creamery butter, and one pint of vanilla.

While pageants and music festivals and athletic contests played their part in the sort of a birthday party that comes but once in a century, River Forest folk expressed the opinion it was the birthday cake that lent the last needed touch to make the anniversary a real success.

COUNTRY TOWNS GROUP PROPOSES NEW TAX METHOD

Urges Advance Test of Levies' Legality.

The proposal for changing the present method of levying taxes so that municipal and district appropriation and tax levy ordinances will be passed upon by the courts before they go into collection, was discussed at the recent annual meeting of the Suburban Area and Country Towns Association of Cook County at the Oak Park Municipal building.

The association believes that correction of technical defects of taxes before they go into collection, will benefit all taxpayers.

Present Method Unfair.

At present, it was pointed out, objections to municipal taxes are made only at the time property is offered for sale for delinquent taxes. An objection held valid benefits only those property owners who have refused to pay their taxes and who have made similar objections. Those who pay promptly without protest receive no refund, even though the court finds that the tax they were required to pay was invalid.

Many tax objections, it was further explained, are based on technicalities which might easily be remedied if the court hearing were held sufficiently early.

For example, the levy of one city for the police and fire departments recently was held invalid because it did not specify what amounts were to be used for salaries and what for equipment. The city had no chance to remedy the technical defect, and the objecting taxpayer escaped his share of the expense of maintaining the services although other property owners paid.

Officers of Association.

James A. Howe, president of Oak Park, is president of the association; Thomas A. Matthews of River Forest, is executive secretary; Mayor Charles Hussey of Forest Park, treasurer, and Jacob Dittus of Maywood, secretary.

Members of the executive committee for the western suburbs are John L. Brink, River Forest; Curt Krauser, Maywood; Joseph Cerny, Cicero; Anton Janura, Berwyn; H. M. Taylor, Dr. S. S. Fuller and Harry L. Brundage, Riverside; Leo Chulock, Maywood; W. B. Ross, Oak Park, and E. J. Thiele, Hillside.

MAYWOOD GROUP PLANS $50,000 EXPANSION DRIVE

Under way in Maywood is the organization of the Greater Maywood association with 500 paid memberships and a $50,000 expansion drive as the goal.

Preliminary plans have included selection of a manager, who will be established in headquarters and assume the administrative duties of the association.

Five major objectives are the bringing of a bank to the suburb with a 28,000 population, which has been bankless since 1932; a program of retail expansion, the erection of a community house, regulation of solicitors and peddlers, and the building of a commercial hotel.

Business men active in organizing the association are Donald Curtis, chairman, Frank Davies, C. N. Frees, George D. Miller, Sidney Rosenberg, Walter Forschall, Milton Sebastian, Joseph H. Strutzel, A. W. Powers, Elbert Hey, and R. N. Sager.

Enthusiasm for the association was aroused at a recent meeting which was addressed by N. J. Zeiner, business manager of the Kankakee Chamber of commerce. Mr. Zeiner pointed out that Proviso township presented a ripe field for expansion of businesses and industries.

ALPHA KAPPA PSI TO INITIATE TEN AT N. U. SUNDAY

Gamma chapter of Alpha Kappa Psi, professional commerce fraternity at Northwestern university, will initiate ten men next Sunday at its chapter house, 1250 Lake Shore drive, Chicago. Edmund Janssens, master of rituals, will conduct the ceremony. Those to be inducted are John F. Bonaker, Harold Carlstead, Fred Clement, George Du Casse, James Gibson, Alfred Hellscher, Fred La Force, William Norton, Edward O'Hara, and Elmer Smith.

ENGAGED

Miss Virginia C. Lutz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Lutz of Maywood, whose engagement to Leonard Schneider of Maywood, recently was announced. The wedding will be July 11.

CICERO CHAPTER OF BUILDERS TO INDUCT LEADERS

Robert Brouk to Take Master's Office.

Semi-annual installation of officers will be held by the Cicero chapter, No. 12, Order of the Builders, at 8 o'clock tomorrow night at the Cicero Masonic temple, 2525 South Austin boulevard, Cicero. George Stedronsky, town president, will be the principal speaker.

The officers to be installed are: Robert Brouk, master builder; Richard Hackbarth, deputy master builder; George Hradecky, senior inspector; Raymond Kastl, junior inspector; Robert Hackbarth, secretary, and Miles Cerny, treasurer.

Others are Raymond Donat, senior overseer; Frank Boker, junior overseer; Ray Moldt, chaplain; Joseph Sefcik, 1st steward; Lawrence Kastl, 2d steward; William Jansky, 3d steward; William Uher, 4th steward; Michael Hrivnak, marshal; Edward Farr Jr., sentinel, and George Rott, organist.

Members of the advisory council to be installed are Ernest Moldt, chairman, and John E. Carlander, William N. Jannenga, Anthony Mottel, Anthony C. Konopasek, James W. Silhanek, Jerome L. Rada, Edward Rund, and Edward Farr Sr.

The ceremonies will be conducted by the following past master builders of the Cicero chapter: William J. Palach, grand installing master builder; Anthony J. Krofta, grand installing marshal; Jerome T. Dusek, grand installing secretary; Myles F. Jirsa, grand installing chaplain, and Edward Randa, grand installing organist.

MAYWOOD LEGION HEADS TO SHARE BONUS WITH POST

Pledge Donations to Pay on Clubhouse Debt.

Part of their bonus was pledged toward the payment of bonds on the Legion clubhouse by several officers and members of Maywood post, No. 133, of the American Legion, in a recent meeting. Interest payments on the bonds never have been defaulted, and each year some of the bonds have been retired.

Maywood post, with village officials and the chamber of commerce, is planning a Fourth of July celebration to be held at the Proviso stadium. Harvey Mayer is chairman of the committee arranging for the post's annual summer festival.

Tomorrow night, the post will celebrate Flint night, honoring three members, George O. Flint and his two sons, E. M. Flint and D. G. Flint.

Fried chicken, homemade cakes, ice cream and all the delicacies to which children look forward in connection with a picnic will be on their way to Normal today as members of the American Legion, the auxiliary, the 40 and 8 and the 8 and 40 make their annual pilgrimage to provide an outing for nearly 900 world war orphans at the Illinois Soldiers and Sailors' home.

All the organizations are donating provisions and prizes, and their officials will be on hand to aid in the outing. The Cook County auxiliary will prepare and serve dinner for the annual department project.

Another exodus will be made by Junior Legionnaires and boys' groups sponsored by Legion posts and auxiliaries for Springfield, to attend the second annual Boys' State.

The second divisional child welfare conference of the auxiliary will be held Wednesday morning at the Methodist church in De Kalb, with Dr. Beatrice Hawkins, second divisional chairman, presiding.

The first of the preliminaries in the "Queen of the Great Lakes" contest in connection with the Fourth of July celebration to be held at Soldier's field under the auspices of the Cook county council of the American Legion is scheduled for the west side on June 30. First to enter in the contest from the west side was Miss Rosemary Ryan, 4117 West Harrison street, and Miss Eva Snell of Lombard.

Awards in the contest include a cash prize of $100 and a seven day lake cruise with all expenses paid. Semi-finals in the contest are scheduled for July 2, and the finals for July 3. Decision of the judges will be anounced at the July Fourth program.

HONOR STUDENT

Miss Blanchann Fraser, formerly of La Grange, was graduated with first honors last week from Belhaven college, Jackson, Miss. Miss Fraser received the trustee's medal annually given to the graduate with the highest scholastic average. Chosen as the most intellectual student, she has been awarded a fellowship by the University of Iowa, where she will do graduate work in mathematics next year.

Dr. Goddard to Preach in St. Luke's This Morning

Dr. Irvine Goddard, rector of Emmanuel church in La Grange and rural dean of the Chicago West deanery of the Episcopal church, will preach at 11 o'clock today at St. Lukes pro-cathedral in Evanston. He is exchanging pulpits for the day with Dean Gerald Moore.

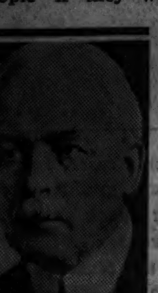
DR. R. A. WHITE QUITS AS LIBERAL CHURCH PASTOR

Noted Civic Leader Held Post 44 Years.

BY BERNICE CRANSTON.



DR. R.A. WHITE.

"A wonderful world of wonderful people—if they would only behave themselves," is the conclusion Dr. R. A. White, whose retirement last Sunday concluded a 44 year tenure of the pastorate of the People's Liberal church in Englewood, has reached after some 50 years' observation of and participation in community, national, and international affairs.

Citing war—from which the only gains are debts and graves—as an example, he marvels at the foolishness of human behavior, the sole blot on the escutcheon of creation. His prescription for a perfect world is universal adoption of Christ's precept "love thy neighbor as thyself" and of the golden rule, "do unto others as you would be done by."

Dr. White's experience at the front in 1918 as civilian observer and correspondent for the Chicago Journal confirmed his pacifism. But, he explains, it is not of the variety that would refuse to fight in defense of his country and his flag. The league of nations he dismisses as a "mutual admiration and charming debating society" and believs world peace can be accomplished only through education of the people.

To Aid Republicans.

He expects to devote a part of his leisure to that cause. Of more importance is the help he will give the Republican party in its national campaign this fall. He is eloquent in praise of its platform, its candidates, and, particularly, the new chairman of the national committee, John Hamilton.

Dr. White's life, which has taken him to practically every country in the world, had its beginning in the lumber woods of northeastern Pennsylvania. Here he learned to drive a team of oxen, to break steers, and to "spud" the bark off hemlock logs.

He graduated to the carpentry trade and mastered it so well he earned his way through an exclusive preparatory school by remodeling its interior.

Taught Country School.

Next he taught a country school, his pupils ranging from beginners to a boy who studied Latin and algebra. The principal object of them all was to make difficulties for their teacher. One black eye is all Dr. White remembers, but he expected worse the day he was struggling with his largest pupil and looked up to see his older brother coming in for a visit. But the brother helped the teacher and together they subdued the recalcitrant pupil.

These experiences behind him, he entered Tufts college and was graduated from the divinity school in 1884. As to his decision to enter the ministry, he says he was probably influenced by a friend who was a Universalist minister, continuing with "I had no heredity leanings toward piety, and some say I have never manifested any."

Married in 1886.

Upon his graduation he went to the Universalist church in Newton, Mass., where he served eight years, coming to Chicago in February, 1892. While conducting services one summer at a Maine resort he met Louisa Brooks of Boston, whom he married in 1886 and whom he characterizes as his "better three-fourths."

A few years after accepting the Chicago pastorate he found the neighborhood Universalists were scattered and decided the church could best serve the community by becoming nondenomination, which it did as soon as organization could be completed. It chose the name, People's Liberal church, and Dr. White endeavored to give it its full meaning.

Should his opinion, as expressed in the pulpit, seem to differ from that of the congregation he would invite disputants to wait after services in the "fighting corner" and thresh out the questions to every one's satisfaction.

Interested in Politics.

Dr. White has been keenly interested in civic problems and political controversies. He was quoted widely in the newspapers, and an envelope in THE TRIBUNE files is bulging with clippings and pictures pretaining to his activities.

For five years he was a member of the board of education, and for fourteen years he gave travel lectures every Sunday afternoon at the Medinah temple. So popular were these talks he gave each lecture three times to capacity crowds of more than 4,000.

He may continue the series now, but beside his work for the two causes already named, Dr. White expects to enjoy a well earned vacation. He will spend a part of it in leisurely motor trips, but the most of it in the garden of his Beverly Hills home and watching the hundreds of birds he has "put on the dole," having utterly destroyed their ambition until they are too lazy to look for a worm, but wait for him to dig one.

SENIOR IN LAW

MISS GRACE C. KEANE.

[Swisher Photo.]

Miss Grace C. Keane, daughter of Alderman and Mrs. Thomas P. Keane, 2935 Augusta boulevard, and a sister of Senator Thomas E. Keane, will be graduated from the John Marshall Law school on Thursday. Miss Keane is secretary of the senior class, associate editor of the Abstract, the official year book, and a member of Kappa Beta Pi, legal sorority.

REMEMBER! Even a tiny tot sometimes needs a laxative. But be careful of his delicate system, say baby specialists ... Give him only the laxative that's mild and safe enough for his infant system—Fletcher's Castoria.

MOTHERS

1. Doctors say a bad-tasting laxative can throw a child's entire system out of order.

2. Doctors say a laxative made for an adult can be too harsh for a child's sensitive system.

3. Millions of mothers say Fletcher's Castoria is the safest laxative for children. It's gentle—yet thorough. Contains no harsh purging drugs, no narcotics.

4. Made especially for children from babyhood to 11 years. Buy the Family-Size Bottle—and save money. The signature Chas. H. Fletcher appears on every bottle.

"Give me this breakfast any June day"

SAYS

ROCHELLE HUDSON

"Here's my recipe for perking up an appetite on warm June mornings," says this lovely screen star. "First, a glass of orange and lemon juice, chilled real cold. Then a bowl of crisp Quaker Puffed Rice with strawberries. Next comes a sweet roll, heated in the oven and a cup of well-made hot chocolate."

Serve this tempting breakfast to your family tomorrow morning. Your grocer has all the ingredients you need.

DIGESTS FASTER!

QUAKER PUFFED RICE HAS THE SPEEDY DIGESTIBILITY SO IMPORTANT TO BUSY PEOPLE IN THESE HIGH-TENSION TIMES. "SHOT FROM GUNS," EACH GRAIN EXPANDS 8 TIMES NATURAL SIZE AND FOOD CELLS BURST OPEN TO ABSORB DIGESTIVE JUICES QUICKLY. COMPARE THESE TWO FINE BREAKFASTS:

BREAKFAST I.
QUAKER PUFFED RICE
COFFEE
BREAKFAST II.
BACON AND EGG TOAST
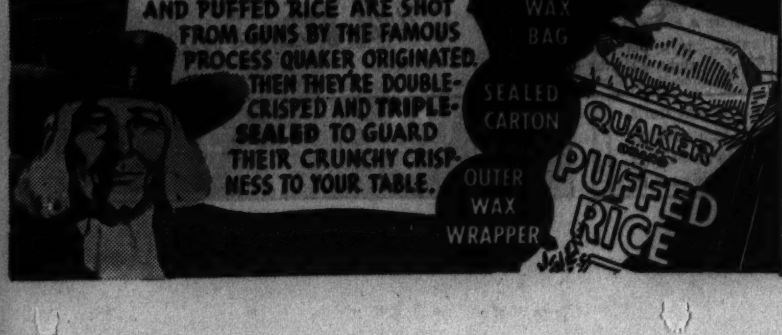
COFFEE

THIS QUAKER PUFFED RICE BREAKFAST WAS DIGESTED IN THE STOMACH 45 MINUTES FASTER THAN BREAKFAST NO. II, ACCORDING TO TESTS MADE BY DR. PAUL G. DICK, CHICAGO.



BOTH QUAKER PUFFED WHEAT AND PUFFED RICE ARE SHOT FROM GUNS BY THE FAMOUS PROCESS QUAKER ORIGINATED. THEN THEY'RE DOUBLE-CRISPED AND TRIPLE-SEALED TO GUARD THEIR CRUNCHY CRISPNESS TO YOUR TABLE.

Boys! Girls! 3 marvelous new Pabst-ett Gifts FREE

GET YOURS NOW

CLIFF CONDIT
Auto Gyro Flyer says:

1
ROCKET GYRO
"Absolutely new—combination of a rocket and gyro. Released by a sling, the rocket is hurled through the air at amazing speed—up—up—up—sometimes 15 stories high or more—guided by two flexible fins. Then, as it turns toward earth the fins open like autogyro blades—spin, and carry the rocket gently to the ground like a parachute. For rocket gyro and sling, complete, send 2 main top labels from Pabst-ett packages—or 1 label and 5c."

3
FLYING ROCKET SHIP
Spectacular looking—a sensational performer. The Flying Rocket Ship is the most unusual flying model ever offered! It is absolutely new—invented and manufactured solely for this Pabst-ett offer. A masterpiece of aeronautical engineering—more advanced than the latest types of big ships. Comes knocked down for shipping—only six parts that can be assembled ready to fly in 15 minutes. Send 4 Main Top Labels from Pabst-ett Packages—or—Send 2 Labels and 10c.

COME UP AND SEE ME SOMETIME

MAGIC TALKING STRING
Positively spooky—a string that actually talks words—clearly, understandably—sounds like a human being. Slip string through an empty Pabst-ett package (for sounding box) and run your thumbnail the length of cord. You'll be amazed at what you hear. Mystify your friends with the talking string. Choice of 3 different sentences: (a) "Go climb a tack." (b) "Come up and see me sometime." (c) "Hello sweetheart." Be sure to say which sentence you want (a), (b), or (c). Send 2 main top labels from Pabst-ett packages—or 1 label and 5c. For all 3 strips send 5 labels or 3 labels and 10c.

1 ROCKET GYRO
2 MAGIC TALKING STRING
3 FLYING ROCKET SHIP

ALL 3 FREE... simply for trying Pabst-ett, the delicious cheese food... different and better than anything you've ever tried before. Pabst-ett tastes wonderful in sandwiches—creamy, rich and luscious. And you'll go for that swell cheese flavor in hot cooked dishes. But the important thing is that Pabst-ett not only tastes good—but is good for you. A nourishing, muscle-and-bone-building food that gives you plenty of pep. So in taking advantage of this generous free offer you not only get a handsome gift—but a wonderful, new taste thrill in Pabst-ett. To get these gifts free—simply send the required number of Pabst-ett labels (to prove you've given Pabst-ett a good trial) together with your name and address on the coupon below or any other piece of paper. State what gifts you want and send to Pabst-ett Corporation, P.O. Box 1467, Chicago, Ill.

Rocket Body of Genuine Molded Buckram
24-Inch Wing Spread

BOBBY STAGES A COME BACK
—and makes the base ball team
HERE COMES BOBBY AND IT'S PLAIN HE DIDN'T MAKE THE TEAM. GUESS HE LACKS GRIT.
NONSENSE! HE'S GOT SPUNK ENOUGH TO TRY! HE JUST ISN'T STRONG. I'M GOING TO ASK DR. THORNWALDER.
NEXT DAY AT THE DOCTORS
BOBBY JUST NEEDS BUILDING UP. TRY GIVING HIM PABST-ETT SANDWICHES AFTER SCHOOL--AND IN COOKED DISHES AT MEALTIME.
SAY, I'LL BET THAT'S WHY BUTCH JEGER IS SO STRONG. HE EATS PABST-ETT AND SAYS IT TASTES LIKE A MILLION BUCKS.
WELL, PABST-ETT CERTAINLY SHOULD HELP-- IT'S RICH IN NOURISHMENT AND A FINE ENERGY FOOD. AS A MATTER OF FACT IT IS EVEN MORE DIGESTIBLE THAN MILK OR EGGS. IT EVEN HELPS DIGESTION OF OTHER FOODS* EATEN WITH IT.
GOLLY, MOM, DR. THORNWALDER SURE HAD THE RIGHT DOPE ON PABST-ETT. THE COACH SAYS I'M BETTER EVERY DAY.
FINE, SON. I HARDLY KNOW YOU WITH ALL THIS NEW PEP -- WE'LL NEVER BE WITHOUT IT AGAIN.

IMPORTANT! If your mother knows these facts about Pabst-ett she'll buy all you want so you can get the labels for your gifts—show this to her! Pabst-ett is:

1. Recommended by leading doctors as an excellent food for children.
2. A nourishing cheese food that digests even faster than milk or eggs!
3. A teeth and bone-builder because extra calcium (from milk) has been added.
4. A good protein food (like meat) that builds strong tissue and muscles.
5. Rich in vitamin A (as in cod liver oil and spinach).

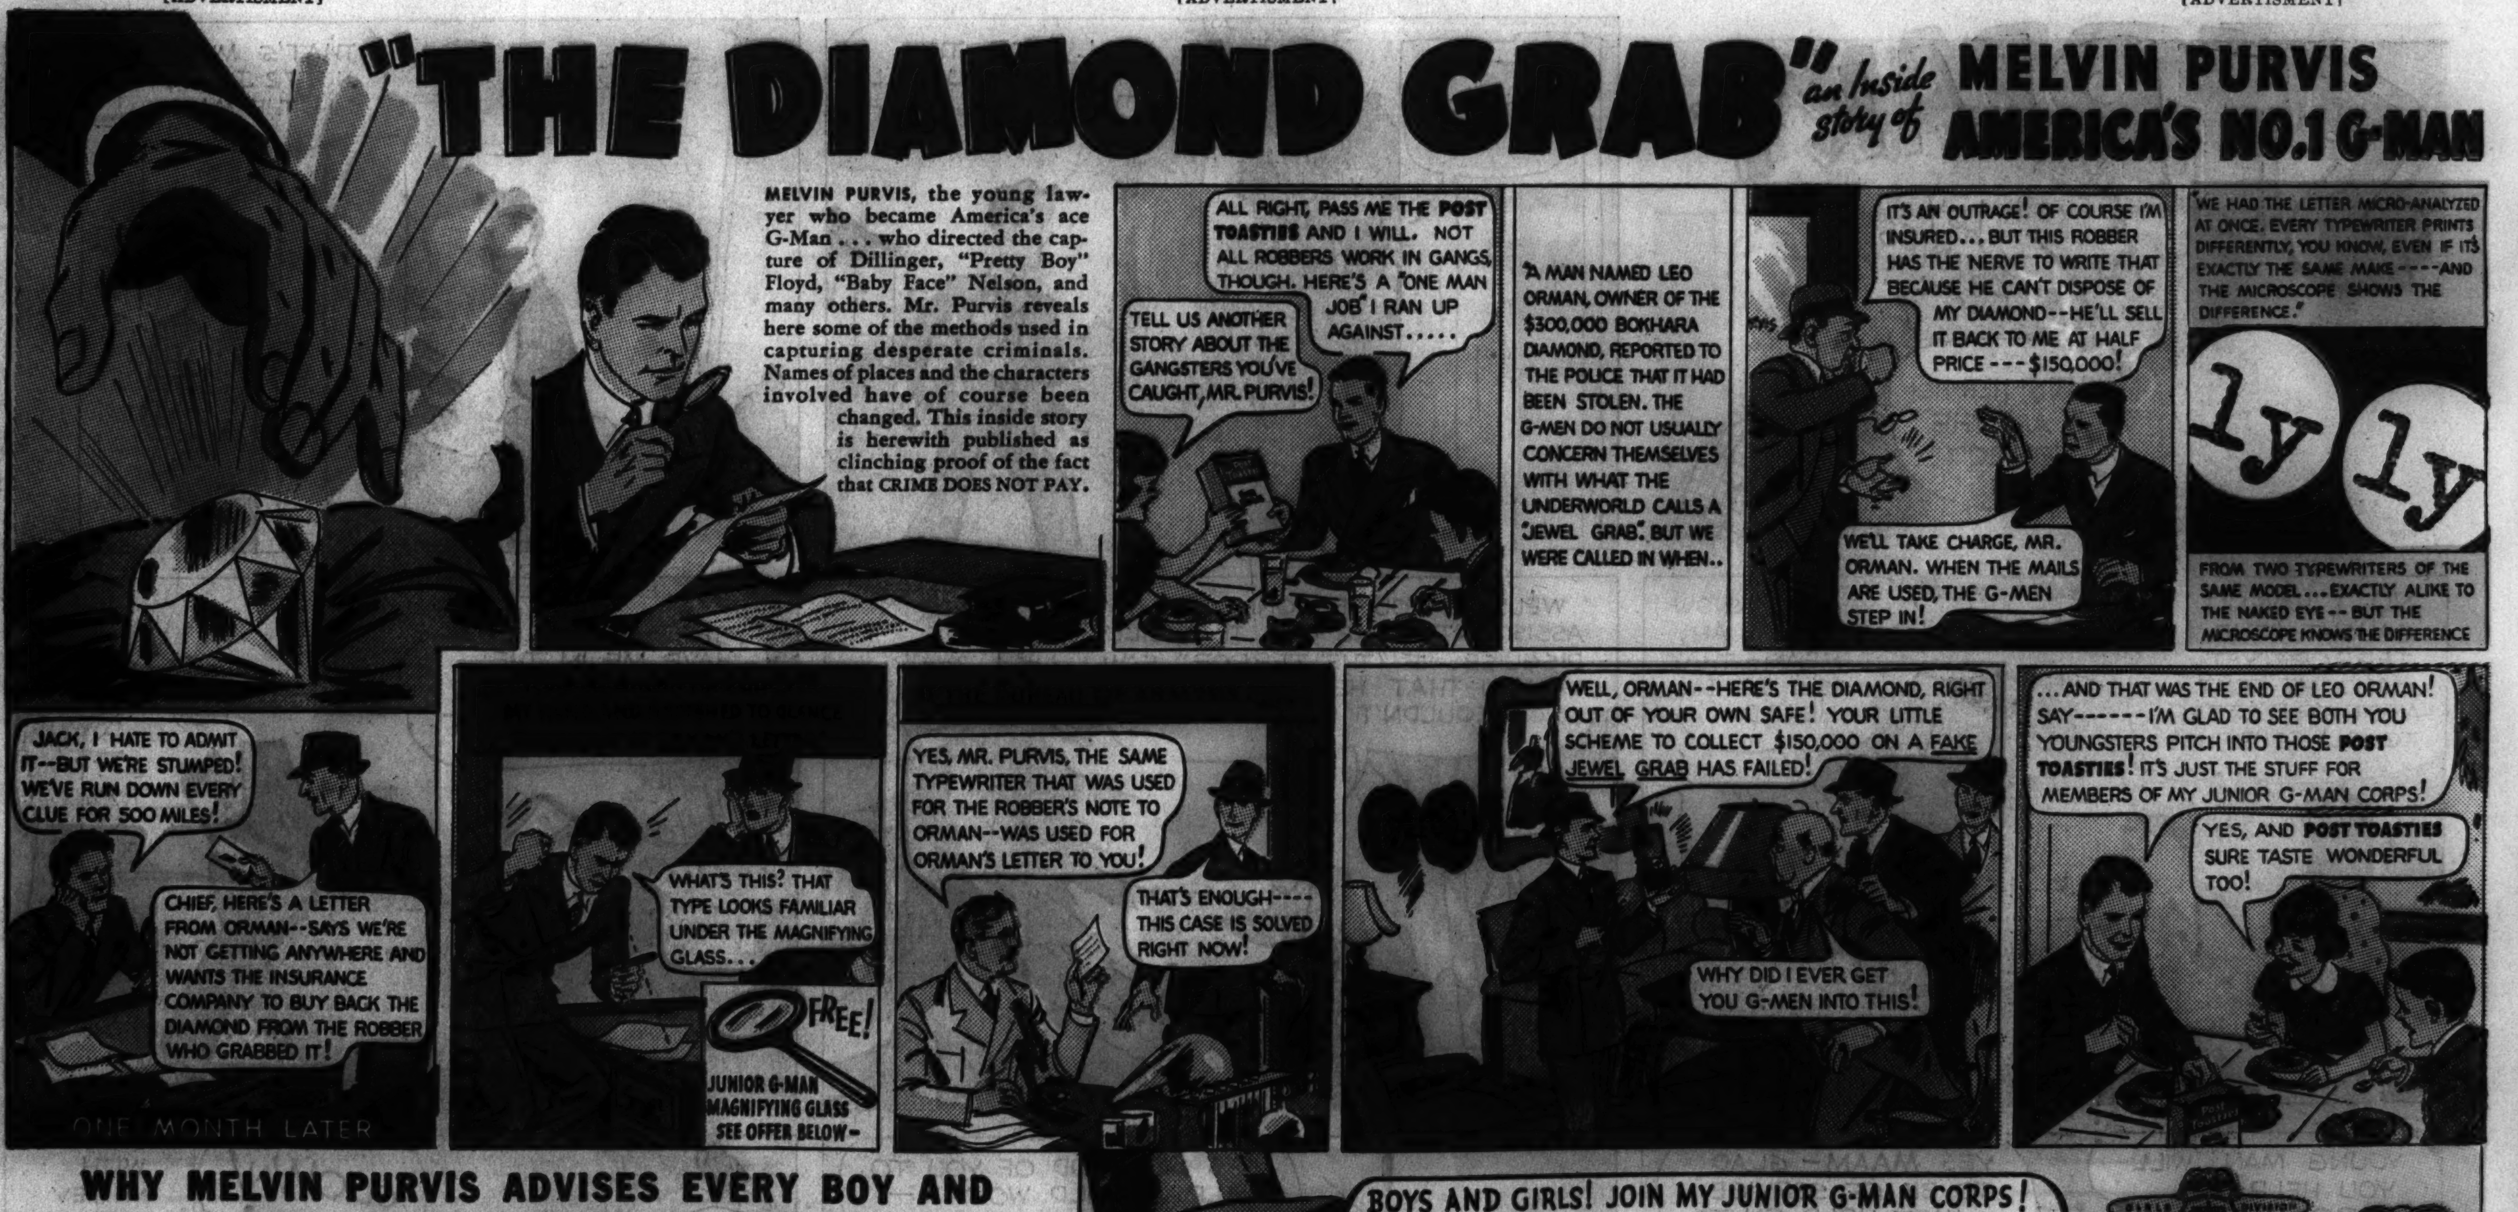
"THE DIAMOND GRAB" an Inside story of MELVIN PURVIS AMERICA'S NO. 1 G-MAN

MELVIN PURVIS, the young lawyer who became America's ace G-Man . . . who directed the capture of Dillinger, "Pretty Boy" Floyd, "Baby Face" Nelson, and many others. Mr. Purvis reveals here some of the methods used in capturing desperate criminals. Names of places and the characters involved have of course been changed. This inside story is herewith published as clinching proof of the fact that CRIME DOES NOT PAY.



TELL US ANOTHER STORY ABOUT THE GANGSTERS YOU'VE CAUGHT, MR. PURVIS!
ALL RIGHT, PASS ME THE POST TOASTIES AND I WILL. NOT ALL ROBBERS WORK IN GANGS, THOUGH. HERE'S A "ONE MAN JOB" I RAN UP AGAINST.....
"A MAN NAMED LEO ORMAN, OWNER OF THE $300,000 BOKHARA DIAMOND, REPORTED TO THE POLICE THAT IT HAD BEEN STOLEN. THE G-MEN DO NOT USUALLY CONCERN THEMSELVES WITH WHAT THE UNDERWORLD CALLS A "JEWEL GRAB". BUT WE WERE CALLED IN WHEN..
IT'S AN OUTRAGE! OF COURSE I'M INSURED... BUT THIS ROBBER HAS THE NERVE TO WRITE THAT BECAUSE HE CAN'T DISPOSE OF MY DIAMOND--HE'LL SELL IT BACK TO ME AT HALF PRICE---$150,000!
WE'LL TAKE CHARGE, MR. ORMAN. WHEN THE MAILS ARE USED, THE G-MEN STEP IN!
"WE HAD THE LETTER MICRO-ANALYZED AT ONCE. EVERY TYPEWRITER PRINTS DIFFERENTLY, YOU KNOW, EVEN IF IT'S EXACTLY THE SAME MAKE----AND THE MICROSCOPE SHOWS THE DIFFERENCE."
ly ly
FROM TWO TYPEWRITERS OF THE SAME MODEL...EXACTLY ALIKE TO THE NAKED EYE--BUT THE MICROSCOPE KNOWS THE DIFFERENCE
JACK, I HATE TO ADMIT IT--BUT WE'RE STUMPED! WE'VE RUN DOWN EVERY CLUE FOR 500 MILES!
CHIEF, HERE'S A LETTER FROM ORMAN--SAYS WE'RE NOT GETTING ANYWHERE AND WANTS THE INSURANCE COMPANY TO BUY BACK THE DIAMOND FROM THE ROBBER WHO GRABBED IT!
ONE MONTH LATER
WHAT'S THIS? THAT TYPE LOOKS FAMILIAR UNDER THE MAGNIFYING GLASS...
FREE!
JUNIOR G-MAN MAGNIFYING GLASS SEE OFFER BELOW-
YES, MR. PURVIS, THE SAME TYPEWRITER THAT WAS USED FOR THE ROBBER'S NOTE TO ORMAN--WAS USED FOR ORMAN'S LETTER TO YOU!
THAT'S ENOUGH---- THIS CASE IS SOLVED RIGHT NOW!
WELL, ORMAN--HERE'S THE DIAMOND, RIGHT OUT OF YOUR OWN SAFE! YOUR LITTLE SCHEME TO COLLECT $150,000 ON A FAKE JEWEL GRAB HAS FAILED!
WHY DID I EVER GET YOU G-MEN INTO THIS!
...AND THAT WAS THE END OF LEO ORMAN! SAY------I'M GLAD TO SEE BOTH YOU YOUNGSTERS PITCH INTO THOSE POST TOASTIES! IT'S JUST THE STUFF FOR MEMBERS OF MY JUNIOR G-MAN CORPS!
YES, AND POST TOASTIES SURE TASTE WONDERFUL TOO!

WHY MELVIN PURVIS ADVISES EVERY BOY AND GIRL TO EAT POST TOASTIES!

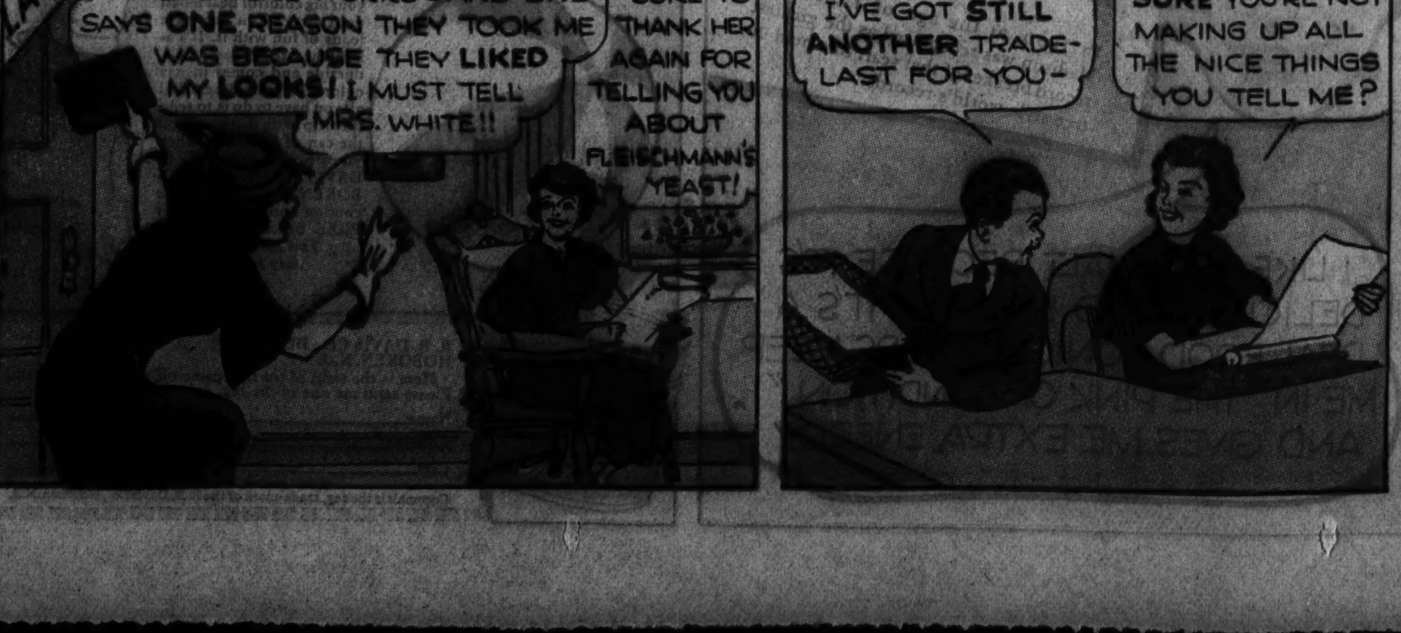
THEY ALWAYS SAY THEY WANT SOMEONE WITH MORE EXPERIENCE...
BUT THAT WASN'T THE REAL REASON SHE COULDN'T GET A JOB
THANK YOU SO MUCH FOR TELLING ME ABOUT THESE JOBS, MRS. WHITE - I'LL START RIGHT IN TRYING TO LAND ONE, TOMORROW—
MRS. WHITE'S SECRETARIAL SCHOOL
OH, DEAR! I WISH POWDER WOULD HIDE THESE BEASTLY PIMPLES. I'VE JUST GOT TO MAKE A GOOD IMPRESSION
I'M SORRY, MISS BAKER, BUT I THINK MRS. WHITE MISUNDERSTOOD ME — WE REALLY NEED SOMEONE WITH MORE EXPERIENCE
I COULDN'T TAKE ON A GIRL WITH PIMPLES LIKE THAT!
NEXT WEEK
NO, MRS. WHITE - I HAVEN'T HAD ANY LUCK. I CAN'T SEEM TO PUT MYSELF ACROSS. I WISH I KNEW WHAT..
MY DEAR, I'M GOING TO BE VERY PERSONAL. I THINK THE TROUBLE MAY BE YOUR SKIN. HAVE YOU EVER TRIED EATING FLEISCHMANN'S YEAST TO CLEAR UP THOSE PIMPLES?



LATER
MOTHER — I'VE GOT A JOB! IT'S WHERE ALICE WORKS — AND SHE SAYS ONE REASON THEY TOOK ME WAS BECAUSE THEY LIKED MY LOOKS! I MUST TELL MRS. WHITE!!
AND BE SURE TO THANK HER AGAIN FOR TELLING YOU ABOUT FLEISCHMANN'S YEAST!
SAY — MISS BAKER - I'VE GOT STILL ANOTHER TRADE-LAST FOR YOU - JIMMY — ARE YOU SURE YOU'RE NOT MAKING UP ALL THE NICE THINGS YOU TELL ME?

DON'T LET ADOLESCENT PIMPLES BE A HANDICAP TO YOU

A BROKEN-OUT skin is no asset to any girl or boy. But, after the beginning of adolescence—from about 13 to 25, or even longer—many young people are troubled by pimples.

During these years, important glands develop and final growth takes place. This causes disturbances throughout the body. The skin, especially, becomes oversensitive. Waste poisons in the blood irritate this sensitive skin and pimples break out.

Fleischmann's fresh Yeast is often prescribed to help get rid of adolescent pimples. It clears these skin irritants out of the blood. Then—pimples go!

Eat 3 cakes daily—one about ½ hour before each meal. Eat it regularly—plain, or in a little water—until your skin is entirely clear. Start today!

YOU'RE RIGHT, BOB! THEY'VE COME TO ROB THE WAREHOUSE! THEY'VE BACKED THEIR TRUCK UP TO THE WAREHOUSE.
NOW LET'S GO OVER THIS AGAIN. MILLIGAN AND I ARE TO GO OUTSIDE AND LET THEM STICK US UP—WHILE YOU AND BOB REMAIN INSIDE.
RIGHT! THAT WAY THEY'LL THINK YOU TWO ARE THE ONLY GUARDS HERE.
NO MATTER WHAT HAPPENS LET THEM GET THE BEST OF YOU! — BOB AND I WILL NAB THEM IN THE BUILDING.
IT'S GOING TO BE HARD LETTING THESE MUGS TAKE US WITHOUT A FIGHT, MILLIGAN, BUT WE'VE GOT TO DO IT. OH-OH!
RAISE 'EM UP AND KEEP 'EM UP—YOU TWO! UNDERSTAND!
MAKE THEM LIE DOWN ALONGSIDE THE PLATFORM, TRIGGER.
THIS IS THE ROOM NEXT TO THE PLATFORM. THEY'LL ENTER IT FIRST! THERE'S FIFTY THOUSAND DOLLARS WORTH OF CIGARS AND CIGARETTES IN HERE!
GOOD! NOW BOB, I'LL STAND JUST INSIDE THIS DOORWAY! YOU TAKE A POSITION BEHIND THAT—HEY, BOB! WHERE'D YOU GO?
ALL RIGHT, MAKE IT SNAPPY, YOU MUGS! WE HAVEN'T GOT ALL NIGHT!

OLYMPIC SWIMMING STAR
(HELENE MADISON)
TELLS SKINNY GIRL HOW TO GAIN
I HATE TO GO OUT ON THE BEACH, MOTHER, EVEN FOR THE BIG SWIMMING RACE. I DON'T LIKE PEOPLE TO SEE ME IN A BATHING SUIT—I'M SO SKINNY
I KNOW; I WISH YOU COULD PUT ON SOME WEIGHT, SALLY. BUT DON'T FORGET YOU'RE SUPPOSED TO MEET MY OLD FRIEND HELENE MADISON WHO IS ONE OF THE GREATEST OLYMPIC STARS OF ALL TIME. MAYBE SHE CAN TELL YOU HOW TO BUILD UP
HELENE'S WINNING! MY ISN'T SHE A MARVELOUS SWIMMER
YEA HELENE!
AND HASN'T SHE A MARVELOUS FIGURE! I BET NOBODY EVER CALLS HER SKINNY
LOOK AT THAT LITTLE GIRL—SHE'S NOTHING BUT SKIN AND BONES
AFTER THE RACE
HELENE, THIS IS MY LITTLE GIRL SALLY. SHE'S A GREAT ADMIRER OF YOURS. BUT TO TELL THE TRUTH, I THINK SHE ADMIRES YOUR FIGURE MORE THAN YOUR SWIMMING RECORDS
YOU SHOULD HAVE A NICELY DEVELOPED FIGURE, TOO, SALLY. IF YOU DRINK COCOMALT EVERY DAY IT WILL HELP YOU TO GAIN. ISN'T THAT RIGHT, NURSE?
YES INDEED—YOU SEE SALLY, MISS MADISON IS STUDYING NURSING AND NUTRITION SHE KNOWS WHAT'S BEST TO HELP KEEP PEOPLE STRONG AND FIT
COCOMALT WILL GIVE HER IRON FOR RICH RED BLOOD—PROTEINS FOR SOLID FLESH AND MUSCLE—CALCIUM, PHOSPHORUS AND VITAMIN D FOR STRONG, STRAIGHT, BONES. IT WILL ALSO GIVE HER CARBOHYDRATES FOR EXTRA ENERGY, AND TO HELP HER FILL OUT QUICKLY
I'M SO GRATEFUL FOR YOUR ADVICE!
SOME TIME LATER
WHY, A FEW WEEKS AGO SALLY WAS THIN AS A RAIL—NOW SHE LOOKS LIKE A HUSKY, LITTLE ATHLETE! YOU CERTAINLY DESERVE A LOT OF CREDIT
NOT I! IT'S COCOMALT THAT DESERVES ALL THE CREDIT. JUST ADDING DELICIOUS COCOMALT TO SALLY'S DIET HAS MADE ALL THE DIFFERENCE IN THE WORLD. SHE HAS GAINED 8 POUNDS ALREADY I LIKE COCOMALT BECAUSE IT'S DELICIOUS AND BECAUSE IT'S A REAL FOOD TONIC. IT HELPS KEEP ME IN "THE PINK OF CONDITION" AND GIVES ME EXTRA ENERGY

COMPARE THE FACTS

[1] DeLee University is the ONLY school featuring beauty instruction under the personal direction of the internationally famous MME. LOUISE. [2] DeLee is the only school whose student won first prize in the 1935 American Cosmetician Contest. [3] DeLee is the ONLY school in America to have an instructor win in the 1936 National Gold Trophy Coiffure Contest. [4] DeLee is the only UNIVERSITY of Beauty Culture in Illinois.

Madame Louise

owner and director of the University, will show you exactly why DeLee is equipped to prepare you for a better paying position in a shorter time. Almost any school can train you to become a mediocre, "ordinary" operator, but if you want to become a genuine EXPERT and earn more than the average, visit DeLee at once and talk with Mme. Louise personally. If you do not live in Chicago, write for our new booklet. [It's free.]

Salesmen.

AN UNUSUAL OPPORTUNITY

We require the immediate services of 4 above average salesmen. Men who are willing to work hard in a line that is producing far above average compensation for those now actively engaged.

The positions are permanent, the opportunity for advancement exceptional.

Our firm is highly rated, with over 30 years of success as a background.

The work is contacting and selling executive heads of business a carefully worked out program of an industrial relations nature to bring about a better understanding, closer co-operation and better team work between business and its employes. Hundreds of the nation's best known firms are using and highly indorse our work.

A thorough training is given all men, protected territory, leads, etc. A liberal commission arrangement for the right persons.

Men should be between 35 and 50 years of age—thoroughly seasoned—able to sell "an idea" effectively. A car will be helpful. Territories available are Chicago, Illinois, outside of Chicago area, Michigan and Indiana.

If you feel you can measure up—if you are looking for a permanent position and are willing to work hard for a real future, phone Randolph 7500 and ask for Mr. E. W. Grasse, on Monday or Tuesday only.

Miscellaneous.

MEN

If you live on the South Side or South Side suburbs let me set you up in a profitable business of your own, backed up by our prosperous company.

I have been in this territory exactly one year and have already set 102 men up in business for themselves and still have 27 opportunities left.

I am in control of this territory of a business unique in character merchandising an electrical unit that has no competition, for which there is an ever increasing demand.

If in a personal interview you can satisfy me that you are honest, reliable, and trustworthy and really have a desire to succeed, willing to study and are teachable, you may be the very man I am looking for.

Our business is very profitable. Many of our associates are earning as much as $50 on percentage basis in a single day and after they become experienced handling our business received a sizable monthly income not regulated by the seasons, as ours is a year round business.

Selling experience not necessary, for if you are selected you are thoroughly trained at no expense to you. Some of our most successful associates never sold anything before joining us.

We stand all the expense of your business such as rent, light, heat, telephone, help, etc., and in addition to giving you merchandise on open account, carry all of your time payment paper.

You do not invest one cent with us. We finance everything.

Our business is depression proof as same has increased every year for the last 5 years with 1936 to date our biggest year. We have thousands of satisfied customers in this territory and are considered one of the country's outstanding organizations. There are no strings connected with this offer and if you can meet the above requirements, you will be granted a personal, confidential interview which will quickly determine our mutual interest.

Apply Monday between 1 and 3 p. m., Suite 400 Maryland Bldg., 841 E. 63d-st. [1 block east of Cottage Grove]. Ask for G. A. BUCKLEY.

THE TRUE STORY OF WONDER LAKE

NATURE'S BEAUTY SPOT
4 Miles from McHenry, Ill.

A Group of WELL KNOWN CHICAGO SPORTSMEN

Bought practically ALL 12 miles of shoreline around this magnificent wooded Spring-Fed, Sand Bottomed Lake, just 50 miles northwest of Chicago. Then they:

[1] Stocked the lake with 5,000,000 Bass and Pike and prohibited fishing for 3 years so the fish could grow and breed under ideal conditions. [Fishing officially opened at Wonder Lake September, 1934.]

[2] Set aside 60 acres as a permanent pheasant cover and hunting grounds for owners.

[3] Made the lake STRICTLY PRIVATE, so only owners could fish or hunt.

[4] Refused to sell property further than 1½ to 2 blocks from the water.

[5] Set aside great big sand beaches with piers every ¼ mile so there would always BE MORE than ample beach facilities for children, grown-ups, and boat landings.

[6] Priced the property so low that every one—even ordinary wage earners, could afford a country home.

[7] Arranged financing terms on homes so low that the yearly cost is less than a season's rental for a cottage elsewhere.

[8] Absolutely prohibited Dance Halls, Roadhouses, Hotels, Boarding Houses, etc.

[9] Made it an exclusive GENTILE community.

[10] Built homes that are ready now for you to move into. Here are a few:

4 Rms., English Style, $500

Screened porch; view of the lake from every window; inside toilet; white with green trim; high attic. Price including land..............$500
BOAT INCLUDED.

5 ROOMS, $895.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farms
By Bob Becker

Summer on the Farm

June 20, 1936.

TOMORROW being the first day of "official summer," all the boys on the Yorkville experimental farm thought they should supply the horses with their "summer costumes." So the other day they took the fly nets out of storage and put them on the horses to keep the buzzing insect pests from bothering the farm "power plants."

The Drought—A Reality.

The farm managers were telling us a few days ago that the drouth menace we've been hearing about is no myth. The weather man has been playing dirty tricks on the corn crop, providing very little rain and too much cool weather. The oats need rain too, as the crop is heading out before it is hardly tall enough to harvest. The oats planted in the best locations on the Yorkville farm were only 12 to 14 inches high, while the oats on clay locations were about half that tall.

The men on both farms have been thankful for the lack of rain for one reason—they have had very little delay in cutting and curing their hay. The hay harvest has proceeded like clockwork, but the boys would rather have been delayed on this job and had some moisture for the rest of the crops.

The lack of rain has given the amateur weather forecasters on the farm a chance to make prophecies. We're checking on one of these amateurs right now. Here is his prediction: "We should get rain at least by tonight or tomorrow. The last quarter moon has been dry, and the new moon appeared Thursday. I believe we'll get rain, because a change in the moon often means a change in the weather."

A Free Meal.

The workers on the Yorkville farm discovered a rather bold little corn-eater the other day. Paul Niles was getting ready to unload a wagon of corn into one of the feed bunks for the cattle. He looked into one corner of the wagon and there was a gray squirrel calmly munching away on one of the corn ears. When discovered the pilferer took a flying leap out of the wagon and headed for the woods.

New Arrivals.

The families of game birds which are being reared on the Wheaton farm continue to appear. The newest family to move into "Game Bird City" includes twelve Chukar partridges and their bantam hen mother. The coop which this family calls home has been moved from the hatching location to a new spot near some tall weeds, where the young birds can run around for insects and seeds. The Mexican quail and the ringneck pheasants are already there.

The next clutch of birds due to appear is a "mixed family" of eight mutant pheasants and four Reeves pheasants. It will be interesting to watch this family grow up, because the dark colored mutants will make quite a contrast next to the more flashily colored Reeves pheasants.

Many Nesting Birds.

The voices of many of the birds nesting on the farm have become hushed now that spring is giving way to summer. But a hike over the farm shows that field and wood have an increased bird population because every encouragement is given to both game and song birds to nest on the acreage.

One of the interesting sights of the last few weeks has been the many bobolinks that find ideal nesting grounds in the fields of the Wheaton farm. The male bobolinks, resplendent in their "dress clothes" of black and white, make you stop, look, and listen when they swing into the air above the meadow, pour out their songs, and then zoom back to the meadow to impress the lady birds of their choice.

At Yorkville the boys have found a number of pheasant nests in the fields. The flushing bar ahead of the mower saved several nests and young from being injured.

How You Can BORROW at HOUSEHOLD

No Endorsers.
No Salary Assignment.

1. Whether or not you have furniture or a car you can borrow here if you can make regular monthly payments.
2. Payments are small. For example the first payment on $100 is $8—the last payment is $5.15 on a twenty month schedule. Other amounts in proportion.
3. You do not need co-makers or endorsers.
4. You can secure the money quickly—the same day if you apply before 9 o'clock.
5. Rate on loans above $100 is less than the lawful maximum.
6. Repay at any time and reduce the cost.
7. Private offices. Your problem will have our sympathetic attention.

BORROW
—on your Buick
CASH
—on your Chrysler
DOLLARS
—on your Dodge

Yes, you may borrow money at this bank on a recent model of any standard make of car: FORD, PLYMOUTH, CHEVROLET, TERRAPLANE, as well as BUICK, CHRYSLER, DODGE, and ALL OTHER STANDARD MAKES.

Yes, the same low rates and liberal terms apply whether the car is new or used. Fire and Theft is all the insurance we require, although we strongly urge that every car owner insure himself against collision hazards. In all cases we want the insurance placed with the borrower's own broker or agent. Premiums may be added to the loan account, the broker is paid in full, and the borrower settles up with us in monthly installments.

These are typical costs and terms:

Amount You Want.	Total Yearly Charge.	Total Amount of Note.	12 Monthly Deposits.
$ 100	$12.08	$ 112.08	$ 9.34
200	19.00	219.00	18.25

FRANCE TO PUSH 'MANAGED' FARM ECONOMY PLAN

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, June 20.—Premier Leon Blum's government, which has promised the farmer it will pull him out of his economic misery, will try nothing new, but merely intensify the "managed economy" already instituted by the right governments, it is said.

In view of the unstable situation of agricultural production, this experiment will unquestionably require large sums from the national treasury to add to those already called for by the industrial "new deal."

The success or failure of Blum in solving the farm problem will go far in settling whether he is capable of governing the country because agriculture plays a big rôle—half the population are farmers. Blum's farm policy will drain the treasury as his social legislation does, and it is expected to contribute considerably to high prices.

No Big Change in Policy.

The new minister of agriculture, Georges Monnet, on Thursday announced he would introduce a bill establishing a national wheat commission thereby revealing that no great change of policies from the several previous governments is intended. France will continue and even sharpen the policy of protectionism, state management, and state intervention in farm markets.

This policy was adopted in the farm crisis of 1930-'31. The worldwide farm price slump created an extremely difficult position for French farmers and the government responded by closing the markets against imports of farm products.

But isolation of the French market was insufficient to stabilize prices which continued to fall. Normal wheat production exceeded consumption by one-eighth. The government thereupon proceeded to fix a minimum price which produced only a temporary improvement.

Effect of Price Fixing.

Last year the wheat price had fallen to five-eighths of the cost price. Price fixing encouraged the farmers to increase the area in cultivation by 5 per cent and intensify the use of fertilizer, the price of which was sinking.

The government's fixed minimum price proved impossible to enforce in the face of economic realities. There were numerous frauds and the government's authority swiftly diminished in farm regions. The government then proceeded to interfere directly by buying and storing the surplus production.

Between 1933 and 1936 the government had bought five-sixths of the production for the years of 1933 and 1934. This wheat was bought by the army and navy, or exported, or turned into alcohol and exported. The latter operation was particularly unfortunate because wheat so converted was exported at one-third to five-twelfths the government's fixed minimum. It is estimated that the government's farm policy between 1932 and 1936 has cost the French taxpayer $266,000,000.

The Interventionist policy has shown some success in recent months and the general farm products index has risen from 292 in July, 1935, to 396 in March this year. The wheat index rose from 249 to 357.

Aided by Poor Crops.

But the government's action was largely facilitated by the poor crops of recent years. The present price of wheat, however, is not a remunerative value, the crop being worth only $400,000,000 compared with $666,000,000 in a normal year.

With the approach of the new crop prices are showing signs of slumping. The Blum government's aim is to prevent fluctuation of agricultural prices by regulation of markets.

Pedicure Gives Loveliness and Health to Feet

Beauty, Comfort Reward Women for Daily Care of Pedal Extremities.

By Antoinette Donnelly.

PAINTING the toenails still seems to the conventional diehards the pastime of a Jezebel, no less. But it wasn't long ago that the reddened nail tip was deplored in about the same way, remember? And no one now can say that nice girls do not tint their toenails. They all are doing it who have the beach feet to show au naturel or through a sandal strap. Maybe not all, but the number of women addicted to this de luxe toe treatment grows daily. I recieve reports from salons devoted to the business of embellishing feminine toenails; also, from manufacturers of the products that go toward the embellishing. And the fad, or fashion, as you choose to call it, grows apace.

Already one sees the same working psychology in this foot connection that hands experienced since nail shades thrust them into the limelight. Better care of hands has followed. Better looking skin on hands, better manicure care has resulted. Now we have reason to believe woman's foot is in for a bigger and better beauty and health care than it ever has known. I hear of many women who massage their feet with creams and lotions, who give their tootsies a pedicure regularly, women who, a few years back, never thought of such foot care.

Interest in Foot Beauty Resulting in Greater Health.

Then, too, this open work foot business is developing a foot consciousness that must spell greater health happiness for the feet. When you could keep your feet hidden away behind stout lether with solid linings, or they could be tucked into concealing beach shoes, there wasn't so much concern about shapeliness and line and toenail shaping and the like. But now that order is changing. And the foot care program shortly, if not already, is going to be the occasion for regular pedicure appointments and for home foot treatments.

First, you are expected to give your feet a pedicure weekly or every ten days, and a moment's attention every night. You now are asked to work back the cuticle each time you dry your feet to give better shape and beauty to the nail. And a supply of cuticle oil on hand is imperative, which you must rub around the toes every night before you go to bed. One night a week you are expected to give the entire foot a thorough oil massage. This softens the dead skin and discourages calluses and rough spots. You leave the oil on all night [cuticle oil is absorbed rapidly and will not soil bed linen] and by morning the feet will be in fine shape for a pedicure.

Soapy Water and Brushing Necessary to Foot Care.

As with your manicure, it is necessary to scrub the feet with soapy water and a brush. Dip a cotton tipped orange stick into a bottle of oily cuticle remover, and push back cuticle, gently working away dead skin [callouses, too, if you have them]. With an emery board, file your nails about even with the tips of toes. [If longer, they'll make your stocking bill mount higher and higher]. Scissors and metal files are not conceded to be the best toenail implements.

Now, scrub the feet again, dry thoroughly, and paint on your polish for the home pedicure. Right up to the tips the color goes, as toenails are meant to be short. Consequently the white tip needn't be in the picture. Use two coats of polish, which you may match to your fingernail polish. The smoky shades, by the way, are the thing for summer instead of the hard, brittle colors. Robin red is one of the new, smart shades for beach wear, and colorful enough for evening. One reliable manufacturer claims his polish, according to a new formula, will not fade in the sun.

Pedicures Now Recognized as Genuine Health Measure.

Pedicures began as a beauty fad, but now are coming to be recognized as a real health measure. Surveys made in a co-educational university show that athlete's foot is far more prevalent among men than it is among women. The answer? Women take better care of their feet. Men rarely bother about them except to clip off the nails when they begin pushing holes through their socks. Men are apt to leap from the shower, flip the towel around, and call it a day, not drying feet carefully. Women are more thorough. They wash and dry the feet carefully and in pedicuring they clean away dead skin from the base and sides of the nail and from between the toes, thus removing the germ's favorite hiding place.

Any one can pick up this germ, at beach, pool, or in a hotel shower. You can't keep your shoes on to protect the feet all the time. But the more care you take of your feet, the less likely is this all too prevalent affliction to get a head start.

The open shoes worn by women with their ensuing foot airings contribute to foot health. Women have more of a shoe wardrobe than have men, as a rule, adding another health note to feet in the frequent changing of shoes. Women are more meticulous about washing stockings.

Liquid Deodorants May Be Used on the Feet as Well.

A word here of interest to those who suffer excess foot perspiration: You can use those liquid deodorants recommended for under arm use on the foot just as effectively and safely as elsewhere.

However, today's lesson is simply to instruct you as to whither this current pedicure and other foot interest is leading. Presently you will find women just as foot conscious as they are hand conscious today. So you'd better be turning the attention right down to the ground!

Miss Donnelly's authoritative articles, counseling women in matters of beauty and charm, appear every day in the feature pages of the Chicago Tribune.

Summer Party Frocks Are Gay and Pictorial

Collections Range from Ethereal Chiffons to Trick, Tailored Piques.

By Rhea Seeger.

THE younger set descends on the newly unpacked summer party clothes with such enthusiasm that the best of the buys go out as fast as they can be wrapped. With week-end country parties, with all the midsummer festivities scheduled and the nights inbetween, it's a thrifty soul indeed that can resist going on a shopping tour.

Summer party clothes seem to have been planned by understanding fairy godmothers. First, the price marks are all that can be desired and then the styles are everything that the most demanding young shopper would want . . . from perky, cool, crisp cottons, trick, tailored piqués, smart organdies, wisps of yards of ethereal chiffons, deadly devastating black nets, and alluring black chiffons to the equally effective angelic white chiffons, and at the bonbon pastels that mark charming visions of the girls wearing them. It's a strange and totally unimpressionable stag line that will not be charmed by the 1936 summer siren when she is wrapped in such pictorially perfect party clothes.

Sharkskin Ensemble Has Fitted Jacket to Match.

Almost any style effect is possible. You can be swanky and sleek in a two piece ensemble of icy white sharkskin. There is one that has an extremely low cut, wide-skirted gown without a shadow of an extra ruffle, tuck or trim, and a smart, short, fitted jacket to match. You can slide into yards and yards of embroidered white organdy, tie a colored sash around a tiny waistline, and shatter the aplomb of the most assured of college lads. Or you can pin two flowers in the center part of your summer coiffure and slip into a princess dress of cool white lace that has shoulder straps of baby blue ribbon to match and a tie sash of the same romantic hue. You can go out of nights in a pink that looks like the pale strawberry ice you had for lunch, or you can wear pale fern green and use clear yellow for contrast. It's a summer for heartbreakers, with plenty of appropriate clothes for every type.

Out of all the rather breath taking collections of superparty models, we finally chose four—four new, exciting, and different dresses. There are others equally enchanting and equally irresistible with moderate price marks for limited summertime clothes allowances.

The large figure at the extreme right illustrates the smartest and most unusual model. It is of cool, filmy black net with a full skirt that fits smoothly and slimly around the hipline. The bodice top features exceedingly brief sleeves and a high, narrow collar. A crackling black taffeta slip with a heart-shaped top accompanies it. A most unusual trimming—great bunches of flaming red old fashioned geraniums—encircle the skirt at about the kneeline. Another great bunch trims the left shoulder. Half the bunch is appliqued flatly to the net itself, and the other half of each bunch hangs realistically free. It is one of the outstanding party dresses in the summer collections.

Chartreuse Green Trims a Lovely Flowered Chiffon.

At the top left is a soft, clinging flowered chiffon with the floral design spaced far apart against a white background. The skirt flares at the floorline and is draped to reveal the figure. Chartreuse green chiffon forms the double train, shoulders, and sash that is wound gracefully around the bodice top and used as a contrast for the flowered chiffon.

At the center left is a cool white chiffon, skilfully draped to softly cling to the figure. It is made with a floating, semi-full skirt. Over it the exquisitely lovely circular cut cape of emerald green chiffon is held in place at the neckline with white gardenias that have green centers. The latter repeat the color of the cape. The gown can be worn with other capes of other colors and with any short flowered silk jacket, or with long summer evening coats or wraps and, likewise, the cape can be used with other summer party clothes for color contrast.

At the lower left is a most distinctive striped gown made of black and white mousseline de soie. Because it is worn over a rustling snow white silk slip it looks fragile and feminine, and has a pale gray tone. The horizontal stripes really are slenderizing. The shoulders are partially covered, the fitted waistline is tied at the back with a bow of the material, and a bunch of poppies and daisies are used for color and trimming. All models sketched are to be found in a large collection of decorative party clothes being shown by a well known Chicago store.

PUPPET SHOW SPONSOR

Miss Ruth Griffenhagen is a member of the Junior Edgewater center of the Infant Welfare society, which gave a puppet show recently as a benefit. Miss Griffenhagen is active in Smith college alumnæ affairs in Chicago, too, for she was graduated from Smith in 1932. She spends the summers with her family at their summer home at Delavan Lake, Wisconsin.

Lamps Made for Lighting as Well as for Decoration

THE smart new lamps of today have been designed and planned for lighting as well as for decoration, and to provide for the eye tasks of every family member.

Dark shades are rapidly passing, and so are tiny, colored bulbs, except of course for fixtures which are designed for decorative purposes only.

Even a casual survey of what the market offers in new lamps shows the trend toward greater height for a better spread, and a utilization of light. And that the lamps may have a greater efficiency and give out more light the shades have white linings and are open at the top. All of these virtues combine to achieve an added softness in the general lighting effect.

Another noteworthy feature of the new lamps is the diffusing glass bowl. The aim of this bowl is to provide better control, and better quality of light. Some of the light goes downward to the reader's book or handiwork, and the remainder goes upward into the room where it helps to illuminate the area around the reader.

Glass Chimneys Shelter Candles for Al Fresco Dining

IF you are fond of eating your evening meal rather late, and if you are fortunate enough to be able to dine out of doors this summer, you'll welcome the artistic protectors that keep candles from blowing hither and yon in the breeze, and from dripping on table tops and linen. Nicely colored holders, on display in a Chicago department store, come equipped with glass chimneys, a little like the old kerosene lamp ones of grandmother's day.

Simply place the candle in the holder, adjust the chimney, and you can dine al fresco in comfort. Use four or more of them on the table, for they are not clumsy, and do not take up much room. They have a decided decorative effect, too, and what's more, they are not a bit expensive.

Queries on Homes

DEAR MRS. BARGELT: We are building a summer cottage and its living room walls are sheathed in wood, and then waxed. We wonder if it would be proper to paint the woodwork trim a gay color, and also the living room floor. Should we keep floor and trim the same shade? Is soft green a good shade?—T. W.

ANSWER: Bright tones are eminently suited to summer cottages. A soft green on the floor may be repeated in woodwork.

DEAR MRS. BARGELT: What makes a concrete apron in front of a garage door buckle up? Every spring I have to saw from a half to a whole inch off the bottom of the doors. Where can I go to find out about garage doors which roll up?—J. T.

ANSWER: Drainage under the concrete apron probably is poor, and water which collects under it pushes up the concrete when it freezes. Inquire at a modernizing firm regarding various types of garage doors.

No more constipation—no more harsh laxatives or cathartics—but blissful daily bowel action when you take your little daily dose of Kruschen.

Woman's Aid to Give Picnic for the Blind

Lunch and Entertainment Program Planned for Event Next Tuesday.

MEN, women, and children who are sightless will have a happy time Tuesday when the Chicago Woman's Aid holds its annual picnic for the blind in Jackson park, near the golf shelter. Blind persons throughout the city are invited to take part in the outing. Each one may bring a sighted escort.

The guests will meet at the Industrial Home for the Blind, 1900 Marshall boulevard, at 10:30 o'clock Tuesday morning, and buses will take them to the park. There will be a picnic luncheon followed by a program of entertainment.

Mrs. William Sultan is chairman of the picnic committee and is assisted by Mrs. Benjamin Samuels, Mrs. Herbert F. Goldstein, and Mrs. Michael Gesas as committee members.

The group functions the year round to aid the sightless. It furnishes treatment and glasses and, in some cases, provides operations for individuals sent by accredited social service agencies. Scholarships also are provided and, in many cases, lessons are read to students. A model sight saving room has been equipped, and given to the board of education by the Chicago Woman's Aid. A visual testing outfit also was obtained for a WPA project.

Recreational Program Provided by Big Sisters.

An extensive and well diversified recreational program has been organized for the summer months by the Service Council for Girls, also known as the Protestant Big Sisters. Underprivileged and unfortunate girls are given the benefit of the council program, which operates throughout the year.

The summer trips have been scheduled at two week intervals, according to Mrs. Orlando Murphy, the general chairman. Some of the places to be visited include the new Chicago postoffice, the large broadcasting stations, public museums, conservatories, and industrial plants. Mrs. Albert Held, chairman of the Big Sisters, has pointed out that these trips are not to take the place of the usual camp vacations for the girls, but rather are to provide recreation—since the camp will be available to only a limited number.

Miss Jane Magan Heads State Professional Women.

MISS JANE A. MAGAN.
[De Haven Photo.]

As reported in THE TRIBUNE news columns last Sunday, Miss Jane Magan was elected to the presidency of the Illinois Business and Professional Women at the federation convention in Alton. Her extensive experience in both local and state federation work during the past 12 years, her personal qualifications, her wide acquaintance and popularity throughout the state combine to fit her unqualifiedly for the position. Handling publicity for the federation during the coming year will be Mary Synon.

Mrs. Harry M. Fisher, able president of the Chicago chapter of Hadassah, will continue another year at the helm of this organization. Vice presidents for the ensuing twelve months are Mrs. S. H. Soboroff, Mrs. Jacob Lebovitz, and Mrs. Joseph L. Prochep. Secretaries are Mrs. Joseph Epstein, Mrs. Benjamin H. Levitan, and Mrs. James H. Olshan. Other officers include Mrs. Martin Maremont, treasurer; Mrs. Adolph Braude, vice chairman of tithe; Mrs. Mamie C. Yuckman, treasurer of tithe, and Mrs. Abraham Weinberg, recorder of tithe. The honorary president of the organization is Miss Pearl Franklin.

Catholic Clubs to Give Summer Party.

Two of Chicago's most important Catholic young people's clubs, the Catholic Men's club and the Junior auxiliary of the Illinois Club for Catholic Women, are banding together to give an interclub summer formal party next Saturday evening, in the grand ballroom of the Illinois Club for Catholic Women, 820 North Michigan avenue.

Co-chairmen of the affair are Miss Mary Touhy, and Miss Angela Curran, of the junior auxiliary, and Boo Prahl and Redmond Peters of the Catholic Men's club.

Phi Mu Sorority Elects Convention Delegates.

Mrs. Hal E. Bishop, 7705 North Paulina street, is in the east to attend the annual convention of Phi Mu National sorority this week in Spring Lake Beach, New Jersey. Mrs. Bishop will represent the Chicago Alumnae association, of which she has been the president for the last two years. A second Chicago area delegate is Mrs. Z. W. Keller, 1625 Ridge avenue, Evanston.

Mrs. H. W. Carnright of Maywood has been elected president of the Chicago alumnae for the ensuing year. Other officers are Miss Jeanne Murray of Maywood, vice president; Mrs. Shelby Minter of Whiting, secretary; Miss Gertrude French of Chicago, and Miss Ruth Bremerman of Evanston, editor.

BALTIMORE HER HOME

Miss Helen Virginia Cook, daughter of the Charles Calvin Cooks of Evanston, became the bride of John Andrews Cochran, son of the H. A. Cochrans of Baltimore, Md., on May 15 in Baltimore. Chicagoans, Now Living in London, Back for Visits

LONDON Mrs. Trevor Stamp, formerly Miss Frances Bosworth of Chicago, left London on June 18 for a visit to her parents in Chicago. Her small son accompanied her. Her husband, Dr. Trevor Stamp, the distinguished authority on tropical diseases, will join his family later, sailing on July 30.

Mrs. Gordon L. Padley, who formerly was Miss Della Bosworth, and her small child, already are in Chicago, but expect to return in time for the garden parties the last of July. Mrs. Padley will attend the first garden party. Having assumed the nationality of her husband, she will exercise her right of presenting another English woman.

Wines Enhance the Flavor of Humble Foods

Everyday Dishes Take on Holiday Air with Use of Vintages in Cookery.

By Mary Meade.

MANY hostesses who pride themselves upon serving unusual foods with a distinctive flavor, have turned to old world recipes which make use of wines. The new interest in the art of dining which has followed legal use of wines in this country, has revived many a dish which possesses almost aristocratic elegance.

I am suggesting today several dishes which you probably will want to create some time when you are in an experimental mood.

Pour sherry or port wine [or your favorite] over a roast during the last few minutes before serving, or serve meat with a wine sauce or wine jelly and your reputation as a discriminating hostess is made.

WINE JELLY.

2¼ tablespoons granulated gelatin.
½ cup cold water.
1 2-3 cups boiling water.
1 cup sugar.
1 cup sherry or Madiera wine.
1-3 cup orange juice.
2 tablespoons lemon juice.

Soak gelatin in cold water, then dissolve in the boiling water. Add sugar, wine, and fruit juices. Strain, pour into a mold, and chill.

DUTCH SAUCE.
[For cold meat.]

1 egg white.
1 teaspoon finely chopped parsley.
1 small onion, chopped finely.
1 teaspoon olive oil.
1 teaspoon wine vinegar.
Salt and pepper.

Beat ingredients together thoroughly, adding the wine vinegar last.

Wine Dressings Create Salads with New Flavor.

Wine dressings also give a distinctive flavor to salads. For a fresh fruit salad using bananas, oranges, pineapple, or other fruits, a dressing made by mixing ½ cup of sugar, 1-3 cup of sherry, and 2 tablespoons of Madiera is something different. If the fruits are allowed to stand in the dressing for an hour before serving they will acquire more of the wine flavor. Of course, such a salad should be served ice cold.

While we still are talking about sauces and dressings, we might consider a hard sauce for puddings, flavored with sherry or Madiera. Cream ½ cup butter and add 1 cup of powdered sugar gradually, beating well. Add 3 tablespoons of the wine, and, finally, ⅛ teaspoon of nutmeg.

Swiss Fondue for an After Theater Snack.

For an after-theater snack to be prepared in the kitchenette, nothing can rival Swiss fondue, made with white domestic wine of the dry Sauterne type. If your guests do not smack their lips audibly you may be assured of their gentility, because lip-smacking will be their first impulse!

SWISS FONDUE.
[Serves Six.]

Chop ¾ pound of Swiss cheese and place in a saucepan with ½ glass of the wine, 2 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce, and ⅛ teaspoon of cayenne pepper. Place on stove and mix with wooden spoon until melted. Then stir in sharply 3 egg yolks and immediately pour the mixture into hot shirred egg dishes in which there are small pieces of toast.

Lowly Bean May Be Cooked with Wines.

For less formal occasions there are numerous ways to use wine in cooking to delight the connoisseur of good food. For instance, try baked beans using sherry or other wine. The beans are prepared in the usual way, although ham will give a better flavor than salt pork or bacon. During the last hour of cooking add a cup of wine for each pound of beans used.

One more recipe, and we're through! Some time try baked apples with muscatel wine sauce. This dish is called "apple cordial."

APPLE CORDIAL.

4 red eating apples.
Juice and grated rind of ½ lemon.
½ cup muscatel wine.
1 cup sugar.
¼ cup water.
1½ tablespoons butter.

Wash and core the apples, and slash the skin in several places from the top halfway down. Place in baking dish. Combine other ingredients in a saucepan and heat to the boiling point. Pour this sirup over the apples, cover the baking dish, and bake at 350 degrees F. [moderate oven] until the apples are tender. Baste frequently with the sauce.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

By Eleanor Nangle

Invisible Sun Lotion Is a Nongreasy Aid for the Skin That Is Sensitive.

THERE is a new preparation out to thwart the beauty evils of too much or too sudden sunning. It will be invaluable to the sensitive skinned woman who finds herself blistering after just a few minutes of exposure. Its primary purpose is to serve as a protective, but if the coat of tan is what you want, it can help you to achieve that, too.

This is a lotion, pink and faintly fragrant, that may be used by women, men, and children. It is to be massaged into the skin before [and during] exposure, is nonsticky and nongreasy, and absolutely invisible after application.

Lotion Applied Before Dose of Sun Preserves White Skin.

If you wish to preserve the lily white cast, this lotion should be applied before you go out in the sun and frequently and generously during exposure. You can rub it into the skin before you leave the house for the beach or the golf links. It won't rub off on clothing or feel the least bit uncomfortable. It's a good makeup base, too. Use it before a motor trip, with makeup over it, and you'll come home with freshness unimpaired and skin undamaged by wind and sun.

If it's the golden coat you want, the technique is a little different in that you apply less of the lotion while you're lolling under the sun's rays. Just douse the skin with it and massage it in well. The tanning process will be slow and even, which is just as it should be.

Men Also Express Their Enthusiasm for Lotion.

We've asked some men to try this out for us, men who fish and play golf and find sun a mixed blessing in that it invariably gives them rosy foreheads and noses. They've reported that it is an elegant protective, and they're charmed with the fact that it's invisible on the skin. Their best friends don't know they used it!

You'll find this lotion in shops everywhere.

[For information about this lotion, telephone Eleanor Nangle, Superior 0100.]

Fur. in the sun! It really is that if the fair skinned woman arms herself with a protection against burning. A new lotion, invisible on the skin and not a bit greasy, serves as either a protective or a tanning agent.

Household Hints

DON'T overlook the need of pouring water frequently into the basement floor drain. This prevents the evaporation of the water seal, and consequent sewer gas.

Keep a little ammonia on hand and try it on the next spot on your fresh white table cloth. You probably will find that it will remove the spot while the cloth is on the table, and put off the day of laundering a bit longer.

Kerosene is good for any number of things! Put a little on window screens and it will not encourage flies or mosquitoes. Add a little to the water when you wash windows. Rub a cloth dipped in kerosene over woodwork to remove finger marks, and for pieces of brass around the house, scrub with kerosene to restore their sheen.

Stains on an enamel bathtub may cause a blot on an otherwise perfect bathroom. Try repeated rubbings with a scratchless cleaning powder which has been dampened with kerosene. If this does not remove the stains, see if Javelle water won't do the work, or some other bleaching liquid which contains chlorine.

A FRIEND IN NEED

IF your bookcase harbors books on chemistry which are of no further interest to you I do hope you can be persuaded to part with them. A recent offer of such books printed in this column provoked a huge response, which showed markedly the plight of many young men and women of today.

Starved for knowledge, many of them started promising educations with definite careers in mind, when depression and responsibility stepped in and jinxed ambitious plans. Educations have been postponed indefinitly, or are being eked out in night schools. True, attempts are being made to meet the situation, various helps for students are being planned, but meanwhile there is a great need for assistance for those clinging to early ambitions and the pursuit of their set courses.

J. B. writes: "We would appreciate the books on organic chemistry. I have a son 16 years old, graduating from high school, who has his heart and soul set on chemical engineering. However, although I am working every day, I have eight other children to feed and clothe, and it is impossible for me to do much for him."

From a mother: "My son, 17 years old, is badly crippled. He attends a school for handicapped youngsters, where he is studying chemistry and science, and trying to earn a scholarship to college. My husband earns $20 a week and there are six in the family, so we are unable to provide a great deal for the boy. He would enjoy and appreciate text books."

Mrs. M. says: "I have been a laboratory technician for a number of years, but took time out to care for a family of three little boys. Now that necessity has compelled me to return to my profession to support them, I am painfully aware that my chemistry knowledge has become rusty. As my income cannot possibly provide for reference texts, I certainly would be grateful if I could obtain some of the books, particularly Henrich's 'Theories of Organic Chemistry.'"

Surely no one will allow good books to continue to gather dust when these, and many more persons, could be gratefully making use of them. Let me know what books you have, and we'll be glad to place you in touch with some of these student chemists. We have requests from all parts of the city.

Kansas Sculptress Wins British Royal Academy Regard

By Ann Whittingham.

LONDON Mrs. Bessie Callender of Wichita, Kas., is the only American whose sculpture was accepted by the Royal Academy for the summer exhibition at Burlington house. Her statue, shown to great advantage in one of the large halls, is that of a goat done directly from life into black marble, the "sitter" being an old favorite at the London zoo.

Mrs. Callender now is carving a large Egyptian looking cat figure, also taken from life at the zoo. She studied with Hilbert in Paris and, like him, imparts an early eastern austerity and stylization to her animals. Mrs. Callender has won distinction in several international exhibitions with falcons, deer, and other birds and animals. She expects to hold her own "one-man" show next autumn in London.

From the Royal academy, her "goat" and her "cat" will go to Manchester for the national exhibition there.

What A Startling Difference This Utterly New Shampoo Makes

IMPROPER WAY
Hair dull, covered with cloudy film.
CORRECT NEW WAY
No dull film; hair soft, shining like silk!
Even the most dull, drab looking hair yields to the magic touch of this amazing shampoo discovery . . . takes on new-found life and lustre with a single washing

It's no wonder women everywhere are raving about this amazing, new liquid shampoo no wonder one trial converts them for life! For it gives your hair a thrilling new gleam. Yes, actually transforms dull, average-looking hair into a brilliant, glistening halo. And does it in only one single application!

Look at the girl above to see what a difference it will make when you use it! So try it soon—see how beautiful, how radiant your hair really can be!

Just how this unusual shampoo works these miracles is a new scientific secret. It isn't oil, it isn't soap—it isn't anything you've heard of before. Scientists have brought us something brand-new; a shampoo so different that they've patented the process by which it is made. You simply wet your hair, shake on a few drops and instantly you get a glorious, billowy lather in any kind of water—5 times more than soap in the hardest kind of water. Rub it briskly into the hair, rinse once—and you're through.

"What?" you say, "No second rinses, no vinegar or special after-rinses?"

No—not one extra rinse! That's the marvelous part. This wonderful new shampoo, being neither oil nor soap, can't make that gummy, unrinsable film ordinary shampoos leave to cover up natural lustre. So your hair can be always radiant and glamorous, silky and smooth! No more like your former "mousey-looking" head than a diamond is like glass. Even more amazing, any loose dandruff disappears, leaving your scalp clean and alive.

Procter & Gamble make this marvel and you can buy it in various size bottles at all drug, department and ten cent stores. Remember—the name is Drene. And if you want your hair to look more beautiful, more alluring than ever before, you'd better try some right away!

Another thing—Drene gives bleached or dyed hair a wonderfully soft, undetectably natural look. And you'll be glad to find it's the most economical shampoo you ever used one half tablespoonful gives you the finest shampoo you've ever had, at a cost of only a few pennies.

Dynamic Styles Are Slim and High Waisted

Energetic Color Schemes Avoid Pretty Pastel Effects of Soft Tones.

By Bettina Bedwell.

PARIS.—[Special.]—A new youth movement, dynamic as an airplane, gay as June sunshine, as pulsating as a dance rhythm, is swinging into Paris and sweeping the styles into tune with it.

How old is Ann? is answered in summer, 1936, by the fashions that are just at the age when youth knows its power and uses the energy that courses in its veins. Not soft and girlish youth—these styles—nor tinged with baby sweetness. They are dynamic youth, and any woman with the sap of life in her can make use of them. They begin at the top of the head, and they finish at the soles of the feet. They're for movement, dancing, doing.

The first youth feeling is on the head. Hats are slapped on casually, with the brims of midsummer worn so the forehead shows, or they are worn cockeyed as a boy off to the baseball game would wear his dilapidated straw. When evening comes, and the hats disappear, the new styles for hairdressing keep to the youth movement, with the hair brushed back and up, and held by combs like a schoolgirl's hair, or bound back with silken fetters of ribbon.

Dresses Are Slim to the Hipline and Sleeves Full.

Dresses are slim to the hipline, with the waistline high and youthful, but not fitted to the skin, and skirts swing into fullness that is wide enough for real action and looks like youth incarnate. Shoulders are no longer exaggerated, but sleeves are often full. Gloves leave an expanse of bare arm visible. Colors are incredibly young and dynamic. Women wear a raspberry red jacket over a black dress, and a hyacinth blue hat on their heads, or other equally energetic color schemes. The colors are youth colors, but far away from sweet prettiness.

It must be heyday for the masseurs and the beauty fixers, for the slim, high waisted blouses are not doctors for thick midship regions, and those full tunics they clap on around the hipline territory make a point of a moderate slenderness underneath them.

The skirts being wide are slightly shorter, and the feet and legs have to be conscripted to the youth movement. Hose are light in tone, and often warm in color. The low, or moderate heeled sandals that are chic, demand slender, young ankles, for though they are cut out at the sides they are stripped around ankles that must look trim.

Style Youth Movement Is Most Striking Since 1919.

Not since 1919, when post-war womanhood bolted from stodgy middle age in clothes and life, has a youth movement been so striking. Every woman took to the knee length skirts, low waistlines, and bare arms of that period, and the new style trends are far easier to wear. Grandmothers have had sixteen years to get their figures pruned to present day ideals, and the latest youth fashions are being worn here in Paris by all the smartest grandmothers, and there are a good number amongst the Famous Forty.

The first stirring of this youth movement was the plaited skirt. The new skirts do away with plaits, and get that width with gores and gathers. Six and eight gored skirts flared from the hipline are the latest thing both for day and evening. Tunics that are gathered around the waistline and cut circular are the smartest. They are worn over a slim foundation skirt.

Schiaparelli's eight gored evening skirts illustrate the smart swing of the evening skirt. This dress is made of white muslin lightly starched to give it body. The blouse is slender, and fitted below the bosom with tucks. The short sleeves are flaring, being tucked horizontally into the armholes. A soft, draped collar finishes the neckline.

Etiquet Editor Tips Men Off on Hat Raising

Custom Is Charming Act of Courtesy; Means Lifting, Not Tipping.

The following booklets on wedding etiquet are available at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower lobby, or by mail from this department. Address mail requests to Helen Bartlett, Etiquet Editor, Chicago Tribune. "Planning the Church Wedding," 3 cents, by mail 5 cents. "Correct Wedding Apparel," 2 cents, by mail, 3 cents; "Selecting the Trousseau," 2 cents, by mail 3 cents; "Small Weddings at Small Cost," 2 cents, by mail 3 cents; "Color Ideas for Spring and Summer Weddings," 2 cents, by mail 3 cents.

By Helen Bartlett.

A GREAT many words have been directed to brides through this column during the last several weeks. A little relief from the subject is in order. And just so that our men readers won't get the idea that they are faultless, we'll remind them about raising their hats. Perhaps, if we broadcast loudly enough, a few members of the masculine clan will be convinced that it really is a charming gesture of courtesy, and a few others will realize that a listless, languid motion of a finger in the general direction of the hat brim is a lazy rendition of the custom, and not a little disrespectful.

A man extends, accepts, and acknowledges all courtesies, great or small, by a gracious raising of the hat, a stiff hat by the brim, a soft felt hat by the crown. Simply tilting or tipping the hat will not do; it should be completely and unmistakably raised.

Where and When Men Should Raise Hats.

Here are some of the specific instances when the hat raising custom should be observed.

Need we remind you men that your hat should be raised whenever and wherever a woman addresses you, indoors or out, and when you meet, and perhaps stop to talk to a woman on the street. You needn't keep your head uncovered all the time you are speaking to the woman, and endanger your health by exposure to the elements, but you must raise the hat momentarily. If you are walking with a woman, and meet another man or woman who is known to either one or both of you, raise your hat.

You must do the same when you greet an elderly man of your acquaintance, a superior in rank or office, a clergyman, or a man of distinction. And again, when the American flag is carried by, when the national anthem is played, when the cortège of a national figure passes, and in the presence of the dead.

Should a woman unknowingly drop an article as she is walking down the street, a man who notices the loss picks the article up and hurries after the woman to return it. She acknowledges the courtesy, he raises his hat, and immediately departs. If this woman is accompanied by a man, her escort also raises his hat to the other man in acknowledgment of the service. And when a man is taking leave of a group of women, or a group which includes a woman, he raises his hat.

Rule Also Stands in Bus or Street Car.

The man who rises to give his seat in the bus, "L," or street car, to a woman who is standing, lifts his hat. If this woman has an escort he, also, raises his hat in acknowledgment.

The matter of removing the hat when entering an elevator is a moot question. Some say yes, and some say no. We'll be on the safe side and compromise. In the elevator of a public building or office building, it is not necessary to raise your hat unless a woman of your acquaintance or one with whom you exchange greetings, and possibly casual conversation is present. In a club, hotel, residential hotel, or apartment building elevator, however, the hat should be removed.

King Edward Sets Week-End Vogue in Windsor Environs

LONDON King Edward's week-ends at Fort Belvedere have succeeded in making the environs of Windsor the social center of week-ending England. Among the people who have taken houses near Windsor are the Claude Leighs. They have rented Follejon Park, Winkfield row, Windsor, and spend much of their time there. They have given up their seaside house at Broadstairs since they find that the Windsor house is better in all ways for entertaining.

Entertaining constitutes a great part of Mrs. Leigh's life just now. There are two daughters who were presented to society and now are in the rush of their second season, Betty, Mr. Leigh's daughter, and Joyce, Mrs. Leigh's daughter. Joan, another of Mrs. Leigh's daughters, soon will be a debutante. Virginia, the only daughter of both Mr. and Mrs. Leigh, still is in the nursery stage.

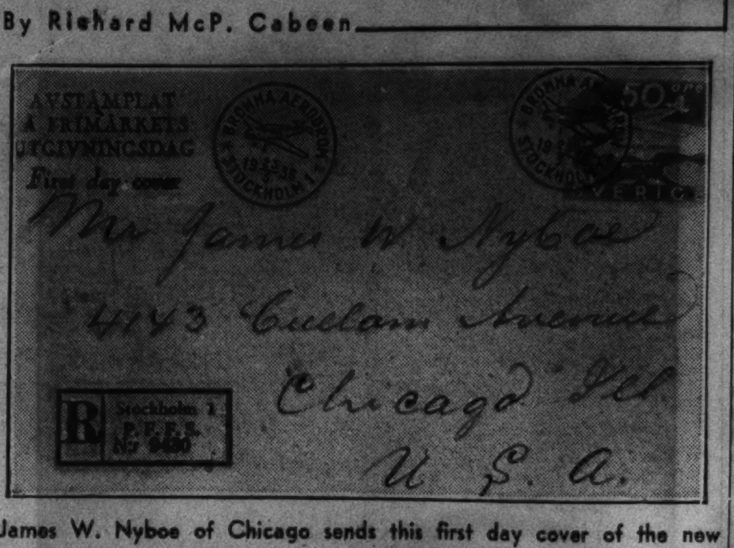
THE STAMP COLLECTOR

By Richard McP. Cabeen

Mr. Cabeen will answer questions about stamps, except concerning value. Do not ask where stamps may be sold as the Postage Stamps and Coins advertising section adjoining contains offers to buy and sell. Inclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope for reply.



James W. Nyboe of Chicago sends this first day cover of the new Swedish stamp recently announced in this column. The Bromma Airdrome is located three miles north of Stockholm, and this stamp was issued in connection with its formal inauguration. The issue was limited to 600,000 copies.

RECENTLY in a local stamp club a discussion arose in an attempt to explain the presence of guide lines and arrows in blocks of perforated, high value, stamps, and was not settled even though some of the members were owners of recent hand books on United States stamps.

It is not generally realized that plates are marked off into quarters by horizontal and vertical lines, regardless of the size of the plates. This rule, however, cannot be followed absolutely in the case of large and odd size stamps, but holds true for all of the dollar values from 1917 to date.

The issue of 1917 consists of the reissue of the two dollar blue [Madison] and five dollar green [Marshall] values, series of 1902, which had been discontinued some time before. Plates for these values contained 200 subjects in 20 vertical rows of 10, marked off into panes of 50 by horizontal and vertical lines. The sheets of stamps were cut along the vertical line into postoffice panes of 100 stamps, each containing a horizontal guide line with complete arrows at right or left, and yielding pairs or blocks with a horizontal line between the stamps.

In 1918 new designs in two colors replaced these stamps. These were the two dollar red and black [Franklin] and the five dollar green and black [Franklin], printed from 100 subject plates. Since full size sheets of 100 stamps were sold at postoffices, it is possible for collectors to have all position blocks including crossed guide lines.

In 1923 new designs were issued in connection with a new complete series of stamps, with the one dollar and two dollar values printed in a single color each, but with the five dollar value bicolored. The one dollar violet brown [Lincoln memorial] and the two dollar blue [Capitol] were printed from plates containing 200 subjects in 10 vertical rows of 20. Horizontal and vertical guide lines divided the plate into panes of 50, but postoffice panes contained 100 stamps with a vertical guide line at the center, and yield arrow blocks from top or bottom and blocks with vertical guide line between the stamps.

The five dollar carmine and blue [America] is printed from a plate of 100 subjects of the same layout as used for the five dollar, series 1918, and yields a similar set of position blocks.

The display of George R. M. Ewing at the recent stamp exhibition in New York included perforated gutter blocks of the regular one cent and three cent Century of Progress commemorative stamps. This indicates that uncut sheets of these stamps, at least one sheet of each value, found their way into collectors' hands while the stamps were current.

Postal officials have nothing to say on the question. Perhaps they should have been included in the list of "Farley Follies" which were put on sale last year to soothe the outraged collectors. However, there may be other ways for printers' waste to reach collectors in addition to the gratuities distributed by Mr. Farley.

There is no accounting for the whims of stamp collectors, for they howled when it was discovered that Mr. Farley had distributed sheets of unfinished stamps, and they became even louder when it was learned that these stamps would be placed on sale so that everyone could have his fill. When it was announced that a complete set of the "Farley Follies" would cost about $192 the collectors were crying on each other's shoulders and swearing not to be a party to the deal. At the present time, just a year after the three months' sale was ended, the set is selling at about $500 and the same collectors are again bemoaning their luck.

It has been stated many times in this column that the more unpopular an issue is, the better property it eventually will become. The Omaha commemorative set, which is "tops" among United States commemorative issues, was practically unsalable during the period of issue because of the efforts of stamp publications and the Society for the Suppression of Speculative Stamps.

Cachets and Covers.

Edward E. Bryan, P. O. Box 304, Albany, Ore., has a series of 13 cachets, covering the anniversaries of historical events occurring during the summer months. Send 13 stamped and addressed covers with 13 cents in coin to cover forwarding. Prepay your package in full and use commemoratives on the wrapper.

Bernstein and Arnold will apply two cachets on July 21, to mark the anniversary of the battle of Bull Run. Send two covers, stamped and addressed but unsealed before July 13, with one cent per cover to pay forwarding charges, to A. Bernstein, 2 Lafayette street, Room 1504, New York, N. Y. Prepay with commemoratives.

H. S. Groat, USCS No. 89, 110 Madison street, Seattle, Wash., will sponsor a cachet in four colors commemorating the 160th anniversary of American independence on July 4. Covers will be postmarked aboard naval vessels. Send as many prepared, standard size covers as desired to reach Seattle by June 26, with 1 cent each for forwarding. Commemoratives on wrapper appreciated.

The Westmont Cover club, Westmont, Ill., will sponsor a cachet on July 4 for the anniversary of the birth of Calvin Coolidge, and another on July 11 for John Quincy Adams. Send standard covers at once, stamped and addressed, and include 1 cent per cover for forwarding. Commemoratives appreciated.

This Week in the Garden

Monday, June 22.

Spray or dust cabbages with arsenate of lead to kill the worms. These plants grow from the inside, and no harm can result from using poison. Do not delay until the worms have mutilated the plants. Give all flowering plants plenty of water during dry weather for a luxuriant growth is necessary to obtain numerous flowers of quality. After watering, and when the soil has partially dried, stir the soil to conserve moisture. Keep the chrysanthemums well watered. Pinch out the tips to insure a thick, branching habit with many buds and dwarf growth. Showy, flowering plants are more highly colored when grown in direct sun. Plants of this kind become spindly when grown too close together, or in a shady place.

Tuesday, June 23.

Keep all spring planted trees, shrubs, and perennials well wattered. Mulching with strawy manure is an excellent practice. Save the lawn by watering whenever watering becomes necessary. A slight sprinkling does little good. Be sure to remove the old lilac blooms or seeds, as they detract from the general appearance of the plant, and take away much of the strength that should go to the production of new wood and flower buds. The cause for lilacs not blooming frequently is due to starvation, or the lack of some element in the soil. Use a food that contains a good amount of phosphorus.

Wednesday, June 24.

It is not too late to plant pot plants of all kinds, and especially annuals, to fill in bare spots where certain groups have not done as well as expected. Pot roses will come along nicely. Many perennials may be sown at this time, but select a place in the garden that can be given proper care as to watering. A spent hotbed or a cold frame is just the place for seeds, for it is under control at all times. Sow the seed carefully, shade until germination has taken place, and shade whenever the sun is likely to injure the young seedlings.

Thursday, June 25.

A second application of fertilizer may be given to the lawn at this time. Two pounds of a complete commercial plant food to each 100 square feet will suffice, for it will furnish sufficient food to carry the lawn until fall. Follow directions to avoid burning. Black spot and mildew on roses require a weekly application of spray or dust to be effective. Spray the underside of the leaves, as well as the upper. Sulphur and Bordeaux dust, or liquid spray, usually is the material used. It is not too late to prune the spring flowering shrubs to encourage the formation of new and abundant wood.

Friday, June 26.

A few tuberous begonias planted in a partially shaded spot later will give lovely flowers. Unless unusually large flowers of dahlias are wanted, two or more stems may be left on each plant. Simply pinch out the center of two more stalks or stems, and retain the number wanted. Some showy flowers may be obtained in this way. Often annual flowering plants do poorly after the first display of bloom. Make an application of plant food to promote additional, strong growth.

Saturday, June 27.

Pinching out the tips of evergreens will prevent long, straggly growth. These plants frequently grow out of bounds, and unless checked they soon become unmanagable. Do not shear the plants, but simply pinch out the tips. Be sure to water newly planted trees, and do a thorough job of it. Mulching with hay, straw, or strawy manure, removing the material until the plant is watered and replacing it afterward, is good practice.

RELATIVES MAY SPOIL THE CHILD

By Gladys Huntington Bevans

Often Ignore Authority of Mother and Intrude Upon Family's Privacy.

By Gladys Huntington Bevans.

RARELY do I receive an anonymous letter. Those that I do receive are usually from some tender-hearted grandmother or family friend who sees children she is interested in whipped or punished severely, or cruelly misunderstood, or utterly neglected. She looks on, helpless, because she knows that any word from her would be resented, and would probably break off friendly relations, and in that case the child would be, she also feels, left without even the slight protection of her sympathetic eye. These friends of children hope the publication of their letters and an accompanying article might help, but do not want to sign their names.

The other anonymous letters I receive are apt to be from women whose own and children's lives are being ruined by an overdose of family affection and interest which resolves itself into continual interference, especially in the management of the children. An example of that is quite fully described in this communication written, as many others are, in utter desperation.

Relatives Don't Know the Meaning of Mine and Thine.

"Dear Mrs. Bevans: I am writing to your department for the third time on this same subject. So far I have not seen anything in the papers, Sunday or daily, about my problem, although I have followed your column. Again I beg you to please write something for the benefit of mothers who have the same problem with which to cope.

"Your articles on 'mine and thine' as far as children are concerned have been most wonderful. But, I think an article devoted to grownups on the same subject of 'mine and thine' in another sense would be quite the thing.

"I have been married seven years. I have three adorable girls, and a sweet baby boy who is 12 months old. There has been only one drawback to my otherwise happy marriage. My mother-in-law gave us a lovely home for a wedding gift. By now I'd be willing to give up this perfect home if I could move miles and miles away.

This Family Circle Has No Privacy Whatsoever.

"The reason for this is simply because my in-laws never have been taught the meaning of mine and thine. We live only a block away from them. They are here all hours of the day, if not one, then another. Our own family circle has no privacy whatsoever. If I sew, they have to know what and why, if I entertain they want to know who and when. And when I do entertain, they are sure to 'drop' in.

"They tell me a mother is tied down. The tying down my children do is comparatively small to the inconvenience these relatives cause. In the morning when I try to do my housework, they come in and disturb me, so that when my husband comes home, I have to be busy trying to finish my tasks. It makes my husband provoked, and inwardly we both are angry, but outwardly we are as sweet as ever. It would never do for us to say thing to them, for their influence in our town would make matters worse than they are now. Isn't that enough to make any homemaker gray and old before her time?

"Another thing they do is monopolize the children. The sisters-in-law are only interested in us and our children, and don't care to have other interests.

"My own mother taught me that when I married, I should be my husband's pal and companion. My place should be in my own home, and other things should be secondary. When the first baby came, I thought everything would be complete, but my husband's family must have thought that I married them too, for the baby seemed to belong to them.

Selfishness Not Motive, but a Desire for Order.

"I don't want to be selfish with my family, and keep people from my home. It is only that I wish they would give me a few moments to myself, so that I could get my schedules going the way I would like, and give my children a little more time and attention. I think a lot of my in-laws. When I was married it was my hope to make them care for me too.

"What would you suggest in a case like this? Don't you think in years to come it will be detrimental to my children? Am I just a foolish woman to feel like I'm 50 at 36?

"Please help me and others who are perplexed."

The question is, will this frank and confidential revelation open the eyes of many fond but possessive families-in-law, and so help this young woman and others in the same boat? It may. I am printing it in the hope that it will.

Many Older Folks Mean No Intrusion.

Of course, some people like to have a finger in some one else's affairs, but on the other hand, many older folks, or really devoted uncles and aunts, don't mean to intrude or interfere. They just don't realize what they are doing. Often all they need is to have someone "hold the mirror up to nature," and help them to see the error of their ways. They will find that a warmer relationship and a closer tie is formed by less familiarity—for familiarity, when it goes too far, inevitably "breeds contempt."

"Tips for Tired Mothers," a fully written leaflet, may help you out of your "slough of despondency." A large, stamped, self-addressed envelope will bring it to you.

For grownups who spoil children with the wrong kind of attention, our leaflet, "Wholesome Neglect Is Often Cure for Undesirable Behavior," makes interesting reading. It is sent out on receipt of a large, stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request.

Mrs. Bevans' column also appears in the Tribune on Monday and every other weekday.

SUMMER FORTUNE

By Eleanor Jewett.

The world is full in summertime
Of little bugs that crawl and climb;
There are a million kinds of bugs
From bees and wasps to ants and slugs.

I like best those that do not squirm,
Yet most I love a measuring-worm,
I watch it pace my leg with pride—
A new dress lurks in every stride!

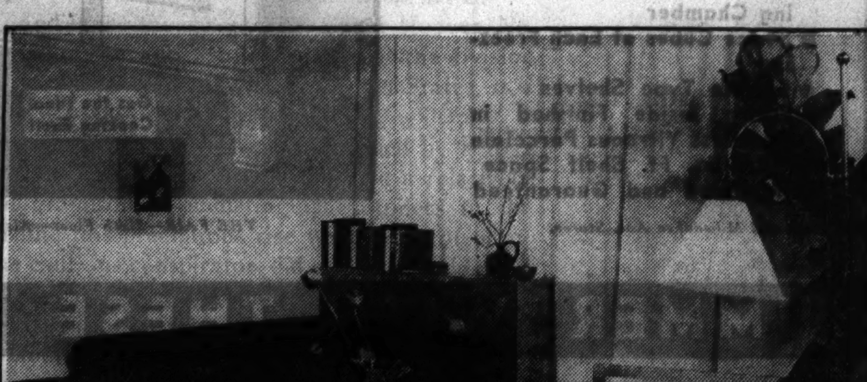
STUDENT HANDICRAFT



The furniture in this picture was made by young students in the Lake Forest academy, Lake Forest, Ill., and shows what can be done by any amateur cabinet maker. The wood used was birch that had been given an artistic, light, natural finish.

Pupils Design and Construct Birch Furniture

Simple, Effective Pieces Are Created by Young Amateur Craftsmen.

"Bringing New Style and Beauty to Old Furniture," a new booklet by Edith Weigle, tells how to change ugly or down at the heel pieces to attractive chairs, tables, etc. Price, 3 cents by mail, 2 cents at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower lobby.

By Edith Weigle.

LAST week we told of several excellent books for the amateur furniture craftsman. Today we have a photograph of some pieces made by young students in the Lake Forest academy at Lake Forest, Ill. It shows what can be done along modern lines by any one interested in making things with his own hands.

Under the supervision of James L. Prestini, assisted by H. Samuel Kruse of the art department of the school, the following boys constructed the articles pictured: John Hager, Robert A. Heylum, Richard A. Bush, Joseph S. Kaufman, and Charles R. Seaborne. All the wood used was birch, given a finish of especially prepared lacker to preserve its natural, light quality. No ornamentation other than the grain of the wood itself was needed.

Extreme Simplicity Is the Keynote of Every Piece.

All of the forms were kept extremely simple. Note that the chairs are hung between two absolutely plain open square frames, and that the top of the coffee table is one solid piece of the birch supported by four slender columns of tubular chromium.

Complex Items Should Not Be Attempted by Beginner.

A radio was built into the headboard of the day bed. The covering of the bed is chartreuse green terry cloth, while on the chairs a tomato red fabric was used for contrast. One wall is hidden by the graceful folds of long white linen draperies.

A white Moroccan rug is on the floor.

For the beginner in furniture building, pieces such as this are much more practical than chests of drawers, desks, and more complex items. They are, at the same time, comfortable and sturdy, and will give good service for years to come.

A helpful little book on finishes is "Instructional Units in Wood Finishing," by R. A. McGee and Arthur G. Brown [Bruce Publishing Co.]. In definite, concrete form you are told just how to prepare and apply wood stains, paste wood filler, shellac, oil varnish, and lacker; how to rub down and polish a varnished surface; how to mix and match colors; how to apply a Tiffany finish, or a stencil or transfer, or a polychrome finish, and how to refinish wood surfaces.

There's an old saying to the effect that anything is easy if you only know how. This small volume tells you how, and should be on the shelves of the amateur craftsman before, not after, he starts in to refinish that old table, or to remove the varnish from the piano bench, or to paint a bureau. It will save a lot of fuss and bother.

Auxiliary of Moose to Meet Here July 1 to 4

Delegates of 800 Lodges to Give Consideration to Mooseheart Program.

WHILE members of the Loyal Order of the Moose are in Chicago the beginning of July for their 48th international convention, their women's division will assemble in the La Salle hotel to review the past year's work and make plans for the 1936-'37 program.

MRS. MARGARET JOHNSON.

[Theatrical Studio Photo.]

This will be the 9th annual conference of the Women of the Moose. The dates are July 1 to 4. Delegates from 800 lodges, representing 31,000 women, will attend the sessions.

The conference has been timed to follow the commencement exercises and pageant at Mooseheart, which is the chief objective of the woman's program. Of chief interest at Mooseheart is, perhaps, the child research laboratory, a project unique in this country. This laboratory was established to give the best opportunities possible to orphaned children of Moose members, and to advance scientific knowledge about the normal child. During its six years it has proved of definite value to children generally.

Well Known Educators and Scientists on Board.

A voluntary board composed of 24 well known educators and scientists serves the laboratory. They are Dr. John E. Anderson of the University of Minnesota, Dr. Anton J. Carlson of the University of Chicago, Dr. Edgar A. Doll of Vineland, N. J., and Dr. Charles H. Judd of the University of Chicago, Dr. Charles A. Prosser of Minneapolis, Mrs. T. Wingate Todd of Western Reserve university, Dr. Paul L. Schroeder of the Institute for Juvenile Research, Dr. Martha Van Rensselaer of the New York State College for Home Economics, Dr. Ernest W. Burgess of the University of Chicago, Dr. Henry F. Helmhols of the Mayo clinic, Dr. Ernest Horn of the University of Iowa, and Dr. Martin L. Reymert, who is the laboratory director at Mooseheart.

Mrs. Margaret Johnson of 7339 North Damen avenue is the general chairman of the convention arrangements. A large committee is assisting her.

Pi Beta Phi Sorority to Hold Convention.

Beginning today and continuing throughout the week, the members of Pi Beta Phi sorority will meet at the Edgewater Beach hotel for their 32d biennial convention.

At the alumnæ session tomorrow Dean Maria Leonard of the University of Illinois will be the principal speaker. Most of Wednesday is to be devoted to entertainment, including a boat trip on Lake Michigan. The climax will be reached Friday evening with a banquet in the ballroom of the Edgewater Beach. The general chairman of convention arrangements is Mrs. Homer Bang of Evanston.

Another national sorority, Gamma Phi Beta is to hold its annual convention the end of this week and the beginning of next in Victoria, British Columbia. This will be the sorority's 39th convention since its founding in 1874 at the University of Syracuse. Omicron chapter at the University of Illinois is sending as its official delegate Miss Jennea Ranger of Belvidere, a senior in the university and president of her chapter. Miss Ranger will be accompanied by Miss Phyllis Armstrong of Streator, and Miss Marian Kaesar of Highland, two sorority sisters.

Several National Sororities Convene Here This Week.

The members of Kappa Kappa Gamma living in the south and west are to hold a miniature convention in Chicago today en route to their real convention this week at the Seigneury club in the province of Quebec. Mrs. Horace V. Condit has made arrangements for the meeting here. There will be luncheon at noon in the Stevens hotel, followed by drives to the south side and the north shore. Dinner will be at the Edgewater Beach hotel. The party will leave Chicago at 11:30 o'clock tonight, arriving in Montebello, Quebec, in time for the opening of the convention on Tuesday.

Going from here to the convention, besides Mrs. Condit, are Mrs. Richard C. Evans, Mrs. Thomas B. Singleton, Mrs. John Owens, Mrs. S. D. Flinn, Mrs. George W. Bonner, and Mrs. George H. Hartong.

Still another sorority, Psi Delta Sigma national sorority, will have its annual meeting next Friday, Saturday, and Sunday, in the Knickerbocker hotel, with Mrs. Elsie Dench presiding. There will be a formal dinner-dance Saturday evening, and the installation of officers next Sunday. The convention plans are being directed by Miss Claudine Reynolds.

Parent-Teacher Congress Managers to Meet.

The board of managers of the Illinois Congress of Parents and Teachers will hold a two day meeting Wednesday and Thursday in the Stevens hotel. Mrs. Arthur R. Williams of Normal will be here to preside and to report on the national convention last month in Milwaukee.

Young women graduates of the University of Illinois, coming to Chicago to seek their fortunes, are finding a warm welcome awaiting them. The Chicago Illinois club, in coöperation with the Chicago Collegiate Bureau of Occupations, has been making plans to find jobs for the 1936 graduates in their chosen fields.

A local committe has been contacting lists of prominent alumnæ with a view to obtaining interviews and finding job possibilities for the graduates. Each girl is first welcomed by the alumnæ group, and then registered with the bureau. This coöperation between campus, alumnæ, and college placement organization has been carried on in an informal way for many years, but this spring it is taking shape as a concrete project which should be of great value to graduates.

Winners in Scholarship Contest Announced.

Mrs. Cornelius J. Peeples, as publicity chairman for the Chicago Woman's Musical club, makes announcement of the winners in the annual scholarship contest conducted recently by the club's young artists' department. Mrs. Emma Roe was chairman of the competition held for voice, piano, and violin.

The winners and their teachers who receive money awards for the continuance of the lessons are as follows: Voice, Miss Louisa Hoe and her teacher, Miss Nellie Gardiner; piano, Miss Elizabeth Van Pelt and her teacher, Miss Elizabeth Moritz; violin, William Faldner and his teacher, Mischa Michakoff. Mrs. Merritt M. Ranstead is president of the Chicago Woman's Musical club. The group meets the first Thursday of each month in the Fine Arts building.

ENGAGED TO MARRY.

Miss Mary Katherine Hagenauer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Hagenauer of South Loomis st., is engaged to be married to Richard Bombenger, son of Mrs. J. Bombenger of Beverly.

Pumice or Sand in Varnish Makes Less Slippery Deck

HOME owners who live near the water's edge and are modernizing their boats for summer use will do well to remember that if a varnished deck is wet, it's slippery. To do away with this danger, sprinkle a little powdered pumice, or fine grain sand into the varnish. The family will be less likely to skid.

Another attempt is being made by tobacconists in London, England, to market a delicate, mild cigar for women smokers.

Did This New Orange Juice And BonKora Cocktail Way Make Her Lose 45 Lbs. Fat Fast?

185 lbs. 125 lbs.

"... the thing one finds many a fashionable New Yorker drinking everywhere you go these fine Spring days is a BonKora Cocktail, made from Orange Juice and BonKora.

"Its rage seems to have started when it became noised about that a registered nurse, who could no longer work on account of her weak, fatty condition, lost 45 pounds and 10 inches off her hips with the result that she was able to go back to work again mainly by resorting to this pungent BonKora Cocktail method."

No Dangerous Drugs—No Thyroid—No Dinitrophenol—No Starvation

How the BonKora Cocktail Way Has Helped Many People to Lose Pounds of Ugly Fat

"Drinking a glassful of chilled Orange Juice mixed with a tablespoonful of BonKora, two times a day, and eating their fill of the delicious foods, as shown in the BonKora package, it is claimed, has made many people lose from 7 to 67 pounds, and has made their waist and bust measurements go down from 3 to 11 inches.

"The reason why this Orange Juice and BonKora way seems to produce such amazing results is first, the Orange Juice provides for the necessary vitamins to maintain health and supplies the elements to counteract the harmful over-acid conditions that develop while reducing, and, second, the BonKora helps to provide for the proper elimination of the toxins or poisons which often interfere with normal metabolism and make reduction of weight very difficult if not impossible."

Will You Try This Orange Juice and BonKora Way To See If You Can Lose Pounds of Excess Fat?

"Where any person is bothered with avoidable and reducible overweight caused by poor elimination, overeating or overdrinking, which is held responsible for more than 85% of all overweight conditions, it is said that this new method often causes a loss of excess fat that is little short of sensational—Also, new enthusiasts will probably be much interested to know how much better those who have tried it say they feel, how much better they say they sleep and how much better fitted for work they say they are."

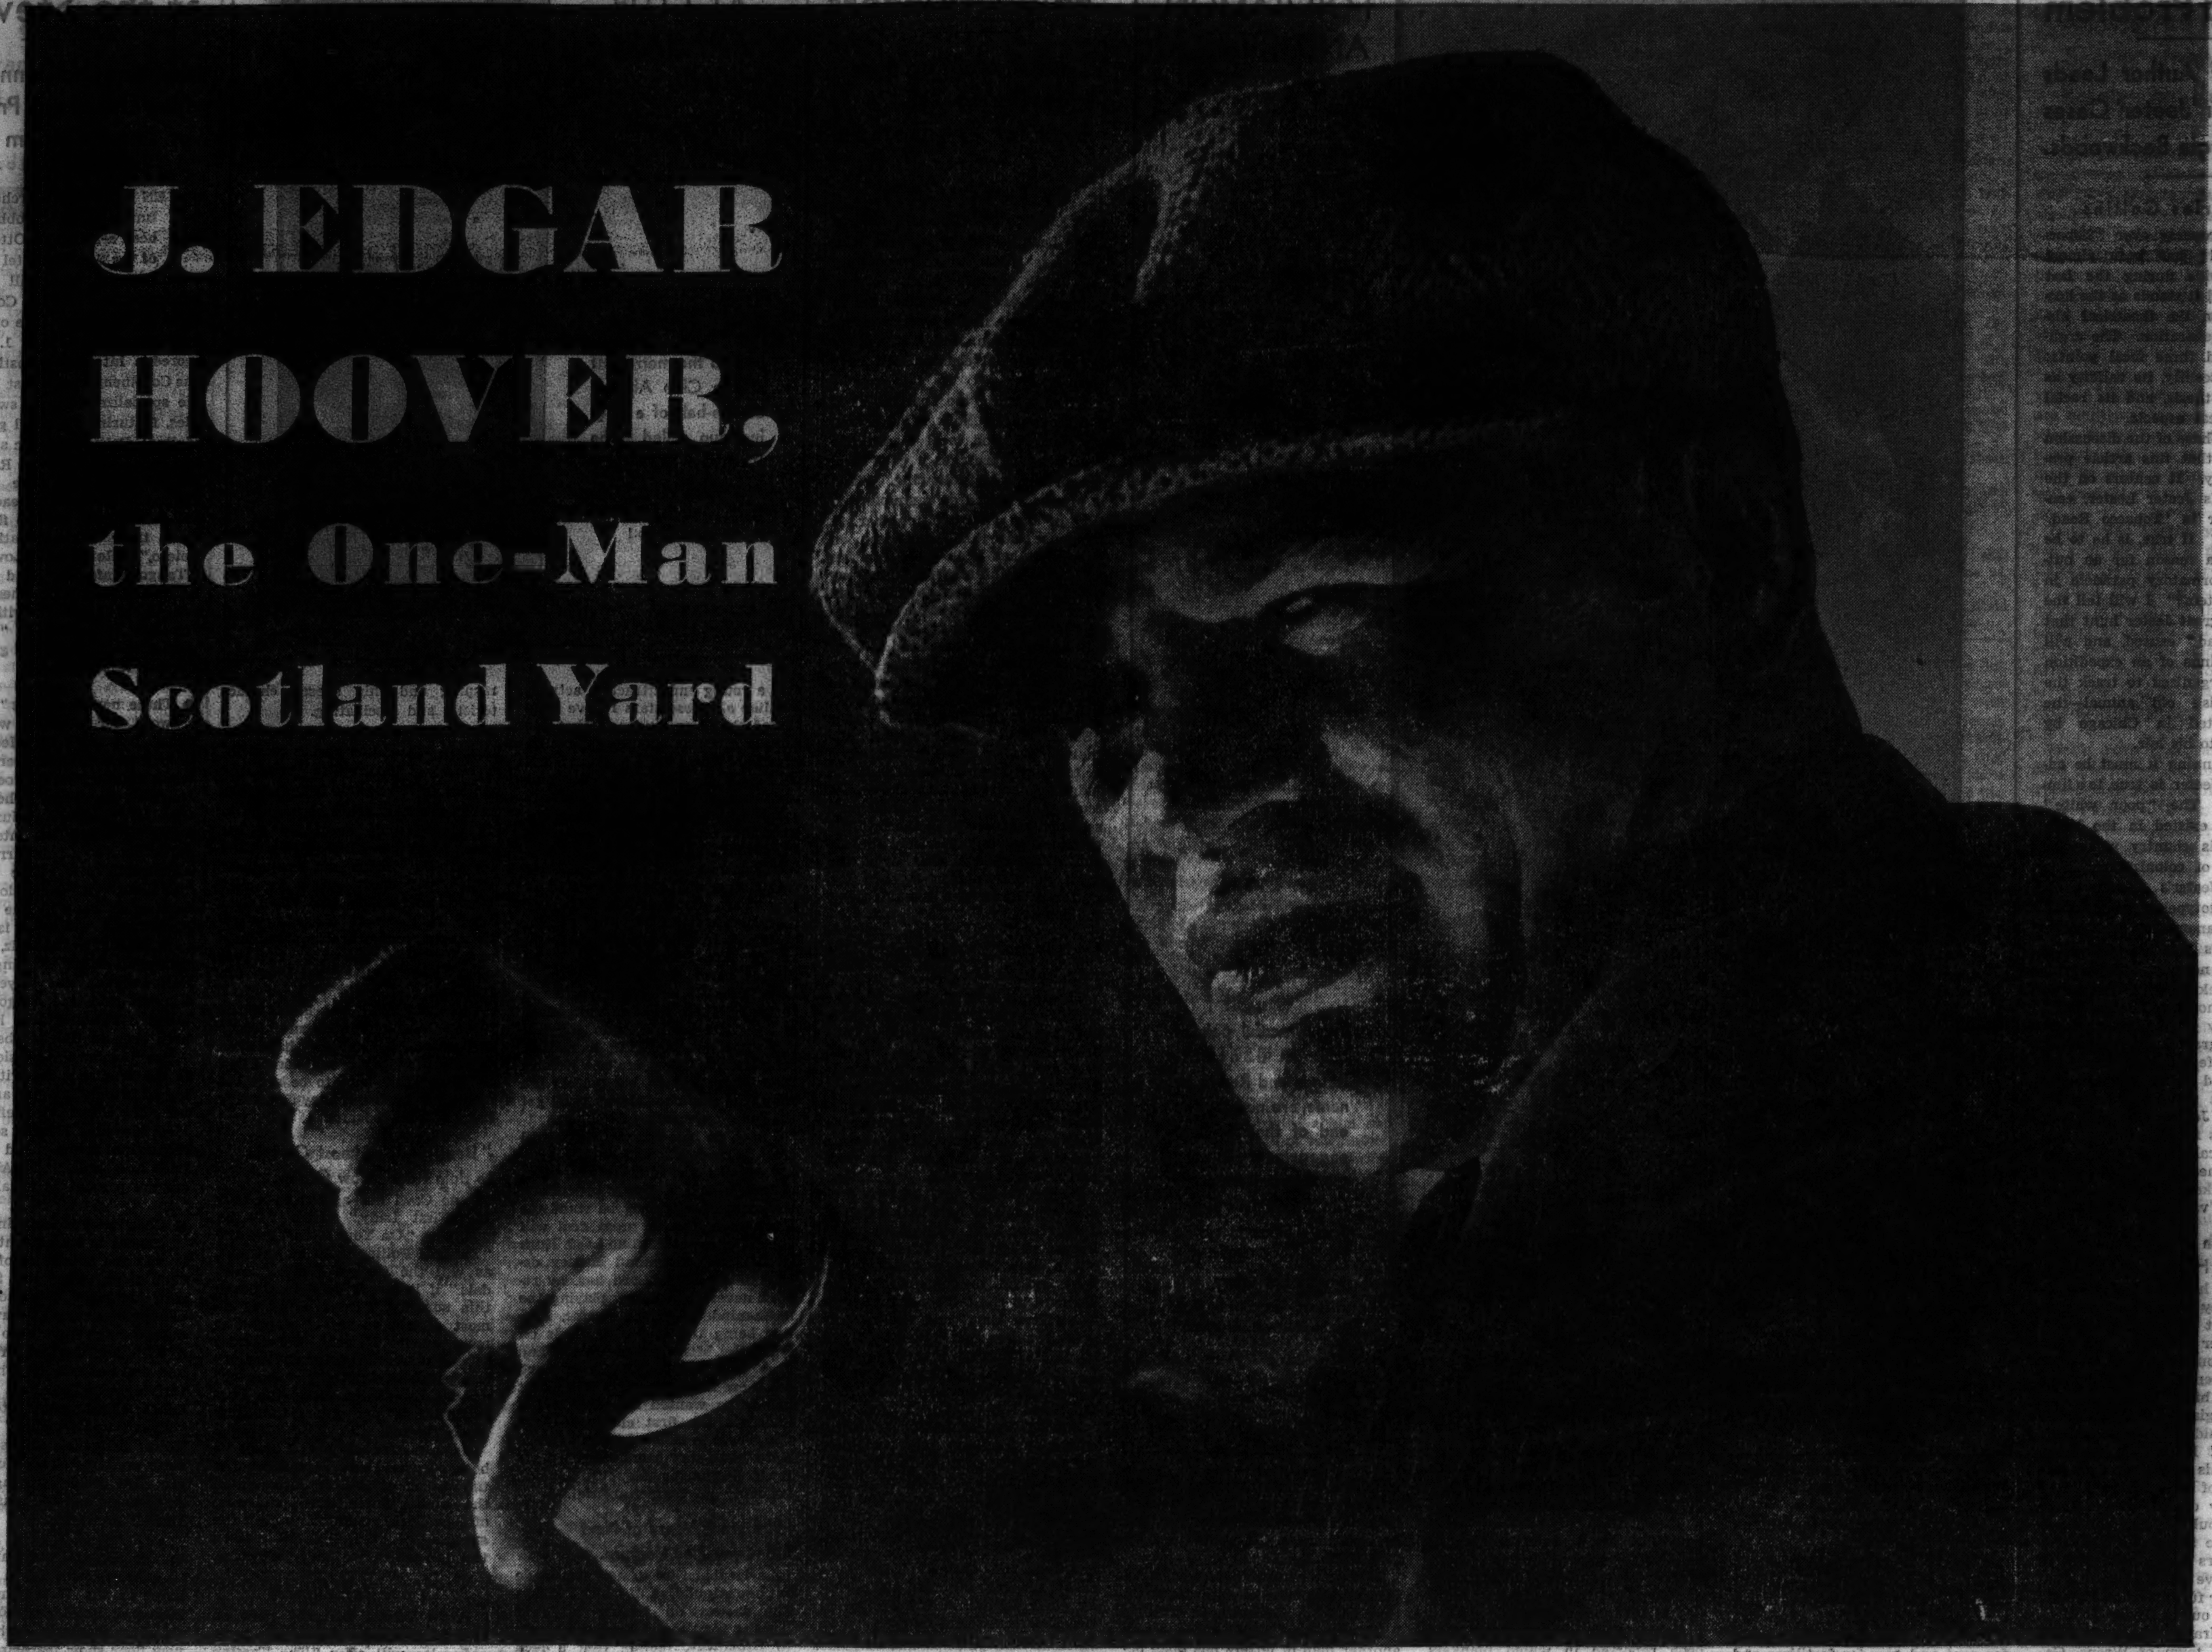
J. EDGAR HOOVER, the One-Man Scotland Yard



"In every search for a criminal [typified by the man in the picture above] Hoover has directed operatives to look for woman associates of the malefactor." (Photo by Sarra, Inc.)

Chief of the G-Men—Record of His Career

By WALTER TROHAN

Washington, D. C.

FOR subtle mixture of fact and fancy the career of J. Edgar Hoover, No. 1 G-man by virtue of his turgescent official title, director of the division of investigation of the department of justice of the United States, is a fascinating study in the molding of a myth.

In less than three years a tide of printer's ink, accompanied by a roar of sound films and radio programs, has given heroic stature to a relatively obscure burocrat, the son and grandson of undistinguished toilers in the federal red tape vineyards. Behind this precipitous rise were years of preparation, for Mr. Hoover, like the cautious conspirator, did not disclose himself to a startled public until he was certain he could command its attention.

To a fired public imagination he is a veritable reincarnation of the Greek goddess of retributive justice, Nemesis. In popular fancy he is all that the cartoon strips of omniscient and omnipotent trackers of equally fictitious super bad men are portrayed to be. He is a Sherlock Holmes without the violin, the tobacco-stuffed slipper, and the needle, but with the machine gun, the microscope, and the tear gas gun

To thoroughly disgusted colleagues in federal investigatorial units, who for years have followed a policy of strict anonymity in no less thrilling and possibly more successful games of hounds and hares with the criminal element, he is a Keystone cop and his men callow drug store cowboys with twitchy trigger fingers and a love of the limelight. These tried veterans look upon Hoover as a clerk who by plodding long enough in a bureau found himself one day in the rôle of a detective and began to play the part.

To those between the two extremes Director Hoover is a man who suddenly found he must act a rôle. Behind the actor and in the man there is something of the Javert of Victor Hugo's "Les Miserables" and something of Joseph Fouché, director of police under the first Napoleon.

Like Javert, Hoover has inflexible devotion to duty as he sees it. Unlike Javert, Hoover is not a police officer in training or by instinct. It is gravely doubtful whether Hoover—and this is said without disrespect—could single-handed track down the perpetrator of a crime in the scientific manner taught at his school. Some doubt that a single G-man could track down a criminal without the aid of local police.

The Fouche in Hoover is more striking. It will be remembered that the young French seminarian, without the slightest police experience, rose by most skilful political maneuvering to the ducal rank by never guessing wrong politically and a system of spying so adroit that it is said that he even had the Empress Josephine spying on Napoleon and Napoleon on the Empress Josephine.

J. Edgar Hoover, No. 1 G-man. (Acme photo.)

Lindbergh Kidnap Law Puts Him Before Public

Hoover, too, has played skilfully in the political arena—his position alone bespeaks that. Further, the number of southerners in the ranks of G-men, a movement which took place shortly before the New Deal came into office and at a time when Democratic senators and representatives were preparing for the committee chairmanships they now hold, gives evidence that the director knows how to court favor.

Of Hoover's spying little is and little likely would be known. The reports and rumors—and they are nothing more than that—will be discussed later. His friends have stoutly insisted that these are but the fabrications of jealous minds and if for nothing else than a lack of specific evidence they must be discounted.

As for Hoover's opinion of himself, there is concrete evidence that he leans to the popular myth. It must be remembered that he never made an arrest and never went on the hot or cold spoor of a malefactor until after he had been subjected to senatorial inquisition on his record as a policeman. Then he flitted about the country by plane to be in at seizures to wipe off the tarnish on the crown of the No. 1 G-man and to forestall similar embarrasment in future visits to Capitol hill.

J. Edgar Hoover is a descendant of early settlers in Washington. Somewhere in the late seventeenth century a Hoover left his alpinstock and the echo of his yodels in Switzerland and went for a complete change of scenery in the dike-guarded flats of Holland. Tiring of these placid surroundings, another Hoover moved to the new world. By the early 1800s a Hoover family settled in the muddy streets of Washington that were the dream of a great city only to Architect Pierre L'Enfant.

The Hoovers settled in the unpretentious southeast section in an area known as Pipetown in the informal nomenclature of the day, which dubbed other districts Hell's Bottom, Foggy Bottom, Cowtown, etc. Pipetown is the only one of these patronymics to achieve any sort of fame, and that because John Philip Sousa, who was born and reared in its outskirts, immortalized it in "Pipetown Sandy."

'Tobacco Road' as Picture of 'Poor White' Problem in South

Play Presents Distorted View of Old Problem

Father of Author Leads Hunt for 'Jeeter' Cases in Georgia Backwoods.

By Charles Collins.

THE controversy over "Tobacco Road" has been almost country-wide during the last year, and it stands as the hottest debate in the theatrical history of this generation. The argument has had three focal points: the play's obscenity, its validity as an economic thesis, and its racial and sociological aspects.

The latter phase of the discussion is the point that this article proposes to study. It centers on the question: "Is Jeeter Lester, central character in 'Tobacco Road,' true or false? If true, is he to be regarded as a reason for an outbreak of reformatory paranoia in our social system?" I will tell the story of the great Jeeter hunt that "Tobacco Road" caused, and will give the findings of an expedition which was organized to track the shaggy, ruttish old animal—the character acted in Chicago by Henry Hull—to his lair.

In the beginning it must be admitted that Jeeter is true, to a limited degree. The "poor white" problem has existed in the backwoods of this country since the early period of colonization. The records of Jeeter's existence, in scattered prototypes, may be found in profusion among the Americana of the nation's libraries. Other observers have not viewed him with the horror-seeking eyes of Erskine Caldwell, author of "Tobacco Road," nor have they grubbed so dismally into the degraded characteristics of his sex life; nevertheless they have identified him clearly enough. The southern states have had no monopoly on Jeeter, although they have been his favorite habitat; see the sociological classics that deal with the genealogy of the Jukes and the Kallikaks for the traits of the northern variety.

Author's Papa Leads Jeeter Hunters.

The Jeeter hunt of Georgia was touched off by a series of articles on the plight of southern sharecroppers under depression and New Deal conditions, written for the New York Evening Post by Erskine Caldwell in his "Tobacco Road" mood. Georgia was already resentful of Caldwell because of his treatment of his native state in fiction and his emphasis upon the degeneracy of the "poor white" class. Angry denials of his statements were published by the newspapers of the state, and hundreds of vox-poppers took their pens in hand to prove to the world that the talent for furious counterattack had not died out in Dixie.

The Rev. Ira Sylvester Caldwell of the small town of Wrens, Ga., then spoke up as the author's proud father.

"If you want to know where Jeeter lives," he said in effect, "I will show you."

The Augusta Chronicle, which calls itself "the south's oldest newspaper" [150 years], accepted Parson Caldwell's challenge. It promised a complete investigation of Jeeter's haunts and an accurate, uncompromising report of the findings.

Two of the Chronicle's best reporters were told to go out into the sandhill section of Jefferson county to find Jeeter and his kin and every one who seemed to suffer from Jeeterism. The Rev. Caldwell served as their guide; he took them into a region between the towns of Wrens and Keystone—the exact geographical center of the locale for "Tobacco Road." The area is approximately twenty-five miles southwest of Augusta.

Case Reports on Poor White Trash.

The Jeeter hunters scouted the sandhill and brushwood country along little used roads and trails for days, with Papa Caldwell as their pathfinder. The Chronicle faithfully published their reports in long, boldly displayed articles. Altogether they discovered about a dozen families that were suffering from Jeeterism in one form or another, mild or severe. Caldwell Senior's estimate of the total number of such families in the entire county was thirty-five.

Here are condensed reports on three typical cases:

A family of sixteen in a dilapidated two room house — tenant farmers—charged 800 pounds of cotton as rent. Last year's crop was four bales. After paying two bales for rent and two for fertilizer and expenses advanced, they found that their year's profit was sixty-two cents.

A one room house containing a mother, son, imbecile daughter and the latter's two illegitimate children. This girl, again pregnant, admitted that the paternity of her children was miscellaneous. The father of one of them was her cousin.

An old man unable to work because of heart disease; his wife, aged 60, who walked ten miles to a nearby town to beg food; a son, 21 years old, suffering from undernourishment. Two rag covered beds shared with a homeless young woman. No food in the house at the time of the visit. Principal article of diet, corn bread.

Venereal disease was found among some of the twelve families that figured in the reports.

Investigators Say Real Jeeters Are Scarce.

The Rev. Caldwell's estimate of thirty-five such families represents about 1 per cent of the population of the county. The Chronicle drew the following conclusions from its survey:

"We have been told, and we believe, that investigation in any area would produce a similar proportion of human derelicts—dregs of civilization.

"The families visited are descendants of parents who lived in the same manner; are products of a combination of poverty, utter ignorance and interbreeding of families for generations. . . . Ignorance and stubborn reserve frequently cause the most needy families to refuse medical aid or food to satisfy their wants. Cases have been reported in which blankets and like articles, sorely needed by the sufferers, have been sold as soon as they were received from the relief agencies."

The Chronicle's opinion was that this 1 per cent of Jeeterism in Jefferson county was beyond the help of the usual relief agencies. It recommended the sterilization of the biologically unfit as a necessary step in the elimination of the problem. A sterilization bill was promptly introduced into the Georgia legislature and was passed by both houses. It was vetoed by Gov. Talmadge.

This Jeeter hunting expedition developed evidence enough to prove that Erskine Caldwell, in writing "Tobacco Road," did what many another man of letters has done before him—that is, he selected and exaggerated symptoms of poverty, degeneracy, and degradation from a number of scattered cases in the region, grouped them into a single family, and called it typical. This is the method of a propagandist rather than a literary artist, but it is common in works that are written with the fanatic zeal of the reformer.

Next Season's Road Shows to Be Winners

Windfall of Broadway Hits During '35-'36 Is Basis for Prediction.

By Burns Mantle.

NEW YORK.—[Special.]—I have been asked by several who are given to corresponding with editors what, in my judgment, are the chances for a revived drama in the western country next season, and what effect the presidential election will have upon it.

Without being too boastful, as is a common New York habit, I may say that a good local season one year usually presages a good road season the year following. Which is prophecy based on a simple putting of two and two together. It happens that this last season on Broadway has been more exciting and more interesting than any other season has been for five or six years. It follows that a majority of the plays that have made it so will be taken for some kind of tour.

Helen Hayes, following the Katharine Cornell example, will want to play "Victoria Regina" in the west, just as Miss Cornell wanted to take "Saint Joan" west before she shelved it. Not alone because such a tour represents good business judgment, and she can make money touring, but because of a definite sentimental interest in the loyalists of the road, and a wisely foundationed knowledge that even the most popular player is soon forgotten if he or she remains away too long.

Lunts Probably Will Tour with "Idiot's Delight."

The Lunts undoubtedly will take "Idiot's Delight" out, though probably not until after election. They are to reopen here in the fall, and at present there seems little likelihood of the play's popularity waning until another six or eight weeks have been played. It is already well past the subscription season, and there are standees at several performances a week.

Gladys Cooper and Philip Merivale, who are to quit with "Call It a Day" in July, and go down to Locust valley, Long Island, to try out a play Merivale has written, have agreed to come back from England in the fall for a tour with "Call It a Day," and the road is going to adore that comedy. It will be Miss Cooper's first experience touring in this country, except for a few performances in "The Shining Hour."

She has had a notably successful career in England, was acclaimed the most beautiful of English leading women during the war years, has owned and managed her own theaters since then, and still is popular. She and Merivale are an excellent, substantial team in modern domestic drama. They were rather severely humbled last spring by their failure in the revival of two Shakespearean tragedies, "Macbeth" and "Othello," but their definite success in "Call It a Day" has done much to revive their spirits.

Ina Claire Will Want to Capitalize on Her Success.

Ina Claire, too, will want to capitalize her success in S. N. Behrman's "End of Summer." Ina is still a young and attractive actress, but like all these stars I have mentioned she is no longer of that age that is given to dictating its playing schedules. Time was, and not so long ago, when none of these players would have taken kindly to a suggestion that they go touring. They didn't have to. They were not in need of money, and they preferred the comfort of a long Broadway engagement with a success, or two short engagements with two half successes. Now they realize, quite wisely, that the years slip by rather fast, and that this is no time to be too darned independent. Also, Miss Cornell's determination to keep tight hold of the affections of her back-country following has the effect of inspiring a natural competition. They are not jealous, these other players, but neither are they of a mind to let any rival get the jump on them.

I have an idea that some one will send "Ethan Frome" to the leading eastern and mid-western cities, although it is a heavy production to transport, and may be voted too much of a risk. A great deal will depend on what Pauline Lord, Ruth Gordon, and Raymond Massey decide to do. Miss Lord has, by report, never been happy playing the mean-minded Zenobia Frome, Pauline being the type that feeds on sympathy. Miss Gordon had a grand time with the Mattie Silver part, but there has been much talk about her being wanted for other rôles. She was the first choice for the name part in Helen Jerome's "Jane Eyre," and may yet be drafted for it if Katharine Hepburn should suddenly go temperamental.

Hepburn Is Wary of Next Broadway Play Venture.

La Hepburn up to now has made but one stipulation of which I know: She insists on having a fairly lengthy road tour before she comes to Broadway, feeling that a lack of preparation is what defeated her when she came first from Hollywood to act in "The Lake." A wise girl, she is not likely to be caught in the same trap a second time. A summer devoted to voice production would help, too, though there are many who find Katharine's slightly rasping and thin speech characteristic and fascinating.

Raymond Massey, the Canadian who, to me, is one of the most interesting of the English players for all his fairly limited stage experiences, probably could be induced to go with Ethan, especially if his wife, Adrianne Allen, comes back to play in "Pride and Prejudice," which will most surely be sent touring and which, like "Call It a Day," is likely to cause an emotional stir among the unsophisticates and honest playgoers of the real America that lives west of the Hudson.

The comedies, "Boy Meets Girl," "Personal Appearance," and "Three Men on a Horse," already have been circulated with second companies, but are rather sure to be sent out again into such territory as already has not been covered.

"Dead End" Almost Certain to Join Road Show Group.

Jane Cowl has agreed to a tour of "First Lady," which will be popular. "On Your Toes" and the "Ziegfeld Follies" will be sent out, as will the George White "Scandals" if it makes good in Chicago this summer. "Dead End" is almost certain to travel, depending more on its Norman Bel Geddes setting than on its actors. "Parnell" is a possibility. "Night of Jan. 16" and its companion piece, the English "Libel," are others that may be considered.

As a matter of fact, I shall be both surprised and disappointed if the season of 1936-'37 does not, in the country north, south, and west of New York, generously reflect the success of the 1935-'36 season through which we have just come.

Tour for Lunts.

When Idiot's Delight" goes on tour next season the Lunts probably also will offer "The Taming of the Shrew." "Idiot's Delight" was cast with a view to its company's availability for both plays.

Pollack's Band Follows Cugat at the Stevens

Medrano and Donna Give New Dances on Program of Empire Room Show.

BEN POLLACK'S orchestra, featuring Doris Robbins, has been selected by Otto K. Eitel of the Stevens hotel to follow Xavier Cugat, who will close his engagement in the Continental room on June 25 because of a movie contract, effective July 1. Pollack scored a hit while substituting in the Continental room last February. He specializes in soft, sweet melodies, featuring the steel guitar and violins. Pollack's music starts next Friday night. Doris Robbins is singing star with the orchestra. Ramon and Renita, headliners in the Continental room's floor show, with their dance creations—"Ravelero," "Rosarico," "Love Waltz," "Tango Sinfonico," and "Zamba," a Brazilian rhumba. These dancers are under contract with Warner Brothers to appear in "Gold Diggers of 1937," which will go into production this summer.

● Three new "routines" [technical word for dances] were introduced last week by Medrano and Donna, Argentine dancers, in their twice nightly Empire room appearances at the Palmer house. The first is "Aires Andaluzes," with music by Gomez, an interpretative dance done to a potpourri of native Andalusian airs. The second is "Beguine," a derivation of the rhumba as done by the natives of Martinique. The third is "Sevilla," with music by Albeniz, and is a portrayal of the striking combination between the gayety of the Spanish and the langour of the Moors. These dances have never been seen in Chicago before.

Guy Lombardo's music continues in the Empire room, with the singing of Milton Douglas and the patter of Oliver Wakefield. The Medrano and Donna seven piece Argentine tango band alternates with Lombardo. The Abbott dancers are present as usual.

● Chez Paree is featuring two newcomers in its current revue, following the departure of the Yacht Club Boys. They are Sheila Barrett, satirical impersonator and winner of a magazine award as the outstanding supper club entertainer of 1936, and Cardini, in card tricks and feats of magic. The other entertainers include Paul Draper, tap dance; Ella Logan, Scotch singer of "blues" and "swing" songs, and Edna Sedgwick, danseuse. The show contains sixteen chorus dancers; Bill Steele, singing master of ceremonies, and the music of Henry Busse's orchestra.

● The King's Jesters and Marjorie Whitney will begin an engagement in the Walnut room of the Bismarck hotel next Friday night. Opening the same night will be a new floor show featuring the dance team of Johnny Jennings and Patricia Murry. Phil Levant's orchestra will continue.

Music Critic Wants 8 o'Clock Recitals to Start at 8

Regrets That Vital Concert Dates Conflict

Choice of Stereotyped Program Material by Artists Puzzles Him.

By Edward Barry.

IF a person can pluck from his mail each day choice seats for every imaginable kind of concert and recital—while less fortunate mortals are slitting the flaps of dunning letters and advertisments for two-pants suits—he is quite apt to believe that the music business exists primarily for his delight. This is especially true when such a satisfactory state of affairs happens to be the result of a recent and sudden change.

Human nature is a funny thing, as the more philosophic of the Cro-Magnons used to remark to one another during those long, dreary evenings around their ill-smelling fires. A newly created music editor, instead of settling down into a year or two of quiet happiness at the thought that he does not have to stand in line to be told that everything is gone except the $3 seats behind the post, finds himself developing a strange, fault finding state of mind. Such a condition, certainly, is in sensational contrast to the attitude of other days—a simple gratitude to the great ones of the art for accepting his money.

Because of this growing conviction that singers sing and players play just to amuse me, and to provide fodder for these columns, I should like to grumble for a few minutes this morning about three of four more personal grievances, cloaking them, for the sake of decency, under the pretense that they are identical with the grievances of the concert going public. If this last claim is admitted, the conclusion follows inevitably that an airing of such complaints is of direct benefit to those who arrange and provide concerts and recitals, as well as to those who patronize them. This trick of making private desire look like public weal is one of the oldest bits of sleight of hand in the world.

Promptness Seems to Be a Hardship for Artists.

Why not talk first about that little matter of starting time? An artist has to overcome so many heartbreaking obstacles in the course of his long climb to the concert stage that the habit of conquest, one might think, would carry him safely over such minor roughnesses as the necessity of selecting a time for a performance to begin, and then actually starting it at that time. Such an optimistic view is erroneous, as any one who patronizes music regularly can testify.

The process of selecting a starting time cannot be so complicated as it seems. Why should an artist seesaw back and forth between 8:15 and 8:30, or between 3 and 3:30, letting his announcements carry one time and his tickets another? One way of preventing irritating confusion would be for a recitalist to toss a coin before a single line of publicity is released, or the first proof pulled on the tickets. If he has no coin—and this lack is not uncommon, alas, among young virtuosi—a marked button would do just as well. Where there are three options—8, 8:15, and 8:30, for instance—the aid of dice may be invoked.

If all printed matter relating to a concert or recital carries the same starting time, and if that starting time is strictly adhered to, many fantastic and unnecessary exhibitions of indecision can be avoided. Confusion made his masterpiece one night last winter when the posters announced 8, the tickets 8:15, and rumor 8:30. The show started somewhere between 8:30 and 9. The effect on the audience was bad.

Standard Starting Times Would Avoid Confusion.

The question arises immediately as to why 3:30 and 8:15 cannot be accepted as standard starting times for afternoon and evening recitals respectively. Sometimes a young artist will set 3 or 3:15 as a gracious gesture toward the critics who must cover three or four more concerts in the course of the afternoon, but these men and women have been fooled so often that chances are against their coming so early. If one shows up at the announced time, the recitalist may feel himself under an obligation and start his program with an empty house—for the public also has been fooled too often. The resulting situation would be as embarrassing to the reporter as to the artist.

Which brings us by a side door into the arena where the matter of strict adherence to an announced starting time must be fought out. A person planning to play or sing in public has to grit his teeth and decide once and for all what the printed time is to be, and he must keep them gritted, or regrit them, when that hour approaches. If the managers of the concert business would standardize on times, and convince the public that they are not joking, then there never would be any reason [except when stormy weather delays even the well intentioned part of an audience] to allow more than five minutes' leeway. A longer delay than that antagonizes those of the patrons who take printed announcements seriously and actually present themselves on time.

Symphony Concerts Always Begin at Time Scheduled.

One cannot praise too highly the stern discipline which Orchestra hall maintains at the Symphony orchestra concerts. Most of their programs are started by 8:17. The experience of the management there would bear out my contention that the men and women who support music have no deep seated desire to come late to things, and that, if they know that an announced time is no merry jest but a real commitment, they will show up at the proper hour. Ninety-five per cent of a Chicago Symphony orchestra audience is inside the doors by 8:17. No one would wittingly come at such a time if he thought that he had to face the prospect of a half hour of the forced, desultory, and thoroughly unsatisfactory sort of conversation that one uses to while away the minutes before the music starts.

But what good is all this complaining, you say, unless I have some constructive suggestions to trot out? After all, the only remedy for this sorry state of things is for managers to let the public know they mean business by adopting and adhering to the practice of promptness. Regular concert goers will quickly fall into line. Occasional concert goers come on time anyway.

Here is another grievance—conflicting dates. One thing this sad old world needs is a clearing house for musical attractions. If J. S. Bach is scheduled for an organ recital in Orchestra hall on the second Sunday in November, you can be sure that Handel will be playing over at Kimball the same afternoon. And there will be four other recitals around the loop that day, with four talented young artists wondering why they cannot sell any tickets.

Conflict of Major Musical Events Is Unnecessary Evil.

There are not so many first rate musical attractions that any two of them can afford to enter into direct competition with each other. As far as I know, nothing so grotesque as a choice by Kreisler and Heifetz of the same date in the same city has ever come to pass. If it did, both of these titans would have the novel experience of looking at several yawning rows of empty seats. Either good luck or some secret sort of planning avoids such impressive calamities, but minor accidents of an irritating sort happen regularly.

The only chance to hear Schnabel this year came on the one afternoon when a lot of piano conscious people wanted to find out for themselves if this young Briton named Templeton was as smart as rumor indicated. And Myra Hess displayed her exquisite art at the Studebaker while the sterling Swedish Choral club gave "Elijah" one of its rare performances in Orchestra hall. A little secret telephoning around would avoid such mistakes as these. And if the contrast between the prestige of Schnabel and Templeton makes the first example seem funny, many might be surprised to hear that the latter sold more tickets than the former. Proving that the big boys must be as careful as the little boys in the business of avoiding conflicts.

It is impossible, of course, to eliminate the possibility of a small name and a great name coming into competition. On those crowded Sunday afternoons of November one finds a great many tiny Joe Blows fiddling and singing in the smaller halls while one of the elect holds a crowded Auditorium in fee. Here is a suggestion on one angle of this type of competition.

Lesser Artists Shouldn't Compete with Big Names.

Suppose you are ready to pound out the Brahms-Paganini variations, and are thinking about setting a date. Why not first ascertain whether or not Rachmaninoff is playing on the very day you are considering? He even may be planning the same work. Speculate, too, on the possibility that your friends might want to hear the great Serge, and that they would not care to be placed in the delicate position of having to choose between him and you. Learn the date of his recital, and schedule yours a week earlier [never a week later].

But this is fast wandering away from the idea of personal grievance and becoming a column of garrulous advice. One more complaint should be enough for this bright Sunday morning. It has to do with the strange lack of aggressiveness and imagination in program making which afflicts so many recitalists. Since there are more pianists than any other single variety of music maker, it is natural, perhaps, that their duplications and perversities of judgment should be more noticeable than those of singers and stringed instrument players. But the immensity of the literature from which they may draw ruins the possibility of offering sheer number as an excuse for their sins.

When that happy time comes in which the world will be ruled by sweetness and reason, no pianist will dare schedule such things as the Scarlatti Pastorale and Capriccio. The fact that all of them, great and small, allow this outworn pair of cheap tunes to clutter up the beginning of present day programs is something that defies explanation, for a conscientious search of federal, state, and city statute books has failed to reveal any basis for the idea that some sore of legal compulsion exists.

There's No Law Dictating Choice of Program Pieces.

In choosing his music a recitalist might profitably keep in mind two facts. One is that not all of the fine works in the world's treasury are the product of the ten or twelve persons who are commonly referred to as the "great composers." The other is that the tremendous prestige of some of these great names has carried down to posterity many things which would otherwise have died a natural death about ten minutes after their birth, with everybody, including even their composers, the happier for it.

But this pair of related ideas, come to think of it, might turn out to be prolific and fascinating, something to start a new column with two or three Sundays hence. Another good reason for postponing full discussion is the fact that there are opportunities here for a confession of personal likes and dislikes of so thoroughly discreditable a nature that a man of even rudimentary caution might prefer to make his disclosures on a hot and sticky morning of full summer, when he is safe in assuming that nobody will read the music page.

'Old Maid' Revival

"The Old Maid," 1935 Pulitzer prize play, will be offered for a one week engagement by the Chicago Group theater in the Woman's Club theater, beginning Monday, June 22. The two star rôles will be portrayed by Margaret Fuller and Sunda Love. Others in the cast will be Don Merrifield, Boyd Crane, Dorothee Bates, and Walin Hatter. With the closing of this production the company will go on a summer tour of the midwestern states, presenting three plays which were produced in Chicago during the season. During this time they will reherse a new play for staging in Chicago in October.

City Opera to Give Popular Sunday Series

Concerts Are to Feature Scenes from Operas Rarely in Repertoire.

The Chicago City Opera company, working busily through the dog days on its plans for next season, announces a series of five popular priced Sunday evening opera concerts. They will consist of scenes from seldom performed operas, with scenery, costumes, and an orchestra in the pit. A selection of the best singers is promised.

Scenes from "Lucia," "La Favorita," and "Hansel und Gretel" are mentioned as definite possibilities; also "La Traviata," which hardly ranks as a seldom performed opera. Main floor seats will cost $1.

David Van Vactor, young Evanston composer and a flutist in the Chicago Symphony orchestra, will be guest conductor for this afternoon's program by the American Concert orchestra. The assisting artist is Eleanore Block, Chicago dancer. The Great Northern theater houses this particular series of Federal Music project shows.

Maria Parissi, soprano, and Andrea De Parry, baritone, share a Thorne hall recital this afternoon. Mme. Parissi, a Greek, will include songs of Greece on her part of the program. Mr. De Parry, who, by the way, is a composer as well as a singer, schedules several operatic arias. The assisting artists are Roy David Brown, pianist, and Peter Kuzmanoff, violinist. Adelaide Bechman will play the piano accompaniments.

Central church holds its final services in Orchestra hall this morning. The series will be resumed in the fall. William Hughes' choir and Archer Lambuth, organist, compose the musical forces of Central church.

The Mendelssohn Conservatory of Music announces its commencement program for this coming Tuesday night in Kimball hall. Carrie Scott, president and director, will confer degrees and medals. Mrs. W. G. Pigott of the National Association of Music Clubs is scheduled for an address.

Isaac Van Grove, well known for his work of other years with the Chicago Opera company, has been appointed musical director of the forthcoming series of Ravinia park summer concerts by the Chicago Symphony orchestra. His assistant will be Daniel Saidenberg.

Emery Darcy, Chicago baritone, will sing in Hollywood bowl with the Southern California Symphony association in that organization's Aug. 6 performance of "The Bartered Bride"; also in "Pagliacci," on Aug. 27.

Historic Film Locale Going Into Discard

Old Universal Lot to Be Site of Executives' and Writers' Building.

By Rosalind Shaffer.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal.—[Special]—The old landmarks of Hollywood are passing rapidly. Out at Universal, progress is carrying away one of the most used locales in the historic 25 years of this center's film history.

Charles R. Rogers, new chief at Universal, is evolving a plan to build an administration building that will house writers and executives in a three story structure 300 feet long. This home of high foreheads and heavy salaries will be constructed paralleling the main highway which circles the studio into the valley beyond. The ground has been cleared and, for the time being, is a parking lot.

Back in 1915 the spot, called the hacienda lawn because of the rambling structure adjoining it, was the scene of Herb Rawlinson's then famous "Damon and Pythias." Then for five years it was obscure.

Erich von Stroheim next used it for the Monte Carlo set of his "Foolish Wives" by making the lawn the center square of the town, putting up several buildings around it, and crossing it with a tram line.

Had Movie Set of N. Y.'s Chinatown and Its Ghetto.

The Monte Carlo set was dismantled to be followed by a more or less permanent structure which represented New York's Ghetto and Chinatown. Lon Chaney made "Shadows" and "Outside the Law" on this set. A picture called "Shock," depicting the San Francisco earthquake, used the locale for that city's Chinatown.

Pat O'Malley, then in his heyday, used it for a story having old New York for a locale, and the pavements were torn up and relaid with more picturesque cobblestones.

Later productions returned it to the original New York status, and paving was replaced over the cobblestones. Then it was transformed into an L shaped street intersection with a side street representing slums of the Limehouse variety. It was used by every studio in Hollywood at some time or other in this capacity. Bread lines, Salvation Army missions, flophouses, rescue missions, in turn, appeared on its street. Slim Summerville and Zasu Pitts made a comedy there, "Out All Night." Butcher-shops, sleezy millinery establishments, drug stores—anything that the script demanded — appeared there overnight.

When Lowell Sherman made what was later to prove his last directorial effort before his death, "The Night Life of the Gods," the street was the scene of a historic fish fight that used seven tons of fish before it was finished, and left an almost permanent aroma about the place, at least in the memory of those who were on hand when the smell was at its best.

Fish Story Filmed in Picture Has No Equal.

In the picture, Henry Armetta was proprietor of a fish store, and Robert Warwick, playing Neptune, got separated from the other gods who were having a convivial reunion across the street from the fish joint, and wandered over to look at the fish. He saw a choice salmon in the window which he speared with his trident. Armetta expostulated with him. Neptune said bibulously, "I'm king of the sea, and I'm king of the fishes, too." "Not of theesa feesh, you ain't." said Armetta. Neptune picked the salmon off his trident and slapped Armetta in the face with it. Armetta retaliated. That's how the sharks, bluefish, weak fish, strong fish, catfish, dogfish, herring, mackerel, and barracuda, and whatever the studio set dressers could buy at the market, came to fly all over the place to the amount of seven tons before the pungent scene was done satisfactorily.

The fish hardly had been cleared off when Jean Hersholt made "The Younger Generation." Then Tim McCoy made a serial called "Heroes of the Flames," and the three story structures of painted tin bricks saw daily fires and movie heroes doing heroic deeds, from 9 till 6.

For ten years, behind these structures was a long barracks where the bus boys from the Universal restaurant had their dormitory. This, too, is gone now.

"Chinatown Squad" enacted its thrills here. Then "Homicide Squad," "Waterloo Bridge," and some scenes from "All Quiet on the Western Front" followed. When "Little Man, What Now," a Margaret Sullavan film was made, the bread line of 150 men imported from downtown Los Angeles was an authentic one, and when the men got their handouts, each of them received a pay check of $7.50 for being an extra.

Highway Noises Interfered with Talkies Made on Lot.

When plans were announced stating that the old structures were to be pulled down, the production boss wailed and hollered. It was such a famous and much used set that he hated to part with it. On the other hand, the highway noises were a hazard to outdoor sound movies, so it was rather wise to abandon it for the newer structure.

Of the old group of buildings, only the little red schoolhouse—the studio school—remains.

Film 'Absolute Quiet' Is Avid Melodrama

By Mae Tinee.

"ABSOLUTE QUIET."
Produced by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.

GOOD MORNING!

Once upon a time, according to this story, there was a wicked and powerful financier with a bad [physically bad] heart, who was ordered to the desert by his doctor for a spell of "absolute quiet."

If this in two ways bad-hearted hombre had been content to go into the wastes by himself, as he was supposed to do; if he had not, by nefarious doings previous to his departure, laid up a lot of grief for himself; if a couple of desperate criminals—a man and woman—hadn't escaped; if an airplane bearing the governor of the state and a handsome motion picture actor hadn't had to make a forced landing—and O, a lot of other "ifs," Gerald Axton might have recovered his health. BUT—

Villain of the Piece Is an Unscrupulous Fellow.

In love with his pretty secretary, who is the wife of one of his assistants, he sends the husband forth on a perilous mission, and persuades the girl to accompany him as nurse, assuring her that her beloved will be with them almost immediately . . . which starts plenty! Then arrive the aforementioned desperadoes. Soon after, the people on the plane, which has been wrecked, killing both pilots, arrive at the ranch house. And then hell breaks loose for fair! Ensuing events will remind you of the crux situation of "The Petrified Forest."

"Absolute Quiet," summed up, is avid melodrama, which gets pretty exciting at times. Its strength lies in good acting, and its weakness in a poorly assembled scenario.

See you tomorrow.

Melancholy Dane.

"Hamlet" will mark the first appearance in America of John Gielgud as a star, but not his first visit to the United States. He played the Grand Duke Alexander in "The Patriot" in New York in 1928. Since that time he has risen to a high position on the London stage chiefly through his Hamlet, his Romeo, and his Richard II. in "Richard of Bordeaux." He will arrive next fall.

How a Little Army of Fearless Troopers Died as Heroes in a Famous Indian Fight

Making America The accompanying account of Custer's fight with the Indians on the Little Big Horn river in 1876 is one of the historical articles of the "Making America" series. Another will appear in the Graphic Section at an early date.

By JOHN A. MENAUGH

LIEUT. JAMES H. BRADLEY of the 7th United States infantry, riding with a party of Indian scouts ahead and to the left of Brig. Gen. Alfred H. Terry's advancing column, forded the Little Big Horn river, cantering out onto the high ground on the east side of the stream.

His attention was attracted by the swollen carcass of a horse. A second look, and he beheld in the distance objects scattered about on the ground—objects gleaming white in the morning light.

They were all that was left of Lieut. Col. George Armstrong Custer and his five companies of the 7th cavalry, who had been annihilated by Indians just two days before—on June 25, 1876, sixty years ago next Thursday.

Less than six miles to the southeast of the gory battlefield of Custer's last stand were Maj. Marcus A. Reno with surviving members of his three companies and Capt. Frederick W. Benteen and his three troops, who had saved Reno from the fate that had overtaken Custer. Reno, Benteen, and the others at this time, two days after the battle, still were unaware that Custer, spectacular "Yellow Hair" of many an Indian fight, and his command of 225 men had been wiped out. It was only after General Terry, who came to the scene with Col. John Gibbon and the 7th infantry, finally reached Reno and Benteen that the last two learned of the fate of their commander and his gallant cavalrymen who rode to their doom among the hills overlooking the Little Big Horn sixty years ago.

Custer's defeat should not be called a massacre, since every clew pointed to a finish fight on the part of the leader and his soldiers. There was no yielding to be slaughtered. It was the most appalling reverse ever suffered by troops at the hands of Indians. For almost threescore years there has raged a controversy over whether Custer on that fateful day was right or wrong in what he did. But it is not the purpose of this brief article to criticize or condemn a military leader about whom so many volumes have been written—a leader so capable as an officer that at the age of 25 he rose to the command of a division during the Civil war.

Any question about Custer and his actions may be passed by now in order to stress the greater lesson in patriotism and devotion to duty that can be found in the behavior of his true-hearted and valiant cavalrymen who rode to death without flinching, obedient in the face of certain destruction. There were plenty of heroes on the battlefield of the Little Big Horn. All of those who were with Custer died. Fate spared about half of those who fought with Reno a short distance from where Custer's five companies were wiped out. Evidence tends to show that Reno was a hero. There is no question about Benteen's heroic rôle in rescuing the remnants of Reno's command. And all the others—those who died and those who survived—proved themselves worthy of the flag under which they fought.

When Custer rode out of Fort Abraham Lincoln, across the Missouri river from Bismarck, N. D., May 17, 1876, on Terry's punitive expedition against the hostile Sioux and allied tribes, he was under a cloud. He had talked too much and indiscreetly. It is believed that he was gambling on a bold exploit against the savages to restore him to public esteem and make secure his place in the service when he moved against the Indians in the Montana Bad Lands.

Sitting Bull, Hunkpapa Sioux medicine man, was inflaming the Sioux and the Cheyennes. Other tribes were putting on their war paint. It was to be the great Indian war of all time. From Fort Lincoln westward trailed Terry with a strong column of infantry, a battery of Gatling guns, and Custer and his famous 7th cavalry, men and horses of which charged hardest when their band blared "Garry Owen."

≈

Eastward from the western Montana stations moved Gibbon with the 7th infantry. Upward from the south—from the posts along the North Platte river and the Union Pacific line—advanced Brig. Gen. George Crook, conqueror of the Apaches, with two regiments of cavalry. It was Crook who was destined to meet the Indians in the first encounter of this greatest war of the western plains. On the upper reaches of the Rosebud river on June 17, eight days before the Custer tragedy, he faced a swarm of warriors under the fierce Chief Crazy Horse, who, according to Frederic F. Van De Water, biographer of Custer, probably was a greater cavalry leader than Custer, Sheridan, or Stuart. If Crook had not been driven back by the Indians it is likely that he would have met Custer—that horrible calamity would not have overtaken the lieutenant colonel of the 7th cavalry.

It had been planned to have Terry, Gibbon, and Crook hem in the hostile braves, defeat them separately and collectively, and drive them back onto their reservations. Terry's force and that of Gibbon united. On June 10 Terry was on the Yellowstone about 25 miles above the mouth of the Powder river. Reno, with six troops of the 7th cavalry, scouted the valleys of the Powder and the Tongue rivers, returning and reporting to Terry. On June 22 Custer with his twelve companies camped on the edge of the divide that separated them from the valley of the Little Big Horn. Scouts had informed the leader of the 7th that the trail of the hostiles led into the valley.

On the morning of the 25th Custer divided his command into four groups. Army officers still are debating the question of why he did it. To Captain Benteen were assigned Companies H, K, and D, the first commanded by the captain himself, the second by Lieutenant Godfrey, and the third by Captain Weir. Benteen and his battalion were dispatched on a wild goose chase to see if they could find Indians in the next valley or in the valley beyond that.

To Major Reno, the only field officer save himself present with the regiment, Custer assigned Companies A, under Captain Moylan; G, under Lieutenant McIntosh, and M, under Captain French. B company, under Captain McDougall, was assigned to the convoy of the pack train, to which duty the other companies each contributed one noncommissioned officer and six privates. Custer kept with himself five companies—C, commanded by his brother, Capt. Tom Custer; E, under Lieut. Algernon Smith; F, under Capt. G. W. Yates; I, under Capt. Myles W. Keogh, and L, under Lieut. James Calhoun, the husband of Custer's sister Margaret.

With Benteen somewhere far to the left and the pack train still farther behind, Custer's five companies and Reno's three were advancing in a northwesterly direction along the south fork of a tributary of the Little Big Horn, Custer on the east bank, Reno on the west. This was early in the afternoon of the 25th, and there was no plan of battle. In fact, officers later testified that there never had been a plan of battle.

Indians were sighted. Custer ordered Reno to give chase, promising to come up with his five companies in support if the major met with resistance. Reno's companies crossed the Little Big Horn to the western side, rode in a northwesterly direction, and soon stumbled into a hornets' nest of Indians. Before them was a great village of many tribes and hundreds of tepees. Reno had only 112 soldiers. His three companies fought off the savages as best they could. Then they fell back to a clump of timber. Finally they were routed out of the woods. They fled across the river to high ground. In the retreat Dr. J. M. De Wolf was slain. So were many others. Reno's losses during the fighting in the valley, along the course of his retreat, and in the hills where he was besieged after Benteen and McDougall joined him numbered 56 killed and 59 wounded, of whom 8 later died. Benteen had grown tired of wandering aimlessly about and had returned just in time to save Reno's command from annihilation.

≈

After Custer and Reno separated, the first named, with his five troops, continued on along the east side of the Little Big Horn. Sergt. John Martin, Custer's orderly trumpeter, rode back with a message for Benteen from the commander of the regiment. The message stated in effect that there was a big Indian village ahead and that Benteen should hurry forward with the ammunition packs. Martin was the last man to see Custer alive except those who perished with their leader.

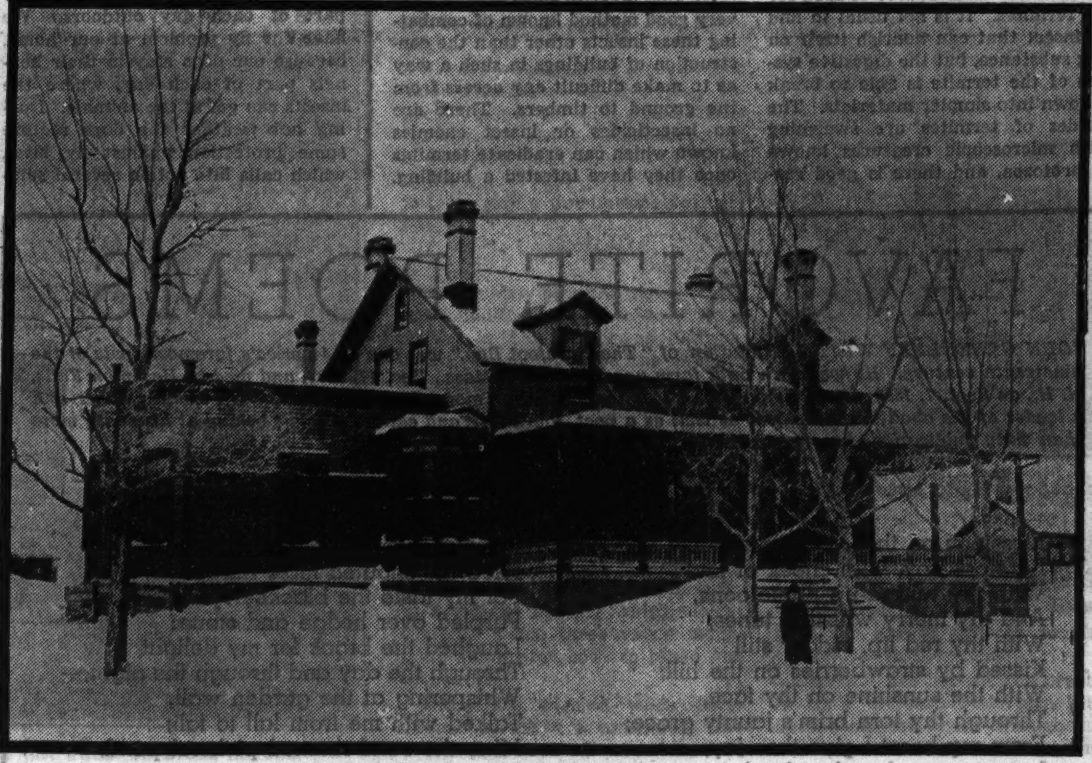
What happened to Custer and his command after Martin rode away from them no one knows definitly.

The accounts given by Indians who took part in the battle are too conflicting to be given serious consideration. Custer met probably not fewer than 4,000 Indians, many armed with the latest type repeating rifles of that day.

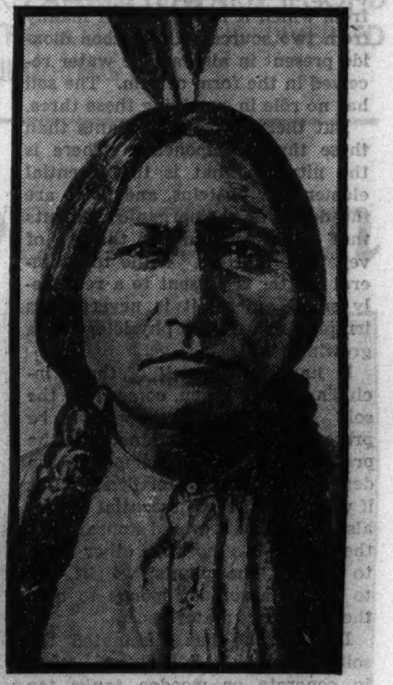
The battle is believed to have lasted only about thirty-five minutes. Crazy Horse, at the head of his Ogalala Sioux, smashed into Custer's front in a desperate charge. Gall, the Hunkpapa leader, took the little army of soldiers in the rear after he had defeated Reno farther south. The Indians, too numerous to be repulsed by the soldiers, soon swept over Custer's companies in a shouting, shooting wave. The battle was over.

The only survivor of Custer's five companies was Comanche, Captain Keogh's horse. The wounded animal was found two days later when General Terry's troops arrived on the scene.

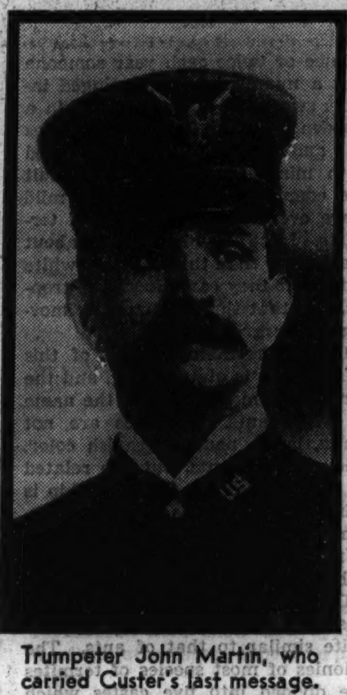
(A cavalry troop was correctly termed a company at the time of the Custer battle.)



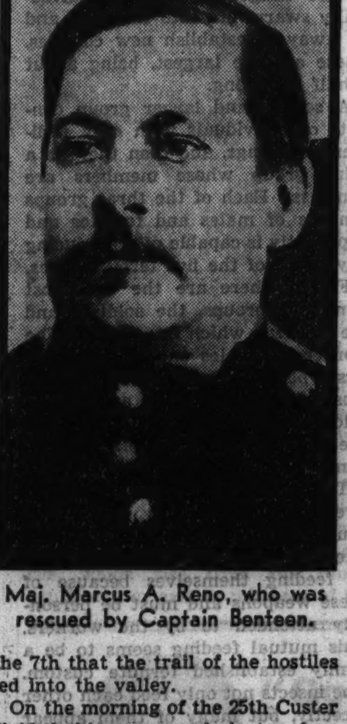
Custer's home at the Fort Lincoln army post.



Sitting Bull, notorious Sioux medicine man.

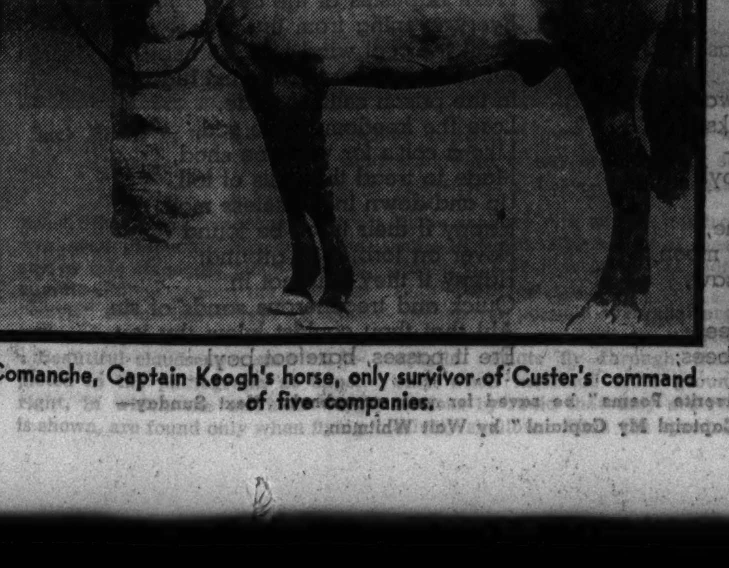


Trumpeter John Martin, who carried Custer's last message.

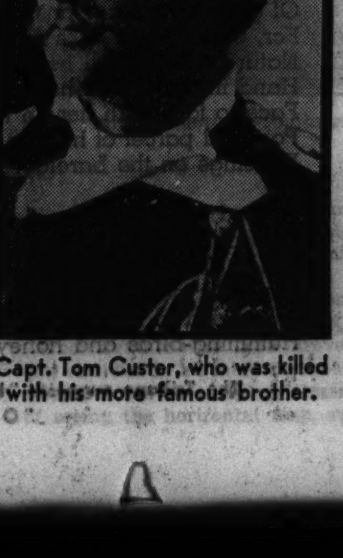


Maj. Marcus A. Reno, who was rescued by Captain Benteen.

Chief Gall, Indian leader at Little Big Horn battle.



Comanche, Captain Keogh's horse, only survivor of Custer's command of five companies.



Capt. Tom Custer, who was killed with his more famous brother.

Raise Crops Without Soil

By DR. THOMAS M. BECK

SINCE the day when Adam first went to work the tilling of the soil has been considered an inescapable task of man. Systems of political economy have been based upon the premise that areas of the earth's solid surface are the fundamental units of wealth. But recent studies in California might suggest that soil is no longer essential for the growing of crops and that the good earth may revert entirely to golf courses and parking lots.

However, this is only a very remote possibility. There is no immediate danger of the farmer becoming obsolete. A number of highly extravagant predictions based on these experiments have been made by outsiders, but the men actually engaged in the experiments have taken no part in such dreaming. They have simply carried out some tests and placed the results before the public.

This work has been carried out by Dr. W. F. Gericke and his associates at the University of California. These investigators have succeeded in raising certain crops on a semi-commercial scale in indoor tanks. Some of the advantages of such a proceeding are quickly apparent. The producer (hardly a farmer under these conditions) need no longer worry about frost, hail, drouth, or insects. He can simply shut the door on them.

After all, there is no reason why soil should be necessary for a growing plant. Vegetable life gets its energy from sunlight. The matter from which it is built comes mainly from two sources—the carbon dioxide present in air and the water received in the form of rain. The soil has no rôle in supplying these three.

But there is more to plants than these three components. There is the nitrogen that is the essential element for proteins, and there are the dozen or so inorganic elements that go into making up the ash of vegetable matters. While this mineral matter is present to a relatively small extent, it is nevertheless irreplaceable in the physiology of a growing plant.

It happens that all of these, including the nitrogen, come from the soil. If they do not happen to be present in sufficient amounts, the practice has arisen of supplying the deficiency by adding fertilizers. But if we can add these essential minerals to the soil it would appear that the latter has no rôle other than to support the plants' weight and to act as a sort of sponge to hold the fertilizing materials.

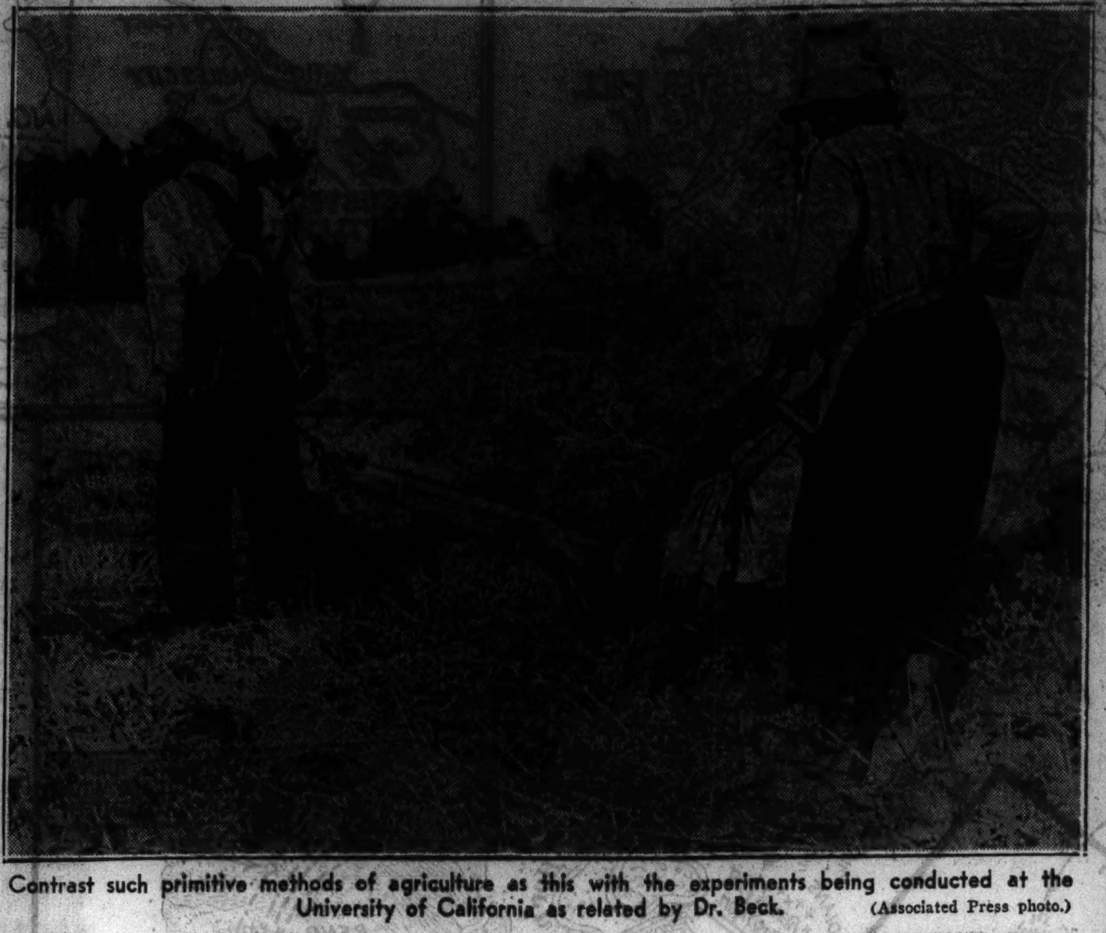
Dr. Gericke has eliminated the soil altogether. He grows the crops in concrete or wooden tanks ten feet long, two and a half feet wide, and about eight inches deep. A number of such tanks are constructed in a greenhouse. These are filled with water in which about a pound of a mixture of various chemicals is dissolved. The exact composition of the mixture varies with the crop that is to be raised, but in general it contains relatively large amounts of nitrogen, calcium, phosphorus, magnesium, potasium, and sulphur, and smaller amounts of aluminum, titanium, chlorine, manganese, boron, zinc, copper, nickel, and cobalt.

⁂

Chicken wire is stretched over the surface of the water and covered with straw or chaff several inches deep. In this bed the seeds are planted. The seeds sprout and send their roots down into the solution and from then on flourish like the green bay tree. The best results are obtained by having present electrical heating elements which keep the solution at a temperature of about 70 or 80 degrees.

This work is hardly a radical innovation in the technic of plant physiologists. For decades scientists have made use of nutrient solutions of essential minerals in order to study certain aspects of plant growth. However, this is the first successful (or at least promising) attempt to apply such knowledge to actual agricultural practice.

The results obtained are interesting. Tomato plants under the most favorable conditions grow to a height of about twelve feet and bear more than 200 tons of fruit an acre of tank surface. Contrast this with the average yield of five tons an acre of soil. Twenty-five hundred bushels of potatoes can be obtained from an acre of tank, compared with 120 from an equal area of soil. Tobacco plants grow to a height of twenty feet and are said to give a more uniform product. Similar results have been obtained with cucumbers, papaya, gladioli, and gardenias.



Contrast such primitive methods of agriculture as this with the experiments being conducted at the University of California as related by Dr. Beck. (Associated Press photo.)

All this sounds most astonishing, but it must be remembered that the work is still in an experimental stage. It may turn out that the total cost of the process outweighs the greatly enhanced productivity. It is possible that this forced growth may weaken the plant's resistance to disease or to insect pests. All this must be found out by actual trial. At the present time two large-scale installations have been made in California, but it is still too early to form any definite conclusions.

There is no reason to predict, however, that these investigations, no matter how successful they may turn out, will result in agriculture's moving indoors. It is one thing to think of growing orchids or gardenias in glass-sheltered tanks, but one can hardly conceive of cattle or sheep feeding on indoor pastures.

It is hardly more probable that crops like wheat, corn, or cotton could be profitably raised by such a method. On the other hand, it is entirely possible that it may be able to compete successfully with the more intensively cultivated products such as vegetables.

⁂

Once or twice each year someone sees a number of small winged insects swarming out of a crack in a wooden structure, or a timber gives way and is found to be honeycombed with minute tunnels. As a result the community experiences a mild scare over the depredations of termites. Most of us know little about them other than that they are white ants, that they came from the tropics, and that they are steadily moving northward.

It is regrettable, but all of this information is quite wrong, and the farthest from the truth is the name of white ants. Termites are not white, but a neutral grayish color. They are not ants, but are related to cockroaches. The relationship is fairly distant and is based on anatomical resemblances. The termite is free from the cockroach's filthy habits and deplorable morals.

On the other hand, the termite has evolved a social organization quite similar to that of ants. The colonies of most species of termites are divided into five castes which differ greatly from each other in appearance. First there are those of the winged type, which periodically swarm out into the open and fly away to establish new colonies. These are the largest, being about a half inch long.

A second and larger group consists of individuals with only rudimentary wings, and then there is a third group whose members are wingless. Each of the three groups consists of males and females and apparently is capable of reproducing any or all of the five termite types.

Finally there are the two most numerous groups, the soldiers and the workers, which are sexless. The worker resembles one of the wingless type mentioned above and does most of the hard work around the colony. Such being the case, he is the one most responsible for the damage done to buildings.

The soldier termites have relatively huge heads which are equipped with fierce looking, pincerlike mandibles. They are incapable of feeding themselves because of these weapons and must be personally attended to by the workers. This mutual feeding seems to be a firmly established termite custom. The insects not only feed each other directly, but many of them appear to secrete a nourishing fluid similar to milk, which is eagerly lapped up by their neighbor termites.

The function of the soldier termites is obvious. They protect the colony from its eternal enemies, the ants. There are certain species of termite in which there is a second type of soldier akin to the chemical warfare division. These soldiers have no pincers, but instead are equipped with a large funnel-shaped head and are able to squirt an unpleasant fluid through their snouts, to the discomfiture of attacking ants. With such a defense the termites are capable of protecting their colonies, and there are no grounds for the belief that the presence of ants will protect a building from them.

The principal figures in each colony are the king and queen, who owe their dignity to the fact that they are the parents of all of their subjects. The queen usually produces millions of offspring, and as a result of such excessive fecundity increases in size until she is several inches long, becoming quite immovable in her nest and having to be fed by the workers.

Cellulose, the fibrous material in wood, is the chief source of food for the termites. It is not usual to find an insect that can nourish itself on this substance, but the digestive system of the termite is able to break it down into simpler materials. The insides of termites are swarming with microscopic creatures known as protozoa, and there is good reason to believe that these do the actual breaking down of the cellulose. When cellulose and its kindred compounds, starch and sugar, are digested in any animal they are oxidized to carbon dioxide and water. There is evidence that termites supply a considerable part of their water requirements from the water thus formed.

The young termites are hatched underground and make their way from there to the wood to be attacked. Since they do not like exposure to light and air, they prefer a timber that is in contact with the ground. Nevertheless the practice of having only masonry come in contact with the ground does not protect the wood completely. Termites can build branched tunnels out of earth and ground-up wood which extend from the soil up over the surface of the masonry.

The termite is not a tropical insect that has recently migrated into northern climates. It is native to the regions where it is found. Originally it attacked only dead trees, but the destruction of the forests has forced it into cities, where it can feed on wooden structures.

At the present time there is no very good method known of combating these insects other than the construction of buildings in such a way as to make difficult any access from the ground to timbers. There are no insecticides or insect enemies known which can eradicate termites once they have infested a building.

FAVORITE POEMS

JOHN GREENLEAF WHITTIER, author of "The Barefoot Boy," was one of America's foremost poets of the nineteenth century. He was born on a farm near Haverhill, Mass., Dec. 17, 1807, and died in Hampton Falls, N. H., on Sept. 7, 1892, after having been an active writer for more than sixty years. He was a Quaker and a leader of the abolition movement as well as a poet, journalist, and editor. He left behind at his death more than sixty publications bearing his name either as author or editor.

THE BAREFOOT BOY

Blessings on thee, little man,
Barefoot boy, with cheek of tan!
With thy turned-up pantaloons,
And thy merry whistled tunes;
With thy red lip, redder still
Kissed by strawberries on the hill;
With the sunshine on thy face,
Through thy torn brim's jaunty grace;
From my heart I give thee joy,—
I was once a barefoot boy!
Prince thou art,—the grown-up man
Only is republican.
Let the million-dollared ride!
Barefoot, trudging at his side,
Thou hast more than he can buy
In the reach of ear and eye,—
Outward sunshine, inward joy:
Blessings on thee, barefoot boy!

O, for boyhood's painless play,
Sleep that wakes in laughing day,
Health that mocks the doctor's rules,
Knowledge never learned of schools,
Of the wild bee's morning chase,
Of the wild flower's time and place,
Flight of fowl and habitude
Of the tenants of the wood;
How the tortoise bears his shell,
How the woodchuck digs his cell,
And the ground-mole sinks his well;
How the robin feeds her young,
How the oriole's nest is hung;
Where the whitest lilies blow,
Where the freshest berries grow,
Where the ground-nut trails its vine,
Where the wood-grape's clusters shine;
Of the black wasp's cunning way,
Mason of his walls of clay,
And the architectural plans
Of gray hornet artisans!
For, eschewing books and tasks,
Nature answers all he asks;
Hand in hand with her he walks,
Face to face with her he talks,
Part and parcel of her joy,—
Blessings on the barefoot boy!

O, for boyhood's time of June,
Crowding years in one brief moon,
When all things I heard or saw,
Me, their master, waited for.
I was rich in flowers and trees,
Humming-birds and honey-bees;
For my sport the squirrel played,
Plied the snouted mole his spade;
For my taste the blackberry cone
Purpled over hedge and stone;
Laughed the brook for my delight
Through the day and through the night,—
Whispering at the garden wall,
Talked with me from fall to fall;
Mine the sand-rimmed pickerel pond,
Mine the walnut slopes beyond,
Mine, on bending orchard trees,
Apples of Hesperides!
Still as my horizon grew,
Larger grew my riches, too;
All the world I saw or knew
Seemed a complex Chinese toy,
Fashioned for a barefoot boy!

O, for festal dainties spread
Like my bowl of milk and bread;
Pewter spoon and bowl of wood,
On the door-stone, gray and rude!
O'er me like a regal tent,
Cloudy-ribbed, the sunset bent,
Purple-curtained, fringed with gold,
Looped in many a wind-swung fold;
While for music came the play
Of the pied frogs' orchestra;
And, to light the noisy choir,
Lit the fly his lamp of fire.
I was monarch: pomp and joy
Waited on the barefoot boy!

Cheerily, then, my little man,
Live and laugh, as boyhood can!
Though the flinty slopes be hard,
Stubble-speared the new-mown sward,
Every morn shall lead thee through
Fresh baptisms of the dew;
Every evening from thy feet
Shall the cool wind kiss the heat;
All too soon these feet must hide
In the prison cells of pride,
Lose the freedom of the sod,
Like a colt's for work be shod,
Made to tread the mills of toil,
Up and down in ceaseless moil:
Happy if their track be found
Never on forbidden ground;
Happy if they sink not in
Quick and treacherous sands of sin.
Ah! that thou couldst know thy joy
Ere it passes, barefoot boy!

Mostly About Dogs

By BOB BECKER

Many Preparations Available for the Dog's Toilet

WITH all kinds of soaps, special dry cleaning solutions, disinfectants, flea killers, and other articles available for the dog's toilet, dog owners today should find it little trouble to handle almost any problem involving the bathing or grooming of a pup.

For example, one can buy soaps in almost any form. The familiar medicated soap useful in killing fleas on a dog is one kind that is handy at this season of the year. All of us who own dogs have used a bar soap of this kind during the summer when dogs are bothered by fleas. For many of us who own dogs this kind of soap is an old stand-by. If the dog owner doesn't like soap in bar form he can get it as a paste. It comes in small jars and is convenient to use. We tried some of this soap the other day when we were giving our big black Labrador a scrubbing.

Still another kind of soap is available when it comes time to bathe your dog. This is a liquid soap—in much the same form as the liquid soap which is used in barber shops for human scalps. We have a bottle of this at the house and have used it on our dogs from time to time. It's mighty convenient, because, of course, there is little muscular effort required to work up a lather on the dog when you apply a little of this liquid soap to his coat after wetting the hair thoroughly.

Although most of us think of our pet as being able to stand almost anything, the fact is that some dogs have very sensitive skins. Many of them are sensitive to foods (like humans) or to irritants that externally affect the dog's skin. This being true, the dog owner must exercise care about the soap used to bathe the dog and also regarding the problem of too frequent bathing. Your veterinarian will tell you that a soap which is too harsh can cause a mild form of dermatitis. So a mild soap is desirable.

When we bathe our dogs we always add a small amount of a pine oil disinfectant to the bath water. It adds a fragrant odor to the water which lingers in the dog's coat. In fact, when all the soap has been rinsed out of the dog's coat we finish the bath by giving the dog a final rinse with water containing pine oil disinfectant. This is the same solution that we spray around our dogs' kennels.

This is the season of the year when flies can cause a lot of discomfort for dogs that spend most or part of each day outdoors. We have the fly problem at our home, because our dogs stay in their kennels part of each day, where the insects can get at the animals. During hot weather the dogs require some protection against fly bites, which calls into action several solutions that are useful at this season of the year.

If you don't give the dog a little help in fighting flies the insects not only make the pup very uncomfortable but they also may develop ugly sores on the dog's ears. The other night we saw a chow with such sores already developed on the tips of his ears. Of course, the heavy coat of the chow protected his body from the attacks of most of the flies, but they found a place to persecute the animal by working on his ears.

⁂

We have two or three solutions around the house which we use during fly time as an aid to giving the dog relief from insects. One is a well known preparation that you spray with a metal spray gun and is widely used to kill insects of all kinds. The other is a liquid made especially for dogs. It seems to be very similar to the first, has a pleasant odor, and as far as we can tell it is beneficial to the dog's coat and skin. This solution will kill fleas, flies, and other insects, and as long as it is on the dog's coat flies will stay away. We apply it with a spray gun.

Solution number three that we sometimes apply to a dog's ears as a fly repellent happens to be in the house because we carry it on fishing trips. It's a mosquito dope that we concoct every summer—the kind that fishermen and campers use in the north woods. We moisten a small piece of cloth with this dope and apply a little of it to his ears or lightly rub the moistened cloth over his back. Very often we take a spray gun and apply one of the other solutions to his back, neck, and legs. Then we swab his ears with the mosquito dope.

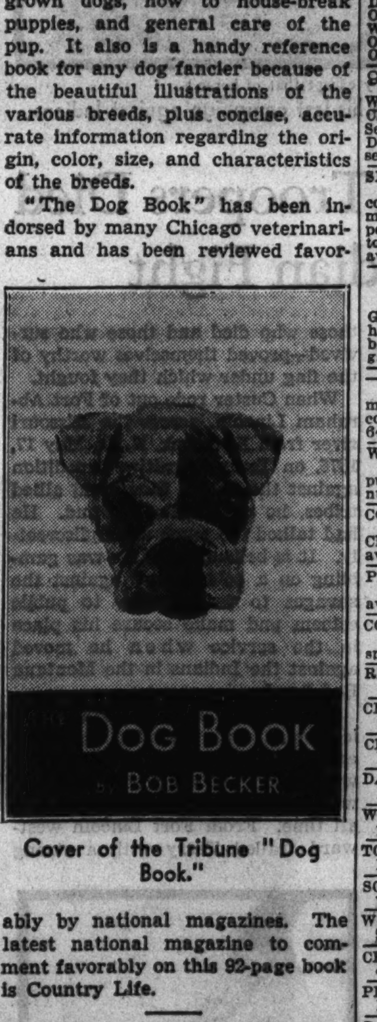
This solution can be objected to as an anti-fly dope for dogs because it is oily. But fly dope of this type really should have a heavy base, because the ingredients that repel insects evaporate very quickly unless they are combined with a heavy oil or other substance. One of the solutions we have used on our dogs' ears is made up of olive oil, 2 ounces; pennyroyal, 1 dram; citronella, 1 dram, and either sassafras oil or pine tar, 1 dram. This same solution can be used on your hands and face to repel mosquitoes or black flies.

DOG NOTES

ALTHOUGH the first edition of the Tribune "Dog Book" has been sold out, a new supply of this popular little handbook is on hand, so that any dog owner who wants a copy of it may procure one from the public service office of The Tribune. The cost of the book is 25 cents if purchased over the counter, or 30 cents by mail. It also is on sale in a number of Chicago's leading book stores.

This 92-page handbook has been called the ideal handbook for dog owners who want information on choosing a dog, feeding puppies and grown dogs, how to house-break puppies, and general care of the pup. It also is a handy reference book for any dog fancier because of the beautiful illustrations of the various breeds, plus concise, accurate information regarding the origin, color, size, and characteristics of the breeds.

"The Dog Book" has been indorsed by many Chicago veterinarians and has been reviewed favorably by national magazines. The latest national magazine to comment favorably on this 92-page book is Country Life.



Cover of the Tribune "Dog Book."

For many years we have urged that dog shows add more popular features for the benefit of the average person who is interested in dogs, likes all breeds, yet doesn't want to sit around a judging ring trying to figure out why the judge picked this one over that one, or who owns this or that dog. We have not been alone in this viewpoint. The judging of dogs is done so quietly and it's often so difficult to consult a catalog to find out who owns which dog that this feature frequently is given up as not entertaining by the general public.

Therefore exhibitions of trained dogs, classes that bring children into the ring, obedience classes, exhibitions by dogs that lead the blind, motion pictures of dogs in action, public address systems and announcers to keep dog show visitors informed on what is going on, and other similar features have (in our opinion) a definite value in getting bigger attendances at dog shows and in popularizing all breeds of dogs. In fact, some shows so ignore the average visitor that the shows make us think of secret societies in session, with only professional breeders and handlers able to understand what is going on.

The setting against which a dog show is presented also is important, as witness the beauty of the outdoor setting of the famous Morris and Essex show in the east. Next month a new dog club will feature background to no little degree when Lake Geneva in southern Wisconsin will be the scene of a show.

The event is the first annual show of the Southern Wisconsin Kennel club, to be held near the shores of Lake Geneva in the city of that name. The date of the show is July 11 and 12. The Agricultural hall has been reserved for the show.

In listing the American Kennel club registration figures for the month of April this department last Sunday inadvertently omitted data on the wire-haired terrier, which should have been included. And now the wire-haired terrier fanciers have been loosing their dogs at our heels because of this oversight! Having been the owner of Zipper, one of the smartest little wire-haired terrier comedians that for years kept things lively in our home, we even have heard from him about this slip-up in recording the registration figures.

The A. K. C. figures on registrations are as follows: The cocker spaniel first with 948 dogs registered in April, the Boston terrier in second place with 919, and the Scottish terrier third with a registration figure of 690. The wire-haired terrier, a popular breed that has been up among the leaders for years, is fourth with 610 registrations for the month. The Pekingese comes next (fifth) with 351 registrations, not fourth, as reported last Sunday in this department.

This study of an English springer spaniel shows how good-looking the breed is and also what a kindly, intelligent expression a springer has. The springer is among the most popular sporting breeds in America.

SECOND BASEMAN MOVES OVER TO COVER BASE, AND THIRD BASEMAN COVERS UP ON HIS BASE. PITCHER MOVES IN BEHIND CATCHER TO BACK HIM UP ON ANY PLAY AT THE PLATE. OUTFIELDERS MOVE IN TO BACK UP INFIELDERS. WHEN THE CATCHER MAKES THROW TO SECOND, RUNNER ON THIRD MAKES A BREAK FOR HOME. ALL OF THESE PRELIMINARY MOVES ARE DESIGNATED AS A ON THE DIAGRAM.

IF THE SHORTSTOP SEES THAT THE RUNNER ON THIRD IS NOT FEINTING AND INTENDS TO TRY FOR THE PLATE (OR IF HE SEES THAT THE THROW IS TOO LATE TO CATCH THE RUNNER GOING INTO SECOND), HE CUTS OFF THE THROW AND FIRES IT BACK TO THE CATCHER, THIS MANEUVER BEING DESIGNATED AS B ON THE DIAGRAM.

IF, HOWEVER, THE RUNNER ON THIRD RUNS ONLY A SHORT DISTANCE AND THEN STOPS TO AWAIT DEVELOPMENTS, AND THERE IS A CHANCE FOR AN OUT AT SECOND, THE SHORTSTOP WILL LET THE THROW GO THROUGH TO SECOND BASEMAN TO TAG RUNNER FROM FIRST SLIDING INTO THE BASE. THIS IS C ON THE DIAGRAM.

IF RUNNER ON FIRST SEES THAT HE HAS NO CHANCE TO STEAL, HE MAY PULL UP AND RETURN TOWARD FIRST, NECESSITATING A RUN-DOWN PLAY BETWEEN FIRST AND SECOND, GIVING THE MAN ON THIRD A CHANCE TO SNEAK HOME WHILE THE DEFENSIVE TEAM IS OCCUPIED WITH THE RUN-DOWN AND ALSO INCREASING THE CHANCES FOR A FUMBLE OR A BAD THROW WHICH WOULD ENABLE BOTH RUNNERS TO ADVANCE. IN THIS CASE THE SHORTSTOP WOULD MOVE INTO THE PLAY BETWEEN FIRST AND SECOND TO BACK UP THE SECOND BASEMAN. BOTH THE FIRST BASEMAN AND THE SECOND BASEMAN WOULD DRAW IN ON THE RUNNER, SHORTENING THE THROWING DISTANCE AND TRAPPING HIM BETWEEN THEM. THIS PART OF THE PLAY IS MARKED D.

IF THE RUNNER ON THIRD STARTS FOR HOME DURING THE RUN-DOWN, THE FIELDERS INVOLVED IN THE RUN-DOWN PLAY WILL THROW TO THE CATCHER, WITH EITHER A CLOSE PLAY AT THE PLATE OR A RUNDOWN IF THE RUNNER IS TRAPPED SHORT OF THE PLATE. THE RUNNER ON FIRST WILL TURN AGAIN TOWARD SECOND WHEN THE ATTENTION IS DIVERTED FROM HIM. THIS IS E.

What's New in World of Airplanes and Air Transportation

People Who Fly Watch Weather

By WAYNE THOMIS

AIRPLANE pilots constantly study weather conditions, and those who fly as passengers, whether in private, chartered, or regularly scheduled air line planes, soon become equally interested in the weather, which is so vital to aerial transportation.

Flying weather has little relation to weather as it is known to groundlings. Those persons who never fly are seldom aware of weather unless is takes some extremely unusual or extremely violent form. It takes a ten-inch snowstorm or a destructive tornado to turn the attention of ground travelers to the weather, which generally is far above their heads.

The flyer, however, takes his weather seriously, because he travels in the midst of it. It surrounds him. He is helped or hindered by the winds which push against his ship. He slices through clouds, or travels for hours in their misty hearts. Or, again, he may fly above them, secure in the knowledge obtained from his radio communication that his way is clear.

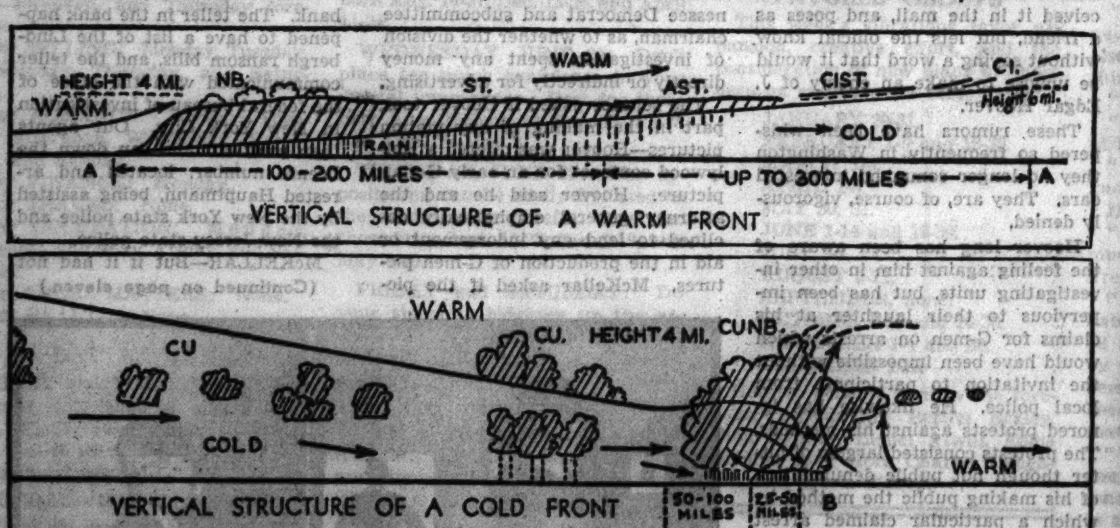
VIOLENT COLUMNS OF RISING AIR ARE FOUND ABOVE CLOUDS LIKE THESE.
THIS IS A RAIN CLOUD TYPE AND HARD RAIN MAY BE FALLING FROM ITS BASE.

A cloudscape photographed by the pilot of a transcontinental air liner. These are the cumulus clouds which form in warm, still air.



These drawings show the mechanics of weather in action. These are the two simplest storm formulas.

Since the inception of flying an entirely new science of weather prediction has developed. Knowledge of the machinery of weather and of the natural laws which motivate this machinery has increased and steadily is increasing. While the weather science is not exact and probably never will be, certain of the simpler weather processes are well understood.

On a short airplane flight travelers usually pass through several weather changes. On a long journey the flyer may meet a dozen different formulæ of weather, or may pass through, around, or over a score of variations of the weather theme.

It so happens that the general earth circulation favors the convergence over the northern and eastern United States of dissimilar air masses. The northern portion of the central and eastern United States thus becomes, as it were, the arena for the conflict between the forces disturbed by this meeting of unlike masses of air.

Consequently inhabitants of this region and those who fly over it are favored or hampered—depending upon the viewpoint—by a greater variety of weather than almost anywhere else in the world. And in general the summer season, which is upon us now, produces more varieties of weather than does the winter, when all conditions are more stable.

⁂

Flying conditions in the middle west are at their best, in the summer especially, when a north or northwest wind blows. This tells the weather-wise person, whether flyer or not, that a mass of cool air, relatively free from moisture, is pouring down onto the United States from Canada. Then air passengers can see for miles and pilots report the weather "cavu"—clear and visibility unlimited.

Often, however, during June, July, and August, when the winds die down during midday and warm air is generated by sun rays on barren ground, yellow fields, or other heat-reflecting surfaces, flyers see such clouds as depicted in the photograph at the upper left.

This is the true thunderhead. It consists of moisture gathered and hurled to great heights by warm air currents. In birth it is a cumulus cloud of fluffy, woolly outline, white in the sun rays. As it grows, rapidly climbing and filling the sky, brother and sister clouds form at its feet.

As the vapor shoots upward the warm currents dissipate and spread at the top, forming huge turrets or "anvils." This was the stage at which the cloud reproduced here was photographed. Meteorologists say in this stage the cloud form is cumulo-nimbus. About the time the "anvil" forms heavy rain or light hail usually falls from the base.

Beautiful cloudscapes such as depicted in the photograph at upper right, in which the airplane wing is shown, are found only when flying through warm, moist air masses undisturbed by strong winds.

Then travelers pass beside columns of vapor so sharply outlined as to appear solid. They rise about the plane like the smooth trunks of giant forest trees. Glimpses of vast depths below are caught momentarily as openings appear and disappear.

Always when passing through such cloud formations the flyer may expect bumps as the plane flicks through the rising warm air which is carrying each column of cloud. These bumps may range from hard jolts to gentle undulations scarcely felt.

⁂

Particularly over the plains region are found the fluffy patches of cloud shown in the center photograph. These, depending upon the changes which follow, may become merely wind-blown wisps, may spread to a thin, overcast layer of stratus cloud, or may develop into the storm clouds described above.

Travelers may have wondered why pilots avoid the lone thunderstorms which may be encountered on their routes. This is done for the comfort of the passenger, done in order to avoid the beating which violent currents inside these vapor mountains administer both to plane and occupants.

There are times when these storms collect in a continuous line which is called a "line squall." These may be one or one hundred miles in width. The height of these storms has been estimated at more than 20,000 feet.

Whenever possible even the largest transports are kept out of such squalls. Pilots fly through them only when informed from ground stations by radio that they are relatively shallow. Then the speed of the plane is slowed down in order to minimize the force of the lurches and pounding it must take. Passengers are always ordered to strap themselves in their seats.

Lately it has become the practice to have the automatic giro pilots fly the biggest liners through such storms, because the electro-mechanical device is more sensitive than a human pilot and reacts to changes more quickly. The mechanical pilot also keeps a ship closer to its intended course under these conditions.

The weather-wise air traveler can visualize in his mind the weather map when he is flying. Instead of seeing the horizontal map, such as groundlings are accustomed to seeing, he perceives his weather in a vertical design. The diagrams reproduced here show how typical weather structures appear upon paper.

The top diagram depicts a warm front. The wedge of cold air is retreating slowly, being overrun by the warm mass of moist air. As the warm air climbs the cold slope it quickly cools and soon reaches its dew point. Heavy nimbus clouds form, producing heavy showers.

As the air ascends it is still saturated with moisture, and a thick stratus cloud forms, from which sprinkles of light but continuous rain fall. Riding higher, the warm air, still carrying vapor, forms alto-stratus cloud, with light rain which may evaporate before reaching the ground.

At its peak the warm air forms the tenuous cirro-stratus cloud which is composed of minute ice crystals. These clouds are found above 30,000 feet and are visible from the ground only as powdery and wind-blown waves.

When flying toward a warm front the pilot sees the typical "locks of the approaching storm," the waved, thin, high clouds of cirrus, which rise from the south, southeast, or east in this part of the world. Soon these clouds thicken and a light rain begins. By these signs an experienced pilot knows what is ahead of him.

In the case of the cold front the heavy, dry, cold air is pushing along beneath the warmer moist atmosphere. The warm air is violently thrown upward and quickly cooled. Thunderheads and line squalls form. Strong up-and-down currents occur.

In the middle west this sort of storm is blown along on a west or northwest wind. Before it hits the winds are from the east and south, but these immediately change as the storm arrives. The violence accompanied by hail, and by lightning at this time of year, is usually brief.

Unless cold air is close behind the storm the skies clear after its passage.

THESE CLOUDS ARE HARBINGERS OF MILD BUMPS FOR AIRPLANES PASSING THROUGH OR OVER THEM.

Such clouds as these—strato-cumulus—are found over Chicago on warm days when a south or southwest wind is blowing. They are ideal for soaring.

J. Edgar Hoover-Record of Chief G-Man's Career

Forced Into Action Through Senate Investigation

Claims Trapping of Dillinger His Outstanding Act

In passing it may be noted that so far as is known their family is not related to that of former President Herbert Hoover. Director Hoover had some fears that the New Deal might presume existence of relationship and sweep him out with other vestiges of the old order, but careful political stepping saved his post.

John Thomas Hoover, grandfather of the G-man leader, was an employé of the United States coast and geodetic survey. His son, Dickerson, like his father, spent a lifetime in an obscure post in the same bureau. Dickerson Hoover, who died in 1922, married Annie Scheitlin.

To this union on New Year's day, 1895, was born a son, named John after his grandfather, and Edgar, for whom no one but the Hoovers know. He prefers the more impressive "J. Edgar." Another son, Dickerson Jr., preceded John by fifteen years.

There is a curious coincidence in the careers of the two sons. John became No. 1 G-man without having ever made an arrest, and Dickerson became supervising inspector general of the United States steamboat inspection service without ever going to sea. Dickerson, too, was graduated from a clerkship in the federal service.

Dickerson, now retired, delights in gibing his more serious younger brother over the fact that he wheeled John thousands of miles around Capitol hill in an old-fashioned baby buggy. John's only retort is to recall that General Hoover, as Dickerson likes to be known, just as J. Edgar is somewhat pleased at being addressed "Major," though the rank is in the intelligence division of the reserve, started out in life with the ambition to become a preacher.

A few years after the buggy was stored in the basement of the Hoover home at 413 Seward square S. E., in which Hoover still lives with his mother, John entered the Brent public school. Boyhood mates recall him as a serious youngster who took no part in the boyish warfare between the factions of the town. Not once, as far as is known, did he set out on a foray into Foggy Bottom or muster with other lads to repel raiding Cowtowners.

He was graduated as valedictorian at Central High in 1913. To this day, when he steps out on a public platform to denounce criminals as "yellow rats" or plead for coöperation in the fight against crime, he plants his feet in the manner prescribed for class orators of his day and with the pride of one who has earned the right to speak above his fellow pupils.

His first job was that of a clerk in the library of congress. After weary hours of cataloging new books he would hurry to night classes at George Washington university, where he took a bachelor of laws degree in 1916 and a master of laws degree in 1917. At the outbreak of the war young Hoover did not join the ranks of men bent toward France, but took the post of clerk in the department of justice. Two years later he was made a special assistant attorney in prosecution of Reds. This brought him into contact with the bureau of investigation, which he joined in 1921.

≈

This unit was brought into being in 1908 when Attorney General Charles J. Bonaparte shuffled together an assortment of purported sleuths and bank examiners from other departments. In a vague way the bureau was charged with detection and apprehension of violators of federal statutes, but its men had no power to carry weapons or make arrests.

In 1910 these duties were increased by the passage of the Mann act, designed to end the white slave trafic. In 1917 the war hysteria mushroomed the unit into a counter-espionage organization. After the war it turned its attention to agitators. In 1919, as the automobile was coming into its own, the Dyer act, which made it a federal offense to drive a stolen car across state lines, added to the bureau's work.

In all this time, and in fact until 1932, when kidnaping across state lines became a federal offense, the existence of the bureau was hardly known to the public. It had a brief fling under the late William J. Burns, but the retirement of the detective and his subsequent private career did not place it above human frailties.

The only qualification for an agent was a letter from his congressman, and this brought not only incompetents but several ex-convicts and the notorious Gaston B. Means, now serving time at Atlanta for swindling Mrs. Edward B. McLean out of $100,000 through a faked ransom delivery in the Lindbergh kidnaping case.

Nothing was added to the reputation of the bureau in the scandals which rocked the Harding administration. In 1924 Hoover was given the post of director by Attorney General Harlan Fiske Stone. Since taking office Hoover has increased the number of agents from 358 to 603.

For the first nine years in his office Hoover proceeded quietly, without any search for public acclaim. He was more careful in the selection of agents than his predecessors and subjected them to stringent examination based on qualifications devised by himself. It was true, however, that the right congressman would find a vacancy for a promising applicant.

In the winter of 1931-'32 about one hundred men left the bureau's roster for reasons known only to themselves and Director Hoover. The New Deal had just triumphed at the polls. These places were filled by clear-eyed young men, later to be known as "Hoover's Boy Scouts," whose homes as they were revealed from time to time were found to be in districts and states of key Democratic congressmen and senators.

≈

These, after being found satisfactory to Director Hoover, were given a small gilt badge and a card which proclaimed them members of the bureau of investigation. They were given no course in crime detection, no guns, and no handcuffs, for they were not authorized to carry weapons or make arrests without local officers. In those days D. J. men were bird dogs for local police; they pointed to the criminal, let local police make arrests, and disappeared. The public demand for an end to kidnaping which followed the Lindbergh outrage brought a radical change in the department. Congress made kidnaping across state lines a federal offense and about the same time gave the bureau jurisdiction over national bank robberies. With these acts came the authority to make arrests and carry weapons.

The chatter of machine guns and popping of pistols that felled four agents and eight desperadoes in two years followed. Over the air and on the screen the fire was repeated, and out of the welter of dramatic gore Hoover emerged as the leading criminal chaser of all time, and a post under him became the object of thousands of American boys. A myth was born.

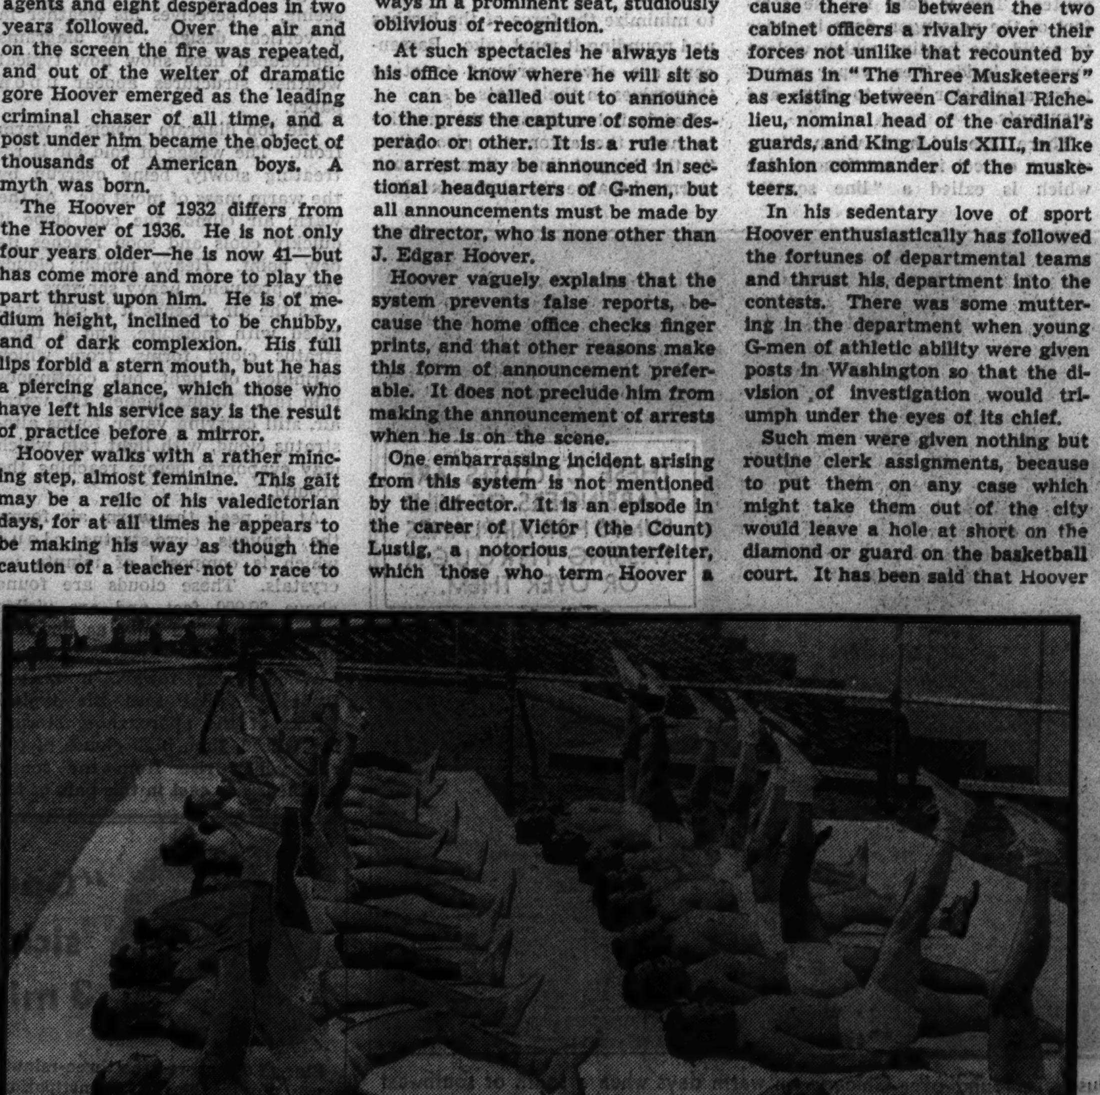
The Hoover of 1932 differs from the Hoover of 1936. He is not only four years older—he is now 41—but has come more and more to play the part thrust upon him. He is of medium height, inclined to be chubby, and of dark complexion. His full lips forbid a stern mouth, but he has a piercing glance, which those who have left his service say is the result of practice before a mirror.

Hoover walks with a rather mincing step, almost feminine. This gait may be a relic of his valedictorian days, for at all times he appears to be making his way as though the caution of a teacher not to race to the rostrum was ringing in his ears.

He has but few friends, due possibly to the fact that his plugging away in night school kept him from youthful friendships which would have taught him the art of mixing. The friends are Courtney Ryley Cooper, author of "Ten Thousand Public Enemies," which glorified Hoover and G-men, and who was rewarded with a propaganda post in the department of justice, with the express function of publicizing the division of investigation; Hoover's assistant, Clyde Tolson, and Frank Baughman, a gun expert.

No women are among his intimates, for Hoover — and he would have every G-man be likewise—is a woman hater. This again may be due to his studious youth, or it may be due to his cardinal creed as a crime fighter, which is the traditional French phrase, "find the woman" (cherchez la femme). In every search for a criminal Hoover has directed operatives to look for woman associates of the malefactor. He was swift to recognize the oft proven fact that a criminal's weakness for women leads him into the arms of the law.

The most outstanding success, Hoover claims, in this respect was the killing of Dillinger. There is no question that Dillinger was put on the spot by "the woman in red," but whether the end of the desperado is properly a notch on the division's gun butt is a moot question. Some hold that, like every other triumph of G-men, the credit belongs to local police who listened to Hoover's plea to call in his crime fighters, only to be robbed of glory. The woman in red bobbed up to annoy Hoover with her claim that he had promised to save her from deportation in return for her information.



Young G-men must have supple muscles! Here are shown a group of recruits of the bureau of investigation going through exercises on the roof of a government building. (Acme photo.)

≈

Hoover's only active sport, if it may be called such, is fishing in the nearby Patuxent river. Never an athlete in his youth, he is, as he probably was in boyhood days, an enthusiastic spectator. He can be seen at ball games, important football games, and boxing matches, always in a prominent seat, studiously oblivious of recognition.

At such spectacles he always lets his office know where he will sit so he can be called out to announce to the press the capture of some desperado or other. It is a rule that no arrest may be announced in sectional headquarters of G-men, but all announcements must be made by the director, who is none other than J. Edgar Hoover.

Hoover vaguely explains that the system prevents false reports, because the home office checks finger prints, and that other reasons make this form of announcement preferable. It does not preclude him from making the announcement of arrests when he is on the scene.

One embarrassing incident arising from this system is not mentioned by the director. It is an episode in the career of Victor (the Count) Lustig, a notorious counterfeiter, which those who term Hoover a Keystone cop delight to tell. Lustig was captured by treasury agents and turned over to Hoover's federal detention quarters in New York City. Lustig escaped from the G-men—Hoover did not announce the escape—Sept. 1, 1935.

Treasury agents again took up the trail and learned Lustig was hiding out near Pittsburgh. They appealed for aid to G-men, who said they were sorry, but they were busy on other cases. The treasury men set out alone and captured Lustig on Sept. 29. As the treasury men were bringing Lustig into Pittsburgh by auto they were met by an auto load of G-men who had changed their minds.

Told their aid was too late, the G-men followed orders to report captures to Washington and called the headquarters. In personal calls to press services Hoover announced the capture as having been made by G-men.

Ordinarily such an announcement would have gone unchallenged by treasury agents, secret service men, or postal inspectors, the long-established units of investigation. But a series of similar announcements had flicked to the raw a tender spot in Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr., who fancies that he, too, has the makings of a great detective.

Morgenthau considers his investigating units, the secret service, narcotic, and revenue groups, as the best in the country. He concedes the postal inspectors to be in the same class. For the Hoover Boy Scouts he has nothing but contempt.

When the phoned announcement of the Lustig capture reached Morgenthau he reddened with anger, snapped short a conference, and burst into his agents' headquarters sputtering about the disgrace of having the capture of Lustig effected by Hoover's men. It was some time before his men were able to tell Morgenthau that his forces had effected the arrest. He ordered papers be notified of the true facts.

Hoover had to eat crow. No doubt he heard from his boss, Attorney General Homer Cummings, because there is between the two cabinet officers a rivalry over their forces not unlike that recounted by Dumas in "The Three Musketeers" as existing between Cardinal Richelieu, nominal head of the cardinal's guards, and King Louis XIII., in like fashion commander of the musketeers.

In his sedentary love of sport Hoover enthusiastically has followed the fortunes of departmental teams and thrust his department into the contests. There was some muttering in the department when young G-men of athletic ability were given posts in Washington so that the division of investigation would triumph under the eyes of its chief.

Such men were given nothing but routine clerk assignments, because to put them on any case which might take them out of the city would leave a hole at short on the diamond or guard on the basketball court. It has been said that Hoover would rather win a departmental contest than capture a No. 1 public enemy.

≈

In other public appearances Hoover continues to act his rôle. He is fond of eating alone. When he does so he always takes a table at the far end of a restaurant with his back to the wall—just as Chicago gangsters were wont to do, but for a very different reason; the gangsters never knew when a machine gun might start its hail their way. On such occasions Hoover looks about furtively like a G-man.

A story vouched for by agents who have left Hoover's employ is that he was once given to shadowing persons on the street. This for years afforded him his only opportunity to play detective. The fact that his unsuspecting victim never gave him the thrill of chase that a criminal, wise to the ways of shaking shadows, might, apparently did not rob the game of pleasure for him.

In his office, a spacious room in the new department of justice building, Hoover is happiest. On his desk is a photograph of his dog, a copy of Kipling's "If," which affords an index to his literary tastes, and a telephone wrapped with wire. Whether this is to facilitate or ease his grip, or whether it is an invention against wire-tapping evolved in his crime laboratory, is not known.

At any rate, the phone plays an important part in any of the rare interviews he grants to those who beat a path to his door. The procedure of the No. 1 G-man during such interviews is vouched for by a number of somewhat puzzled penetrators of the sanctum.

Several times during the interview the phone will ring. Hoover scoops it up like one of his infielders whips a grounder out of the dust and carries on conversations teasing to the person present, no matter how set he may be against eavesdropping. They run something like this:

"You found finger prints. . . . Latent? . . . Yes. . . . What's the classification? . . . . That sounds like—— . . . It is? . . . Good. . . . Wire Chicago."

Or:

"You've got him surrounded? . . . Good! . . . Smoke him out. . . . Call me when he's under arrest."

Some visitors have been known to watch newspapers for days waiting for an announcement of some major G-man arrest so that they might tell their friends they were at Hoover's elbow when he told his men how to do the job. Hoover's manner of hanging up discourages questioning.

In the office Hoover is a martinet, as are most of those who rise to burocratic power. Agents a few minutes late are required to fill out long forms of explanation. Clerks, if former employés are to be believed, are visited with curt tongue-lashings for the slightest of reasons. Discharges for relatively unimportant offenses are not uncommon, reports have it.

There are many former agents of Hoover in the various New Deal investigatorial units. In fact, some of the heads of these units have said they will hire any man fired by Hoover, because he is certain to be a good man.

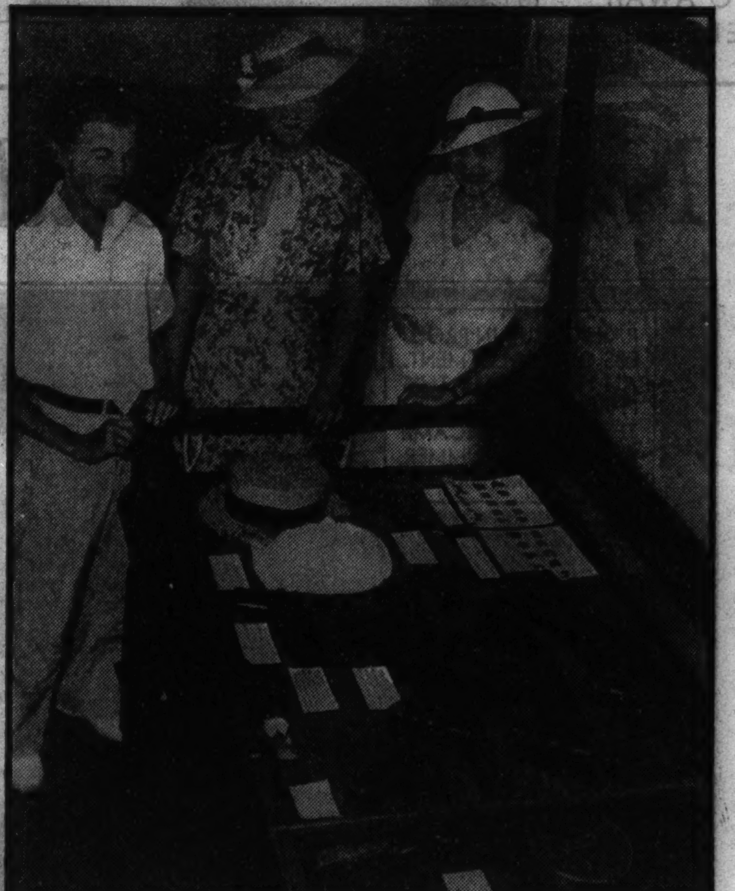
Where discharges would bring unfavorable reaction Hoover is said to force resignations. It is a well known fact that Melvin C. Purvis, one-time head of the Chicago G-men, who by a series of exploits for a time threatened to eclipse Hoover in the public eye, found relations so uncomfortable that he resigned.

≈

Current among agents not under Hoover is a somewhat fanciful tale of punishment meted out upon one who dared disobey the Hoover order against release of news other than through Washington. The agent in the tale was the chief of the Denver unit, and consistently ignored the order. One day another agent, working in his territory out of Washington, came in, obviously fatigued, and apparently from rigorous devotion to his assignment.

The weary agent begged for a drink. The chief recalled Hoover's stern edict against drink. The agent begged for just one. All this in prohibition days. Being a good fellow, the chief went out and got the drink. A few days later he was discharged for violating the rule against liquor.

Incidentally, there has been no repeal in the department. Hoover himself never touches liquor. In fact, he has none of the pleasant vices. To this fact he attributes his good health.



An exhibit of weapons and other property of the late John Dillinger, victim of G-men. (Associated Press photo.)

Former agents tell stories of interdepartment spying. There are recurrent rumors of more serious spying. Hoover is said to have dug into the past of prominent figures, not stopping even at the White House. One of the most frequent rumors is that he dug into the Hoover record. Another is that he brings the material gathered to the official concerned, states that he received it in the mail, and poses as a friend, but lets the official know without saying a word that it would be unwise to make an enemy of J. Edgar Hoover.

These rumors have been whispered so frequently in Washington they no longer command interested ears. They are, of course, vigorously denied.

Hoover long has been aware of the feeling against him in other investigating units, but has been impervious to their laughter at his claims for G-men on arrests which would have been impossible without the invitation to participate from local police. He likewise has ignored protests against his methods. The protests consisted largely of bitter though not public denunciation of his making public the method by which a particular claimed arrest was made.

In a number of instances these announcements revealed that arrests had been made through the most effective means at police disposal—the information of a stool pigeon. Police complained at first mildly and then loudly that the revelations were ruining their best sources of information, because on publication of the story of an arrest the police informers had to flee or take a long chance of boldly denying that they had "stooled." Most of the class showed their heels. For this reason a number of police departments will have no truck with Hoover's boys.

≈

Local police of many cities now refuse to have anything to do with G-men even in a government case until they are actually up to the arrest stage. Such departments, it is said, learned by bitter experience that the "Boy Scouts," while brave under fire, are not trained in police technique in the observation of suspects or the nursing along of informers. G-men, they say, make an informer a clam.

A typical instance of this nature recently occurred. The information comes from an absolutely authoritative source. A New York informer, who had turned in a band of smugglers, came to Washington, where he stayed at a hotel, living in a royal manner on his reward. While here he met an underworld friend, who knew nothing of his stool pigeon bents, and told of a huge bond theft with international complications.

The stool pigeon, seeing another fat cut coming his way, contacted a third man to get him in touch with government agents. The third man took him to Hoover's office instead of the treasury department, where the case belonged. Hoover decided to repay the treasury for the Lustig incident and put all available men to work on the case.

One of the first things the G-men did was to put a squad of agents on the trail of the informer. These were spotted by bellhops and hotel employés whom the informer had won by his large tips. The informer ran screaming to the intermediary, who decided it would perhaps be best to go to the treasury.

Treasury agents bluntly told Hoover to pull his "ostriches" off the case, as they were gagging the source of information. Hoover had the last laugh within a few days, however, because he made the announcement of the arrest, although the men were seized by New York police and the announcement jeopardized the impending capture of members of the bond ring abroad.

Hoover made the announcement because he was having troubles of his own with the senate subcommittee and wanted to impress the senate as a whole of the wisdom of restoring $225,000 that was cut from the $6,025,000 appropriation he was seeking for his division. The appropriation sought was $1,025,000 more than he had to spend in the present fiscal year.

Almost immediately after Hoover stepped up to make his plea for additional funds he faced an embarrassing battery of questions from Senator Kenneth D. McKellar, Tennessee Democrat and subcommittee chairman, as to whether the division of investigation spent any money directly or indirectly for advertising.

The senator asked if Hoover took part in the making of any motion pictures—Hoover was offered a Hollywood contract for an early G-man picture. Hoover said he and the attorney general emphatically declined to lend any indorsement or aid in the production of G-men pictures. McKellar asked if the pictures did not virtually advertise the bureau because Hoover's picture was frequently shown in connection with the pictures. Hoover confessed that to be true.

Senator McKellar ventured the opinion that publicity had hurt the department, whether from the screen or in newspapers. Hoover, forgetting his calls to news services on arrests, said in every instance objection had been registered and official disapproval had been indicated. He did not mention that he had once driven to Baltimore to see a G-man picture a few days before it was to be shown in Washington.

Senator McKellar asked if that applied to magazine articles and stories. (Hoover is a regular contributor to a well known monthly magazine and has lent himself to numerous interviewers.) Hoover replied that many magazine articles were particularly objectionable. He said that the attorney general on a few occasions—not more than three or four—had allowed writers access to the bureau.

"You see the so-called lurid portrayal of the work of the G-men," Hoover said. "As a matter of fact, a very small portion of our time is devoted to shooting. We refer to it as 'bing-bang' publicity. We are not in favor of it."

McKellar asked if any money appropriated by congress was going toward that purpose. Hoover, whose friend, Author Cooper, has been recently added to the D. J. staf with the G-men as his particular assignment, replied readily that not a cent had been appropriated, that his department employed no writers, and that he knew of no writers in or out of the government service employed to write about the bureau.

Shortly before the appearance before the committee, which was on last April 10, Hoover had lent aid to a Washington newspaper man in a G-man radio series and at the time of his appearance was discussing a G-man cartoon strip for which the local reporter is to write continuity.

On April 11 Hoover returned to the subcommittee to undergo an even more severe grilling. Senators questioned the need of the increase he sought in personnel, laughed at his claim that G-men had solved the Lindbergh kidnaping case, thrust at him on the resignation of Purvis, and twitted him on the public enemies still at large. They interrogated him on credit due to local police in numerous cases.

One portion of the record is a glimpse into the character of Hoover. The excerpt comes at a point where he has been worn a bit raw by the debunking activities of the senators.

McKELLAR — Now, take the Hauptmann case, concerning which so much has been said; that man was turned in by a filling station agent.

HOOVER—The facts in the case are these——

McKELLAR—Is not that true?

HOOVER—That is not.

McKELLAR—Was he not turned in by a filling station agent?

HOOVER—The bill was turned in by the filling station agent to a bank; not the man Hauptmann, senator. [The lawyer quibbles and the injured No. 1 G-man almost sneers the title "senator."]

The facts in the case, if I may have them as a matter of record here, were these:

Bruno Richard Hauptmann went to the gasoline station and bought some gasoline and paid for it with a gold certificate. The gasoline attendant, having no thought of the Lindbergh case, wrote down on the gold certificate the license number of the car that Hauptmann used, as a precautionary measure to prevent himself from being prosecuted for having gold certificates.

That certificate was sent to the bank. The teller in the bank happened to have a list of the Lindbergh ransom bills, and the teller communicated with the office of the federal bureau of investigation in New York City. Our agents then went out and ran down the license number, located and arrested Hauptmann, being assisted by the New York state police and the New Jersey state police.

When Ruth Met Forlorn Little Helen Bates She Could Not Foresee How Dramatically the Child Would Reward Her for a Few Kind Words

THE STORY TO DATE

Though her childhood sweetheart, faithful George Dwight, pleads with her to come home to America and marry him, Ruth Starling insists on staying in London and using her recently inherited wealth to go on the stage. Through her London lawyer, Mr. Singleton, Ruth meets Capt. Philip Trefane and his wife, Iris, two scheming adventurers. Captain Trefane is interested in theatricals, though short of capital. Ruth offers to finance a theatrical venture under his management. His aunt, the marchioness of Cicester, has loaned the Trefanes her castle on the Cornish coast for the summer, and Ruth accepts their offer to stay with them as a paying guest. Captain Trefane secretly insures Ruth's life in his favor. Iris and Ruth call on the marchioness, who lives near by. Her son, Lord John, is attracted to Ruth, and Ruth, despite the man's monstrous looks, likes him. He makes an engagement with Ruth to go riding next day. On returning from their visit Philip rows Ruth out for a swim, then purposely lets the boat drift away, expecting Ruth to drown on the long swim back to shore. Philip pretends to have a cramp. From the shore Iris sees their plight, races out in a motor boat, and saves Ruth's life. Ruth gives Iris a check to pay for the installation of a bathroom. Philip insists it can only be built in the annex and that quarters for Ruth shall be arranged there. Ruth finds the annex to be a forbidding, isolated building. Helen Bates, Trefane's stepdaughter by a previous marriage, uses the studio on the first floor of the annex.

INSTALMENT VII.

STEPPING carefully, Ruth made her way down the grass steps, and when she found herself on a kind of pebble-strewn, concrete platform standing just above the beach, she gazed from quite another angle at the curious wooden building.

And then she gave a stifled cry, for a face had suddenly appeared behind one of the panes of the long window. It was a pale, queer looking countenance, and for a fleeting instant she wondered if it was that of the wraith of the eccentric artist who had built the annex. Then all at once she realized the pale face must be that of Helen Bates, and she remembered that it was in the annex Capt. Trefane's stepdaughter spent much of her time.

She waved her hand, while a feeling of dismay welled up in her mind. If Helen Bates considered the annex her property she would certainly much dislike being turned out of it. But, after all, there was no reason why the child should be turned out of what was apparently her playroom. She, Ruth Starling, had no wish to use the lower part of the building, for she would, of course, spend the daylight hours of each day in the castle.

The face at the window vanished and soon there came the sound of a door opening on the further side of the building, and a girl, who looked about 14, came hurrying toward her. As she came up she breathlessly exclaimed: "Why, Miss Starling, it's considered awfully dangerous to come down by those grass steps! A man broke his ankle there last year. Do be careful or you'll have another accident!"

"Another accident? What d'you mean?"

"I mean when you were nearly drowned yesterday."

Ruth remembered the insistent way Iris had begged her not to mention her terrifying adventure, so she said lightly: "What you heard is a great exaggeration, as Mark Twain said when he heard a report of his death." Then she asked: "But what other way down from the castle is there?"

"There are some proper stone steps leading down to the shore at the back of the annex. You go through into Lady Cicester's flower garden. That's the way I come down here, always."

They were now face to face and Ruth noticed with a mixture of pity and disgust that the girl was unkempt, untidy, and had an unpleasant, defiant expression. She had a pale, unhealthy looking face, only redeemed by beautiful dark eyes and a mop of chestnut hair.

"That lower room is called the studio, isn't it?"

"Yes, it is, but who told you that?"

"Capt. Trefane told me. He also said that the studio had been your nursery."

Ruth was not going to be downed by this rude, ill-mannered little girl.

Then with a shock she realized that Helen was not "little" any longer. Helen was almost as tall as herself, though she was still dressed, and in very unbecoming garments, more or less as a child.

"May I come into the annex?" she asked. "I want to see the two upper rooms. Your stepfather is kindly going to have a bathroom made out of one of them, and then I'm to sleep in the other."

She saw a look of sullen anger rise into Helen's face, and she added quickly, "I shan't be using the studio, of course, for I shall go into the castle as soon as I'm up and dressed."

Helen turned and silently led the way around to the side door. It opened into an ugly little hall containing one chair.

"You'd best wait here while I see whether the rooms upstairs are unlocked. They were always kept locked three years ago."

The girl ran up the narrow staircase and Ruth pushed open the half open door into what had evidently been the living room of the man who had built the place. To her surprise it still looked like a studio, for there were canvases leaning against the wall and a drawing board to which was pinned a large piece of paper covered with pencil drawings stood on an easel.

⁂

SHE walked forward to see the drawings, and surprise deepened into amazement when she saw that the drawings were clever, unpleasant caricatures of men and women known to her!

There was one of the old marchioness holding up her stick in the air, as if she were about to throw it at some one; a cruel drawing exaggerated the defects in Lord John's remarkably ugly, misshapen face, and a frightful head, strangely like a Medusa, recalled, unmistakably, that of Iris Trefane. And that was not all!

In a corner of the large sheet was a caricature of herself, Ruth Starling. It was the only drawing there where the whole figure was given, and as she stood staring at it she had to acknowledge that it was a brilliant drawing done, too, with a few bold strokes. From the mouth —her mouth—there issued a streamer on which was written, "I am an actress!" Poor Ruth. She was so amazed, and yes, so hurt, that tears rose to her eyes. Where and when had Helen Bates seen her to make so close and cruel a study? It could have been no fleeting glance which had made possible that odious drawing. The caricaturist must have spied on her from some secret, hidden point of vantage.

There came a slight sound and she turned around to face the now alarmed looking girl.

"The rooms upstairs are locked, Miss Starling. I've tried to find the keys in the kitchen, but they're not there."

The words were shot out as from a pistol. It was clear that Helen was thoroughly frightened.

"I had no idea that you were an artist," said Ruth quietly. She had regained her self-command, but she had turned very pale.

Helen remained silent, her hands crossed behind her back, glowering at the American girl.

Ruth went on, choosing her words carefully, "I wonder your stepfather didn't arrange for you to go to a good art school. A person with your gift ought not to waste it on that sort of thing," and she glanced at the large piece of paper closely covered with what seemed to her most cruel drawings. As the girl made no answer, she added: "Unless, that is, you have made up your mind to become a cartoonist?"

"I don't know what cartoonist means," said Helen sullenly.

"It means a man or woman who does the sort of work I have just seen of yours. But the cartoonist is limited as a rule to humorous publications. I suppose you've studied drawing?"

"Not properly, except for three months at school with a man who used to make us draw things like cups and saucers. I hated that! But I have worked by myself really hard whenever I got the chance. O, if only I were grown up—then I'd go to a real art school."

There was a touch of bitter yearning in the still childish voice.

"Does Capt. Trefane know how keen you are to become an artist?"

"He ought to by this time, as I've never thought of doing anything else. But he's the sort who only thinks of himself; in fact——"

"Yes?"

"I don't suppose he has any idea of how I spend my time."

"But that's absurd. He must know."

Helen shook her head obstinately.

"But even if he's too busy to give much thought to what you do, Mrs. Trefane must know."

"Of course she does, and she hates me for it," was the unexpected answer. She went on: "Iris is by way of being a dab at painting herself, and though you haven't been here long, you must know that Iris loathes me."

"You do nothing to make her like you," said Ruth in an oppressed tone. She felt as if she were living in an evil dream.

"Why should I? I don't owe her anything. I've longed and longed and longed to run away. But I'd only be tracked down and brought back to them." The way the girl spoke was hopeless and despairing.

"I agree that they are too absorbed in one another to care much for anything outside themselves, but, after all, Capt. Trefane promised your mother he'd look after you, didn't he?"

"Is that what he told you?"

"Surely it's the truth?"

Helen Bates came close up to Ruth. "Listen, Miss Starling! Phil Trefane 'looks after me,' as you put it, because he gets eight pounds a week for my keep."

And then with rising excitement she exclaimed in rapid, breathless tones: "My father was what's called a gentleman, and my mother was an actress. But not a grand one, like you. She just had small speaking parts. But she was beautiful, and in the last winter of the war my father met her and asked her to marry him. At last she said 'yes.' They had a bit of a honeymoon on the river. He came back for one leave from the war, and then the week after he went back he was killed. I was born six months later. If I'd been a boy his parents might have behaved differently—so mother always said. As it was, they did give her two pounds a week, and she went on acting. I can just remember our going on tour, for she never left me behind. She did love me so——"

Ruth's heart melted; she began to feel deeply sorry for this strange, uncouth, passionate young creature.

"Then a horrible thing happened, Miss Starling."

"What was that, my dear?"

"Mother met Phil Trefane! When she told me she was going to marry him I cried and cried and cried. But it was no good, and just after they were married my father's mother died and left me the money my father would have had."

⁂

RUTH STARLING walked across to the one open window in that long, low room. She felt suddenly enveloped in a terrible atmosphere of hate and misery.

She came back to where Helen was standing, staring as if into vacancy. "Now look here! I've got an idea, Helen. I expect you know that I've got plenty of money?"

The girl threw back her head. "Of course I know that. I even know that you've got more money than you know what to do with——"

There was an ugly, taunting sound in the young voice. Even so, Ruth went on gravely. "That's never true of anybody, however rich they may be. Still, I've money to spare and I'm going to speak to Capt. Trefane and ask him to let me pay for your art education."

Helen rushed to the door and turned the key in the lock.

"Miss Starling—I know you mean well, but I won't let you leave this room until you've given me your word of honor that you won't say one word to Phil Trefane—I mean about me. My life's bad enough as it is. It would become devilish if he thought I'd complained of him to you."

"I think you're filled with baseless, as well as horrible suspicions. But as you feel like that, I'll say nothing to your stepfather. Once we're all in London I'll arrange for you to live somewhere near an art school, and the Trefanes will never know that you told me about that eight pounds a week.

"You will let me speak to your stepfather after we get to London, won't you, my dear?"

But again there flashed an awful look of fear, almost of horror, into the face of the girl who stood before her.

"I am grateful, indeed I am, Miss Starling, but I am terrified of the idea of your saying anything about me to Philip Trefane."

Helen's would-be benefactress felt baffled, as well as disappointed. She came close up to the strange girl and put an arm around the young, thin, heaving shoulders. There came no response, yet even so, Helen made no effort to escape from her. Instead she muttered in a stifled tone, "You don't know what they're like. They're both wicked people, really."

"Helen! My dear child, what are you saying?"

And as the girl, with a quick movement drew herself away from the kindly encircling arm, Ruth went on: "You mustn't let your dislike of the Trefanes and their—" and then she stopped, for it was true that Iris, at any rate, always spoke when she had occasion to do so, with contemptuous dislike of Helen Bates.

And as if she could see into Ruth's mind, the girl exclaimed excitedly: "You mean the horrible way they have behaved to me? It isn't that which makes me say they're wicked. I've known my stepfather for nearly seven years now and he's exactly what I once heard a man describe him as being — 'an unscrupulous rascal'! As for Iris — I hate her more than I do him. I wish you could hear the sort of things they say about you."

"I'd rather not know," said Helen's new friend. Again she felt as if she were enveloped in an atmosphere of almost crazy hatred and misery. Yet she also felt a painful burning sensation of curiosity. "D'you mean," she said, and her voice trembled, "that they speak unkindly of me?"

"O, no, I don't mean that!"

Helen felt very sorry she had spoken those words, for the last thing she now wished was a quarrel between Ruth Starling and Capt. Trefane.

"How is it you know all these things?" Ruth asked, for that did seem to her a real enigma.

"It's because my ears are really sharper than most people's," said Helen, and for the first time, she smiled. "I heard everything you all said this morning while you were having breakfast. I was on the terrace and the lower panes of the window were open. The same thing happened yesterday afternoon. I was on the terrace and I heard Iris telling Philip the way Lord John had behaved, how he'd taken you all around the Manor house and shown you his workshop. He showed it to me once, and I felt thrilled. He's never taken them into it, because he knows they'd make fun of him for being so keen on his carving——" And then: "Here they are," she said under her breath, and Ruth turned around to see her host and hostess standing on the beach outside the long window. With them was an elderly man, obviously the builder who was going to turn one of the rooms into a bathroom.

When Ruth joined them out of doors Iris looked surprised, and yes, vexed. "I don't want you to see the two rooms we're transforming into a cozy nest for you till they are absolutely ready!" she exclaimed.

As Ruth and Iris walked up the high, slippery steps cut in the grass bank, leaving the two men to go into the annex, Iris said abruptly, "I suppose Helen Bates was in the studio?"

"Yes, and I do think her a clever little artist."

"I agree. Her mother was a clever, vulgar woman, and she's just like her mother, with spitefulness added. She's always eavesdropping, and I'm just longing for the day when we can send her to a good finishing school."

⁂

LORD JOHN PENDERVIL was riding along one of the Cornish lanes, now filled with honeysuckle and wild roses, which led from the manor house to the castle. He knew he was early, and he allowed his horse to slow down to a walk while he thought over, for maybe the hundredth time since he had parted from her yesterday, the problem which was presented to him by Ruth Starling.

How curious a condition is that in which a man finds himself when overwhelmed with what the civilized world is agree to call love! In his mid-twenties Lord John had had a passionate affair with a famous, no longer young, though still extremely beautiful actress. It had amused and excited this clever woman to—seduce is the only word that will serve—the clumsy, ugly, pathetically simple lad the then Marquis of Cicester's younger son had been. First love, if frustrated and degraded by being lavished on an unworthy girl or woman, leaves a permanent scar.

Yesterday, for the second time, he had experienced the delicious, exciting sensation attendant on what is called falling in love at first sight. Yet it seemed more than strange, even to him, that his imagination should have been roused, his passion for romance excited, by a girl who was the product of a vast continent of which, in common with millions of Englishmen, he knew really nothing.

He had heard with mingled feelings of annoyance and even dismay that the Trefanes were to have as paying guest at Perranuth castle a young American actress, for he still shrank from everything connected with the stage. Also he had actively disliked the kind of American heiress, of whom he had met several examples during his London life, who marries into the British aristocracy, exchanging her good dollars for an often shoddy title. So when his mother had told him what their old lawyer had said concerning Ruth Starling his only reaction had been one of contemptuous regret that he would have to meet her.

But when a vision of charming, and he could not but believe unsophisticated, girlhood, all the more charming to such a man as himself, because Ruth was not regularly pretty, had stepped out of the motor car, there had come over him a sudden feeling of gladness that he had stayed at home, instead of leaving home for the afternoon as he had thought of doing, and it was eagerly that he had acquiesced in Lady Cicester's suggestion he should show the visitor the treasures of the Manor house.

So attractive had he found this American girl, that after she and Iris had gone back to the castle he had shut himself away in his workshop, dreading his mother's sharp comments on the stranger. But when they had met at dinner, to his relief Lady Cicester had made only one remark: "The Trefanes' paying guest is very unlike what I expected her to be. She looks such a simple, unaffected girl that one can hardly believe her to be an actress." He had muttered acquiescence, and then had turned the subject quickly.

Just before he had started out this afternoon a typical exchange of words had taken place between them.

"Please remember, my dear John, to ask your cousin Philip what the cost of that bathroom is going to be. I never heard of anything more absurd than that of wanting to put in such a thing in an old castle. Not so very long ago every decent person had his or her bath each morning in his or her bedroom."

"You do that yourself now, mother."

She smiled. "Of course I do, because I am still a decent person," and he had smiled, too. Then she had gone on: "To tell you the truth, my dear, I wonder whether that nice American girl has really asked to have a bathroom put in, for I can never feel sure that Philip and Iris are telling the truth."

"I don't see why they should lie about a thing like that."

"Nor can I, but one can never tell."

"I understood you to say that Miss Starling is willing to pay for a bathroom to be put into the castle, mother?"

"So Iris told me, but I don't care to be beholden to a stranger for a so-called improvement to my property which is sure to cost quite a bit of money. So I've offered to pay half."

Her son felt inwardly amused. For half the cost of this bathroom his mother was quite willing to be beholden to this sweet stranger.

"How much do you think it will cost?" she went on.

"I haven't any idea, mother."

"D'you think it will cost more than fifty pounds?"

At that he roused himself. "Well, yes, I do."

"I remember that when your dear father and I consented to put a bathroom in the bachelor's wing to please your poor brother it cost around fifty pounds, and that included bringing water to the upper floor and making some kind of hot water arrangement. We thought it a monstrous lot of money to waste over a fixed bath. But that was before the war; everything costs more now. Please find out all about it for me."

He felt vexed to know that he would have to see the Trefanes today so as to make that inquiry on behalf of his mother, for he had hoped to avoid going into the castle, and he had been pleased to hear Ruth's eager "I'll be quite ready by three, and waiting outside the front door."

It was now close to three o'clock, and a bend in the high-banked lane brought him on to the wide open grass space below Perranuth castle's outside granite stairway. For the first time there seemed something sinister in the great dark mass flung against the sky, and he reminded himself that terrible deeds of cruelty and darkness had been perpetrated there in the old days.

Then he felt a thrill of delight, for all at once the door at the top of the stone steps opened and revealed the slender, now boyish looking figure of Ruth Starling. She was wearing a pair of riding breeches, and with it a long coat of the same brown tint. Around her neck was knotted loosely a dark blue scarf, and on her head was poised a panama hat bound with a ribbon the same tint as the scarf. It was a somewhat fantastic costume, and one which would have aroused criticism in Lord John's mind had it been worn by any other young woman than Ruth Starling.

Some way to the left, under one of the ilex trees, stood a groom with the other riding horse.

Ruth ran down the steps, and Lord John was glad, indeed, to postpone what he felt would be a far from pleasant talk with his cousin Philip, and with Philip's wife. While he respected Iris for the way she conducted her difficult life with her husband, he definitly did not like her.

As they rode off toward the cliffs Ruth's escort exclaimed, "I have never before seen a lady 'vault into the saddle.' You did exactly that, and very gracefully, too, if you will allow me to say so, Miss Starling."

"I was taught to do that at home." She waited a moment: "I'm afraid Iris was rather shocked I didn't bring with me what she called 'a proper riding habit'."

"It is much more sensible for a woman to ride astride," he said quickly. "One shudders to think of the dangers that were run by women in the old long riding habit days which are recalled by the early pictures of Queen Victoria, and even of people like my own mother."

⁂

THEY were trotting now on a rolling down, and suddenly he observed: "I'm afraid you must find life rather dull down here. It's the sort of place where nothing ever happens, does it? Life was very different in the old days at Perranuth castle. There was no lack of adventure then."

Ruth waited a perceptible moment. She had had an adventure since their meeting yesterday, and she longed to tell him about that frightening episode, but her promise to Iris sealed her lips.

And then he asked her another half question which she also found it difficult to answer, and this was the story of the play on which she was building so many hopes. Now, in "A Daughter of Heth," an American heiress was beguiled into a big English country house so that she might revive the fortunes of a dissolute young peer. The last act contained her escape from this plot into the arms of a brilliant, devoted young diplomat attached to the American embassy in Paris. Somehow, she did not feel eager to tell the story of her play to this man, and he saw this was so. But soon they were talking happily together, she feeling fascinated by Lord John's penetrating analysis of the art of acting. They were discussing the kind of things she longed to discuss with Philip Trefane, and never did so, because though he had more than once acted himself, he had a contempt for actors and actresses, and for the art they practiced. To him his connection with the stage had only been of value because it had proved an easy way of making money. The possession of money to such a man was like the air he breathed. He felt not only stifled, but utterly miserable, when "hard up."

The couple of hours their ride lasted seemed to go by like a flash, and when she heard her escort observe, "I suppose you are expected to return in time for tea?" she felt a pang. He said eagerly: "If we skip tea we can push on to a marvelous tower, which is just half an hour's good going from here. But we shouldn't be back at the castle till after six."

Ruth shook her head. "Iris asked me specially to come back in time for tea, for they want to see you."

John Bull Strengthens His Defense Against Aircraft

Acquires New Devices to Halt Foe

By LLOYD FANGEL

London, England.

ALTHOUGH authorities of all nations agree there is no way to stop air raids from the ground, none of the European military stafs is neglecting anti-aircraft defenses. In particular Great Britain has been busily engaged recently in arming ground forces with the latest weapons designed to hinder, obstruct, or even drive away flying forces which might attack its great financial, industrial, and shipping centers.

Since the World war most of the practical advances in anti-aircraft defense have come with the development of reasonably accurate range-finding devices and with the perfection of light semi-automatic cannon which fire small explosive shells with machine-gun rapidity. Many other devices, such as searchlights, improved motor sound-detecting apparatus, and new infrared light ray range detectors, supplement the guns.

Among the best of these new light cannon are those manufactured by the Bofors works of Stockholm. Britain has just ordered 1,700 of these guns, which have a firing angle up to 90 degrees. The guns are made in two calibers, 25-millimeter and 40-millimeter, and fire shells which contain the latest type of high explosive. They explode on contact. The total order must be delivered in 18 months.

According to ordnance officers, both calibers fire 120 shells a minute. While modern machine guns fire from 600 to 1,000 bullets a minute, the Bofors guns fire far faster than any other automatic cannon. Each shell is a "tracer"—in other words, it leaves a trail of smoke by day or light by night, so that its trajectory may be followed by the gun pointer.

The beauty of this gun is its simplicity and rugged structure, according to the army officers who have seen it in operation. It is capable of long-sustained firing without overheating and is light enough to be readily hauled about on trucks or by tractors, so that batteries can be concentrated at danger points very rapidly.

Getting sound location and making ready a searchlight during air defense maneuvers in Great Britain. At the right in the picture is an anti-aircraft machine gun. (Photo from The Chicago Tribune's London bureau.)

During the World war the only anti-aircraft guns were either machine guns or the heavier three, four, or five inch cannon, which were fired very slowly. Very few hits indeed were made by the heavy guns, and even though many hits might be made by machine guns, some vital part of either airplane or pilot had to be punctured to bring them down.

The shells fired by the automatic cannon, however, are of a more deadly nature. One hit can cause enough damage to entirely destroy the modern airplane, because of the explosive charge carried by each shell. Machine gun bullets through an airplane wing seldom weaken its structure, but one of the explosive shells striking in exactly the same place would bring the ship down. The Bofors gun's range is 4,500 yards.

The World war time Lewis and Browning machine guns are being superseded in the British anti-aircraft forces by the Bren gun, made in Czechoslovakia. The Bren gun fires up to 1,000 rounds of .303 caliber ammunition a minute, considerably more than even the latest types of Brownings. It is lighter in weight, i. e., 21 pounds complete, as against 31 pounds for the Lewis.

Other features of the Bren gun as listed by the ordnance experts are: Extreme steadiness when firing; almost complete immunity from effects of fouling deposits in the barrel; simplicity of construction; great freedom from breakage and stoppage, and the ability to maintain a high rate of fire for long periods. Dirt and dust are said to clog this gun less than any other machine gun.

Machine guns are, of course, used against aircraft only at close range. The maximum limits of accuracy for the Bren are said to lie between 700 and 800 yards. They are, however, the most effective weapons for combating low-flying raiders. During the World war pilots feared more than any other menace machine gun fire from the ground while flying low.

≈

Anti-aircraft machine guns are used chiefly as protection for larger and heavier types of anti-aircraft cannon which might be attacked by low-flying raiders accompanying big bombing machines. These raiders—designated as the attack branch of flying in the United States—have the sole duty of silencing ground defenses which might interfere with bombers.

One of the best methods of combating anti-aircraft batteries in an airplane is to fly low and machine gun the crews or drop small demolition bombs on the guns. All batteries and most of the searchlight crews are supplied with the new Bren gun for defense against this type of raider, the British air ministry has announced.

For the defense of London and other important cities the English have installed larger anti-aircraft guns as well. Most of these are fixed, being set up on specially prepared concrete gun emplacements clustered around important points. These guns range in caliber between four and six inches.

With this type of weapon ground forces can fire shells weighing between 25 and 50 pounds up to 20,000 feet. Usually these shells are exploded by a timing device at a given altitude.

Such guns were in use at the end of the World war by all forces engaged. The newer cannon, however, have greater range and the shells carry a heavier charge than those of 1917 and 1918.

Seldom did such guns achieve a direct hit on an airplane. Most of their damage was done by exploding the shells in the general proximity of enemy planes Many pilots were wounded by flying splinters, and many ships were driven down and some even destroyed by such gunfire.

In addition to the guns with special emplacements the English have developed mobile anti-aircraft cannon. These fire a lighter shell and are of calibers ranging from three to five inches. The shells weigh 15 to 30 pounds each.

The gun is placed on a steel truck with four pneumatic tires. It is on a swivel which can turn it through 360 degrees and has an angle of fire up to 90 degrees. The shells also are carried in a caisson attached to the truck. The entire assembly is hauled by a tractor or truck. Two views of one of these guns are shown at the bottom of the page.

Some of the smaller cannon, which fire shells weighing from 10 to 15 pounds, are mounted directly on a tractor. These guns are not dependent upon roads, but may cut across fields and rough ground to reach any desired spot.

Like the cannon, most of the searchlights, which are an important part of ground defenses during any night-time raid, are mobile. Some are attached to trucks, some to tractors, and a few of the largest are hauled about on special truck bodies. A few stationary lights are grouped around the London area.

The power of these lights has not been revealed, being considered a military secret. Some idea of their size can be gained, however, from the fact that the lights and reflectors range in diameter between four and eight feet.

During a night air raid every light in London will be extinguished except those of the military searchlights, according to regulations now promulgated. The searchlights will pick out the raiding planes, which will then become the targets of the anti-aircraft guns on the ground. The lights also help the night-flying interceptor airplanes which are sent up to fight the enemy from the air.

Most of the smaller stationary lights will take electric current from the city power lines. The larger mobile lights, however, have individual dynamos to provide the power. The trucks and tractors on which these large lights and dynamos are mounted have specially constructed shock-absorbing devices to eliminate all danger of jarring delicate mechanisms.

The English forces depend for range-finding during daylight upon a mechanism called a predictor. This instrument when operated gives readings on its dials which show the altitude and the speed, distance, plane of flight, and drift of airplanes which may be within sight. Gunners may take direct readings from the dials for pointing their guns.

In firing at an airplane it is necessary, of course, to "lead" the ship with the shell. In other words, gun pointers do not aim at the ship where they see it at the moment of firing, but at a spot they calculate it will reach by the time the shell reaches its height.

The predictor is a cubelike box with eyepieces on three sides of it. It takes three men to operate it, one peering into the lenses on each of three sides. With dials and knobs they adjust their lenses until they see the airplane at which it is planned to fire. Then each attempts to center on the plane two tiny hairlines which cross each lens at right angles in the field of vision.

≈

When this is done the dials on the fourth side of the box give the proper readings for aiming the gun. When in operation the observers stand constantly at their posts and the dials give a constantly different reading as the progress of the airplane is followed by the observers.

This instrument is said to be very accurate but not applicable to night work.

Another form of range-finder utilizes infrared rays and is said to be capable of picking out a target above clouds or in darkness. This instrument has been tested but not adopted by the English forces.

Last of the major instruments of the anti-aircraft forces are the sound-detectors. These consist of a series of horns electrically connected with extremely sensitive sound-detecting devices. They are generally used at night or in conditions of fog to locate squadrons of airplanes by detecting the sound of their engines. By turning the instruments until the maximum roar is determined, observers can determine well in advance the direction of approach of raiding planes.

The anti-aircraft defense of Britain is almost entirely in the hands of the territorial army—the British national guard—under the direction of regular army and air force officers. Despite the careful organization and complete arming of the ground forces, England puts most of her faith for air defense in the crack air corps fighting squadrons stationed in a ring around London.

Putting Ginger Into a Dance

"Let's go," says Hermes Pan, dance director, to Ginger Rogers, rehersing steps for "Never Gonna Dance."

The first step . . . . then a graceful whirl . . . . and Hermes watches her heels.

Hal Born, pianist, smiles as she picks up the rhythm . . . . and goes into the fast pace of a clog.

Ginger watches her toes in a mirror as she completes the steps. Then listens to Hermes' advice. Ginger Rogers, idol of the cinema-going world, is the best-known dancer of the films, with the possible exception of Fred Astaire, who is co-starred with her in the new RKO-Radio production, "Never Gonna Dance." Other pictures in which she appeared with Fred were "Top Hat," "Roberta," "Follow the Fleet," and "The Gay Divorcee." She will be 25 years old next July 16. Her real name is Virginia Katherine McMath. Her husband is Lew Ayres, well known movie star who turned director.

G-Man Hoover —Story of His Rise to Fame

been for the gas filling station you would never have had the man in the case.

HOOVER—Of course, our agents have to have information in all of these cases to solve them.

In this exposition Mr. Hoover gave no credit to treasury men who listed the notes and directed the early investigation so important to the solution of the case. Nor did he mention that his men were ordered out of Hopewell, N. J., by Colonel Lindbergh. Nor did he mention that the arrest of Hauptmann was in good measure due to New York City police.

More embarrassing to Hoover than all that went before was Senator McKellar's questioning on his experience as a crime fighter. Hoover confessed he had never been to a crime school, not even to his own elaborate school. The committee record reads:

McKELLAR—Did you ever make an arrest?

HOOVER—No, sir; I have made investigations.

McKELLAR—How many arrests have you made, and who were they?

HOOVER—I handled the investigation of Emma Goldman and prosecuted that case before the immigration authorities up to the secretary of labor. I also handled the Alexander Berkman case and the case of Ludwig Martens, the former bolshevik ambassador to the United States.

McKELLAR—Did you make the arrests?

HOOVER—The arrests were made by immigration officers under our supervision.

McKELLAR—I am talking about actual arrests.

HOOVER—We did not have the power of arrest.

McKELLAR—You never arrested them, actually?

HOOVER—We had no power to arrest until a year ago, when you passed a law giving us that power. Arrests prior to that time had to be made by a United States marshal or some other officer.

The subcommittee cut $225,000 from the appropriation request. This was slapped right back on a few days later on the floor of the senate as senators, leaning to the popular portrayal of Hoover, vied in singing his praises.

This was but small balm to Hoover. He had been held up almost to ridicule as the No. 1 criminal catcher who never made an arrest. But he corrected the situation at the first opportunity. He personally directed the raid which netted Alvin Karpis and loaded that felon down with gyves on a flight to a St. Paul jail.

In rapid succession came the captures of William Mahan, kidnaper of 9-year-old George Weyerhaeuser at Tacoma, Wash., and of Thomas H. Robinson Jr., kidnaper of Mrs. Alice Stoll in Louisville, Ky., in 1934, who eluded an elaborate G-man ransom trap.

The closing of all the kidnaping cases on the division's books and his personal participation in two of the arrests have brought Hoover the man and Hoover the myth more closely together than they have ever been. But it will not be forgotten that it took nothing short of a congressional inquisition to graduate a "criminologist," as Hoover terms himself in "Who's Who," to a G-man.

Miss Francigene, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas H. Sheridan of Highland Park, spends most of every day playing tennis and swimming, now that school is out. Later in the summer she may go to Montana for a stay on a dude ranch with her mother and father.

COLLEGE GIRL ENGAGED

Miss Doris Marie Barnett is engaged to be married to Benjamin E. Regan, son of Mrs. Mary A. Regan of Loyola avenue. The announcement has been made by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roy J. Barnett of 3000 Sheridan road. Miss Barnett recently returned from the Sorbonne in Paris, where her sister is a student. Miss Barnett is a graduate of Marywood and Mundelein college. She earned her M. A. degree at Loyola university, where Mr. Regan also studied.

Society Finds Rural Life a New Adventure

Charles Garfield Kings Are Among Those Joining Back-to-the-Farm Trek.

By Cousin Eve.

THERE are courageous to-the-country-to-live sorties on all sides. One reveres a love of nature in people, and their yerning to hear the birds sing. But personally one likes town, and downtown at that. So when friends say they are buying farms and intend to live on them, one's eyes open wide with wonder that others can plan such an existence.

The Charles Garfield Kings' new farm, "Kingdom Come," out in Lake county has a sort of dashing sound to it, because the Kings intend to raise turkeys there, sort of a turkey run as it were. They have 400 acres between Barrington and Dundee. Furthermore, they are building a quite chic farmhouse with a good architect to do it, and all that. The style is to be pure Victorian. None of this modernism to frighten the turkeys to death. This winter down in Charleston Mrs. King spent her time in old furniture shops and ancient attics with amazing results. She speaks of horsehair suites, of beaded flowers under glass, of footstools, and family Bibles. One detail which is not Victorian—each member of the family has a bathroom. The living room and dining room are to be one. Mrs. King's personal taste is of the loveliest. Her town house in North State street is a duplex apartment, done with simplicity and elegance.

Mrs. Tobin Requests King House with Furnishings.

The Santa Barbara house of the Kings lately was sold to Mrs. Genevieve Tobin, who insisted on having everything in it, including linen, glass, and tableware—each and every thing. Such a fine compliment to the former owners!

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Paepcke bought land out west of Aurora last fall. One of their daughters was heard to refer to "milk that came from the factory," so they thought it time to own a farm with cows, pigs, chickens, and whatever. Driving about in the environs of Chicago for many weeks, they found a nice old village, sixty miles away—this had a sedate, settled sort of air, as if it had been there a long time—in pretty rolling country with lovely trees, so they took root there. They, too, are Victorian, and a good architect is doing their house to suit. Elizabeth Paepcke has a bright, clear beauty that is the joy of our hearts, and her newest daughter, six weeks old, looks like her.

The young married set, too, is rushing to the country. Lake Forest has the largest quota of these. The John Bents settled there after their wedding last year. The William B. Cudahys, the Watson Armours III., the Hugh McBirney Johnstons, the Edward B. Smiths have recently moved out, the Eugene Carys Jr., and probably a dozen other young couples.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh McBirney Johnston, who were married in the winter, have just bought from the Farwells the lovely house that once belonged to Hugh's mother.

Ethel Hulberd Johnston sold this property to the Francis Farwells, and it will seem like going home to Hugh, whose bride was Deborah Butler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Peabody Butler.

There's No Talk of War and Depression in London.

London, they say, is marvelous these days, with society stepping out. Eddie Stanley is back, all cheered up; no talk there of depressions, or wars or things. It couldn't be otherwise with a lively young king. It even is fun to write about Edward VIII., who is keeping bachelor's hall at St. James's palace, while Queen Mary lives at Buckingham palace.

Queen Mary is an immensely popular sovereign whose staid qualities and regal dignity are noteworthy. But she is said to be less exacting of rigid royal etiquette than her daughter, the Princess Mary, wife of the earl of Harewood.

Queen Mary does not smoke, but out of consideration for the pleasures and habits of her guests, she takes a cigaret when they are passed. The queen lights the cigaret, touches it to her lips, then extinguishes it. This permits all the guests to smoke.

People who visit Princess Mary and Lord Harewood, however, remember that they are in the presence of the king's daughter, for they find strict etiquette.

Her royal highness neither smokes nor drinks cocktails, and the society of her palaces is most formal, so no other women may smoke or drink cocktails. As for King Edward, his entourage will bring a score of young and handsome people, especially the ladies, into prominence. The earl of Cork and Lord and Lady Ripon are in the new royal circle which, I dare say, will expand rapidly. Lady Ripon is an extraordinary beauty. Other members of the royal circle are Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Simpson, who live in Bryanston square, London. Mr. Simpson is a fellow officer of the king's regiment, the Coldstream guards, and Mrs. Simpson was a Baltimorean, Wallis Warfield. Her first husband was an American naval officer, Lieut. Spencer, whose people lived in Highland Park where she has visited from time to time.

German Woman Known for Her Unusual Psychic Powers.

There is in Paris a marvelous psychic, a Mrs. Wolfe, who is a German. Chased from Berlin by the Nazi government with other Jews, she was befriended by the Rothschilds in Paris, and her gifts of discernment are so great that she supports herself. She is now bringing out a book on hands of distinguished people, and Mrs. Simpson's hand is in it. It appears that this fascinating lady has an enormous will power, a good mind, and, combining with a wish to please, a warm heart.

Speaking of royal etiquet reminds me of a Chicago man who was entertained at the White House in Washington in the winter. It was a concert followed by supper, and formal to a degree. The red tape began with the invitation which was left by hand. The acceptance required an immediate reply, and was also left by hand. Three tickets were sent each guest, one for the windshield, one to show at the door, and another to show further along. The Chicago man was especially warned against approaching Mr. Roosevelt, or speaking to him, so he joined a parade of guests who passed the presidential party supported by their aids, merely bowing from the waist. The President nodded in return.

The company sat in the East room in rows of gold chairs, about 200 persons in all. After the music the guests moved forward to the refreshments, which were a fruit punch and little cakes. The guests remained until the President and his glittering retinue disappeared shortly after the music ceased. It is undoubtedly a great honor to be invited there. Mr. and Mrs. Roosevelt are entertaining for the American people who voted them into this exalted position. The White House, however, belongs to the country, and we like to know what goes on behind those historic walls.

Baron Buccovich Exhibits Photography at the Drake.

Baron Mario Buccovich wisely brought letters here when he came to show his photography at the Drake. Society falls heavily for work like his. Two rooms were lined with handsome faces and figures of Londoners, Parisians, and girls and boys of New York and Washington.

The baron is a tall, handsome man, with plenty of vogue in London society, I hear. Indeed, he is a great beau; and I liked his presentment of Ambassador Rosso at Washington, and not so much the chin whiskers of Dino Grandi, ambassador of Italy, in London. The baron runs to picturing women with heavy, strong features, and noses like the Hittites and the Amalekites, and big, coarse eyes. I should say that his work is strong rather than flattering.

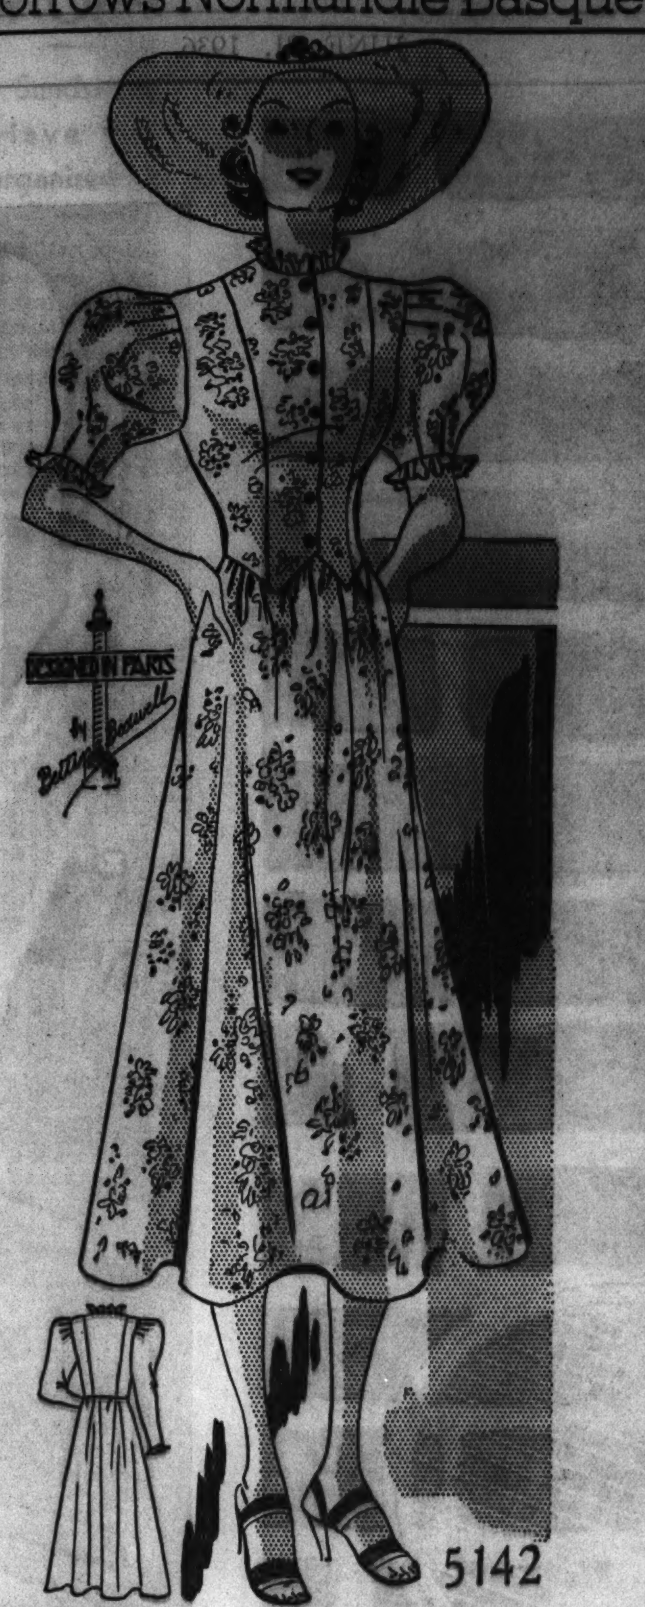
Among Baron Buccovich's subjects are Prince Frederick of Prussia and the maharajah of Patiala, who ordered a hundred copies [possibly for the harem]. Princess Scherbatoff of Paris, loveliest of all, and Lady Ann Bridgman, a London bud of last season, were others.

Our next season's buds already are getting in line. Two young cousins among the Swifts will make their debuts—Jane, third daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gustavus Swift Jr., and Annie May Henry, daughter of the Huntington Henrys. Nancy Freund, elder daughter of Mrs. Ernst Freund, will step out during the holidays and return to college in January. Margaret Mitchell and Anne Tracy, daughter of Mrs. Raymond Redheffer and Howard Tracy, are on the lists, also Eleanor McClurg, daughter of the late Ogden T. McClurg.

Eleanor, barely 18, goes to Honolulu with her mother, Mrs. Freeman Hinckley, for the summer, and makes her debut at a ball on Dec. 22 at the Blackstone. This young lady has character and charm.

War games in and around this area will bring Maj. John Winslow back to Chicago for two months on July 1. With Mrs. Winslow, he is at the moment enjoying their new house at Millbrook, N. Y., a beautiful Georgian house on a plot they have owned ten years. I once asked Mrs. Winslow why they decided to build at Millbrook, which is on high ground some miles back of the Hudson river. It seems that Mrs. Winslow's mother drove through Millbrook many years ago and loved the look of the place, so her daughter had a sentiment about it and bought a building site. Such sentiment is rare these days, I'll say. However, the Winslows have to appear en poste at Warsaw, Poland, on or about Nov. 1, where Maj. Winslow will be military attaché and attend military maneuvers in five countries, Russia, Poland, Rumania, Latvia, and Estonia. While here he will stay at the Wayne Riding club. Also at Wayne until autumn, when they leave us, are Col. and Mrs. George Marshall, the popular Marshalls, whom we hate to lose.

Paris Pattern Beach Frock Borrows Normandie Basque



No. 5142—The Paris pattern for this Normandie frock is available in sizes 11, 13, 15, 17, and 19 years.

By Bettina Bedwell.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Smart Frenchwomen are wearing this frock on the beach and at the fashionable spas. It borrows its quaint lines from the basque dresses worn by women in Brittany and Normandie. As designed by a prominent Parisian couturier, this frock acquires a distinct sophistication and you may have this typically French model for your vacation wardrobe by using pattern No. 5142.

Its peasant charm is best brought out by brilliantly patterned silk or linen. Wear a natural leghorn hat of cartwheel dimensions with the frock, and slip brightly colored sandals on your feet. Trim the snug, high neckline and quaint puffed sleeves with a Mary Queen of Scots ruff, or use rickrack braid, one of the simplest and most effective of trimmings, to outline the neck and sleeve edges and the points of the basque bodice.

Women's Trek to Democratic Convention On Various Groups to Offer Planks for National Platform Attention.

By Ruth DeYoung.

ON eastbound trains moving out of Chicago today dozens of Chicago women will be traveling to the Democratic national convention in Philadelphia. They are going to give the New Deal the benefit of feminine influence and inject their voice in the framing of the platform that will guide the party in the approaching presidential race.

MISS LENA M. PHILLIPS.

Mrs. Elizabeth Conkey, Democratic national committeewoman for Illinois, of course, will be an important figure at the Philadelphia conclave. Mrs. George Bass is going today, and so is Mrs. George V. McIntyre, whose daughter was married yesterday, and Mrs. Robert Mellin, who has been active in the Democratic ranks for a number of years.

In Philadelphia the business and professional women intend to seek a platform urging equality of employment opportunities for women, as they did a week ago in Cleveland. Miss Charles Ormond Williams, president of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women, has appointed a committee to seek this action at the Democratic convention. This committee is composed of Miss Lena Madesin Phillips of New York City, chairman; Miss Doris Byrne of New York City; Congresswoman Mary T. Norton of Jersey City, N. J., and Miss Josephine Bell of Blackwell, Okla.

Business and Professional Women to Offer Plank.

The plank that the business and professional women will recommend is as follows: "Believing that aptitude, training, and efficiency for the job are the only real measuring rods to use to determine the employability of individuals, we favor the repeal of section 213 of the national economy act which is discriminatory in its application. We recognize that woman is an effective economic unit in American life, and we deplore any policy which prevents her full contribution to society."

The National League of Women Voters, which is priding itself on at least a semi-victory in getting a "public personnel" plank into the Republican platform, is ready for a similar campaign at the Democratic convention. If the Democrats accept the suggestions of the league, their platform will pledge "abolition of the spoils system and establishment of the merit system in federal, state, and local offices."

In addition the league intends to make specific recommendations for plank incorporation of "immediate legislation" to place first, second, and third class postmasters, deputy collectors of internal revenue, and United States marshals under civil service.

Forum on Present Day Problems of Women.

And apropos the business and professional women . . . they are making plans to hold their seventeenth annual directors' meeting July 12 to 18 in Chicago. The meeting is for the purpose of "evaluating past performance and determining future plans." Headquarters will be in the Stevens hotel, where all of the sessions will be held.

The board meeting is to be climaxed by a one day forum on business women's present day problems Saturday, July 18, also in the Stevens. Miss Genevieve Forsberg, national finance chairman, is arranging the forum program, and another Chicago woman, Mrs. Carol Willis Hyatt, will be the presiding officer.

During the day economic problems which every business woman meets will be discussed by experts. Mrs. Hyatt will make the opening address, and set the theme for the meeting. "What Happened to Women During the Depression and Why?" "Reducing the Causes of Social Insecurity," and "The Results of Social Insecurity," will be topics of discussion.

Zonta International to Meet in Swampscott.

Several hundred of the key executive women of the United States, Canada, Hawaii, Australia, and Europe will be in Swampscott, Mass., this week for the annual meeting of Zonta International. Since its founding this organization has come to be recognized as one of the most intelligently influential and discriminating groups of organized women in this country. In convention the delegates will give the promotion of international understanding, service work for women and girls, and the improvement of the status of women thorough discussion.

A factual, first hand report on conditions among women in continental Europe where Zonta is represented will be given before the convention by Miss Edith Fisher of Boston, chairman of the international relations committee.

Zonta is seeking to contribute to peace through strengthening a personal understanding among women of the world. Following the 1935 international convention a plan was adopted whereby, through an exchange of correspondence, Zonta members in the United States and Canada are keeping in touch with those in Vienna, Copenhagen, Stockholm, and other European cities where Zonta is active.

Going from Chicago to the Swampscott convention are Miss Elizabeth Haseltine Hibbard, sculptress of note; Mary Burris, retiring chairman of region B of district 2; Marie K. Brown, international transportation chairman; Katherine Maddus, past international president; Minnie Albert of restaurant fame, and Harriet C. Richards, executive secretary of the national organization.

The South Side club will send Elizabeth Krouse, who is a candidate for treasurer of the international organization; Alma McMahill, and Agnes Reeves. Evanston will be represented by Etta Preston and Dorothy Proesch.

NOW IN COUNTRY HOME

Mrs. John R. Hurley, who recently moved to Wheaton for the summer, is active in many philanthropies, especially those sponsored by Catholic organizations. She works for them during the winter, but takes life more easily in the summer when she and her husband and their daughter are in the country occupying the house of Mr. Hurley's late parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward N. Hurley. The house has been remodeled and moved further from Roosevelt road by the young Hurleys.

Women Make Active Plans for Orchestra

Ebba Sundstrom's Group to Have Backing of Reorganized Auxiliary.

A BRILLIANT autumn and winter season is on the horizon for that unique Chicago institution, the Woman's Symphony orchestra. Women's clubs and musical organizations that have done so much to promote the orchestra in past years have even more extensive plans in the making.

Mrs. William J. Piggott, chairman of music for the General Federation of Woman's Clubs, and Mrs. Royden J. Keith, chairman of ways and means for the symphony, have called a meeting of representative women for tomorrow afternoon. The meeting will be held at 2:30 o'clock, in the home of Mrs. Edward Morris, 2430 Lakeview avenue, newly elected president of the Woman's Symphony board.

MRS. ROYDEN KEITH.

[Moffett Photo.]

Already the auxiliary board has been renamed Woman's Symphony associates, to designate the city-wide interest that the group is expected to inspire. Mrs. Piggott has accepted the honorary chairmanship, and Mrs. Keith the chairmanship of this new board.

Mrs. Piggott will be the contact between the many federated clubs that support the orchestra annually. Mrs. Frank Whitmore will represent the federated music clubs, and Miss Grace Seiberling of Evanston will represent the many music organizations in the Chicago and north shore areas.

Mrs. Albion L. Headburg has become one of the associates as have Mrs. Charles King Corsant, Mrs. H. B. Vanzwoll, Mrs. Samuel E. Moist, Mrs. Adolph Hoffman, who is the new chairman of music for the Illinois Federation of Music Clubs; Miss Alice Barler, and Mrs. Harry Mosser. Invitations also have been sent to all former members of the auxiliary board asking them to join the new organization. Mrs. Keith announces that the membership will be limited to one thousand.

The Woman's Symphony associates will have a number of social gatherings during the coming season to entertain soloists of national reputation who will appear with the orchestra. There will be a low membership fee which may include tickets for the orchestra's season of concerts.

The first event to be sponsored by the new organization, prior to the fall season, will be a concert July 17 in Grant park. The first concert by the Woman's Symphony orchestra this summer will be July 5 under the baton of Ebba Sundstrom.

Curling Hair Is Immodest, Says Chinese Clubwomen

WOMEN'S associations of Canton, China, have petitioned the authorities to forbid women to curl their hair. They say they desire to coöperate with the provincial government's modesty campaign.

AN INDIAN HILL CLUB TENNIS PLAYER

A drink of water is almost a necessity after a brisk game of tennis, thinks Miss Janet Healy, who sometimes wears a cunning "play suit" of red, blue and white when she plays on the Indian Hill club courts. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William F. Healy of Kenilworth, who recently announced her engagement to Edward Sanderson Hill, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Farwell Ferry of Winnetka. The wedding is planned for the autumn.

"Tax the Tom Cat," Latest Suggestion of English Group

LONDON

The Cats' Protection league is receiving congratulations from every one. It recently has advocated a measure which will do something to rid England of cats!

It proposes a yearly tax on all Toms, much the same as the yearly tax on all dogs regardless of sex. At the same time it has invented a pliable elastic collar which distinguishes the taxed animals from those the police can collect. The league estimates the reduction of unwanted kittens in the millions!

In other words, the cat under English law would change its status from wild animal to domestic pet.

Many Chicagoans at Commencement of Ripon College

GREEN LAKE

LAST week there was much excitement at Green Lake, Wis., because of the many Chicagoans who are interested in the seventieth annual commencement exercises at Ripon college, the institution which still has the little schoolhouse, first home of the Republican party, standing in its historic grounds.

The Francis Neilsons, who always open their summer home for Ripon festivities, had a more than usual interest in last Monday's exercises, as Mr. Neilson received at that time the degree of doctor of literature at Ripon. Mrs. Neilson has been a trustee of the college since last spring. Another interesting announcement made official was the acceptance by H. Gordon Selfridge of London of a trusteeship at Ripon.

Dr. Silas Evans, president of Ripon, who is this year celebrating twenty-five years of service to the college, was the guest of Mr. Selfridge recently in England and extended the invitation. Mr. Selfridge visited Ripon last October and at that time the honorary degree of doctor of humane letters was conferred upon him.

Mr. and Mrs. Neilson do not plan to leave Green Lake until the early part of July, when Mr. and Mrs. Edward Morris bring their new cruiser, the Whim, up from southern waters and a cruise in cooler waters is planned.

England Already Preparing for the King's Coronation

By Ann Whittingham.

LONDON

Although King Edward's coronation will not take place until next May the hum of preparation already is almost deafening. Bunting and flag factories, and back of them the Lancashire cotton mills, are the first to "be prepared." Not far behind them are the printers, each spying on the offices of the lord chamberlain so that the "official" programs will soon appear, long enough ahead for them to be lost before the time needed and then new ones bought again.

Even lawsuits about the coronation have appeared already.

One of the most curious cases to come before the Court of Claims will be over the office of keeper of the glove! The holder provides a glove for the right hand of the king at the coronation immediately after the archbishop of Canterbury has placed the ruby ring on the fourth finger of the right hand.

The point is whether the duke of Newcastle-under-Lyme or the earl of Shrewsbury and Talbot shall have the honor. The latter is the stepson of the Californian, Richard Edmonds Pennoyer, who married Lady Winifred Paget, sister of the marquess of Anglesey.

The privilege originally was granted to an ancestor of the present earl of Shrewsbury for services to the crown. It was taken from a later earl by a duke of Norfolk, who was then, as now, in supreme command of the ceremony, and given to the then duke of Newcastle. The title to the privilege is challenged at every coronation.

Questionnaire Is Guide to Choice of Mate

For Marital Compatibility Your Answers to These Queries Should Be 'No.'

By Doris Blake.

QUESTIONNAIRES on marriage are sprung on us every now and then from which some valuable information on the grand old institution is extracted. Sometimes the information is questioned by outsiders as colored by the fact that those questioned are talking for publication. So we have decided to offer a questionnaire, the answers to which you may keep entirely to yourself but in which we plan to suggest a few of the important questions it were well to ask yourself before making the great plunge. Our theory is that if your answers to the pre-marital questions are satisfactory you will be less likely to be found among those questioned about marital mistakes later. Anyway, here goes!

CHOOSING A HUSBAND.

1. You want to marry, of course, as every normal woman wants a mate.

2. Do you do anything about acquiring a husband, or do you still hold to the dubious idea that matches are arranged by heaven, luck, or fate?

3. Would you marry to escape the job you find irksome or distasteful?

4. Would you marry a man just because you liked the way he dressed?

5. Would you marry to spite the man who jilted you?

6. Would you marry a man because he is handsome?

[In questions 4 and 6 we mean are clothes and appearance the important feature of recommendation?]

Are You Strong-Willed Enough to Make Own Choice of Mate?

7. Would you marry a man of your parents' choice rather than your own?

8. Would you marry because all the other girls of your group or age are marrying and you are willing to take any type of man to get into the married circle?

9. Would you marry the first man who asked you, without knowing his background and character well?

10. Do you think of marriage as a sort of picnic, a week-end holiday, or a continued series of good times?

11. Would you marry a man whom you've known only in such surroundings as night clubs, dance places, or other amusement centers?

12. Would you marry a man with whom you never have spent quiet evenings discussing the serious side of matrimony?

13. Would you marry a man who keeps you in ignorance of his income?

14. Would you marry for money alone?

15. Would you marry a man whose character is known to you as unreliable but who is a flashy spender?

16. Would you marry a man you know to be given to drink?

17. Would you marry in the hope of reforming the man of drinking or some other vice?

18. Would you marry one who doesn't like any of your friends?

How Do Your Traits Match in Genuine Compatibility?

19. Would you marry a man who dislikes children?

20. Would you marry a man with whom you haven't an intellectual taste in common? Nor a diversional taste?

21. Would you marry a man of whose manners and English you are ashamed?

22. Would you marry a man with whom you're not happy in the company of others?

23. Would you marry a man who is tied to his mother's apron strings?

24. Would you marry a man whose relatives you dislike intensely?

Would You Marry One Whose Personality Is Negative?

25. Would you marry a man whose health you know to be poor?

26. Would you marry a man who is not liked by his co-workers?

27. Would you marry one of whose occupation you are ashamed?

28. Would you marry a spineless individual whom you now have to buck up, cheer, urge on?

29. Would you marry a man you know to be stingy?

30. Would you marry a man who "doubts" women and all decent motives?

Do You Consider Education and Intellect Important?

31. Would you marry a man for whose intelligence and education you now feel you have to make excuses?

32. Would you marry a man who isn't clean about his person?

33. Would you marry an unemotional "cold fish"?

34. Would you marry an ill tempered individual?

35. Would you marry a man completely devoid of a sense of humor?

36. Would you marry one given to grudges and long sulks?

37. Would you marry a man who believes women inferior to men?

38. Would you marry a boaster, one you know to be lying constantly?

39. Would you marry a man who has no physical attraction for you?

40. Would you marry a man who doesn't like to work?

Obviously all the above questions call for a large and emphatic NO. Of such shortcomings, faults, or vices in a partner are the woes of matrimony compounded.

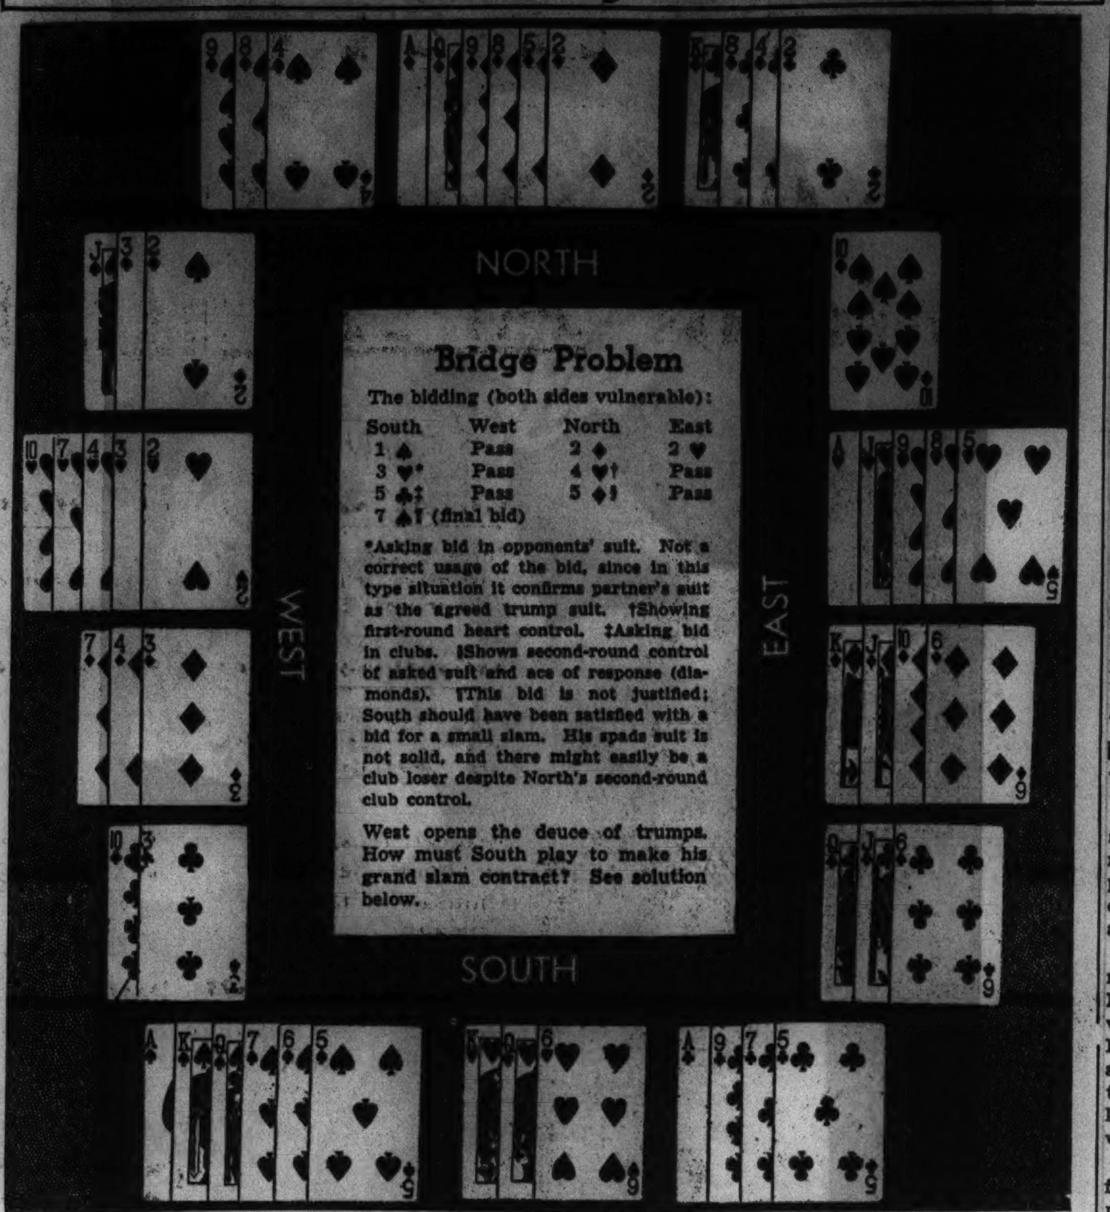
Contract According to Culbertson



Bridge Problem

The bidding (both sides vulnerable):

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	Pass	2 ♦	2 ♥
3 ♥*	Pass	4 ♥†	Pass
5 ♣‡	Pass	5 ♦§	Pass
7 ♠¶ (final bid)

*Asking bid in opponents' suit. Not a correct usage of the bid, since in this type situation it confirms partner's suit as the agreed trump suit. †Showing first-round heart control. ‡Asking bid in clubs. §Shows second-round control of asked suit and ace of response (diamonds). ¶This bid is not justified; South should have been satisfied with a bid for a small slam. His spade suit is not solid, and there might easily be a club loser despite North's second-round club control.

West opens the deuce of trumps. How must South play to make his grand slam contract? See solution below.

SOLUTION: Spade ace wins first trick. Small heart ruffed in dummy and small diamond in closed hand. Second heart ruffed in dummy; second small diamond ruffed by South. Every trump led out, dummy retaining A Q 9 of diamonds and K 8 of clubs. East is squeezed on last trump. Holding heart ace, diamond K J, and club Q J 6, East must let go stopper in one suit. Whatever he discards, South must take thirteen tricks.

By Ely Culbertson

MY SUNDAY articles last week and the week before dealt with the latest addition to the Culbertson family of conventional bids, the new two-way three bid. The purposes of these bids, as well as the requirements for them, were fully discussed. Now we come to the vital details of how the partner should respond to an opening three bid in a suit.

When the partner of the two-way three bidder holds less than one honor trick, or less than three small or two fair trumps (J x), with a singleton, he should pass.

Holding one honor trick, or holding no honor trick whatsoever but only three small trumps or two fair trumps (J x) and a singleton, the responder must raise once. But do not give a jump raise.

Raise partner's opening three spade bid to four spades with:

♠ 6 3 2 ♥ 9 7 6 4 2 ♦ 8 ♣ 10 7 5 3
♠ J 7 ♥ Q 8 6 ♦ 5 ♣ J 9 6 5 4 3 2

These requirements permit game bids on a number of strong hands which would be passed by partner over an opening suit bid of one. The fact that the trump suit is powerful and that the hand contains at least seven sure winners justifies bolder raises and takeouts.

With no raise or proper takeout, but holding one honor trick or more, the responder bids three no trump. The three no trump response and the sign-off by the opening bidder are the two pillars that support the structure of the three-bids and enable them to cover a very wide range of hands from minimum to maximum. If the opening bidder has a minimum and finds partner with a minimum of one honor trick he will be defeated by two tricks after signing off at the level of four. As against this occasional loss there is a big profit which, though invisible, is none the less real, accruing from the penalties opponents will frequently suffer in trying to buck the opening three bid.

1. Take out partner's minor-suit three bid in a biddable five-card or longer major suit and one or more honor tricks.

Bid three hearts over three clubs:

♠ 6 5 ♥ Q J 9 7 4 ♦ K J 8 6 ♣ 4 2

2. Take out partner's bid of three in a major into four of a lower ranking suit (or bid three diamonds over three clubs or three spades over three hearts) only with a five-card or longer suit headed by at least A K, A Q, or K Q and not less than 2½ honor tricks in the hand.

All suit takeouts when below game are forcing for one round.

3. Jump to four of a major over the three club bid that South had three of a minor (or four spades over three hearts) only with a ready-made suit.

♠ A K Q 8 6 5 4 ♥ 4 3 ♦ 6 2 ♣ 7 6 —Bid four spades over any three bid.

4. Respond with four no trump with about four honor tricks including at least two aces and the king of the bid suit and no five-card suit containing two of the three top honors.

* * *

Certain bridge terms, such as minimum bid, sign-off, and forcing pass, are indispensable to writers and teachers of the game, but it cannot be denied that they have done a great deal of harm to those players who bandy them about as children do "big words," liking their sound but completely ignorant of their true implications.

Take the case of minimum bids, for instance. A none too experienced player, having bid a hand with minimum honor trick value, no matter what his partner's responses may be, whether they indicate a beautiful fit or a complete misfit, will never revise his first estimate of his own hand—it will remain till the end of time the same minimum bid. A good illustration of this point will be found in the bidding of the North player in the following hand:

NORTH
♠ A 3
♥ K 10 7 5 4
♦ 7 5 4
♣ A Q 6

WEST
♠ Q 10 7 4
♥ J 9 3
♦ Q 6 2
♣ 9 7 2

EAST
♠ K 9 8 6
♥ 8 2
♦ K J 10 9 3
♣ 10 8

SOUTH
♠ J 5 2
♥ A Q 6
♦ A 8
♣ K J 5 4 3

The bidding (both sides vulnerable):

North	East	South	West
1 ♥	Pass	3 ♣	Pass
3 ♥	Pass	4 ♥	Pass
Pass	Pass

South knew that his partner was conservative, therefore he shaded the normal requirements for his jump-takeout of three clubs. Having shown a hand that should have been stronger than the one he actually held, he was unable to take further aggressive action over his partner's unencouraging rebid.

Thus the fault for missing the small slam (which was virtually a laydown) rested squarely on North's shoulders. He was so obsessed with the notion that his hand was a "minny" that his partner would have had to use dynamite to get a free rebid out of him. The strong implication from the three club bid that South had good heart support escaped him completely, nor could he see the importance of informing South that there was an excellent club fit in the combined hands. South's first response had shown a minimum holding 3½ honor tricks; he himself held 3 honor tricks. With this combined high card holding, plus a fit in two suits, North could be sure that there was no risk in at least investigating slam possibilities. Four no trump from him would have elicited the two-ace-showing response of five no trump from South, after which a six club bid by North would have been merely a normal corollary.

Obviously twelve tricks were a laydown with either hearts or clubs as trump, the one slight danger of defeat being the possibility of finding the heart jack thrice guarded in the East hand.

Today's Questions

Question: What is the correct bid on the following hand in position of dealer, vulnerable?

♠ A K Q 10 7 5 2 ♥ Q 10 5 3 ♦ A ♣ 2

Answer: This hand should be opened as a three spade bid if the partners are using the new two-way three bid convention. If they are not, one spade is the correct bid.

Question: In a recent duplicate game East opened the bidding with one diamond. North and South held:

SOUTH	NORTH
♠ A J 8 2	♠ 10 9 6 5
♥ Q 9 7 4	♥ A K J
♦ 10 2	♦ 9 4
♣ K Q 3	♣ A J 10 4

South bid one spade over the diamond bid and North raised to three spades. South passed. Four spades was easily made. Whose fault was it?

Answer: North should have bid four spades over partner's one-spade overcall. With North's powerful hand there should certainly be at least a play for a four-spade contract. In duplicate South's pass over three spades was all right; in rubber bridge he should bid four simply so as not to "hang" one trick short of game.

Bring LIFE, LUSTRE and COLOR to YOUR HAIR—this harmless, odorless vegetable rinse will do it

Attractive hair can be made doubly beautiful by giving it lustrous, gleaming highlights. And dull, faded, streaked hair can now be made radiant and colorful . . . without risk of harm to the scalp or hair, without a lot of trouble and fuss.

HOW? By using Lovalon after each shampoo. Lovalon is the hair rinse approved by Good Housekeeping Bureau and used by beauty shops throughout the world. Lovalon does not dye, does not bleach—affects the hair in no way except to make it more beautiful. And certainly Lovalon is cheap enough to use—five rinses costs but 25 cents!

Try Lovalon. It takes but a minute to use. And you will be amazed at the sparkle and silken softness it gives your hair. Lovalon comes in twelve shades.

Get the 25 cent size Lovalon at any drug or department store, or a trial size at any ten cent store. Or, have any beauty shop give you a Lovalon rinse.

Society Visits Luna Park for Charity Fete

Annual Greentree Fair to Be Given at Whitney Long Island Residence.

By Nancy Randolph.

NEW YORK

As long as it's for charity, anything goes. As the years pass parties planned to raise funds for good works become more and more entertaining.

A great many persons who probably wouldn't be caught dead at Coney Island otherwise made the long and perilous journey to that shore recently. The occasion was a preview of Luna park, Manhattan's midsummer melting pot, and Coney's particular pride, and the object, to raise funds for the Beaux Arts society and its philanthropic work.

Luna Park Redecorated This Year by Tony Sarg.

Luna park has been "redone" this season by none other than that old redoer, Tony Sarg. Luna is now a pristine reproduction of "The Streets of Paris," replete with sidewalk cafés and peep-shows.

Peppy Winslow, pleasant and plump, missed nothing in the streets of Paris, a la Sarg. There were Roosevelts by the dozen: Mr. and Mrs. Philip J. Roosevelt, as well as Medora and George Roosevelt, and their sister, young Signora Allesandro Pallavicini, the former Margaret Roosevelt, and her Italian husband.

[The Pallavicinis, who are here from Rome visiting the signora's parents, the George Emlen Roosevelts, left for the Roosevelt home in Bermuda forty-eight hours later.]

The Jordan L. Motts took a big party out to Coney, this group including the Edward P. C. L. Cummings, Cordelia Gurnee, Phil Loftus, and Gerald Portman. Mr. Portman, a London visitor, was enchanted with Luna.

Roller Coasters Highlight of Trip to Coney Island.

Alexander Hamilton, who did pioneering work for the Landon presidential candidacy, put aside politics for the night and did Coney in company with Mrs. Hamilton. The Archibald Browns, Mrs. Burgess Gurnee, Mrs. Edwin H. Denby, the Kenneth M. Murchisons, and Barron Collier were others who tried everything from the roller coasters to the hot dogs.

This junket competes with the stoopnocrat's "crazy cruise" up the Hudson when it comes to charity benefits. The stoops hired one of the regular Hudson river steamers, piled all their friends aboard, and went for a moonlight sail up the river. It turned out to be great fun.

Two other charity fêtes are in the offing, the annual Greentree fair to be given at Mrs. Payne Whitney's Manhasset, Long Island, country home on Friday, and an all day, all night fiesta to be held at the Locust valley, Long Island country home of the Harvey Dow Gibsons on July 3.

Greentree Fair Now Is a North Shore Institution.

Compared with the Coney Island and Hudson river events, the fêtes at the Whitney and Gibson home will be a bit on the conservative side! The Greentree fair has come to be an institution on the north shore. All the youngsters look forward to it eagerly, for it has come to be more and more a children's fête.

One sees more pretty young mothers, chubby offsprings, and starched nurses at this affair than at any other in or out of town. There are always fat ponies to ride, a merry-go-round, balls to toss at targets, and all sorts of live stock to be lugged home if parents are good natured and indulgent.

Mrs. J. Averell Clark, the former Helen Hitchcock, is in charge of the live stock booth.

There will be puppies, kittens, lambs, and, like as not, calves for sale. North shore folk always ransack their barns for donations to the live stock booth, and inevitably there's a fat cow or two for it.

There are other satisfactory deodorants on the market. Ever-Dry's superiorities are little ones. But we believe them important enough to justify the $50,000 we paid for Ever-Dry's formula.

This formula is prepared with only the most costly ingredients. As a result, Ever-Dry checks persiration instantly, effectively, and is particularly long lasting. Yet is so gentle it will not irritate the most sensitive skin.

The applicator of soft white wool is especially dainty and convenient. Note, too, Ever-Dry's quick-drying properties and its very delicate fresh clean fragrance.

Chic Culotte Skirt, Halter, and Wisp of a Bolero Are "Tops" for Sports.

Heavenly clothes galore! All types of models for your warm weather wardrobe, illustrated in one volume, the new summer edition of the Chicago Tribune Book of Clotilde Fashions. The booklet, fresh from the press, is 15 cents, or 10 cents when ordered with a pattern. Address Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central Station, New York City, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower.

By Clotilde.

THE summer mode being what it is, stressing femininity coupled with strictly tailored effects, the culotte fashion is "tops" for the outdoors this season. That most versatile of vacation and sports ensembles, the culotte outfit, fashionable and attractive for wear on tennis court, golf course, hiking trails, and sunny beach, appears in a new and dashing version in the pattern illustrated today, No. 2934.

Three smart pieces unite in a chic ensemble, each individual garment having a specific charm when worn independently of the other two. For instance, the culottes may be topped by your favorite sweater or sports blouse instead of the attractive halter provided by the pattern. Or the lovely halter may be worn with "shorts" for sun bathing. And the little bolero, brief but extremely modish, may enhance your favorite spectator sports frock. United in one ensemble, these three pieces cannot be outdone for sheer tailored attractiveness.

The culotte, which is cleverly plaited at the front and back of each "trouser" leg, gives the appearance of a skirt. Two patch pockets further create the illusion of a skirt. A snug belt fits the outfit perfectly and securely to the figure. The halter blouse has a shirtwaist collar and a front with buttons resembling a man's shirt with studs. The shoulderline is raglan, cut low below the arm, and with only the collar as halter in the back, leaving plenty of skin exposed to derive the benefit of the sun's rays. The bolero has short sleeves with neat cuffs, and the jacket itself comes only to the waistline, just low enough to cover the back exposed by the halter arrangement.

The original model made from this pattern features the gay color scheme of yellow and brown in "spongy" cotton shantung print, with yellow plain fabric used for the halter blouse. Your favorite color harmony, the brighter the better, and any cotton fabric of heavy weight, or a lovely linen, are perfect for this versatile outfit.

Style No. 2934 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, and 20 years. Size 16 requires 3⅜ yards of 39 inch material for the culotte and jacket, with ¾ yard of 39 inch fabric for separate halter.

Clotilde is a daily contributor to the Chicago Tribune, offering constructive information to women who enjoy making their own clothes, and presenting a fascinating pattern every day of the week

Camp Schools Attract City Art Students

Art Institute's Summer Session Begins June 29 at Saugatuck, Michigan.

By Eleanor Jewett.

THIS particular time in June lies between two periods of instruction on the part of teacher and student. It is a short, fallow season in which one may take stock of one's goal and decide upon the best course to be followed to attain it. Art teachers and students are scattering to summer schools. Some of these are in cities and many are in the country. Announcements of schools and summer weeks of study are found on every hand. There is no reason why every art-minded individual should not be fitted with that precise training which he requires.

The regular summer school of the Chicago Art Institute opens Monday, June 29, to continue through Aug. 10. In addition to the regular courses offered in general art instruction, there is included now a school of industrial art with departments of advertising and printing design, general industrial design, interior architecture, architectural sculpture, dress design, ceramics, and a well organized department of art education. The summer school is planned to meet the constantly changing requirements of its students.

Special Classes Are Being Devoted to Outdoor Work.

To those solely interested in landscape, and outdoor sketching and figure painting the Art institute has arranged for classes in these subjects as a regular part of the curriculm being offered in the summer school at Saugatuck, Mich. This delightful place at the mouth of the Kalamazoo river offers a variety of scenic views for the attentive artist. There are wooded knolls, shady ravines, sandy bathing beaches, quaint village streets with innumerable twists and curves, authentic "old settlers," weathered fishermen, colorful boats and docks, and various figure models provided by the school.

This successful camp was founded 25 years ago by the Art Institute Alumni association. Thomas Tallmadge, the architect, and Lee Sturges, noted Chicago etcher, always have taken a great interest in its development. The famous Ox-Bow inn is there, and numerous cottages are spread about its picturesque grounds, giving ample accommodations for students. Diversion is found in swimming, golfing, riding, hiking, fishing, tennis, and boating on the winding river.

Mr. Fursman is the director of the school. Although the summer term is six weeks, those who wish may remain for a ten weeks course. Francis Chapin will conduct classes in landscape painting and in lithography. Whether this is an unmixed blessing is open to doubt. Mr. Chapin is modern in his own work, and presumably his instruction follows his personal convictions. A counterbalance in the shape of some one like Dale Nichols who, like Grant Wood, deals in antiseptic draughtsmanship and concise statements, seems almost a necessity for a school wishing to be completely up to date.

Those who are interested in the Saugatuck school may address the Art institute, Chicago, for information about studies and terms.

News of Interest to Lovers of Art.

The Chicago Academy of Fine Arts, 18 South Michigan avenue, announces that its summer courses of day and evening instruction will start June 29. Carl Werntz is president of the school and Hugh Newman is the managing director.

⁂

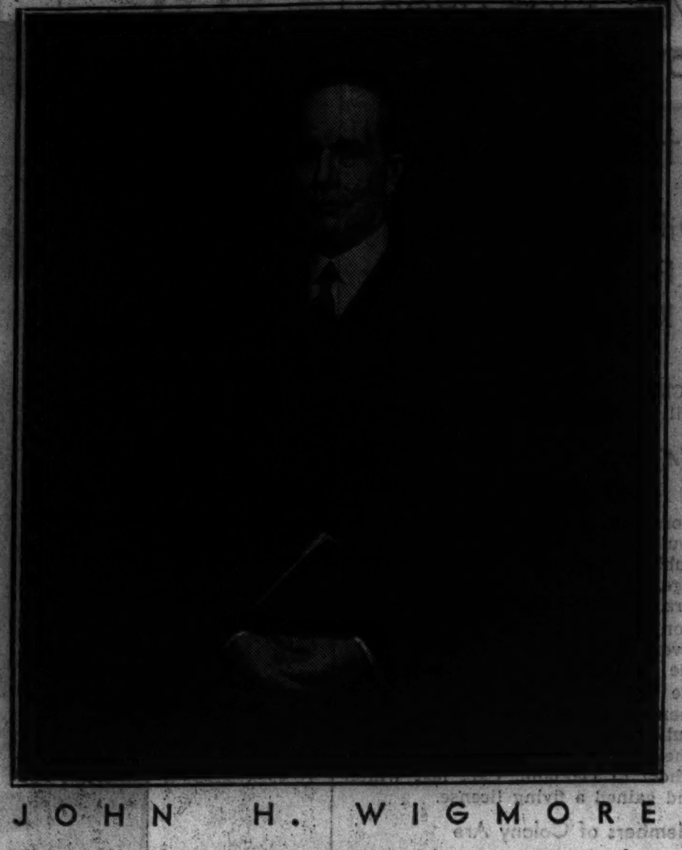
One of the most delightful and instructive of the newly published art books is "The Painting and Anatomy of Animals" by W. Frank Calderon [Lippincott]. Mr. Calderon is an English artist of distinction. He is the founder and principal of the School of Animal Painting, and some time lecturer on animal painting at the Royal academy. He is as great as a teacher, and among his noted pupils are such artists as Cecil Alden, Lionel Edwards, and A. J. Munnings, R. A. The book is gorgeously illustrated, and should prove a gold mine to those interested in animal pictures and animal anatomy. The drawings at the back, showing the various structural features of horses, cattle, dogs, etc., are both attractive and accurate. Throughout the book are reproductions in black and white and color of compositions with animals, some of them the work of the author and others the work of different painters. The book is entertaining, thoroughly readable and, at the same time, a textbook. The layman, the student, and the professional will find much of value in it. It is the sort of art book that automatically should go into every school and art library. Artists will revel in it. Mr. Calderon and his publishers are to be congratulated on their notable achievement.

⁂

A three man exhibition of paintings, consisting of oils, flower studies, and water colors, is in the Vanderpoel Art gallery. Charles G. Blake is responsible for the water colors. Mr. Blake is president of the Art club of St. Petersburg, Fla., and has been represented before in exhibits held in and around Chicago. His water colors are of boating scenes, and are delightful in spirit and color.

⁂

The Edgewater Beach hotel today opens an exhibition of paintings by J. Jensik Halverson, John E. Whowell, and Carl R. Krafft—all three Chicago artists. The exhibition will continue through July 5.



JOHN H. WIGMORE

This picture of the dean emeritus of Northwestern university law school was painted by Antonin Sterba, noted Chicago portrait artist. The recently completed canvas was presented to the university June 11, a gift of the alumni. It hangs in Lincoln hall.

When Chicago Was Young

The Elegant Eighties

By Herma Clark

Letters from Martha Freeman Esmond to her friend Julia Boyd of New York.

Chicago, June 3, 1887.

DEAR JULIA: June weddings have begun. Last evening Will and I attended a most notable marriage reception at one of our fine homes, that of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Goudy, 1140 North Clark street. Their daughter Clara was married to Mr. Ira J. Geer, a popular young attorney of Chicago. The spacious grounds were illuminated by calcium lights and the interior of the house was like a great conservatory, for many friends had sent in plants and flowers. I saw one great bunch of Jacqueminot roses, the gift of the wealthy bachelor, Will Keep.

We weren't present at the ceremony—only the relatives and intimate friends were invited—but arrived at 8, as did most of our friends. The Rev. M. Woolsey Stryker, minister of the Fourth Presbyterian church, officiated. The bride is a lovely girl and looked remarkably attractive in her cream color satin gown trimmed with Duchesse lace. An accomplished young lady, and loved for her benevolence, she is one of the outstanding young members of the Woman's club and the woman's board of the Presbyterian hospital. Her husband is a Massachusetts man, a graduate of Williams college.

I don't know when I've attended a more brilliant social gathering. All the legal lights were there, because of Mr. Goudy's prominence in the profession. He was state senator in the '50s, but since he came to Chicago has been in private practice as a corporation lawyer. Just a year ago he was made general solicitor for the North Western railway, a lucrative post. He exerts much influence with the Cleveland administration and Will says he can have almost anything he wants from the President.

The bridal presents were not shown. It seems to be considered improper to do this now, but I confess I am always curious to compare my own selections with those of other guests. This time I really felt satisfied with my purchase—a clock and mantel ornaments for the dining room. The clock is bronze and on the top is a fisherman with a net and a string of fish. Appropriate, I thought, for the front room. Mr. Goudy has given his daughter a cozy house in Argyle park, where the newly marrieds will start housekeeping. Life certainly looks bright for this dear young couple.

Justice Harlan of the Supreme court was one of the wedding guests. Judge Lambert Tree, now our minister to Belgium, but visiting in Chicago for a few days, was another. Then there were Judge Murray F. Tuley, Senator and Mrs. Charles B. Farwell, Mrs. Cyrus H. McCormick, widow of the harvester magnate, accompanied by her son, Cyrus H. McCormick; Mr. and Mrs. Abram Poole, who live in that handsome house at the southeast corner of Pine and Erie streets; Mr. and Mrs. S. Corning Judd, the Henry W. Kings, and all the bachelors and debutantes in town.

Mr. Albert Keep was present with Mrs. Keep, who is one of my dearest friends. Mr. Keep has just retired as president of the North Western railway, and Mr. Marvin Hughitt takes his place. Mr. Hughitt has had the active management of the road in his hands for some time, I believe, and under his administration it has expanded until it is second to none of the systems which are spreading over our country. Mr. Keep will be chairman of the board of directors. Have you ever met Mrs. Keep? She is a remarkable person, devoted to good works and rather impatient with frivolity. She has been a teacher and has an excellent mind. Her large gray eyes penetrate through sham in an instant.

We hope to go west for our summer outing, but Will has a case which may keep him here until August, so I'm not making definite plans. Much love. Yours as ever,

MARTHA FREEMAN ESMOND.

FOOTNOTES.

Mention of Andrew Carnegie has brought letters about him from several readers. Mrs. H. E. Miller of Aurora, Ill., met him on board ship when she was just a little girl and found him delightful. Harry Hansen, a union organizer, who interviewed him during the Homestead strikes, thinks him the coldest, most calculating person he ever met.

Old Chicago Harthstones.

40 East Huron street.

Julian Rumsey built this fine old home in 1873, and here countless fashionable social events took place, many of them in connection with St. James Episcopal church, for the Rumseys were devout members of that communion. A grand staircase sweeps up to the third floor, with a passageway on either side of it. The woodwork is worth noting, as are the marble mantels. After the Rumsey family sold the mansion it was the home of the John Winterbothams. It is now occupied by the Southern Tea shop.

We always are glad to receive information about old homes of the city—homes that are still standing. If you know of any old west side house that has a history please write to this department. Address Herma Clark, care Chicago Tribune.

Hot Springs' Colony Looks Forward to First Water Meet

HOT SPRINGS, VA.

That important element in any colony—the younger generation—is all agog over plans for the first water meet of the season at Hot Springs, to take place in the Homestead pool on Friday, June 26. A full program of events for midgets, juniors, and seniors includes diving, racing, and novelty items. It has been decided to substitute a strip race for the duck chase originally planned. In this event, open to both boys and girls, the children dive in fully clothed, swim a distance, disrobe down to their bathing suits, and swim back to the winning post. There will also be a life saving demonstration by the instructor, Clarence Gustke, under whose direction the meet is being held.

When visiting skeeters arrive at the Homestead field for the coming Clark challenge trophy skeet shoot on July 31-Aug. 1, they will find great improvements made in the clubhouse. A porch and terrace of handsome native flag rock have been added, making it much more comfortable for the gallery, and simplifying the serving of the buffet luncheons for which Hot Springs is famed. It is surprising that the mere raising of a porch a few feet could add so much to the view. From the additional height of the upper terrace, one looks down in the near distance upon a magnificent mountain ridge running like a backbone through the valley. It has always been conceded by visiting skeeters that Hot Springs has one of the most beautifully located fields in the country. The view of the valley from this terrace will more than confirm this opinion.

Recent dinner hosts were Mrs. Homer A. Stillwell, Mr. and Mrs. Conway H. Olmsted, and Mr. and Mrs. Stanley L. Wolff.

Mrs. Robert McCormick Opens Bar Harbor Home

BAR HARBOR, ME.

Mrs. Robert Hall McCormick has opened her Eden street cottage, Burnmouth. Baymeath, at Hulls cove, the residence of Mrs. Joseph T. Bowen, has been opened for the season.

Mr. and Mrs. Potter Palmer are there at their Schooner Head road estate. Mrs. Charles Sumner Frost of Lake Forest and Miss Virginia Frost are at Up Away, the Frosts' Seal harbor cottage.

Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Danziger of Highland Park, Mich., are in Southwest harbor for the season.

Early Arrivers Open Cottages at Harbor Springs

HARBOR SPRINGS, MICH. The season at Harbor Point really has not opened yet, so only a few of the cottages are occupied. Mr. and Mrs. Henry G. Barkhausen arrived last Sunday to open their new cottage, bought from Mrs. Battelle. Miss Helen Barkhausen's wedding on Aug. 1 to Andre James Perry will occasion much gayety at the resort later in the season. Mr. and Mrs. Harold J. Murphy are here on their honeymoon. She was Mrs. Frank G. Carey of Chicago's south side.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Otis have opened their cottage, and Mr. and Mrs. Otis Jr. are at their farm near the point. Mrs. Samuel Davis Rowe of Barrington and one of her daughters, Evelyn Lawrence, spent last week with Mrs. Robert M. Curtis at her cottage. Mrs. Rowe was busy opening her cottage for the James Scott Kempers, who have rented it for the summer. Mr. Kemper and his daughter, Mildred, and son, Frank, stopped at the point on their way back to Chicago. They were returning from the Cleveland convention on their yacht.

Miss Eunice Mary Watson to Wed Robert P. Palmer

MISS EUNICE MARY WATSON, daughter of Mrs. Joseph Robert Watson of Coldwater, Mich., and Robert Prescott Palmer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Prescott Palmer of 9617 Winchester avenue, will be married on June 27 at 4 o'clock in the afternoon in St. Mark's Episcopal church in Coldwater. The bride will wear her mother's wedding gown and will have one attendant, Miss Mary Adelaide Schmedlund of Coldwater. Miss Watson is a graduate of Albion college, Albion, Mich., and Mr. Palmer took his degree at the Medill school of journalism, Northwestern university. After a short wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Palmer will be at home at 5256 Glenwood avenue.

ENGAGED TO MARRY

Mr. and Mrs. Edward G. Lewis of River Forest announce the engagement of their daughter, Jeannette, to Walter W. Crowley, son of Mrs. Philo T. Rowley of Oak Park and of F. W. Crowley of Chicago. Miss Lewis and Mr. Crowley both are graduates of Oak Park High and both attended the University of Illinois.

Parisian Social Whirl Goes On Despite Unrest

The Usual Program of June Fetes Is Unaffected by Political Problems.

By May Birkhead.

PARIS Only a few days ago everybody wondered if the epidemic of strikes in the Paris region would put the quietus, for the time being at least, on the program of June fêtes. But it soon was apparent that the deviation from the normal would be only temporary.

Just a few days before the trouble society was making ready to go to Chantilly for the famous Prix de Diane, or French Oaks, as it is also called. But the turf interests decided, in view of the shortage of gasoline and other considerations, to have the big event run at Longchamp, where it attracted an enormous throng in spite of the nervousness and the threatening skies.

Mrs. Constance Coolidge Among Those at Races.

Among those there to see Mistress Ford win this race open only to fillies were Mrs. Constance Coolidge, who herself has quite a string of ponies in France; Mr. and Mrs. Ralph B. Strassburger, Mme. Georges Wildenstein, and Princesse de Faucigny-Lucinge.

It now looks as if all the functions of the big season would be given according to schedule. Several performances of the medieval miracle play, "Mystery of the True Passion," are to be performed on the great open space, or parvis, in front of Notre Dame, and the first representation was given with the stage setting and all the arrangements much better than last year.

The Restaurant des Ambassadeurs, with stars from Broadway and Hollywood, is attracting the smart crowd to this charming spot in the Avenue Gabriel, just off the Champs-Elysées. Recently the Ritz gave a gala dinner for the benefit of the Phare de France, and among those invited were Marechal Petain, Princess Margaret Boncompagni, president of the organization, and a representative gathering of Parisian and American society.

John Cudahy Is Traveling Between U. S. and London.

John Cudahy, the American ambassador to Poland, who is on his way to the United States, is stopping in Paris and will go to England to sail on the Queen Mary.

Ira Nelson Morris, who is visiting in the Scandinavian countries, having crossed on the Gripsholm, is expected soon in Paris on his annual summer sojourn.

Miss Alice Gade is among the young women of American society here who sold programs for the Phare de France fête at the Ritz.

Mrs. DeKoven Phelps Returns to Watch Hill

Other Prominent Chicago Families Summer at Rhode Island Resort.

WATCH HILL, R. I. Chicago and other midwest cities will be represented by prominent families this summer at this famous old resort on Rhode Island's cool ocean shore. An early arrival was Mrs. Louise DeKoven Phelps and her son Hubbard, who returned to their cottage, The Anchorage, the end of May. Mrs. Phelps has been women's champion at the Misquamicut Golf club for several seasons, and when she lost the title last summer her son won the men's championship. Both have been out for practice games since the club opening on Memorial day. Mr. Phelps attended the Boeing aviation school at Oakland, Cal., last winter and gained a flying license.

Members of Colony Are Opening Their Cottages.

Mr. and Mrs. Oren E. Taft also were early arrivals at their cottage, Cedar Brae. Mrs. George R. Nichols Jr. opened her summer home, Sunnycroft, the first week in June. Mrs. Nichols has been visiting in New York City this week. Mr. and Mrs. William J. Chalmers are expected at Dronley house June 23. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hibbard will open their cottage, Cove End, the 24th. Mr. Hibbard is the president of the Watch Hill Union chapel, one of Watch Hill's oldest and most treasured institutions, and has engaged a list of prominent clergymen to preach at the ten services of the season, beginning July 5, when the Rev. R. B. Ogilby, D.D., president of Trinity college, will officiate.

The Ocean and Plimpton houses, Watch Hill's largest hotels, opened this week to accommodate parties en route to the Yale-Harvard boat races at New London.

Miss M. T. Shinkle Leases Curtis Cottage for Summer.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Clifford Shinkle, Mrs. Vachel W. Anderson and her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Coombe of Cincinnati, have opened their houses for the season. Miss M. T. Shinkle, sister of Mrs. Shinkle, has leased Wawaloam, the Curtis cottage. Mrs. George Eustis of Cincinnati is having her cottage made ready for the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. John C. Virden of Cleveland arrived last week at the Breakers on East Beach. Mr. and Mrs. W. King White also of Cleveland will again occupy Longshore. Mr. and Mrs. Truman H. Newberry and Mr. and Mrs. Henry B. Joy of Detroit are expected at their summer homes next week. Judge and Mrs. Thomas D. Thacher of New York were early arrivals at Intermere. Judge Thacher was chairman of the recent committee for the revision of the charter of New York City. Mr. and Mrs. J. Russell Forgan, formerly of Chicago, and residents for the last two years of New York, have returned to Watch Hill after two seasons' absence, and will occupy Sowanniu.

MAY BE IN FOLLIES

Miss Gretchen Onderdonk is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Lawrence Onderdonk of Winnetka. This picture of her was taken when the Evanston Junior league held a meeting recently at the Glen View club. The league is planning to give a Follies on the 5th, 6th, and 7th of November, and Miss Onderdonk undoubtedly will be one of the young women taking part.

"For my purpose, my new car is just as good as a brand-new automobile." (Left to right, Sidney B. Fosner, J. W. Lauer, salesman.)

"How I found a late model car at the price I wanted to pay"

SIDNEY B. FOSNER, 533 N. Taylor Ave., Oak Park, tells how a Tribune want ad located a used car for business and personal use.

"AS owner of a bakery, I need a small, light car to take me to and from work and to make occasional deliveries. My delivery business does not require a special truck, so I use my own car.

"I had been driving a 1931 sedan, but it had gone many thousands of miles and was about through. I thought I would look around and get a late model car in good condition.

Looks in Tribune

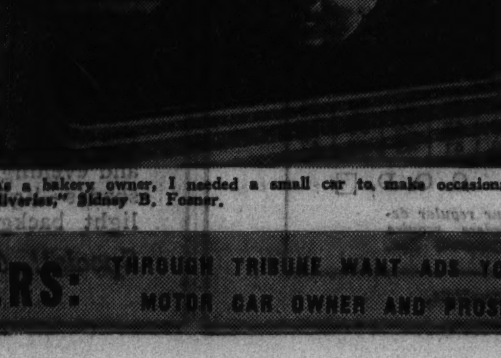
"As I had bought the old car through a Tribune want ad, I decided to look in the Tribune want ads again. I read the automobile columns for several days, and one Sunday I noticed an ad for a 1933 P. D. Plymouth coach, which was the year, the make, and the model I wanted.

"The next day I took time out to drive over to Tom Harrigan, Inc., 440 W. Madison Street, Oak Park, to see the car. R. D. Smith, manager of the used car department, and J. W. Lauer, salesman, showed me the car. It appeared to be in excellent condition.

"I took the car out and drove it around for a while. It had plenty of pep and power. When I got back, Mr. Smith had appraised my old car. The figure he named as the cash difference was satisfactory to me, so we called it a deal.

Glad I Bought

"I have been using my new car a couple of months now, and for my purpose it is just as good as a brand-new automobile. I am very glad I found it. The Tribune want ad section is certainly the way to find a good, late model car at a resonable price."



"As a bakery owner, I needed a small car to make occasional deliveries," Sidney B. Fosner.

"KNOW NO FINER MEDIUM FOR REACHING GREATEST NUMBER OF BUYERS"

"As manager of the used car department of Tom Harrigan, Inc., I want to take this opportunity to thank the Chicago Tribune for its assistance and cooperation in the wonderful job it has done in helping me dispose of a large number of used cars during the past few years.

"With the used car market overstocked as it is today, a dealer must know how and what type of advertising brings him the best results. Action is what counts.

"Today it is a buyers' market and you have to contact those buyers. I have been very successful in using Tribune want ads and know of no finer medium of advertising for reaching the greatest number of buyers with the least possible expenditure."

Students Join Parents in Mad Rush to Europe

Summer Vacations Bring Trips to the Continent and the British Isles.

THE end of school saw a rush of many Chicagoland students, along with their parents, to get away to Europe for their summer vacations.

Mrs. Clarence A. Burley and her daughter, Nancy, a Smith student, and her son, Clarence, sailed yesterday on the Champlain to join another daughter in London. For the next two months they will motor through England and Scotland. Mr. and Mrs. Carl Nielson, with their three children, Marguerite Ellen, Niel, and Sherwood, left Wednesday on the Normandie for a trip through France, Italy, Switzerland, Germany, Denmark, and England.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert F. Philipsborn and their children, Catherine, Maxine, and Tom; Mr. and Mrs. John Remijas and son, Richard; Mr. and Mrs. A. Vogt and daughter, Peggy; Mrs. J. Lencione and her children, Julius and Ruth; Mrs. I. Demar and son, Joseph; Herman Klein and son, Albert, were other family groups leaving on the Normandie. Fellow passengers were Richard Patrick and the Misses Blanche Bradway, Joy A. Webb, M. Wilson, Alice Jordon, Frances E. Bidwell, and Josephine Hameurt.

Will Motor Through the British Isles.

Mrs. Ralph H. Hobart and her daughter, Barbara, embarked Wednesday on the Berengaria to join another daughter, Virginia, in England and spend a month motoring in the British Isles. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ross left on the same ship for a vacation in England. Miss Ann Scoffield, Miss Ruth Milne, Miss Eleanor Jerrems, Mrs. Elizabeth Heath, Mrs. I. C. Elston, Mr. and Mrs. M. J. McNally and daughter, Mary; James Spink, Mrs. Emily Spink and son, Douglas; Louise and Dorothy Wiley, C. H. Jennings, and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Burling also were aboard the Berengaria.

The Misses F. Elfelda Maine, Cora Swift, and Alice Johnson took their car along when they sailed on the American Shipper yesterday for a trip through the British Isles, the Netherlands, Germany, Switzerland, Brittany, and Normandy. The Misses Margaret Bell, Dorothy Doyle, Miriam Lannery, and Mary Durach took the same ship to attend the Olympic games in Berlin. Others on board were Miss Adelaide Harrold, Mrs. Margaret Kuipschild, Miss Katherine Knaphurst, and Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Levine.

Mr. and Mrs. R. McMillan and son, Brokway, and A. J. Boase, who sailed Thursday on the City of Hamburg, will tour Europe in their own car. Mr. and Mrs. Orville Simpson and their son, Leland, had their auto with them when they sailed Friday on the American Merchant. On the same ship were the Misses Edith Wright, Frances Arnold, Laurette Gale, Martha Springer, Nina Reason, Beryl Spinney, Martha DuBois, Annie Shaffer, Veronica Roasio, and Celeste Wine. The City of Hamburg's passenger list included Mrs. H. S. Hobart, Mrs. C. Riendeau, and the Misses Mary Droeger, Ann Droeger, Eva N. Hanna, M. Coulihan, and Fannie Baker.

Bound for Southern Europe.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Musson and Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Lindau will sail next Saturday on the Rex to make a motor tour of Italy, Switzerland, and France. They will have as fellow passengers Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Eden, who will take their sons, Edgar and Bob, for a trip through Spain and France; Mrs. B. C. Allon and Mrs. Clara Ruane, who will debark at Gibraltar and tour Spain and France before going to Berlin for the Olympics; Mrs. James Hubert and daughter, Ruth, who will visit Italy, Austria, Switzerland, and France; Mr. and Mrs. John Stumn, who will tour Italy and then attend the Salzburg festival, and the Misses Faith Hameron and Miss Alice Dailey.

Dr. Joshua Oden and a group of fifty Chicago Lutherans set out Wednesday on the Berengaria to attend the world's Sunday school convention in Oslo. Among the group were Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Pike, Alice Dahlgren, Ethel Herndon, Verna Samuelson, Edna Magnuson, Mildred Bogren, Ruby Benton, Mabel Nelson, Helen Lind, Signe Swenson, Ellen Strom, Mrs. F. D. Johnson, Birber Swenson, Lawrence Dahlgren, Carl Lundquist, Arthur Carlson, Mrs. Helga Oden, Mrs. Olga Oden, Charles J. Hozberg, Helen Hozberg, Mrs. A. E. Anderson, and Mrs. Esther Frederickson.

Sailing from Quebec Friday on the Empress of Australia were Dr. D. Price, Dr. A. Bloodgood, Miss Fannie E. Bradshaw, Mrs. C. B. Hutchison, Miss Genevieve M. Tanner, Miss Martha S. Wing, Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Friedhof, Mrs. Germaine Miesse, Miss Frances Miesse, Mrs. Emily Jones, Miss Florence Gutermuth, John A. Sibley, Robert and William Oare, Mrs. J. H. Mathison, and Robert and John Mathison.

Dr. Rachelle Yarros Among Passengers.

On the Duchess of Bedford leaving Montreal the same day were Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Straub, the Misses Anita and Suzanne Straub, John Straub, Victor S. Yarros, Dr. Rachelle S. Yarros, Miss Mittie Horning, Frederick H. Fowle, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Solomon, Miss Dora Ward, Mrs. Susie Shelhamer, Mrs. William Christie, Miss Edith Christie, Mrs. Clara B. Irons, Miss Mary Irons, Mr. and Mrs. Charles V. Clark, Miss Elizabeth Mae Clark, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Sells, Miss Frances Sells, J. A. Sells, Mrs. Margaret Spencer, Mrs. Rufus Draper, Miss Margaret Dale Ames, Miss Margaret Oliver, Fred Usinger, James Klode, Mr. and Mrs. John P. Spiegel, G. R. Kennedy, Mrs. F. Krauzer, Miss E. M. Kreuzer, Mrs. Richard Park, Miss Margaret Park, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Rolfe, Robert Rolfe, Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Morgan, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Lloyd, Mrs. S. J. Elliott, Mrs. Agnes Bell, and the Misses Elizabeth Bell and Joan Bell.

The British Isles, the Scandinavian countries, Germany, and France are on the itinerary of Miss Freda Billings and Miss Ruth Russell, who left Friday on the Scythia. A tour of Russia is to be the highlight of Miss Gertrude Allerton's trip abroad. Fellow passengers on the Scythia were the Rev. Daniel Connell, the Rev. M. A. Humphreys, R. J. Boden, and the Misses Mary McTigue, Marjorie O'Connell, Ruth McBrady, Helen Egan, and Vera Egan.

Virginia Clark Leaves for Vacation.

Miss Virginia Clark, radio star, will be among the capacity list of passengers on the Volendam next Tuesday night. She will visit France, Germany, Switzerland, Holland, and the British Isles before returning late in August. Also on the Volendam will be Mrs. Mayme I. Logsdon, Dr. and Mrs. Rufus Oldenburger, Dr. and Mrs. W. Meloy, Mrs. John E. May, Dr. and Mrs. B. J. Montenier, Miss E. Culver, Miss Nellie Evers, Miss Geraldine Hogan, and George Kellogg Hooker.

Mr. and Mrs. David L. Grey, the Rev. Patrick McDaid, and the Rev. Michael McDaid were on the Caledonia when it steamed out of New York for Ireland and Scotland.

Among the Chicagoans on the Georgic when it started for Europe were Mrs. Ruth S. Mayer and her son, Edward; Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Burbank, Mrs. Fay Kay and her daughter, Leila; Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Lamberth, the Rev. D. O'Shea, Miss Ellen O'Shea, Mrs. E. Madden, Mrs. Katherine Harrington, Mr. and Mrs. John Sturgeon, Miss Helen Jackson, Miss H. Chelsea, Louis and William Lund, Mrs. W. W. Sylvester, and Clifford H. Nowlin.

Miss Louise J. Scott sailed from Montreal on the Letitia for Glasgow. From there she will travel through Scotland, England, France, Germany, Austria, Hungary, Czechoslovakia, and down through Italy to Naples, where she will board the Vulcania for home. Mr. and Mrs. John McIntosh and their children, Alfred and Margaret; Mrs. Elizabeth Newell, Mrs. Bessie J. Russell, and Harriet and Elsie Fleming left on the same ship. Leaving from Montreal on the Alaunia were Mr. and Mrs. William Sutherland, Mrs. James Sutherland, Elizabeth and Caroline Sutherland, Miss Henrietta Farmer, Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Cuthbertson, A. F. L. Wright, and Mrs. A. G. Thomas.

Cruising in Nearby Waters.

When the Carinthia sailed from New York Friday for a cruise to Nassau and Havana it carried Mrs. W. B. Martin and her daughter, Ruth, and the Misses Vivian Cooper, E. Donath, Marjorie Bloomfield, Wanda Miller, Laverne Warshaw, and Pauline Maltin. A cruise from California through the Panama canal to New York was the choice of Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Johnson and their daughters, Elizabeth and Marjorie; Miss Bernice Kohn, Miss Lillian Loeffler, and Miss Anna May Murphy, who started from San Francisco yesterday on the Pennsylvania. Miss Virginia Lewis, Mrs. C. F. Collins, Mr. and Mrs. Nat H. Eppstein, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Huebner, Mr. and Mrs. R. Woodruff, and Mr. and Mrs. Donald McArthur took the Queen of Bermuda to Bermuda.

West Indies at Their Best in Summertime

Climate Is Thoroughly Delightful, and Islands Aren't Overrun with Tourists.

By Ruth DeYoung.

SUMMERTIME in the West Indies. Why not?

There are a number of factors to recommend a June, July, or August vacation in the Caribbean.

First of all, the glamor and romance of the islands are quite the same. There's the luster of the gay, tropical capitals, St. Thomas, Port of Spain, Caracas, Havana. There's the splendor of the old pirate ports.

Secondly, the climate is delightful. Ask any one who knows and he will tell you the temperature varies only a few degrees from one season to another.

Not Overrun with Tourists.

Third, liners, cities, and resorts are not overrun with tourists and the more gaudy vacationists in the summertime.

And fourth, steamship fares are lower—interestingly so.

I spent three weeks in the West Indies last March. If I were not tied down to a newspaper desk, I'd repeat the experience this summer.

Sailing out of New York, there's time to relax, to get your sea legs before putting in at the first port, which may be Bermuda or possibly Martinique. Loveliest of Martinique's many charms is the approach to the island at sunrise.

It's like a jewel dropped down in the blue sea, with massive Mount Pelee ready to guard or destroy the tiny settlements of red, blue, and green roofed huts at its base. Empress Josephine, wife of Napoleon, was born on the island. That's one reason the traveler wants to go ashore . . . to see her birthplace and, perhaps, to buy a white linen helmet and a bottle of rum.

There's more rum . . . much of it made up into delicious planters' punches . . . on the island of Trinidad. I can think of no more delightful summer pastime than sipping planters' punches on the balcony porch of one of Trinidad's famous coffee houses.

Crimson Roofs Against Purple Mountains.

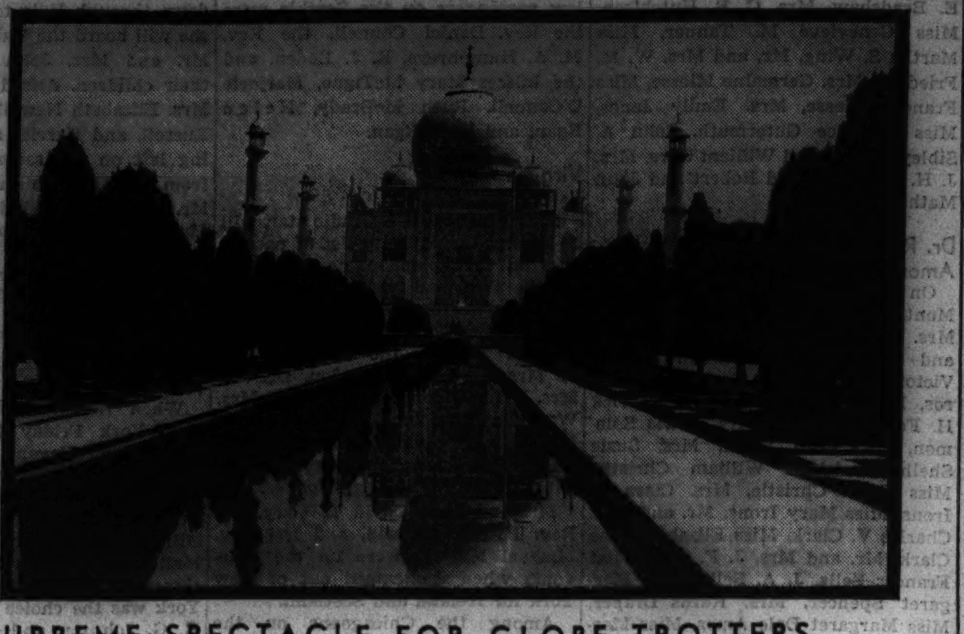
There's all the melodramatic strangeness of a Kipling story about Port of Spain, Trinidad's capital. Hindus from British India . . . dark skinned women with rings in their noses and burdens on their heads . . . firemen with strange brass helmets.

It's worth the entire trip south just to feel the elusive charm of Caracas, capital of Venezuela, and its seaport town, La Guaira. No vacationist is so blasé that he misses the approach to La Guaira, with its mass of crimson roofs nestled against backdrop of purple splashed mountains and dull red cliffs.

As the crow flies it's only seven miles inland to Caracas, but by motor it takes two hours or more through the stalwart Andes. Caracas is a modern city, but along the highways are donkeys still carrying barrels of produce to market.

The itinerary of the traveler who goes to the West Indies the first time or the tenth time includes Panama, with its new canal and its old world relics; also Havana, which offers entertainment in the delightful and capricious manner of Paris. One evening's fun in Havana might include the Jai alai games, the Casino, and Saint Souci, where dancing is under the stars.

Cartagena, Jamaica, Haiti, Nassau . . . there are these ports, too, in the West Indies and many more. Get aboard a cruise ship or take any one of the liners that move out beyond the Statue of Liberty every week. Spend a week or a month. You will return refreshed in mind, in body, and in soul and you will want to go again—on the next sailing.



THE SUPREME SPECTACLE FOR GLOBE TROTTERS

The Taj Mahal by moonlight. Most passengers on the world cruises regard this temple at Agra, India, as the supreme experience of their travels.

DETOURS

By Frederic Babcock.

NOT all the Americans hurrying off to Europe this summer are seeking the ultramodern of Paris and London. Some of them are in search of places that long have made a truce with time. Among these is the province of Brittany.

In this rugged peasant land of northwestern France visitors find communities unimpinged upon by progress. It is in this undisturbed corner, slumbering in the twilight of bygone centuries, that one comes upon people still venerating the traditions of their forefathers.

● The entrance to Brittany means the beginning of a journey of discovery, even as it did for the Roman invaders. At Carnac and Locmariaquer are prehistoric monuments challenging curiosity — rows of strange huge Stonehenge columns facing one another, and forcing the traveler to stop and wonder what they're all about.

Brittany is distinctive for its various types of stones. The Menhirs are usually erected on end and are unattached. The Dolmens consist of several megaliths arranged so as to form a crude chamber, generally regarded as a tomb. The alignments of Carnac form thirteen avenues of structures and typify the province's claim of being a rare outdoor museum of ancient history.

● The peasants of Brittany still retain their picturesque dress and their primitive ways. These are best seen on Sundays and at the pardons. Many of the churches are under the patronage of local saints, and the pardons derive their names from them. The processions, usually starting from the church, are made up largely of banners floating in the summer winds.

This year Treguier, on the north coast, will have a pardon of St. Yves, patron saint of the lawyers. The chapel of Sainte Anne la Palud, in the village of Ploneves, on Aug. 29 will become identified with a colorful ceremony, and on Sept. 7 and 8, near the little town of Landerneau, there is to be the pardon du Folgoet. All these festivals, along with the others throughout the province, are worth the 4,000 mile trip from Chicago.

Colorado Has Both Sport and Scenery for Vacationists

DENVER, Colo.—What is expected to be one of Colorado's greatest fishing seasons opened May 25 and there was an unprecedented rush for "favorite spots" along the state's 6,000 miles of trout streams.

While fishermen were in hibernation this spring, awaiting the opening of the season, 26,000,000 baby trout were being planted in Colorado's streams and lakes. It was the state's largest single contribution of the kind to the anglers and resulted from vast enlargement of the Colorado hatchery system.

Reached quickly from Denver, travel to scores of the west's finest trout streams and lakes precipitates the fishers into some of the world's grandest scenery. West from the Colorado capital less than fifty miles the traveler finds himself on the globe's highest auto road, which leads by easy grade to the summit of Mount Evans, towering 14,260 feet skyward.

From the crest of Mount Evans a view of the Continental divide, extending from Pike's peak, on the south, to far beyond Long's peak, which lies to the north, greets the eye.

Sails Will Dot Sea and Lake This Summer

Yacht Races to Be Witnessed by Voyagers to Europe and Mackinac.

By John Waring Jr.

VACATION voyaging will take many forms this summer. Some holiday makers will be satisfied with a cross-lake run to South Haven; for others, nothing less than an Atlantic passage will do.

Wherever and whenever the traveler goes, whether far out on the water or close by the shore, the colorful spectacle of sails and speeding spray is sure to be noticed.

Newport, R. I., will again be a scene of yachting importance. The 17th annual Bermuda race starts from there on June 22. For 635 miles passengers and steamers plying between New York and the islands will be seeing the fleet of nearly fifty windjammers beat and reach their way across the gulf stream.

On a 3,400 Mile Marathon.

After the Bermuda race is over, the 10 European yachts in the run will be joined by American sailors for a 3,400 mile marathon from the islands to Germany. Thus the fleet will cross North Atlantic steamer lanes before finishing at Cuxhaven, Germany, in time for the Olympic yacht races at Kiel.

Off Newport, Boston, and on Long Island sound, the America's cup class will be racing again after a lapse of two years. With their new semi-streamline sail rigs, Harold Vanderbilt's Rainbow, and the Weetamoe and the Yankee, are expected to be sailing faster than in 1934. On the same waters, the 20 New York Yacht club 45 foot cutters will meet in battle.

The boat-minded stay-at-homes will have their fill of long distance races and regattas. On June 28, off Montrose yacht harbor, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE will conduct the first Chicagoland small boat regatta for sailing craft.

Race Week at Mackinac Proclaimed.

Mackinac Island Race week has been proclaimed by Gov. Frank Fitzgerald of Michigan for the week following July 18. In addition to the usual fleet of sail yachts finishing the Mackinac races from both Chicago and Port Huron, two fleets of motor yachts are to converge on the island at the same time. With more than a hundred yachts, from every one of the Great Lakes, anchored in the harbor off the Straits of Mackinac, this rendezvous of white pleasure craft against a background of blue water and green islands is sure to attract travelers and yachtsmen alike.

Too Many to Count.

Finland is the world's greatest lake country. So numerous are the lakes that it has been impossible to count them.

Quintuplets Lure Travel to Canada

TORONTO, Ont.—Five bright eyed babes are solving the question of where to go for a vacation this summer. They are the Dionne quintuplets, who are putting Callender, Ont., on the vacation maps of thousands of motorists.

Already an increase in trafic to Callender has been noted. The famous baby shrine lies directly north of this city, on an arm of Lake Nipissing. There the Canadian government's protégés are housed in their own government sponsored hospital.

Here's One City Where Dreams All Come True

Sojourner in Budapest Encounters the Color and Beauty He Hoped For.

By Betty Browning.

"IF three Hungarians come together one of them will open a café and the other two will become habitués," some one who knows Budapest remarked the other evening.

"And no wonder!" would retort any one who ever has sampled the heady combination of Tokay and gypsy music that is the stock in trade of a Budapest café.

Even the sweep of the twin cities, Buda and Pest, thwart the crescent curve of the Danube from Mount St. Gellert—the hill called, in resounding rhetoric, "the battleground of the west and the east," or the interior of the Coronation church, walls ablaze with geometric patterns reminiscent of the Turkish mosque it once was, or the graceful Gothic parliament house, dome and spires mirrored in the Danube—even these cannot quite overshadow the recollection of a summer evening spent listening to a Hungarian gypsy orchestra.

Roofs with Peephole Windows.

You can listen to the music on the terrace of the Dunapalota hotel, the Ritz hotel that was in the days of the empire, and look past the strolling throngs to the gleaming Danube and the dark bulk of the royal palace atop the hills above the river.

Or cross to old Buda, where the streets wind up and down hill, past low, brown houses with tiny peephole windows in the roofs. Here you can find a small, intimate café where the fiddler who leads the orchestra will descend from his platform to play at your very elbow.

Hungarians are proud of the peculiar effect of their gypsy music of pulsing cymbalum punctuating alternate demon swift and lingering measures of the violin. They will tell you how this famous beauty flung herself at the feet of an orchestra leader to beg for an encore, how another stripped off her rings and tossed them to a fiddler in gratitude.

Budapest is at its most picturesque on St. Stephen's day, Aug. 20. Country folk in brilliant native dress pour in from remote districts to join in the festival celebrating the national holiday. The right hand of St. Stephen, patron saint of Hungary, is preserved at the royal palace, and on this day the sacred relic is borne in procession to the Coronation church and back to the palace again.

All the Atmosphere Ever Dreamed Of.

On even an ordinary day a traveler coming from the west will find all the atmosphere he ever dreamed of finding. Women with cloths about their heads squat on the pavements in public squares, displaying mats embroidered crimson and magenta and yellow. Everywhere men in the streets are selling giant pretzels.

Puzzling over street signs is sufficient reminder that Attila's conquering Huns swept this land clean of the last vestiges of Roman rule and Roman culture. And a keen observer may find evidence that the proud spirit of the conquerors of a thousand years ago is not yet dead.

Here and there is a sign, "Nem, nem, sohar!" ["No, no, never!"]. These signs, which were seen on every street car and over most doorbells in the years following the world war, are a reminder that Hungarians never will accept the Treaty of Trianon, which took from them two-thirds of their population and more than two-thirds of their territory.

ONE OF WISCONSIN'S SCENIC SPOTS

Three girls view the shore line of Lake Tombeau, in the Nippersink country of Wisconsin. The region is a favorite of vacationing Chicagoans.

GOING SOMEWHERE?

IN South Haven today there will be a celebration to greet the S. S. Roosevelt when she steams up the slip to a wharf that has not been used by a passenger ship for years. With the ship's arrival, that resort will emerge from its long obscurity as a "lost port." The liner will give the Michigan town a "bridge across the lake" to Chicago. The city will fête the ship's officers and officials of the Chicago Roosevelt Steamship company. The city council, headed by Mayor Lynn J. Lewis, and officers and directors of the chamber of commerce, headed by President W. A. Elliott, will board the Roosevelt at St. Joseph and ride up to South Haven, where the ship will be met by the blasts of many whistles.

◆

For the third consecutive year Thorsten Hanson, district manager of the Swedish American line's Chicago office, will be director of the motorliner Gripsholm's cruise to Norway, the Baltic, and Russia. The ship will sail from New York July 25 and at Visby the townspeople will present a special performance of the mediæval pageant, "Petrus de Dacia," for the cruise party. Sterling R. Cassel, also of the Chicago office, will act as assistant to Mr. Hanson.

It is good news in any language, including the Hungarian, when travel costs are reduced. Last week came the information that tipping has been abolished in the Magyar kingdom. The troublesome problem of gratuities has been solved completely by an order of the Hungarian government making acceptance of tips by waiters, porters, or other attendants in hotels and restaurants illegal.

Ranging from modest, locally staged fiestas to the large central exposition, Texas this year is marking the hundred years since Sam Houston ran his brand on one Antonio Lopez de Santa Ana in the Buffalo Bayou littoral of the Gulf coast.

Of all the events that of the Fort Worth frontier is perhaps the most distinctive. History and education have been jettisoned with cold deliberation. The entrepreneurs not only admit but boast that their big rookus is designed for amusement purposes only. Such slogans as "Go elsewhere for education; come to Fort Worth for entertainment," "Wild and whoopee," and "Out where the fun begins" are being used. The celebration will open July 1.

A special boat train for Queen Mary passengers will leave Chicago for New York over the Pennsylvania railroad at 11:30 a. m. Tuesday. Approximately 150 persons will be aboard.

THE VOICE OF THE TRAVELER

Letters regarding travel conditions and experiences are welcomed. Please keep them brief. Address: Travel Editor, Chicago Tribune.

REMEMBER THE SHUT-INS.

Chicago, June 16.—To the Travel Editor: A lonely little orphan, 16 years old, has been at the hospital for two years, and from all indications will never be able to leave.

I wonder if some of your kind readers, in traveling this summer, would send her a few postcards. She is in a ward with some other sick girls; so it would bring pleasure and happiness to them all.

It is a wonderful idea to remember the shut-ins. The address of the one I have in mind is: Miss Doris Secock, room 56, Municipal Tubercular sanitarium, Bryn Mawr and Crawford avenues, Chicago.

ELLA SMITH.

EXTENDING THE VISION.

Elmhurst, Ill., June 14.—To the Travel Editor: As Lena Barr Morse says, regarding the plan to form a club in her name, "May it give happiness to other shut-ins."

I, too, am a shut-in, and I would love to hear from those who travel. There are many of us who never have an outing or a vacation, or see much except in our own yards—being, of course, grateful for these.

If interested friends would care to extend the club's activities to others, won't you please put my name on the list? My address is: 396 Prairie avenue, Elmhurst.

Such a plan would certainly extend the vision of a shut-in.

FANNIE MAY COLE.

R. S. V. P.

Chicago, June 15.—To the Travel Editor: In yesterday's TRIBUNE we note you are inviting all who are interested to become charter members of the Lena B. Morse Travel club. We also note Miss Morse's suggestion that the club actually hold meetings. We wish to offer you the assistance of the Hayes Travel Service in forming the club. We also extend an invitation to your club members to meet at our home, 5732 Maryland avenue, at any convenient time.

I am sailing for Europe June 27 on the S. S. Columbus, and would be pleased to send occasional letters to the Voice of the Traveler column. I would like to address them to all the shut-ins who read THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE Travelers' Guide.

RAMONA GIBBONS HAYES.

FIRST HAND INFORMATION.

Chicago, May 26.—To the Travel Editor: I, too, desire Lena B. Morse's address in order that I may contribute my bit to her "armchair travels." I notice a Holland, Mich., correspondent is bringing the tulip festival right to her chair by sending her a box of tulips.

I am keeping these travel articles and letters, as they are interesting, educational, and help lovers of nature to appreciate, in a special way, the things beautiful and unusual. They also pass on first hand information of recreational places to delight the weary traveler.

ANNE C. SMITH.

MAKE IT WORLD-WIDE.

Chicago, June 15.—To the Travel Editor: I also am a shut-in, and have been for almost seven years. I am very much interested in the Lena B. Morse Travel club and would like to become a member of it. I think it is a splendid idea, and in a wonderful way it will bring much happiness to the shut-ins. I hope that in due time it will become a national and international affair.

I am sure Miss Morse deserves all the happiness that can come to her. May all of those who join in the movement enjoy a fuller and richer life for having taken time to provide a little sunshine for the less fortunate. May each and every one of you have a most enjoyable vacation and return in the best of health.

I have a shut-in friend who, I feel certain, would like to receive cards from the travelers. Her name and address: Miss Laura Hanson, Apartment 2, 826 North Le Claire avenue, Chicago. My address: Apartment 2, 6145 South Ada street.

Again I thank you all for your very fine kindness. MRS. LARUE HARALSON.

THE GARDEN OF MEMORIES.

Crystal Lake, Ill., May 25.—To the Travel Editor: Could you please send me Miss Lena B. Morse's address? She was the "armchair traveler" in the May 10 paper—the dear soul who had never seen a garden.

I am a shut-in, too, but I have a beautiful garden to look out upon from all windows, and it gives me my greatest pleasure in being able to share it with others. The Crystal Lake Garden club, of which I am a member, sends flowers in each week to shut-ins, and I'd like to have some of my flowers find their way into Miss Morse's room. Perhaps letters also would be a bit of cheer.

Last year I had to enjoy the world from a wheel chair. This year I can appreciate every change in Mother Nature and all the lovely things there are to see.

1. A lilac bush at the kitchen window.
2. The bird bath—somewhat dilapidated—but it seems to be much appreciated by the hundreds of birds who come to bathe daily. This can be seen as I sit at my table and enjoy it with my meals—instead of an orchestra.
3. The violets and lilies of the valley near the pool.
4. The iris right now—some thirty or forty shades—in glorious waving masses all down the various borders.
5. The birds' feeding board under the catalpa tree, where the saint and the sinner join at breaking bread.
6. The friendly, cheery little wrens, the busy robins, the warblers, song sparrows, and the orioles, all so intensely interesting to watch while making their homes and feeding their young. Their songs are a boon to the heavy hearted.
7. A lone, big, yellow rose bush, a thing of beauty when in bloom.
8. The rose trellis last year. The arch was completely covered—one solid mass of roses. But it died out last winter.
9. The borders anytime—peonies, delphiniums, and daisies. They're always grand when you are looking for beauty and at one time raised most of them from seed.
10. From an outsider's point of view it might be terribly helter skelter—lots of weeds, an old red barn—no rhyme or rhythm to the whole outfit. But I see only the lovely things, and put a vanishing film over the rest.

MRS. R. A. MACLAUGHLIN.

BOUQUET.

Chicago, June 15.—To the Travel Editor: Congratulations on your "platform" in yesterday's TRIBUNE. It was a masterpiece! PEGGY HART.

UNFORGETTABLE SCENES.

Harvard, Ill., May 28.—To the Travel Editor: It has been a genuine pleasure to read the various letters in "The Voice of the Traveler." The lists have stirred up memories of many places I have visited, not always because of their beauty. It is difficult to "boil down" to ten greatest sights, for there are so many outstanding and unforgettable. As others have given more than the ten, I would like to give those of our own country and then in foreign lands.

Domestic.

1. Grand Canyon. When one rides down to the river and back he realizes its depth and its grandeur.
2. Yellowstone, with its Upper Geyser basin, and all of the other strange and unusual features.
3. Death valley, with its colorings, its Devil's golf course, and Scotty's palace.
4. Carlsbad caverns, for their size and gorgeous formations.
5. Columbia River highway; every turn a beautiful vista.
6. Firefall at Yosemite on a night in June.
7. Painted desert and Petrified forests. Such colorings!
8. Motor trip through the Adirondacks in the fall, when colorings were gorgeous. Tupper lake especially beautiful.
9. Storm King highway, a real joy to any traveler.
10. Lake Tahoe, Great Smokies, Niagara, etc., etc.

Foreign.

1. Taj Mahal at sunrise and sunset. Surely "a poem in marble."
2. Pillared hall at Karnak; 134 pillars, 33 feet circumference, nearly 80 feet high, carved and colored; makes one gaze in amazement.
3. Five days on the Nile, the great number of faluchas, and the visit to Abydos and Denderah temples. Later the Pyramids of Gizeh and Sphinx.
4. Alhambra, Granada, Spain; its carvings and colorings.
5. Trip through Norway and Naero-fjord, a real gem. Norway, a traveler's paradise.
6. View from Mount Rigi at sunset, snowcaps in every direction and fourteen lakes like molten gold.
7. Benares, India, and its temples and ghats, "holy men," and sacred cows.
8. Week's motor trip through Brittany, France. Douarnenez on a fiesta day. Boats with red sails, fishermen with red suits, and women in fancy costumes made a colorful sight.
9. Shwe Dagon pagoda, Rangoon, Burma, for its great size and its numerous shrines and Buddahs.
10. Temples and sacred bridge at Nikko, Japan.

Only ten, when there are such places as Vesuvius, Jungfrau from Eiger glacier, Japan's inland sea, Amalfi and Corniche drives, Funchal, Kilauea, Kandy, Ceylon, and many more.

Harriette Stevens' list of "cherished memories" brought many memories to me of like sights and scenes.

MINNIE C. CARMACK.

IMPRESSIVE PICTURES.

Chicago, June 17.—To the Travel Editor: I am listing ten of the most impressive sights I have seen:

1. The Golden Gate, San Francisco, at sunrise, from the St. Francis hotel.
2. Mount Hood, Oregon, in summer, from Portland.
3. The San Gabriel mission, southern California.
4. Michigan avenue from the Field museum.
5. Cascade forest near Three Sisters, Oregon.
6. New York City from the statue of Liberty.
7. Singapore, Straits Settlements, and the United States flag at the American consulate.
8. The Pyramids and Sphinx [and minarets during the Mohammedans' morning prayer].
9. The Suez canal at Aden, Arabia.
10. Fujiyama, Japan.

GEORGE S. GEIS.

BEG YOUR PARDON!

Chicago, June 12.—To the Travel Editor: In THE TRIBUNE of last Sunday you said Luther made his famous translation of the Bible in the little town of Eisenach. You are mistaken. Luther translated the Bible while he lived under the name of Junker Görg on the Wartburg as a prisoner of honor, meaning, in this case, a prisoner for his own security.

Attracted by the wonderful panorama to be seen from the windows of the burg, and by a castle nearly 900 years old, thousands of travelers from all parts of the world gather there every year to view the Luther rooms.

South Sea Island Kingdom Lost Through Our Preoccupation with Civil War.

By Mason Warner.

SUVA, Viti Levu, Fiji.—After the United States' exasperating and expensive experience with the Philippine Islands, one does not know whether to rejoice or repine over the fact that we rejected sovereignty over Fiji when it was offered by King Cakobau back in the early '60s.

The story is a bit long and involved, but, boiled down to newspaper space, the details are as follows: On July 4, 1849, the American consul, situated on the small island of Nukulau, was celebrating his national anniversary by firing cannon and letting off squibs. His home caught fire and was burned to the ground. He brought complaints against Cakobau, and responsibility for the loss was finally placed on the Fijian, although what he had to do with the consul's celebration is not quite clear.

Cakobau was not able to pay the assessment of $45,000 made against him for the loss of the American consul's home, but he was frequently dunned for it. The cannibal king offered his possessions to Queen Victoria if Great Britain would pay the indemnity demanded—provided he could keep the title of Tui Viti [King of Fiji], which had been accorded to him by the American government. At the time there was trouble in New Zealand, with a native war on to embarrass the British government, and the offer was rejected.

Too Busy with War to Bother with Peace.

The Fiji king was being threatened by attack from Maafu, and, in this dilemma, he offered his sovereignty to the United States if released from payment of the $45,000 damages. The United States was then busy with the civil war, and no reply was made to the offer. Thus was lost the opportunity for the possession of this South sea island kingdom.

In 1874, after successful efforts to consolidate the 250 islands into the "Kingdom of Fiji," the kings and chiefs of the islands offered the group to Great Britain, this time unconditionally, and the proposition was accepted. Since then Fiji has been a crown colony.

In 1875, in connection with the cession, the king's son and his servants visited Sydney. When they returned to Fiji they brought measles with them. A dreadful epidemic resulted and 40,000 of the population of 150,000 died. Before the advent of the white man there was a limited variety of disease germs in Fiji. So the natives cannot be blamed for their terror of the white man's diseases.

Winter Playground of the Anzacs.

Today Fiji and its capital city of Suva hold about the same relation and position to Australia and New Zealand as do Hawaii and Honolulu to the United States. Three days from Auckland and six days from Sydney, Fiji is an ideal holiday playground during the rigors of the antipodean winter in July and August, and Australians and New Zealanders are making the most of it. A tourist cruise ship is bringing 1,400 Australians to Suva on Saturday of this week. We regret that our ship is sailing Thursday at midnight, for it would be interesting to see the crowd of tourists turned loose in this city of 12,000 population.

Suva is ready for the tourists. For weeks there have been rehersals for a grand Fijian concert, to be given in the town hall Saturday night. We were permitted to see and hear one rehersal. It was a rare treat.

What were termed "native action songs" on the program were thrilling dramatic presentations of seated dances, "meke mekes" — pronounced "micky mickies." One was performed by small boys; another by little girls. Young men did the "Vakamalolo," with striking arm movements all in perfect unison, punctuated by thumping the ground with the heel of the hand, producing a thunderous effect, and clapping of the hands between dramatic pointing and gesturing. Young women in native gala costume did a somewhat similar meke meke, but their movements were more restrained and the clapping not so loud. There were songs with ukelele accompaniment, and a number of anthems and choruses, most of which followed European airs, but with the words translated into Fijian.

They'd Make a Hit in Vaudeville.

The small boys' action song was entitled "Blackbirding" and depicted the story of the capture and enslavement of natives to perform enforced labor on the sugar plantations on various South Sea islands not so many generations ago. It was performed by thirty or forty seated boys, alternately singing and clapping their hands, while twelve youngsters and a virile leader showed by quick pantomime the attempted flight, the terror of the capture, the various forms of labor on the plantations, the weariness of toil, attempted escape and recapture, and the blessedness of sleep. That number would make a hit on any stage.

These meke mekes are characteristic of the South Seas, just as the hula hula is of Hawaii. There is seldom any musical accompaniment, but the handclapping provides tempo and rhythm. The movements are lively and animated and offset to some extent the old South Sea trader's sarcastic comment: "The Fijian is so lazy he sits down to dance."

In the "Streets of All Nations" in Suva are gathered tall, bushy haired Fijians, Solomon Islanders, Samoans, Cook Islanders, Tongans, and Gilbertese. Chinese, Japanese, Hindus, Madrassi, Punjabis, and impressive and impassive Sikhs rub elbows with the happy-go-lucky islanders.

The Fijians drink kava, a seductive liquor made by uncleanly native methods from the squeezed out juices of yaquona root. It looks like dirty milk, but has a pleasing flavor that belies its foul appearance—not like any other social drink known to mankind. It is slightly pepperminty, just a bit tart, and leaves the mouth feeling clean and refreshed. It goes to the legs, not the head.

Costa Rica to Build Roads to Volcanoes

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica.—Chiefly with the intention of attracting tourists, the Costa Rican government has authorized a study of the cost of building roads to the two principal volcanoes, Irazu and Poas. As soon as the information has been supplied, an issue of bonds will be arranged for public subscription.

Irazu is 35 kilometers to the northwest of the capital, San José, and has an altitude of 11,000 feet. From its summit a glorious panorama of the country is revealed and on clear days the Pacific and Atlantic seas can be discerned. Poas is 40 kilometers to the northeast of San José, has an altitude of 7,500 feet, and possesses the world's largest geyser. Both volcanoes are active virtually the year round.

Air Lines Provide Quick Trips to National Parks

New and Larger Planes Carry Travelers to the Scenic Spots of America.

By Wayne Thomis.

IN preparation for increases in air travel this summer, the major air lines have added many new trips to the winter flight schedules over their routes, and have arranged for operation of air tours over most of the national parks and scenic spots of the west. Moreover, two of the major lines will be flying new and larger airplanes before the summer is over, one at least making the coast to coast trip with only three intermediate stops.

Probably the most interesting innovation for air line passengers will be the new planes which American Air Lines is to place in service over the Chicago-New York route before this month is ended. These ships are 21 passenger Douglas DST or DC-3 machines, the only difference being that the DST is fitted as a sleeper plane, while the DC-3 is a daytime parlor car ship. They are to be used first of all in nonstop flights both east and west bound between the two cities.

Equipped with 1,000 H. P. Engines.

These new planes are equipped with 1,000 horse power Cyclone engines, and have a range of slightly more than 1,000 miles while carrying 21 persons. The engines are the most powerful ever used in commercial air line operation in the United States, and, say the engineers, represent an advance in the safety and reliability of air transportation.

Similar planes are to be delivered to United Air Lines beginning early in August. United's Douglases will not have the Cyclone engine, however, the contract calling for each ship to be fitted with a new twin row Wasp engine of 14 cylinders and capable of delivering 1,150 horse power at takeoff. There will be virtually no difference in performance between the American and United ships.

Both companies plan to put their new machines into service first between Chicago and New York. This airway, 724 air miles in length, will then become the busiest in the world. When this takes place there will be some 25 daily round trips flown and a total of nearly 500 seats open to travelers. No other airway in the world—not even the busy Paris-London route of only 205 miles—will have as much trafic.

Scenic Tours Over the National Parks.

Scenic tours over the Grand canyon of the Colorado, Boulder dam, Mead lake, Zion National park, Cedar Breaks monument, which became a national park in 1934, and over Yellowstone and Teton National parks have been arranged by United Air Lines, Transcontinental and Western Air Lines, American Air Lines, and Northwest Air Lines in conjunction with Western Air Express, National Parks airways, and Wyoming Air service.

These same lines have also inaugurated a system which allows travelers to make stopovers in order to take these "off-main line tours." Some of the sights which can be comfortably seen from the windows of a multimotored airliner this summer have hitherto been viewed only by those willing to spend two weeks with pack train trekking over tortuous mountain trails.

Chicago and Southern Air Lines, following the lead of Northwest Air Lines, Eastern Air Lines, and other large operators, has discarded the Stinson Model T trimotor ships for the latest Lockheed electras with Wright Whirlwind motors. The new service, which has been in operation less than one month, is one of the finest in the country, and covers the 909 miles between Chicago and New Orleans in 6 hours 50 minutes with three intermediate stops.

This is nearly three hours less than the flying time in the slower Stinsons, and is nearly two hours less than the time of Eastern Air Lines, flying between Chicago, Atlanta, and New Orleans.

NATURE'S REFLECTIONS
Lake McDonald, in Glacier National park, offers a perfect mirror for the peaks towering above it.

Service After Hours.

A 12 o'clock closing order doesn't daunt the restaurant owners of Amsterdam. When midnight strikes, they close shop, but put automatic vending machines in front of their stores. These retail sandwiches, cake, and even ice cream cones.

Wisconsin Fishing Off to Good Start

MADISON, Wis.—The first few weeks of the open season on muskellunge, wall-eyed pike, northern pike, and trout have served to bear out the promise of an unusually good fishing season. The promise was made prior to the opening of the fishing season by Wisconsin conservation department wardens and guides throughout the fishing sections.

Travel Inquiries Indicate Great Gain in Touring

"NINETEEN THIRTY-SIX will be one of the biggest travel years in history," W. H. Spears, regional sales manager of the Greyhound lines, predicted yesterday. "The great increase in travel inquiries proves that the American public is definitly planning to go places this summer. The movement is already under way and will reach boom proportions within the next two weeks."

One of the principal reasons for the increase, said Mr. Spears, is the substantial reduction in travel costs to all parts of America, bringing the nation's resorts, summer playgrounds, and natural wonders within reach of millions who have felt that they couldn't afford these trips in previous years. Continued improvement of equipment, additional schedules, and increased travel-planning facilities for the convenience of the public are also important factors in the upward trend, he said.

To help take care of the expected gain, the Greyhound Travel bureau has more than doubled its information staf for handling both telephone and personal inquiries.

During the summer months bus travel appeals especially to persons who like to make circle tours, Mr. Spears related. From Chicago a wide variety of tours are available, with optional routes to nearly any destination. Tours to the east are favorites this year, and Niagara Falls now has a new rival in Calandar, Ontario, home of the Dionne quintuplets.

Old Opus Found.

LENINGRAD.—(AP)—A cantata which Tschaikowsky composed as his thesis for graduation from the old St. Petersburgh conservatory has been found in the archives of the institution here. It is a setting for Schiller's "Ode to Joy" scored for orchestra, chorus and soloist, and supposedly has not been heard since the graduation exercises.

Nightly Concerts at Cleveland Fair

CLEVELAND.—Five great symphony leaders will be guest conductors at the series of free nightly concerts by the Great Lakes Symphony orchestra of eighty pieces on the mall near the entrance of the Great Lakes exposition for the 100 days from June 27 to Oct. 4.

In addition to Rudolph Ringwall, conductor of the orchestra, the guest conductors will appear at intervals for six concerts each. The orchestra will give concerts every night except Saturdays, and on Sundays will give a matineé concert in addition to that in the evening.

Following are the conductors and dates: Hans Kindler, July 7-12; Erno Rape, July 14-19; Dr. Frank Black, July 28-Aug. 8; José Iturbi, Aug. 25-30; Karl Krueger, Aug. 4-9. Walter Logan will direct at a "pop" concert each Monday evening. Mr. Ringwall will direct the orchestra on evenings when one of the guest conductors is not on the podium.

Fishing Opens July 1 in Northern Ontario

TORONTO, Ont.—About July 1 fishermen can begin their annual battles with the mammoth waters of northern Ontario.

The regions around French river and the Georgian bay are known for their fine "catch" and gamy fishing. Muskellunge, perhaps the most exciting game fish in inland waters, grow to enormous size, each year yielding "catch" up to forty pounds.

Another gamy fish that is found in abundance in waters of this territory is the small mouthed black bass, a hard fighting species that is highly prized by the experienced fisherman. Large mouth bass are also plentiful in the streams that interlace this section of Ontario.

From early spring until late fall is open season for fishing, and the numerous rivers here are filled also with pickerel, pike, and a variety of trout.

The Canadian starting point for thousands of travelers to the Muskoka lakes region and the French river territory is Toronto, with its large stretch of sandy shore for bathing, and its fine golf courses.

Cruise to Manila, Orient Announced

A EUCHARISTIC congress cruise with a far east extension was announced last week by the N. Y. K. lines, in coöperation with the American Express company.

Accompanied by Archbishop Mitty of San Francisco, the cruise will arrive in Honolulu Jan. 12, 1937. Among the sightseeing excursions included in the Japanese eastbound itinerary will be Yokohama, where trans-Pacific passengers receive their first sights of the orient. There will be a riksha excursion of Kobe, with visits to the city's shrines, temples, and points of interest. Arrival at Shanghai will serve as a portal for the Chinese itinerary. From Hongkong the cruise will head to Manila, where the steamer will be used as a hotel for the ceremonials of the eucharistic congress.

See the picturesque Townships and the St Maurice Valley
OLD Province of QUÉBEC

Between Montréal and Sherbrooke and the Boundary of the United States lie the Eastern Townships of the Province of Québec. Through them run the beautiful Richelieu, Magog and St-François Rivers, and nestling along the shores and among the rolling hills of the pastoral countryside are many glorious vacation spots that are the complete answer to your vacation dream. The waters afford excellent fishing.

Come to old Québec Province by way of these fertile farm lands. Travel over fine roads. Stop at excellent hotels.

Carry on to sophisticated Montréal—the Paris of America. Savour the delights of real French cuisine. Strike North to the glorious Laurentian Mountains or East to Trois-Rivières, gateway to the St. Maurice Valley, the Saguenay, La Malbaie District . . . West for Hull and the famed Gatineau. There are delightful and diversified interests in all directions.

And a true French welcome awaits you. Bien-venue a Quebec!

ST. MAURICE RIVER CANOE CLASSIC
On August 22nd and 23rd there will be staged again this year the famous La Tuque to Trois-Rivières, 100 mile canoe race—one of the world's most gruelling natural sporting events.

COME by by by but be sure to COME to QUÉBEC

WHERE TO GO—WHAT TO SEE
Montreal, Hull and the Gatineau Valley, the Laurentians, the St. Maurice Valley, Charlevoix, Quebec City, Laurentide National Park, Lac St. Jean and Chicoutimi, Eastern Townships, Gaspe and lower St. Lawrence, Abitibi and Temiscamingue.

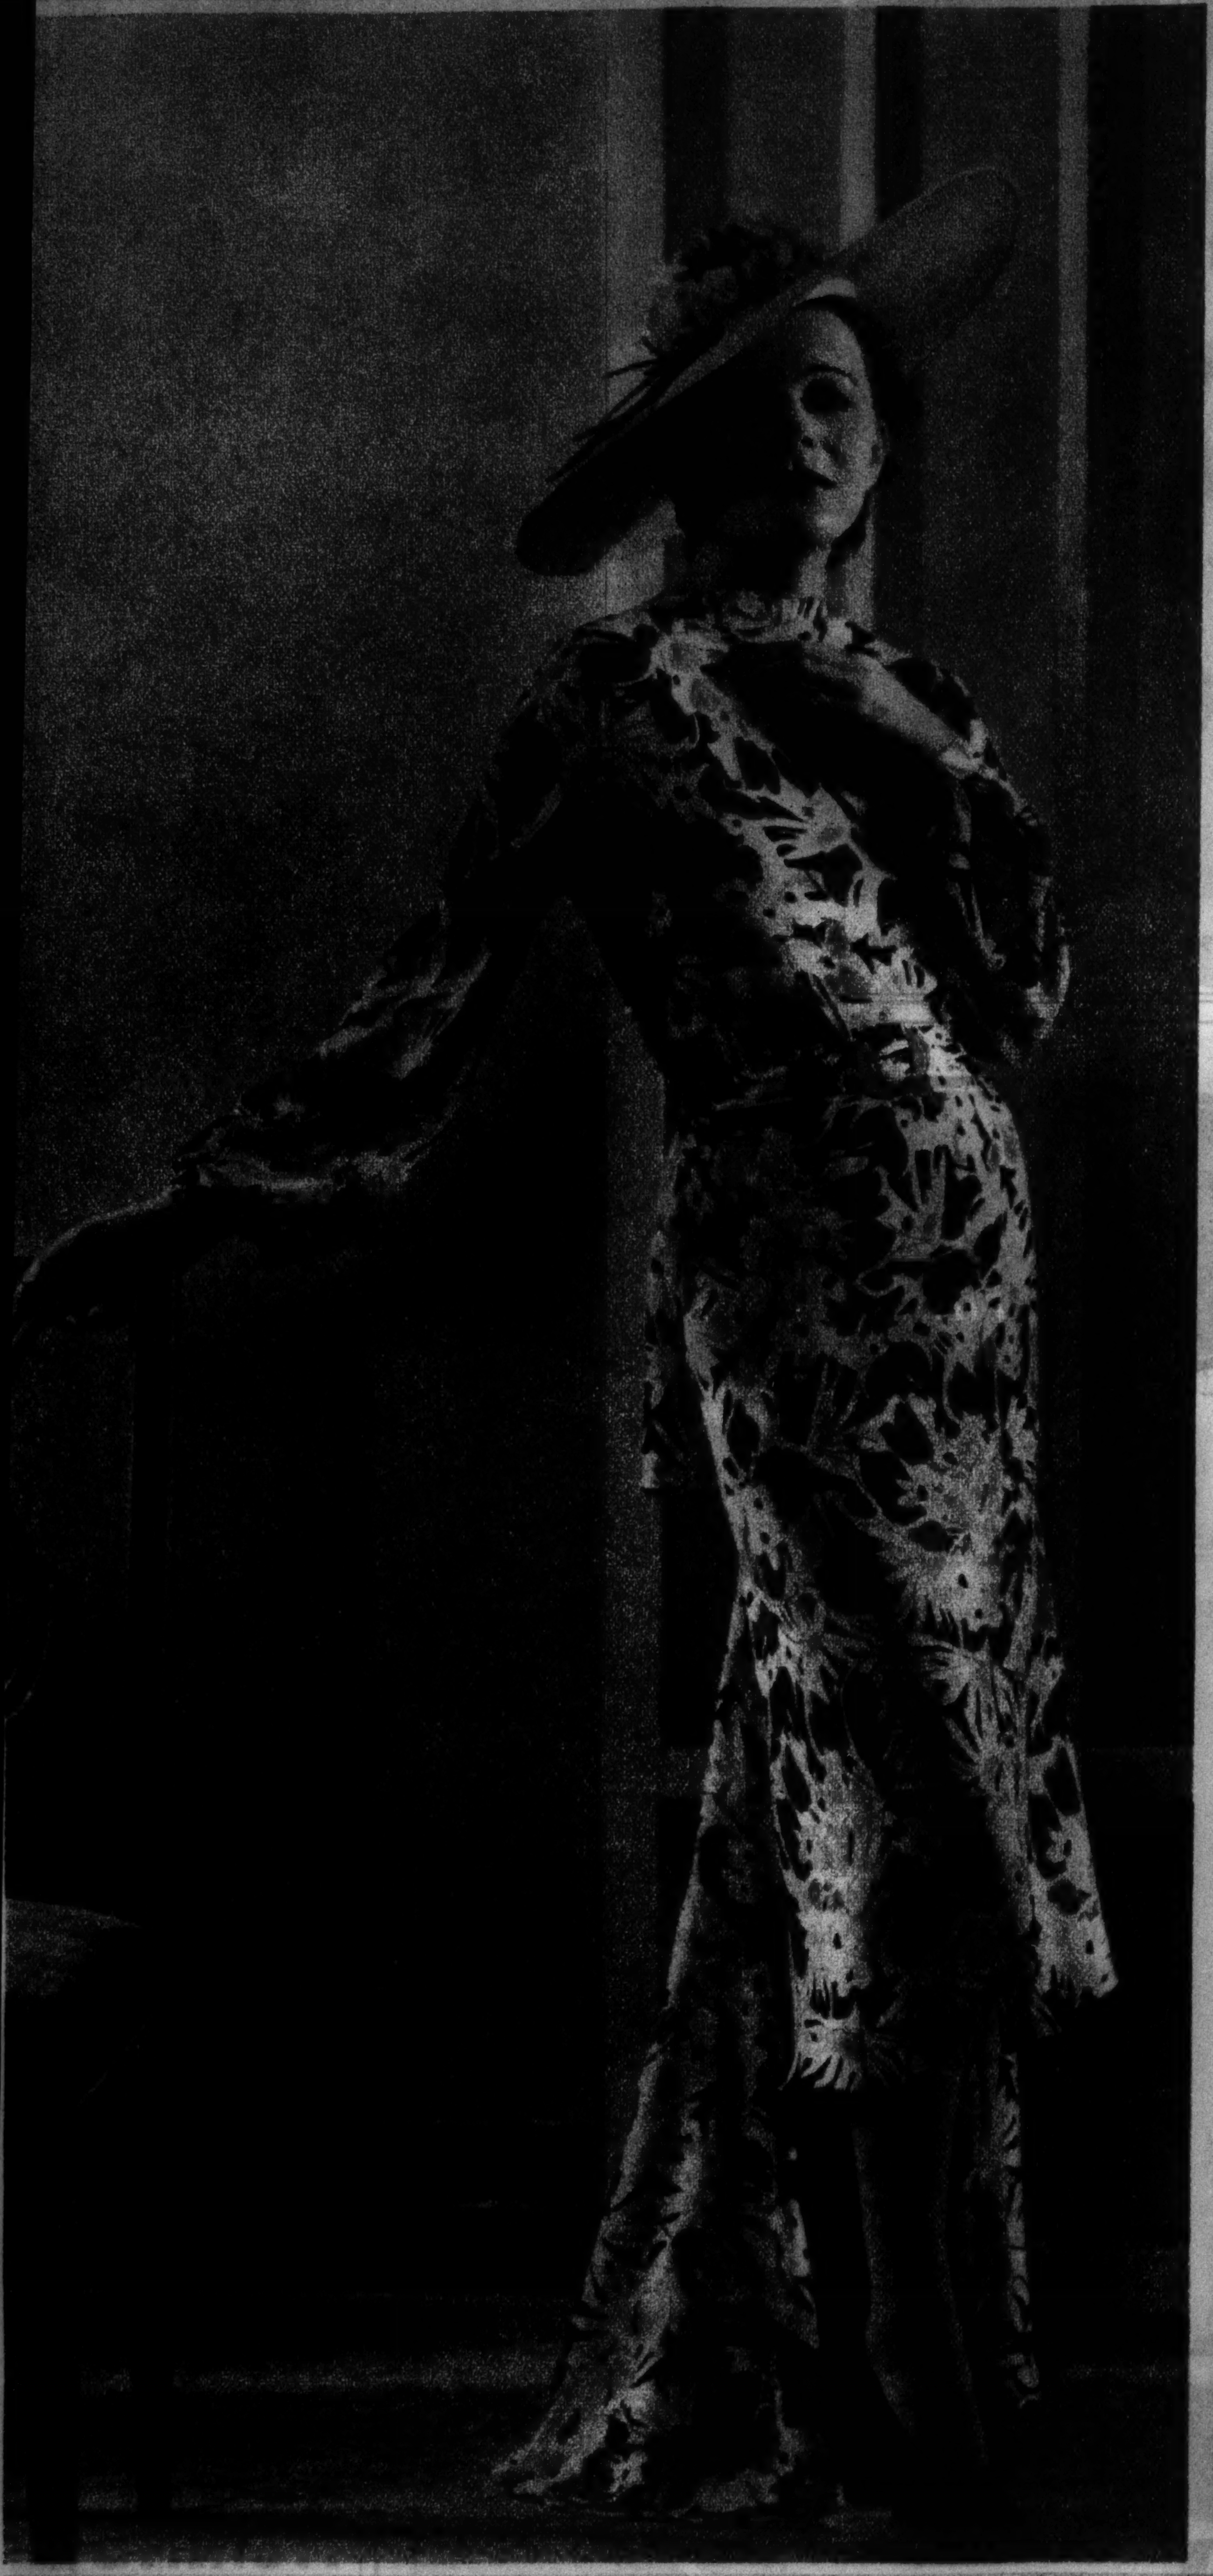
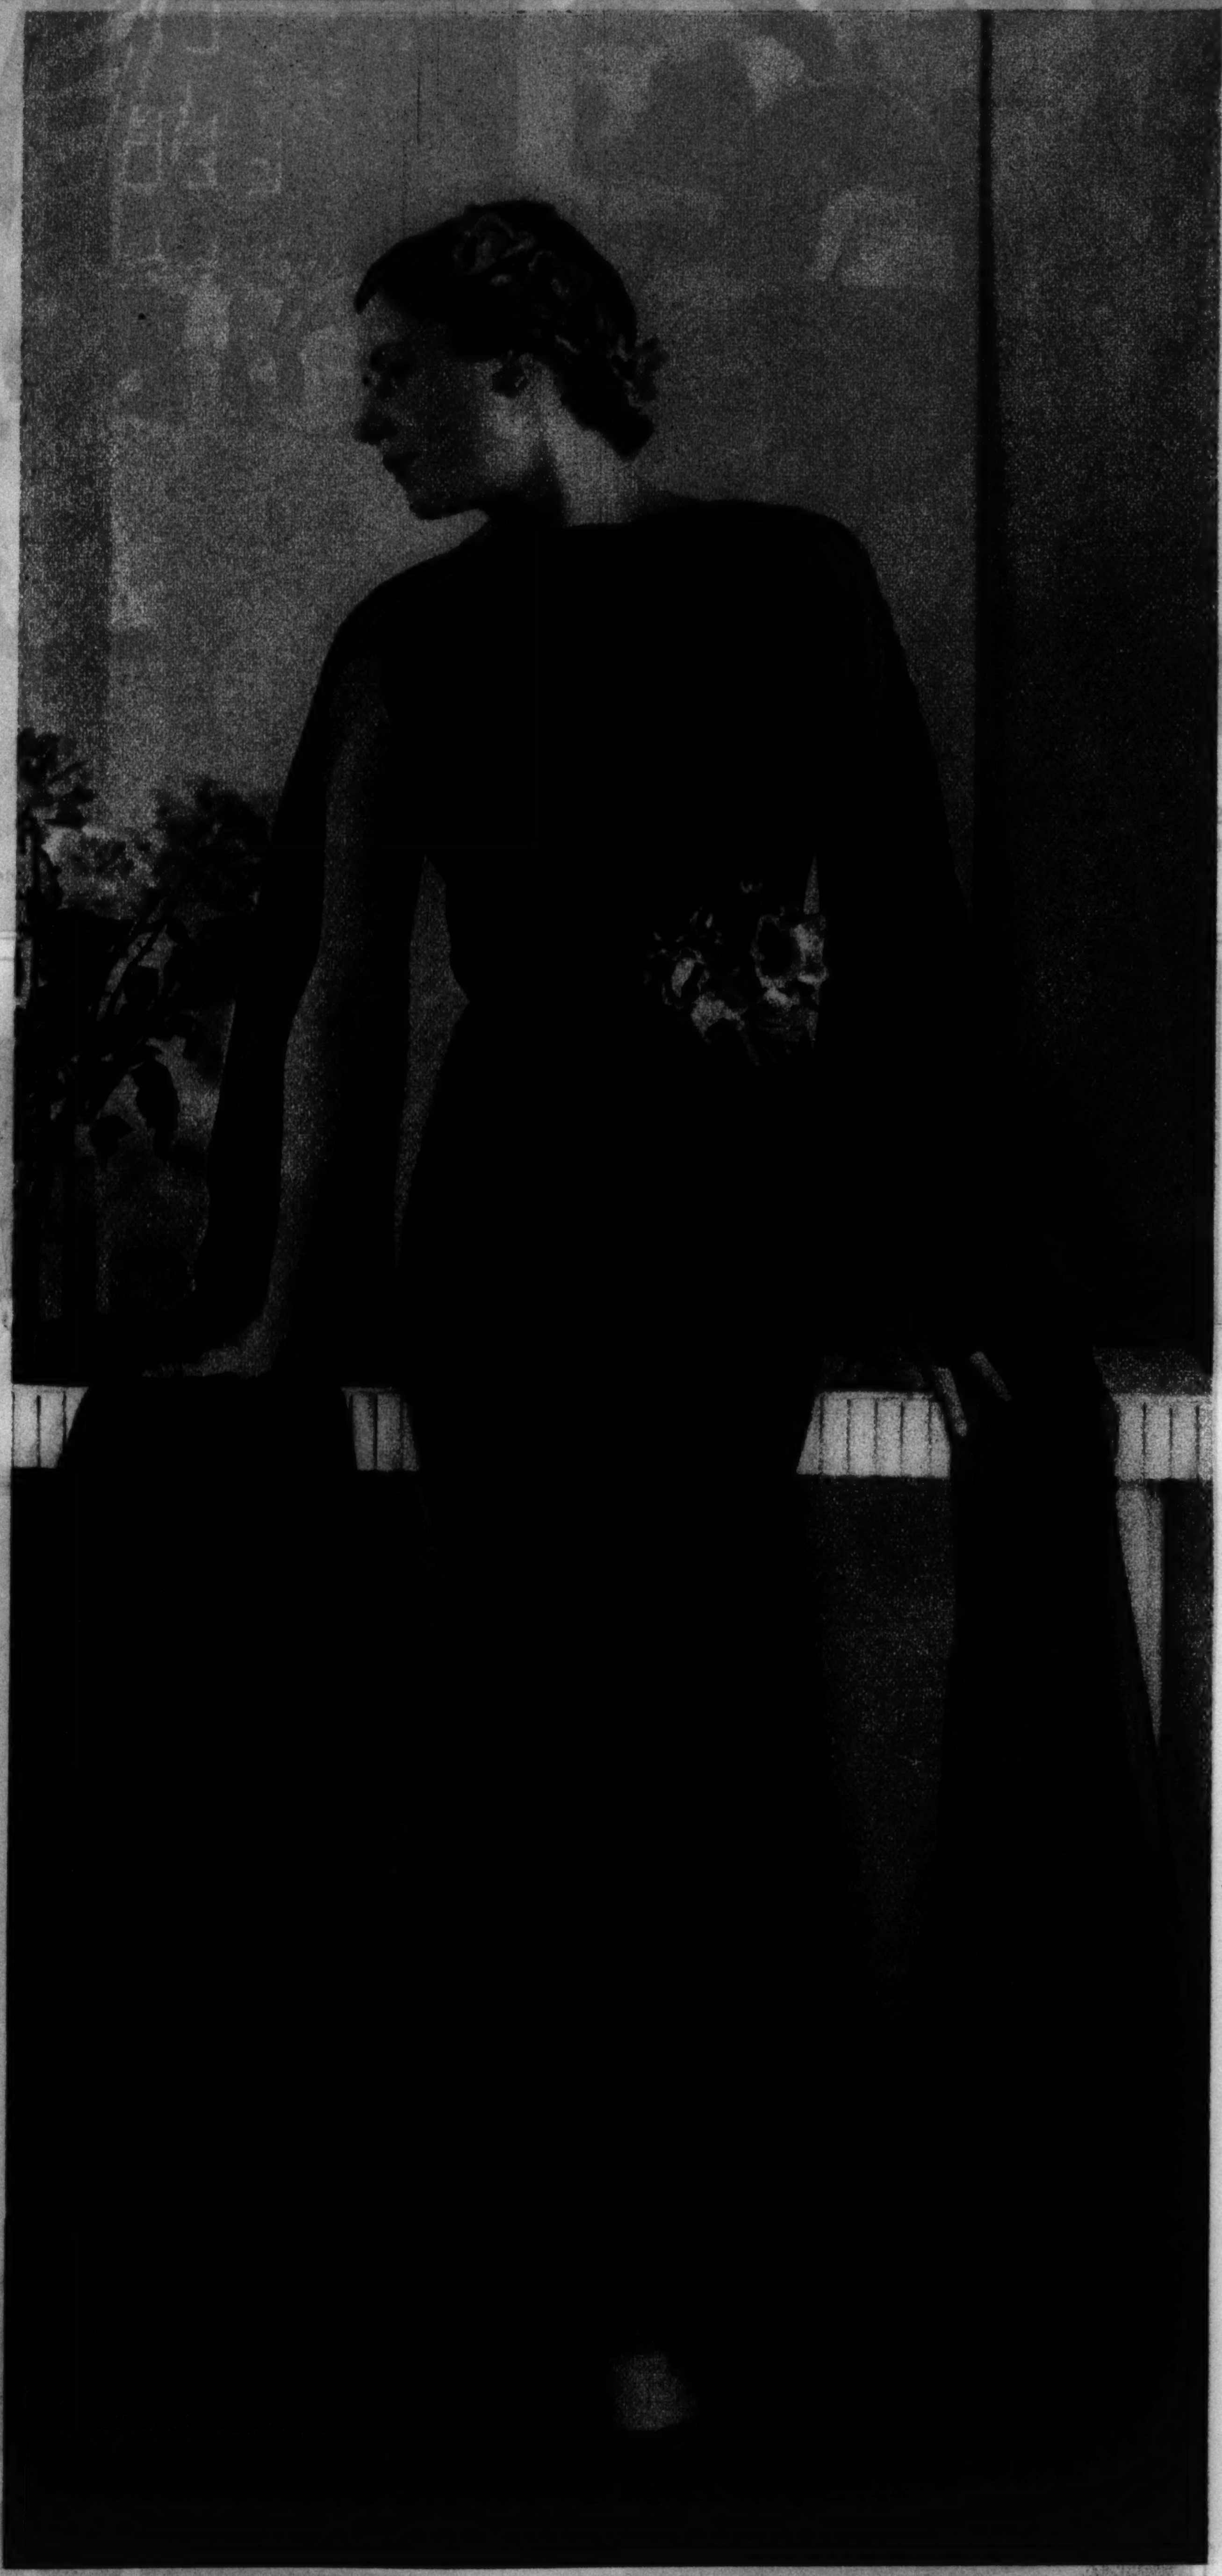
Paris Summer Modes: Exclusive Color Photos



A NEW SILHOUETTE FOR MISS SUMMERTIME, 1936, by Mainbocher. The printed chiffon skirt is floorlength at the back, and in front it merely veils the knees. The peasant blouse lies across the throat in front and is low at back. A pale pink hat is trimmed with flowers to match the design of the print.



CHANEL'S PANSY PURPLE CHIFFON EVENING DRESS has dreamy panels falling from the shoulders to the floor—panels that can be draped in a thousand and one ways. Anemones make the bandeau and the corsage.

ITS NEW LUXURY AND SAFETY SET THE PATTERN FOR THE FUTURE!

UPON its American debut, last June, the super-liner Normandie inaugurated a new era in transatlantic travel. With the LINCOLN-ZEPHYR, a new kind of car, there begins a new era in travel by road. It, too, sets fresh standards of luxury, modernity, safety. Its advanced streamlining, its engine, its unique construction place it years ahead of its time!

This car sets the pattern for the future in design. The LINCOLN-ZEPHYR is authentically streamlined. Its graceful contours flow rhythmically from prow to stern, from side to side. Beneath them is a rigid framework of steel; body and frame are one, welded together. This structure, great in strength, provides great safety.

It sets the pattern for the future in performance. Its V-type, 110-horsepower engine has 12 cylinders. So efficient is it, so light in weight, for all its size, is the car it powers, that owners report 14 to 18 miles per gallon of gas!

It sets the pattern for the future in comfort and luxury! Seats are like divans. Six people ride cradled "amidships." Soft transverse springs absorb the "ups-and-downs" of travel. There is plenty of head room, foot room, elbow room!

It sets the pattern, finally, in value. This car is Lincoln-designed, Lincoln-built. In it are the resources of a great industrial organization—the experience and skill of Lincoln engineers—precision methods that operate within a few thousandths of an inch. These, mingling, combine to create a new value at medium price.

The praises of owners for this new car are hearty and generous. You can quickly discover why, on roads of your own choosing! The Lincoln Motor Company, builders of Lincoln and Lincoln-Zephyr motor cars.

V-12 engine—110 horsepower. Wheelbase 122 inches. Springbase 133 inches. High power-to-weight ratio. Room for six passengers and luggage. Eight colors. Safety Glass throughout. Two sedan body types. Owners report 14 to 18 miles per gallon of gas. Convenient terms through your dealer on Universal Credit Company ½% per month Finance Plans.

IF YOU would appreciate having a skin soft and smooth as a rose-petal ... immediately ... and enjoy a beauty bath sensation ... try the Linit Beauty Bath.

As Alluring

... AS A BREEZE IN SPRING

Dissolve some Linit in your bath while the tub water is running, bathe as usual, step out and when you dry yourself pat your body with a towel ... do not rub ... then feel your skin ... soft and satiny smooth as the rarest velvet. And the most astonishing thing about the Linit Beauty Bath is that the cost is trifling. Don't deny yourself such gratifying after-bath comfort when the expense is so insignificant. Try the Linit Beauty Bath and join the thousands and thousands of lovely women who daily enjoy its soothing luxury. Linit is sold by your grocer.

for fine Laundering

Don't overlook the directions on the Linit package ... recommending Linit for starching. Linit makes even ordinary cotton fabrics look and feel like linen.

How Chicago Chose Its Own Coffee

IF you live in one of the areas, starred on the map, each in the neighborhood of a Jewel Food Store, you know how Jewel conducted its "coffee taste" check of Chicago, and surrounding suburbs.

This company, which sells coffee in nearly every state in the Union, recognizes the fact that in the long run the public determines what blend and roast of coffee it will drink by its purchase of the coffee it prefers.

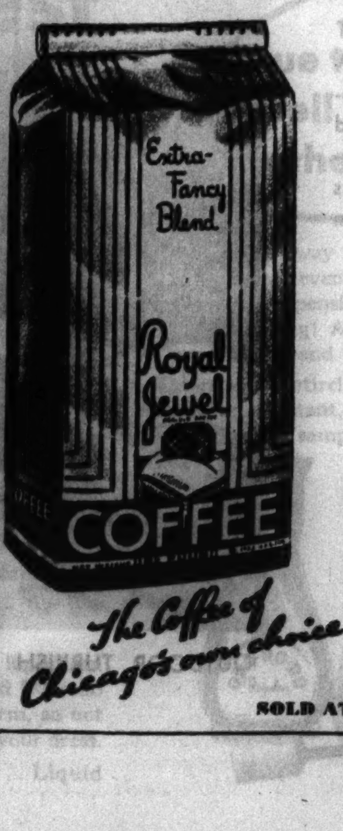
Royal Jewel Coffee has long been a favorite in Chicago. But we wanted to be sure we were suiting Chicago's own very special coffee taste with the blend and roast that exactly matched the Chicagoland climate and tempo of living. So we decided to take a popular vote.

Different roasts and slightly different blends of Royal Jewel Coffee were placed in free test packages marked only with code letters.

These half-pound packages of coffee were distributed in pairs . . . a week's supply for the average family . . . and left by Jewel Food Stores representatives at 4648 homes in Chicago and its suburbs. These families were asked to use the coffees and indicate their choice on a vote card, which the Jewel representative collected one week later.

Thanks to the assistance and cooperation of these families, the votes were cast without delay, and the exact blend and roast preferred by Chicago was known promptly and surely. Today the Jewel Food Stores offer Chicago a coffee of its very own choice.

COPYRIGHT BY CHICAGO TRIBUNE



FOR three weeks one of the most novel tests ever made with a food product has been going on in Chicago. 4648 Chicago families have been choosing the blend and roast of Royal Jewel Coffee they prefer.

Millions of pounds of Jewel Coffees are sold every year in the United States. California drinks huge quantities of one blend and roast of Jewel Coffee. Ohio and Indiana prefer a slightly different blend and roast. Georgia and Florida have still another "coffee taste." And so on.

Chicago now has a coffee of its own choice . . . a blend and a roast which suits its own "coffee taste."

For years, coffee experts have known that the public's taste in coffee differs in the various sections of the country, and even in different cities, depending on the chemistry of the local water, the climate, and the living habits of the people.

Which blend and roast would Chicago prefer? Instead of guessing, this great popular "taste test" was undertaken. Generous samples . . . sufficient for more than 200,000 cups of coffee . . . were distributed, and 4648 families were asked to vote for their preference.

The choice of these 4648 families has been adopted as Chicago's standard of Royal Jewel Coffee. The first shipments, freshly roasted, have just arrived from the great Jewel roasting plant at Barrington. Stop in at your neighborhood Jewel Food Store for a package of Royal Jewel Coffee and try for yourself this special blend and roast of Chicago's own choice.

Breath-o'-Spring

Dear Cool and Collected:
You were dazzling at the Charity garden party. No one else understood how you could be so cool and trim when everyone else was sagging and looked it. But you didn't fool Sadie Grainger. She said it was your new Breath-O-Spring foundation that deserves the credit. Of course, she's just peeved because she didn't have your foresight. She had the same opportunity to buy a Breath-O-Spring for as little as $3.50.

Ask To See The Wrappers Used On Your Hair

IF they are a reproduction of the wrappers illustrated, you know you are getting a Genuine Frederics Vita Tonic or Vitron (Croquignole Style) Permanent Wave.

Beware of Permanent Wavers offering "bargain" or "just as good" permanents. The fact that such harmful waves—using harsh chemicals and excessive heat—are offered is proof in itself that the shop is not interested in "beautifying your hair" but offers these nondescript permanents in the hope of gaining some extra profit.

Frederics 50% Cooler Permanents are obtainable in the Vitron (Croquignole Style) a soft, wide, flowing wave with plenty of tight ringlet ends—or Frederics Vita Tonic (Spiral) Permanent—a deep, tight, lasting wave—recommended for hair exceeding 6 or 7 inches in length.

Be sure that 30 or more of these genuine Vita-Tonic and Vitron Wrappers are used on your hair. Insist on their use for your own protection! Sample Wrappers to take with you when going for your Frederics Permanent will be sent on request.

Send the coupon for a list of Authorized Frederics Salons in your neighborhood and the interesting booklet, "There's A Big Difference In Permanent Waves." Include 10c and we will send you a beautiful, translucent cigarette lighter (purse size).

Every woman should make this "Armhole Odor" Test

Can it be true that I really smell that way to others?

If you deodorize only—because it is easy and quick—you will always have an unpleasant, stale "armhole odor"—test yourself tonight by smelling your dress at the armhole

TONIGHT, as soon as you take off your dress, smell the fabric under the arm. No matter how careful you are about deodorizing your underarm, you may find that your dress carries the embarrassing odor of stale perspiration.

This is bound to happen if you merely deodorize. You must keep the underarm dry, so perspiration will not collect and dry on the fabric of your dress.

And each time you wear that dress, the warmth of your body brings out an unpleasant, stale "armhole odor."

Only one way to be sure . . . Only a liquid can give you complete protection. Liquid Odorono gently closes the pores of the underarm, so not even a drop of moisture can collect on your dress.

Saves your lovely clothes, too . . . Liquid Odorono does away forever with horrible underarm stains that even the cleaner cannot remove, that can ruin expensive frocks and coat linings in one day's wearing! And there is no grease to stick to your clothes and make them messy.

Odorono is entirely safe. In two strengths—Regular and Instant, at all toilet-goods counters. Send today for samples and leaflet.

18 TO 24 MILES TO THE GALLON OF GAS!
Say owners all over America . . .

MELVIN PURVIS, famous G-man, says: "One of the most surprising discoveries I've made is the way my new Dodge saves money! It gives me 19 to 20 miles to the gallon in city driving and as high as 22 miles in the country."

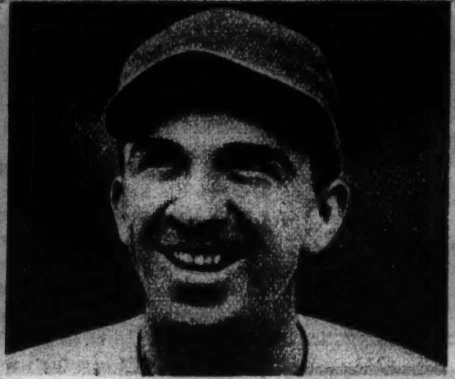
BING CROSBY, Paramount's popular singing star: "You're asking how I like my new Dodge—well, I'd just like to see the car that offers so much driving satisfaction at such a low driving cost."

WILLIAM HARRIDGE, President, American League: "Dodge is the most beautiful and most economical car at anywhere near its price. My Dodge gives me 18 miles per gallon of gasoline."

WARNER BAXTER, Famous 20th Century-Fox star: "The remarkable ease of operation, responsive power and true economy of my new Dodge give me a driving satisfaction that I have never before known."

That's why these men who could afford much more expensive cars drive the BIG MONEY-SAVING DODGE..

MAJOR M. E. TRULL, noted marksman: "Dodge scores a bull's-eye with me. I haven't found another car that has all the safety features my Dodge has, and I'm getting more miles to the gallon of gas than ever before."



CARL HUBBELL, well-known New York Giants' Pitcher: "My new 1936 Dodge has plenty on the ball. I'm getting 20 miles to the gallon of gas—4 more miles per gallon than I used to get with my old smaller car."

FRANK BUCK, noted "Bring 'em Back Alive" game hunter: "I have driven Dodge cars for years. This Dodge I have driven 3,500 miles and have averaged over 21 miles to the gallon. I don't see how you can beat a Dodge."

ROY CHAPMAN ANDREWS, famous explorer: "Dodge helped me blaze the way through the trackless wastelands in the Far East. Many times we staked our lives on the dependability of Dodge cars."

MISS NORRIS
Wells Employment Agency

"Please send me another secretary, Miss Norris. I had to let that other girl go."

"Why, what was the trouble, Mr. Paige? She had a splendid record as a worker."

"Oh, she was good in her work, all right. But I just couldn't stand to have her around."

"I'm so sorry."

"And say, buy some Mum for the next girl and charge it to me, will you?"

"I certainly will, Mr. Paige."

THE reason behind many a girl's failure to succeed in her job is not that she isn't smart and capable. It's just because she's careless and neglectful about one personal thing.

Underarm perspiration odor is an annoyance men will not tolerate in a girl, either in the office or in social life.

Why should they tolerate it, when it is so easy to avoid—with Mum!

Half a minute is all it takes to use Mum. A quick fingertipful under each arm—and you're safe for the whole busy day.

If you forget to use Mum before you dress, use it afterwards. It's harmless to clothing, you know. And it's so soothing to the skin, you can use it right after shaving the underarms.

Mum does just what you want it to do. It prevents the disagreeable odor of perspiration, and not the perspiration itself.

Remember, a fresh daintiness of person, free from the slightest trace of ugly odor, is something without which no girl can hope to succeed. Make sure of it with Mum! Bristol-Myers, Inc., 630 Fifth Ave., New York.
